A few words on FUNERAL SERVICE

How To Plan Your Funeral

To pre-plan your funeral, you should discuss with us your needs and wishes and at no cost.

You may wish to discuss with your clergyman your desires for music, scriptures and eulogy.

You should see your lawyer to write or up-date your will. You don't want your estate turned over to probate court.

The pre-planning will ease your mind and relieve your loved ones of the stress of decision-making at time of grief.

Wednesday Evening Hours For Building Department Beginning June 6

Beginning June 6, the Quincy Building Department will be open for homeowners Wednesdays from 4:30 to 8:30 p.m. for a three-month trial basis, announces Building Inspector Matthias Mulvey.

The extended hours are to service homeowners, not contractors. During the evening hours, a building inspector and secretary will be available to issue building permits for homeowners only.

The trial basis will end Aug. 29. If the Wednesday night openings prove successful, Mulvey said the department will continue it year round. The extended hours will not cost the city any additional money. Since the department has no overtime budget, personnel will work the Wednesday night shift on a rotating basis.

For every hour of overtime worked, an employee will receive an hour and a half of time off, Mulvey explained.

Anthony Agnitti Receives Chamber 'Spirit' Award

Anthony Agnitti of Quincy, owner and operator of the Agnitti Insurance Agency, was recently presented a "Spirit of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce Award" from the South Shore Chamber of Commerce during its recent annual dinner at Lantana's in Randolph.

The award is given to an individual who displays significant contributions or to a volunteer who adds to the quality of life and economic prosperity of the South Shore.

Agnitti has been active in the Chamber, serving as co-chairman of the Committee for Small Business, chairman of the Business Exposition Committee, chairman of the Starting Your Own Business Committee and chairman of the Quincy Center Business Council.

In addition, he is on the Quincy Center Businessmen's Association Board of Directors, a member of the Sons of Italy and his company sponsors a team in St. John's Little League.

Agnitti, his wife Marietta, and their eight-month old son Armando, reside in Quincy.

His office is located at 21 Franklin St., Quincy, where he began his insurance business two and a half years ago.

Wire Departments Issues 169 Permits For $693,180

The Quincy Wire Inspection Department issued 169 permits totaling $693,180 during April, reports Wire Inspector Thomas Purpura.

Major projects which received permits last month are two 24-unit multi-dwellings at 175-J and 175-K Centre St. and one 12-unit multi-dwelling unit at 175-L Centre St. (Lincoln Heights Project).

The department collected $7,980 in fees and 56 certificates to the Mass. Electric Company were approved.

In addition, 385 inspections were conducted with 66 defects noted and 38 reinspections.

Tips For Keeping Family Healthy When Moving To New Home

The kitchen is often called the "heart of a home," traditionally serving as a gathering place for families and friends. It's a special place that transforms daily to meet the disparate activities of a family. At one moment, the kitchen is a quiet spot where friends share dreams over warm coffee. Later in the day, the room is bustling with activity as family members recount the day's events while busily preparing the evening meal.

For most families, the kitchen also second as a work area where youngsters grudgingly complete their homework. Interestingly, studies indicate that a person's sense of smell is the sense most closely tied into memory; as a result, the kitchen frequently represents an emotional tie to the treasured aromas of one's past.

Of the estimated 47 million Americans who will move this year, many families will be temporarily thrown off balance when the security of their kitchen routine is disrupted. Thankfully, this stress is easily reduced if the family follows some practical guidelines when transplanting the "heart" of their home.

Tonie Lindenberger, a professional home economist and Director of the Bette Malone Relocation Service for United Van Lines, Inc. offers tips for moving food products and kitchen appliances and for settling in at a new home. These guidelines are helpful whether the family is using the services of a professional mover or renting a trailer and moving itself.

To guard against damage that can be caused by combustion, leakage or explosion, dispose of aerosol cans of all kinds; liquids, such as furniture polish or bleach in bottles that could leak, matches; food in glass jars. If it is absolutely essential to pack a liquid, such as a medical prescription, the lid or cap should be fastened tightly and taped. The container should then be placed in a tightly sealed plastic bag.

Take only those items you are sure will travel well. Do not take anything perishable. Temperature extremes are harmful to canned goods. High temperatures increase the chance of spoilage and freezing temperatures may cause swelling, which, in turn, may rust the seams of a can. Storing canned goods in a cool, dry clean place is best, preferably with temperatures below 85 degrees.

Be wary of badly dented or bulging cans since this may indicate the presence of botulism, a rare and often deadly food poisoning bacteria (Clostridium botulinum).

Open boxes of dried or powdered foods such as rice, macaroni and cereals should be discarded since they may attract bugs. For a cross-town move, though, the boxes may be sealed with tape. Small containers of condiments, bouillon cubes, gelatin, etc., should be placed together in a small box before packing in a large carton. Be sure to cover holes of shaker type containers and seal with tape.

Since spices are expensive, you can tape those which still have a tightly fitting cap. However, if the bottles or cans do not have a cap, it is best to discard the spice.

If you are moving to a part of the country troubled by pests and insects, it is wise to have your new home treated by a pest service - preferably before your arrival.

As a rule, freezers should be empty when moved. Here's why:

Home freezers were not designed to be used as shipping containers. When put to such use, they can be easily damaged.

Frozen foods are highly perishable. There is no way to ensure that freezer temperature will remain at a safe level during transit since moving vans have no electric power to keep freezers running.

The use of dry ice as a refrigerant in a freezer during transit is impractical.

In case of food spoilage, the lining and insulation of the freezer can absorb bad odors which may be impossible to eliminate from the appliance.

Preparing Kitchen Appliances for a move:

When preparing kitchen appliances for a move, Lindenberger recommends thorough cleaning and drying of the products, especially the refrigerator, freezer and range. This is especially important if the appliances will be in storage for any length of time. The slightest bit of moisture in a warm, enclosed space is enough to cause the growth of mold and mildew with a resultant musty odor and stains difficult, if not impossible, to eradicate. Grease left on a range will turn rancid and gummy, catch dust and dirt, and leave spots on any items that touch it.

Cleaning instructions for appliances are included in the owner's use-and-care manual which generally accompanies new appliances. If no manual is available, use a mild detergent solution or a good commercial freshener, following the manufacturer's instructions for its use.

Use a solution of three tablespoons of baking soda dissolved in a quart of warm water to which one tablespoon of vinegar has been added. Do not use harsh abrasives that will scratch or mar porcelain finishes. A soft brush or vacuum cleaner will remove excess dust. Sofrags make excellent drying and polishing cloths.

Spring HOME IMPROVEMENT

Save space, gain privacy with a pocket door

When swinging doors get in the way, install a door-in-the-wall with a pocket door frame kit.

A standard swinging door takes eight to 10 square feet in its opening arc. Although you have to give up about half of that space to allow clear passage through the doorway, you can free up the rest of that space with a pocket door.

You can install a pocket door in any room of your home. They're especially convenient for walk-in closets, bathrooms, powder rooms, bedrooms, between a kitchen and dining room or in doorways that only need to be closed occasionally.

The Johnson pocket door frame kit is designed to eliminate the problems traditionally associated with a door-in-the-wall.

The kit has a box-shaped track and convex rails which make it impossible for the hanger wheels to jump off. Special key hole slots allow you to remove the track easily without tearing out a wall.

There's a unique hanger-clip system which enables you to remove the door for painting or staining after the drywall and trim are in place. The kit also has self-adjusting anchors to allow for settling without disturbing the horizontal alignment of the header and track.

To keep the frame straight and provide a rigid surface for attaching wall materials, the Johnson pocket door frame is equipped with steel sides and back plating. This also helps prevent drywall nails from penetrating the stud and scratching the pocket door.

You can put in a pocket door frame with basic hand tools. Make it easy on yourself and get a kit like the Johnson Hardware model which comes with all hardware components, including a pre-assembled track and header. All you supply is the door.

A carpenter can install the pocket door frame in about 10 minutes. Figure a little more time for a handyman.

If you decide to install privacy locks, look for designs like those from Johnson Hardware which fit standard pre-bored doors. You can install them without cutting the door and invalidating the manufacturer's warranty.

WHETHER IT'S CONVERGING doors-in-the-wall to create a grand entrance or a single unit to save hall or bathroom space, pocket door frame kits from Johnson Hardware install easily to fit openings up to 5 ft. wide x 9 ft. high.

HELP IN FIGHTING WET BASEMENTS

According to a recent member-wide survey conducted by the American Society of Home Inspectors, four of the top ten problems found in houses today have to do with the damaging effects of water.

Water in the basement was ranked as the number one problem, and poor ground surface drainage outside the house was reported as overwhelmingly the most frequent cause of this water penetration.

Excessive moisture in basements and crawl spaces means more than just a nuisance in terms of water on the floor and damage to things stored on the floor. It may, say the home inspectors, lead to a softening and weakening of the wood framing structure, as well as deterioration of mortar joints. It also creates extreme humidity in the house, which can, in extreme cases, cause electrical and plumbing hazards and damage to mechanical systems.

Kerry Cable Show On Ch. 3 Thursday

"John Kerry's Cable Town Meeting" monthly cable show will air tonight (Thursday) from 7:30 to 8 p.m. on Quincy Community Television Channel 3.

The show will focus on developing a national strategy to combat the drug war.

"We have not lost the war on drugs, because we have not begun to fight a real war,"

Kerry said. "Until we develop a national drug plan, and not just a federal drug policy, we will continue to lose our neighborhoods," he added.

During the show, Kerry will discuss the comprehensive crime package, which the Senate is scheduled to take up at the end of the month. The Senate will set the priorities for the crime package of which the drug policy will be a major component.

Kerry's guests will include representatives from the Massachusetts law enforcement community as well as drug treatment professionals.

Viewers can call the senator toll-free at the Capitol at 1-800-736-8255 during the show.

NQ Knights Of Columbus Las Vegas Night Friday

The North Quincy Knights of Columbus Council 2259 will sponsor a Las Vegas Night at their Council Hall, Hancock St., North Quincy, Friday, May 18 from 7 p.m. to midnight.

Chairman Don Haley and his committee invited the public to attend. Tickets will be sold at the door for $2.

There will be an assortment of games during the evening. Refreshments will be available.

QCTV Honors More Than 100 Volunteers

Quincy Community Television honored more than 100 community volunteers at its annual Volunteer Appreciation Banquet held recently at the Quincy Neighborhood Club.

Quincy Community Television is the local programming channel Continental Cablevision provides for its Quincy subscribers. The department uses community volunteers to produce, crew and host many of their programs. Volunteers are trained in all aspects of television production, including the use of the studio, mobile van and portable equipment, in workshops offered by Continental Cablevision.

It was a night of awards, honors and praise for all of the volunteers who put in their time and effort to produce quality programs of interest to Quincy residents. QCTV volunteers are as diverse as the programs they produce; from senior citizens who work on programs such as "Senior Spotlight" and "Senior Beat", to high school and college students who cover local sports and special events, to local state and city officials who work closely with QCTV staff and volunteers to bring municipal and political meetings and public affairs programs like "For the Record" and "Newsmakers" into the living rooms of Quincy.

Aside from the staples of local programming such as sports and city meetings, QCTV produces high quality coverage of special events and unique series programs. This year QCTV had the honor of receiving four nominations to the Massachusetts Cable Television Awards. These nominees were given special recognition for their quality work with awards commenting their nominations. Awards of recognition were also presented to the producers and crews of programs which were nominated in the 1989 Mass. Cable Television Contest, both by Representative Steve Tobin, who delivered citations from the House of Representatives, and Continental Cablevision.

Awards were presented to finalists in the categories of public service announcements, health, documentary and performing arts.

Producer Libbie Payne received recognition for "Healthwise," a public service announcement series; Cynthia Stanton for her documentary "Quincy: The City Century"; Tom Ayres, Libbie Payne, Lisa Sinatra, and Laura Brennan all received awards for the "Medical Watch" program and Marie Diaz along with the entire crew of the "1989 Quincy Symphony Orchestra: Youth Performs Concert," were awarded for their extra efforts in this superb production.

In the QSO crew were George Cappadona, Cynthia Stanton, Libbie Payne, Andre Corbeau, Dianne Theoharous, Darlene Mendoza and Francisco Noya, conductor of the Quincy Symphony Orchestra. Many of these crew members returned this year to work on the 1990 "Youth Performs Concert" telecast live on Channel 3 early last month.

Three special recognition awards were given this year to volunteers for their dedication and commitment to QCTV.

Herb Fontaine, recently retired from his long-time position as news director at WJDA, received a plaque and grand round of applause for his eight years as a panelist on "Newsmakers," a weekly public affairs program on Thursday evenings on Channel 3.

Fontaine was one of the original panelists on "Newsmakers" from its inception in 1982.

John Lyons, producer of the award winning "Rhymes of the Times," was recognized for producing over 700 "Rhymes" in his eight years as a volunteer. The "Rhymes," 3 minute pieces written and produced by Lyons, have opened the telecasts on Channel 3 every night since 1982.

Rita Lund, one of the most dedicated of the QCTV volunteers, received a plaque for crewing the most productions in 1989.

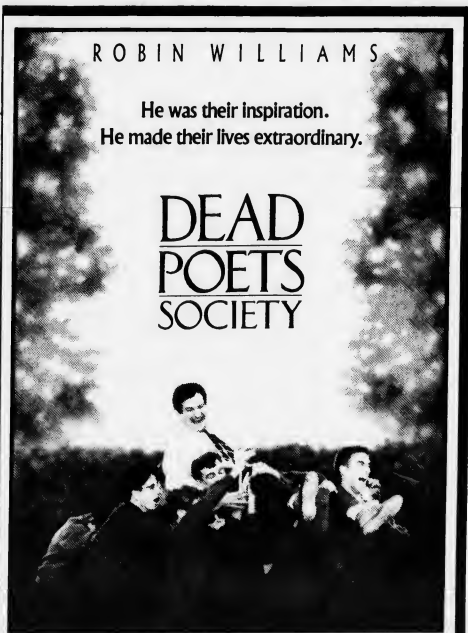

Two QCTV volunteers were elected by their peers to fill one year terms as Community Representatives on the Quincy Community Television Council, a nine member board which meets monthly to determine ways to enhance and support local programming. Volunteer George Cappadona was re-elected to his second term on the Council and Tim Reidy will succeed long-time volunteer and friend Bob Noble for the second seat.

Many city and state officials were on hand for the festivities, including former Mayor Francis X. McCauley and members of the Quincy City Council who volunteer their time to Community Television on political and special events year round. School committee members were also in attendance, as were other members of the School Department who worked with Continental Cablevision to produce educational programming and most recently have become part of the Cable in the Classroom campaign.

Van Schaick GOP Candidate For State Senate

Paul Van Schaick, 41, of 51 Princess Eve Dr., Quincy, is running as the Republican candidate for state senator of Norfolk District comprising Quincy, Braintree, Holbrook and Avon.

Schaick, who is challenging Sen. Paul Harold (D-Quincy), will officially launch his campaign Friday, May 25 at a reception at the Sons of Italy, 120 Quarry St., Quincy. A police officer the past 20 years and a licensed real estate agent, Schaick calls himself "an average citizen, angry with the professional career politicians." He says these politicians "realized two years ago that we would find the state in the present fiscal crisis, yet they refused to work towards any solution during that time."

Schaick also contends that "politicians work harder between elections to be re-elected than they do protecting our interests." If elected, he says he will work on "ensuring that the public interests are protected in the future, after which he can return to private life."

In a prepared statement,

PAUL VAN SCHAICK

Schaick said "Massachusetts is collapsing under a state government heavy with political deals, concerned with special interests and adrift in a sea of red ink with only the life boat of taxes to solve our problems. While the incumbent politicians in power refuse to cut the bureaucratic fat, they hold hostage the muscle of direct services."

"We can no longer afford the luxury of thousand of highly connected, highly paid and highly unnecessary appointed bureaucrats while holding hostage our teachers, health care workers, public safety employees and all of our less fortunate citizens."

Continuing, he said, "taxes need not be raised. I believe state government must be restructured and all waste eliminated. Only if the career politician is turned out of office can we have more than just symbolic restructuring of government."

"I believe that elective official should not hold office for longer than eight years, thereby returning state government to the people. Only by the infusion of new people into government can we begin to travel along this path to an efficient, accountable and caring state government."

Presently a Capitol Police Officer, Schaick has completed assignments as a detective, crime prevention officer and the department's planning and research officer. He is finishing his bachelors degree in criminal justice.

He and his wife, Catherine, have a daughter who is attending college.

Grand Opening Thursday

Petar's Automotive Moves To 330 Quincy Ave.

Petar's Automotive Repair Inc., formerly located at 7 Independence Ave., on the Quincy-Braintree line, has moved to its New England headquarters, at 330 Quincy Ave., Quincy next to Eric's Auto Body Repair.

"The main reason for the move," says Peter Palmer, owner of both businesses, "is the convenience for both the customers and us in having everything at one location."

The two facilities are set up to handle virtually every aspect of automotive repair and body work.

Eric's Auto Body employs four full-time body repair men and a shop foreman. Eric's specializes in all forms of body repair from simple scratches to major insurance claims.

Petar's Automotive employs five full-time mechanics, a shop foreman and a fully staffed office to professionally service all its customers' needs.

Petar's Automotive was started by Palmer in 1980 and has grown from a one bay garage to one of the largest full service repair shops in Quincy.

"Our success has been due to three things," says Palmer, "service, service, and service. Our customers enjoy dealing with us because we're fair and we take the time to educate them regarding automobiles."

Petar's will have its grand opening today (Thursday), and will be offering various specials throughout the month to celebrate its new location.

Exhibit At Handshakes Cafe

Handshakes Cafe, 1354 Hancock St., is currently featuring an exhibit of watercolors by artist Laura Feld of Somerville.

The exhibit, "New Flower Paintings," will be on display through June 2.

The 16 framed paintings are based on botanical line engravings from the late 1800's. The original drawings were used as a starting point for the artist to elaborate with color and organic form.

Feld is a 1981 graduate of the Boston University School for the Arts and in 1980 won the B.U. Award for Merit in Painting. She has had exhibits of her works throughout the Boston and Cambridge area.

All paintings on display will be for sale and range in price from $250 to $400.

Baseball

North Needs 2 Wins To Land Tourney Berth

North Quincy's baseball team needs two wins in its last five games to make the Eastern Mass. Tournament for the second year in a row and could make it this week. Monday's game with Newton North was postponed until Tuesday because of the condition of the Newton field. The Raiders faced Waltham yesterday (Wednesday), will meet Quincy Friday at 3:30 at Adams Field and will be at Brookline next Monday.

North won a wild one over Cambridge Rindge and Latin, 12-10, last Friday to improve to 10-5 (6-1 in the Suburban League).

Erik DeBoer who, in addition to being the ace of the pitching staff, is one of the team's top batters, hit a three-run homer in the fifth inning. The Raiders scored five runs in the second and never looked back. Dave Gamsby hit a solo home run in the sixth inning.

Gary Rawdon went five innings on the mound and was credited with the win.

Second Half Start Too Familiar For Quincy

The Quincy baseball team has started the second half of its final Suburban League season the same way it began with a heartbreaking loss to Brookline and a decisive loss to Brockton.

The Presidents (6-10) faced Cambridge Rindge and Latin yesterday (Wednesday), will play North Quincy Friday at 3:30 at Adams Field and will host Newton North next Monday at 3:30 at Adams.

Monday Quincy dropped a 10-2 decision to Brockton (it lost, 8-1, in their first meeting).

The Presidents stayed with the powerful Boxers, league co-leaders, until the fifth when Brockton scored five runs, due mainly to Quincy errors.

Quincy catcher Tom Balzano had the game's best hit, a long triple. Rich Burns started on the mound and was relieved by Joe Crespi and Chad McMahon.

Last Friday Quincy lost to Brookline, 6-5 (it lost, 5-4, in their earlier meeting).

Sophomores Mike Malvesti and Steve Loud shared the pitching and deserved a better fate. Malvesti's wildness hurt at the start, but Quincy still led, 5-3, going into the sixth inning. Dave Piken tied the game in the bottom of the sixth with a two-run, two-out double and scored the winner on Evan Spencer's hit.

In their earlier meeting Quincy led by two, but Brookline pitcher Vic Koyhli won the game with a three-run triple.

Farm League

Dodgers Overcome 16 Strikeouts

The First American Bank Dodgers opened defense of their Junior Farm Baseball League championship by winning three of their first four games.

The Dodgers overcame a 16-strikeout performance by the Red Sox' Randy Feetham to take a 9-4 opening day victory.

Steve Rochon tripled in Pat Dolbear to give the Dodgers an early lead. Feetham homered for the Red Sox to even the score, but, after a Kevin Walsh double, the Dodgers took the lead for good on Mike Powers' two-run homer.

Chris Bregoli followed with a triple and Philip Belmont drove him in. Bregoli then blasted a three-run homer in the top of the sixth to seal the win.

Hitting stars for the Dodgers were Rochon with a double and triple with Powers, Walsh and Bregoli, all with two hits. Walsh was the winning pitcher with eight strikeouts, while Bregoli also struck out eight.

The Tigers overcame an early 9-3 deficit and scored 12 runs in the last two innings to defeat the Dodgers, 18-12.

Bregoli started and pitched three strong innings. Belmont went three-for-three including a home run, a triple and a single for four RBI. Ryan Deshler doubled while John Sullivan, and Paul Wise also had hits.

For the Tigers Brian Doyle had a triple, double and single while Billy Walker picked up the win in relief. The game ended with the Tigers pulling off a triple play with the bases loaded.

Trailing, 6-0, after an inning, the Dodgers rallied for a 10-5 win over the Braves. Walsh led the attack, going 3-for-3 with two RBI and Belmont also drove in two. Jonathan Brillo and Rochon homered while Tommy Gouthro and Kerry Twomey also had RBI. Walsh got the win with Bregoli saving it with two hitless innings of relief.

The Dodgers grounded the Angels, 31-1, pounding out 24 hits. Bregoli had two triples and five RBI. Powers hit a home run and triple and five RBI. Brillo four hits including a homer and four RBI and Dolbear and Chris Griffin three RBI each. Rochon had two doubles and Steve Marks a single. Powers and Walsh combined for a no-hitter with Powers getting his first win.

For the Angels Jocelyn West and Mike Reidy had excellent defensive games.

The Egan Sunoco Yankees scored six runs in the first inning and rolled to a 13-3 win over the Rotary Club Cubs with Kevin Shaw the winning pitcher, striking out 15. He also led the offense, going 3-for-3.

Adam Goodrich tripled to lead off the third and scored on base hits by Shaw and Brian Kallil. A double by Matt Nicklas and a single by Eric Rackauskas also contributed. Joe Watson and Billy Meade played strong defense.

The Yankees also walloped the Orioles, 15-8, scoring seven runs in the second inning. Goodrich was the winning pitcher, striking out 12. Shaw, Kallil, Matt Nelson and Nicklas had hits. Shaw had a triple. Jeff Solomon and Chris Petit played well on defense.

Junior League

Division Leaders Rotary, VFW

Rotary leads the National League and the VFW leads the American League in the Quincy Junior Baseball League with 5-0 records.

The rest of the standings: National League—Colonial Federal, 2-3; Houghs Neck, 2-3; Keohane's, 2-3; Elks, 2-3; South Shore Buick, 0-4-1.

American League—South Shore Bani, 3-1-1; Kiwanis, 3-2; Quincy Cable, 3-2; Burgin Platner, 1-4; Foley, 1-4.

McNamara Combines Football, Track At Central Conn. State

Former North Quincy High football and track star Matt McNamara is successfully combining varsity competition in two sports at Central Connecticut State University.

In the Fall, he plays defensive tackle for football coach Mike McGlinchey and the rest of the year he throws the shot and discus in John Keleher's track program.

"Tank" was recruited by a lot of schools for football or track, but we wanted him for both," Keleher said. "He's a very coachable kid, almost too nice for a shot putter."

During the indoor season McNamara qualified for the Easterns and placed in the top six of the Connecticut championships in the shot. This is his first year of track after playing only football his freshman year.

"He's done well after playing football full-time in the Fall," said Keleher. "He had a little slump, but he looks like he's come out of it. He should place in the Easterns. Combined with Mark Ward and Mike Truhan, we have three solid throwers. With the bubble (indoor facility currently under construction) to train in next year, we should be tough."

McNamara placed second in the shot at 44-7 1/2 at the CCSU Invitational. Four championship meets remain for him, the Connecticut, Eastern, N.E. and IC4A championships.

The son of James and Maryjane McNamara of 181 Beale St., earned all-scholastic honors in football at North Quincy and played in the Shriners All-Star game.

Morrell Selected For Shriners Game

Quincy High Co-Capt. Tom Morrell has been named to play in the annual Shriners Football Classic at Boston University June 15.

Morrell was outstanding as an offensive guard and linebacker for the Presidents for the last two seasons and will play for coach Joe Kelly on the South all-star team.

Morrell is expected to play at offensive guard in the annual star game.

Track

North Girls Turn In Good Performance

The North Quincy girls' track team is enjoying some fine performances and currently is 2-2 in the Suburban League.

The North girls scored a big win last week, defeating Brockton, 83-53. Earlier they had suffered a heartbreaking loss to perennial league power Cambridge Rindge and Latin, 69-66, and defeated Waltham, 96-39, and lost to Newton North, 110-26, in a league tri-meet.

North faced Brookline Tuesday and will end the dual meet season against Quincy Friday at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

In the win over Brockton winners were Cheryl Kelly in the high jump, Sherrin Quintiliani in the mile, Tricia Hughes in the long jump and 800, Tristen Mastrogiacomio in the javelin and 100 hurdles, Regina Murphy in the 300 hurdles, Ilana Cobban in the 400 and Suzanne Hamilton in the 100. North also won both relays.

In the tough loss to Cambridge the meet went down to the final event, the relay, which Cambridge won.

It was North's third meet in four days and coach Jeff Hennessy sent some of the troops home, which proved a fatal error. When the relay came, Cambridge had only two really good sprinters and two rookie freshmen. North countered with Cobban, Karen Leary, Tara Miles and Jenn Flynn. Hennessy had sent Hughes, Quintiliani and Suzanne Lewis home as they all were upset in individual events and appeared listless due to the grinding schedule.

North had taken close to a 100-yard lead when Cambridge's Deena Washington, the state 800 champion, got the baton and caught Jenn Flynn 150 yards from the finish.

North dominated the throws, taking 26 of 27 possible points thanks to Miles, Mastrogiacomio and Alana Crehan. Hughes set a personal best in winning the long jump (15-9 3/4) and the 400 meter relay team of Nutley, Hamilton, Murphy and Coull won. Kara Sullivan won the two-mile.

Despite not having a winner against powerful Newton North, outstanding performances were turned in by Quintiliani in the mile (5:26.6), Mastrogiacomio in the shot (29-4), Hughes in the 400 (64.7) and Lewis in the two-mile (12:33.0).

Winners against Waltham were Quintiliani, mile; Hughes, 400 and long jump; Amanda Young, triple jump and 300 hurdles; Kelly, high jump; Flynn, 800; Hamilton, 100; Mastrogiacomio, shot, and Lewis, two-mile. The 4x100 relay team of Nutley, Hamilton, Murphy and Coull also won. Coull is a sophomore, the others freshmen. North was without the services of Amy Wong, out with a pulled muscle.

At the annual Falmouth Invitational several North girls excelled as the team placed 13th with 18 1/2 points.

In the freshman/sophomore division Hughes took second in the long jump and a close third in the 400. Lewis took second in the two-mile and the mile relay team of Lewis, Coull, Cobban and Hughes took fifth. In the junior/senior division, Quintiliani was second in the mile and Mastrogiacomio tied for fifth in the shot.

North's distance medley relay team won at the State Coaches Meet at Brockton. The relay consists of legs of 800, 400, 1200 meters and the mile.

Hughes led off with a great 2:31, only her second time at the distance. Cobban kept the team in second behind Haverhill with a 66 second lap. Lewis ran a respectable 4:06 still in second place, passing the baton to Quintiliani, who found herself with a six-second deficit to make up. She closed the gap and passed the Haverhill girl with 500 yards to go and won by eight seconds.

Karen Cashman Member Olympic Education Team

Karen Cashman is taking advantage of the Olympic experience.

The 18 year old native of Quincy is a member of the U.S. Olympic Education Center (USOEC) resident athlete short track speed-skating team.

The USOEC is located on the campus of Northern Michigan University in Marquette, Mich. It is the only Olympic Center sanctioned by the U.S. Olympic Committee where athletes can continue their education, both in high school and college, while simultaneously training for top national and international competition.

"We train both the body and the mind of athletes," said USOEC Administrator Roger Council. "We provide athletes with an alternative to putting their education on hold while pursuing a dream of sporting excellence. I believe the U.S. Olympic Education Center will be the prototype Olympic center of the future."

Cashman is a member of the U.S. National Speed-skating Team. She is a freshman at NMU.

Youth Track Club Seeks New Members

IBEW Erupts, Walsh Fans 10 To Defeat Flavin

Local 2222 IBEW scored nine runs in the third inning and defeated Flavin & Flavin, 10-4, in Quincy Triple A Baseball League action.

Brian Walsh was the winning pitcher with 10 strikeouts and the loser was Bill Sullivan, who struck out four. Walsh had two hits including a home run. Jonathan Haddad had two hits and Matt Foley a double. Pat McDonough and Greg Conway played strong defense. For Flavin & Flavin Kate Gallagher led the attack and Brian O'Connor and Brian Liasky shone on defense.

The Flavin & Flavin Yankees defeated the Jarvie & Alexander Mets, 9-5, with Jason Fontana the winning pitcher with 10 strikeouts. Sullivan had a save and struck out five straight batters. Rob Churchill was the losing pitcher and struck out seven. James Crowley had two doubles, Gregory Peck a double and single, Sullivan a triple and single and Kathleen Gallagher two singles. Jason Bernier had a triple for the Mets and Terrance Roch played excellent defense.

Flavin & Flavin also topped the Yellow Cab A's, 13-6, with Sullivan the winning pitcher and Neil Costa the loser. Sullivan pitched a five-hitter and struck out 11.

Peck had a home run and two RBI, Brian O'Connor a double and an RBI and Crowley a double and an RBI. O'Connor played strong defense and turned in an unassisted double play.

Flavin & Flavin continued its winning ways with a 10-6 win over the Braves, scoring six runs in the fifth inning. Fontana was the winning pitcher, striking out 12, and Joe Donahue was the loser. Ryan Catarius had a triple and two RBI and drove in the winning run. Fontana had a triple, O'Connor and Sullivan doubles and Crowley also had a key hit. For the losers Joe West, Joe Donahue and Jim Mastroanni had triples.

The Pirates edged the Tigers, 3-1, with Mike Ferguson pitching a one-hitter and striking out 16. He had a no-hitter going into the fifth inning. Jarred Leikauskas had a double and single.

The Pirates scored a run in the fifth and edged the A's, 5-4, with Leikauskas the winning pitcher, allowing only three hits and striking out 14. Ferguson and Leikauskas played strong defense. Costa had a double and single for the A's.

The standings:

American League—Papa Gino's, 3-2; Yellow Cab, 3-2; Local 2222, 3-2; Flavin & Flavin, 3-2.

National League—Locker Room, 3-2; Fernald Plumbing, 2-3; Corcoran & Jenkinson, 2-3; Jarvie & Alexander, 1-4.

Over 200 Compete In PAL Basketball Shootout

The Quincy Police Athletic League recently held a basketball shootout at the Vo-Tech gym for youngsters 10 to 18 years of age.

More than 200 youths took part. They were separated into groups by age and were required to sink as many baskets from 11 pre-arranged spots as possible in 90 seconds. Each received a Members Only T shirt and button for signing up.

certificate for a Members Only jacket from Members Only.

Winners were Katie Mulcahy, Richard DeLisle, Matt Dwyer, Ann Christian, Brian Driscoll and Nichole Santoro, all of Quincy.

After the shootout the Quincy Police All-Stars played the City All-Stars, a group of 13-15 year olds. The City team won, 44-22.

In an interview after the game, QPD coach Tom

Connors said, "This was our first game and it showed. The City stars had a lot of speed which made up for the height difference. We need a lot more work on our fast breaks."

The shootout was sponsored by Members Only Clothing Co., in conjunction with Hajjars Clothing Store.

The officials thank the 12 off-duty police officers who volunteered their time to make this event possible.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

Facing life's issues can at times cause personal unhappiness.

Sometimes it seems easier to sweep unpleasant matters "under the rug"; to look the other way; to pretend something or someone doesn't exist. Yet the world is full of unpleasant issues. Some issues directly affect our personal life; the life of our nation; the life of our world... Yes, comprehending the unpleasant issues of life can be very disturbing... There are debts to be paid; there are obligations to be fulfilled; there are slights and injuries that should be ignored.

Isn't it true that when we start confronting the disturbing issues in our life; when we stop "sweeping them under the rug" — we are, at least, turning our faces and minds in the right direction? Yes, it might be hard going at times, BUT it can be done...

Council Asks More Accessibility At Blue Hills

The City Council has asked the Metropolitan District Commission to increase public accessibility on the Quincy side of the Blue Hills Reservation.

At a meeting of the Parks and Recreation Committee Monday night, councillors said they are upset because of a lack of parking in the eastern portion of the reservation. They want the MDC to provide another 12 to 15 spaces.

In addition, councillors want the MDC to open the gates on Wompatuck Rd.

during the daylight hours on the weekend. With the gates closed, they said elderly and disabled people are essentially denied access to the interior of the reservation because they cannot walk a half-mile from the parking lot at the end of the park.

Ward 4 Councillor Thomas Fabrizio said the gate locking has caused a street parking problem on Bunker Hill Ln. and adjacent side streets.

Councillors said they oppose lifting all parking bans in the reservation. In addition, they support locking the gates at night.

The council asked an MDC representative to appear before them Monday night. Instead, Commissioner Ilyas Bhatti sent a letter to the council Monday afternoon explaining the MDC's position.

According to the letter, the MDC closed a 15-car lot on Wompatuck Rd. because of high environmental impact and misuse of the area adjacent to the lot.

"Although we realize that legitimate users, who were not contributing to this impact, would be affected by the closure, it is our ultimate responsibility to protect the reservation's natural resources," Bhatti said.

According to Chairman Peter Kolson, the MDC did not send a representative because of an "internal mixup." The fact that no one from the MDC showed up angered some councillors.

"I'm very disturbed we didn't get the respect we should have," Council President Ted DeCristofaro said. "I feel strongly that somebody should have been here."

Councillor-at-Large Timothy Cahill, who called for the meeting, said the MDC is overreacting.

"We want to see the Blue Hills preserved but we also want people to have access to it. It's a shame that we keep getting things taken away from us for supposedly our own good.

"They think they're solving a problem but they're really not. They're just closing their eyes."

Councillor-at-Large Michael Cheney criticized the MDC for closing other public places, such as Caddy Memorial Park on Quincy Shore Dr. in Wollaston. He said closing and opening the gates can be handled by police officers who patrol the areas.

"We should never let them forget this. We'll just keep after them until they open (the gates). We'll get them to open the gates eventually, even if we have to go up there with a cutting torch."

Nutley Congratulates Sheets, Koch

Ward 6 Councillor Thomas Nutley has written Mayor James Sheets and his administrative secretary, Thomas Koch, congratulating them on the success of the city's Cleaner-Greener effort.

"Last Saturday," Nutley said, "we had many children and adult volunteers turn out to clean up the Ward 6 area. Later we had a pizza and pepsi party at the Atlantic Neighborhood Center for those volunteers with pizza supplied by the Chicago Franks store (formerly Gianbertis) on 895 Quincy Shore Dr.

"It was a wonderfully inspiring day," Nutley said. "I hope that the mayor will repeat the ward clean-up again."

Protestors March On Toxic Waste Incinerator Site

Carrying signs that read "Ban the Burn," and chanting "We will—We will Stop You," protesters Sunday marched from Watson Park on Gordon St. in Braintree down Quincy Ave. to the Clean Harbors plant where a toxic waste incinerator is planned.

Organizers of the event, Coalition for a Safe Environment, estimated that 3,000 protesters attended. The police estimated the crowd at 1,000.

The protest came after the incinerator passed a major stumbling block when Environmental Affairs Secretary John DeVillars approved a supplemental environmental impact report for the facility last week. DeVillars said the report adequately addressed the environmental concerns.

"We expected a vote against us by the Secretary," Gini Kurtzman, a founder of the Coalition, said. "We knew this protest would be in line with his decision."

The incinerator will come up to vote again when the social and economic aspects are reviewed on Thursday.

A final decision on the location is expected in September.

The march culminated with a mock wedding between the state of Massachusetts (called "Connie Mass,") and Clean

Land Near Neighborhood Club Could Become Open Space

The city-owned land adjacent to Glendale Rd., Quincy Neighborhood Club and Quincy Hospital would become open space under a proposal by two city councillors.

Councillors Lawrence Chretien and Charles Phelan introduced the measure at Monday's City Council meeting. They said neighbors in the area have requested the land be rezoned from Residence A to Open Space. Residents want the land converted into a neighborhood park and a flooding problem there corrected.

Chretien and Phelan said they will meet with residents to determine what kind of park is appropriate as well as the steps that should be taken to alleviate the flooding problem.

The first meeting was scheduled Wednesday at 7 p.m. in the City Council Chambers.

Committee Accents Downtown Revitalization

May Make Recommendations To Mayor This Summer

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

A group of local leaders, businessmen and private citizens is focusing on economic development, beautification, retail strategy, tourism and historic preservation as a way to revitalize downtown Quincy.

The group, called the Downtown Revitalization Committee, is in the planning stages of drafting its formal recommendations. Councillor-at-Large Timothy Cahill, who was appointed committee chairman by Mayor James Sheets, said some recommendations could be made to the mayor this summer.

The committee, organized by Sheets in March, is divided into four sub-committees. Planning Director Richard Meade and Ward 3 Councillor Lawrence Chretien are co-chairmen of the Economic Development Committee. Councillor-at-Large Patricia Toland chairs the Beautification Committee; Bernice Mader, the mayor's administrative assistant, is chairman of the Retail Strategy Committee and Marianne Peak, superintendent of the Adams National Historic Site, chairs the Tourism and Historic Preservation Committee.

Some recommendations were discussed at a meeting held last Friday in City Hall. In addition, the group was introduced to a specific tourism promotion partnership underway in Salem.

The goals of the partnership, which includes representatives from business, non-profit organizations and public officials, are economic revitalization, national and international promotion of tourism, preservation of historic sites, quality of life enhancement and improvements in transportation, traffic and parking. The partnership is also aiming to make Salem the North Shore's banking, legal and business center.

Committee members have also been visiting other downtown and retail districts in Massachusetts and Maine to help them with their recommendations. The Economic Development Sub-Committee is looking at different plans for unused parcels in the area, including the site of the former Kincaide Furniture Store, Hancock parking lot across from the Quincy District Court and the South Shore Bank parking lot.

In addition, the sub-committee members will examine a plan developed by local architect Michael Ross. According to Cahill, the plan involves "opening up" the rear of stores in the square to the Hancock parking lot. It also involves designating an area, perhaps a small mall, in the middle of Hancock St. To do that, Cahill said a section of Hancock St. would have to be blocked off.

Parking and traffic improvements are also being considered.

The Beautification Committee has been in contact with Landscape Architect Mary Smith regarding the addition of trees and green space to the area.

The committee is also working on replacing the present gooseneck street lights with historic fixtures. Members decided against the type of lights which line Commonwealth Ave. in Boston because they are not bright enough.

Members have also decided against pursuing underground utilities because the cost is $10,000 per foot. Mader noted underground utilities take longer to fix in the case of a power outage.

Other steps to beautifying downtown include lighting up store fronts and uniform signage for each business, Cahill said.

Committee member Joyce Baker agreed. "It's in the best

Early News Deadline Next Week

Because of the Memorial Day holiday Monday, there will be an early news deadline for next week's issue of The Quincy Sun.

News, sports and church releases and news from organizations should be in The Sun office, 1372 Hancock St., Quincy interest to have signs that are historic or at least look good."

Square, by 5 p.m. tomorrow (Friday) to assure publication in the May 31st issue.

The City Council recently approved the extension of the Quincy Historic District from South Shore Bank to Colman's Sporting Goods. The district calls for uniform signage.

As for retail strategy, committee members believe attracting successful retail stores to downtown is a key to revitalization. Members have visited several other downtowns throughout the state such as Needham to see what stores are located there. The committee also took a trip to Maine to visit some outlet stores.

Mader noted there is a correlation between thriving business districts and cleanliness. She said the areas which do good business are also "very clean, very manicured and very tailored." This concept fits well with the mayor's Cleaner, Greener effort, Mader noted.

Chretien, who has met with a Boston business planner, said the committee should also focus on marketing and salesmanship.

The Tourism and Historic Preservation Committee is concentrating on Quincy's historic heritage as a way to enhance the city's economic and business development.

Peak noted that for every $1 spent on tourism, $12 is returned to the local economy. Among her recommendations are marketing Quincy's historic resources more aggressively and coordinating tourism with business promotions. Other committee recommendations include:

- Creating an information and/or visitors center furnished with restrooms.
- Arranging group tours directly with tour companies.
- Designating reserved parking at the Church of Presidents and City Hall including spaces for bus tours.
- Coordinating special events on an annual basis in advance to allow touring companies to feature Quincy on their programs. This could include Christmas promotions.
- Establishing a mini-trolley system accessible for tourists, community and business people to commute throughout the city on an intermittent basis. Peak said such a system might reduce the number of vehicles traveling in and about the city.

She also favors consulting with the South Shore Chamber of Commerce to see what recommendations or support they might have.

Peak has also worked with Sen. Paul Harold in an attempt to sign Routes 3, 93 and 95 with Quincy historic signs. The National Park Service was willing to fund, provide and install the signs but Peak said the state has declined because the area has less than 500,000 visitors a year. She said she will pursue it more.

Also serving on the committee are:

Mark Bertman of Rogers Jewelers; Councillor-at-Large Michael Cheney; Robert Curry of Curry Hardware; Joseph Doran of Doran and Horrigan Insurance; Bryan Donovan representing First Parish Church; David Ezickson of Point Webster School; Santa Fareri of Center Stage Restaurant; Edward Keohane of Keohane Funeral Home.

Kathleen McCluskey, a member of the Mass. Board of Real Estate Appraisers; Michael McFarland of Barry's Deli; Richard Monahan, a member of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers; Robert Quinn of South Shore Bank; George Riley, former president of Riley and Reilly Insurance Co.; Arthur Simons of A & S Development and Clara Yeomans, an environmentalist who was chosen the 1989 Quincy Sun Citizen of the Year.

Recycling Program To Be Expanded

The city's recycling program will expand to include weekly curbside pickup of newspapers, plastics and glass this summer and leaf collection in the fall.

Local officials hailed the new program which will cost the city the same as the current bi-weekly curbside collection of newspapers. BFI, the city's trash collecting company, approved the new contract last week.

Under the terms of the three-year contract, Browning Ferris Industries (BFI) will begin weekly collection of newspapers July 1. By Aug. 1, the company could begin collecting plastics and glass.

Each home presently serviced by BFI will be given a blue, 14-gallon bin to put the recyclable materials in. The bin will be emptied by BFI the same day as regular trash pickup by a separate truck. Residents will not have to sort the materials.

BFI will pay the $400,000 in start-up costs, including purchasing four trucks and 23,000 recycling bins. BFI will also help the city promote the program.

For the service, Quincy will pay BFI $249,000 a year through June 30, 1993. That is the same amount BFI charged the city to collect newspapers every other week last year.

BFI, which was one of four companies to submit bids, originally proposed $500,000 for the expanded service. After negotiating, the city and company agreed on a cost of $249,000 annually.

Public Works Commissioner David Colton said BFI's length of service in Quincy and its plan for a trash-to-energy incinerator in East Bridgewater were probably keys to the negotiations.

"BFI has been here in Quincy collecting trash for 20 years. We're a large and important customer. They wanted to keep our business."

"BFI also has a proposal for an incinerator in East Bridgewater. They need our trash to make that request go. If they don't have the trash, they won't have the finances (to build the incinerator)," Colton said.

The commissioner also noted BFI is a major corporation which wants to be a leader in recycling.

"This program is a major step. We're the first city in the state to have a recycling program this size. They want to be a part of it."

Officials are optimistic the new program will save the city $200,000. To do that, 5,100 tons of recyclable materials would have to be collected.

Colton said he believes the city will surpass that goal. He said collection should increase because the new weekly program will be less confusing than the bi-weekly pickup. In addition, adding plastics and glass should increase tonnage.

The commissioner also said the city will begin leaf collection in the fall. Leaves will have to be bagged before pickup. The city will not supply bags nor will it mandate that paper bags be used.

"If we mandated paper bags, then the city would have to look into providing them," Colton said.

Details and recycling instructions will be furnished by the Public Works Department. To assist with the promotion and education effort, the Quincy Recycling Committee will make recommendations to the DPW.

Colton said there are many "do's and don'ts" regarding the new program, such as the types of plastics and glass that can be recycled. He said some information will be distributed along with the bins.

Harbors, Inc., (called "Dirty Dan Harbors,") which symbolized the marriage between the state and the company in the siting of the plant.

"The rally was very effective in a couple of ways," Kurtzman said Tuesday. "It was a tremendous morale booster for people who have been involved. They came out together and saw that we're not losing...we're winning this one...and we got all kinds of new blood and new enthusiasm."

The rally and march also "sent a message to the state," she said, that showed state officials that residents oppose this.

"This is only the beginning," she said. "We've only started now. We have a lot of other things planned...it looks like it will be a long summer, but we're prepared."

"From the start the state has been operating in the best interests of the developer and giving no consideration whatsoever to the health and safety of citizens," said David Jenkins of Weymouth, one of the organizers of the march. "We want everyone to know what has really been going on in this process."

The Coalition for a Safe Environment was formed from existing groups in Hingham, Hull, Weymouth, Milton, Braintree and Quincy.

During Sunday's march and rally, members collected signatures on the petition which they plan to deliver to Gov. Dukakis and other state officials to show residents' opposition to the siting of the plant.

The group also collected donations and signed up volunteers for the effort to stop the siting of the plant in such a densely populated area.

Pinball Request Continued

The License Board Tuesday continued for one week a hearing on the request of Bernard Van Tassell, Jr. for a pinball machine at the Manet Bar & Grill, 1099 Sea St.

The hearing was continued at the request of Ward Councillor Peter Kolson in whose ward the bar is located.

Van Tassell left the board meeting after he was informed of the continuation.

However, Kolson came before the board later in the meeting to discuss the issue.

In an informal discussion, he told the board that he is against putting a pinball machine in the establishment.

"It would just become an attractive nuisance," he said, adding that it could lead to fights and gambling.

Kolson told the board that he had spoken to neighbors in the area and said that they had also indicated opposition to the request.

The board made no decision in the matter and continued it for one week until Van Tassell is present.

School Year Starts Sept. 5 For Grades 6-12

The 1990-91 academic year for Quincy public school students in grades 6-12 will begin Wednesday, Sept. 5, announces Arthur Woodward, director of Secondary Education.

The school terms and report card issuance dates for 1990-91 are:

Term 1: Sept. 5 to Nov. 9. Mid-term warnings will be sent by Oct. 5. Marks close Nov. 9 and report cards will be issued Nov. 21.

GREAT BALLS OF FIRE!

When one thinks of property damage or loss, one automatically thinks of fire and the utter destruction an out-of-control conflagration can bring. But there are other disasters that can befall your property - other catastrophes that can lay waste to the same extent as a fiery blaze. Are you protected against these hazards?

Are you covered if a riot or civil disturbance destroys things you own? Are you insured if an aircraft or land vehicles smashes into your home or place of business? What about a severe windstorm with accompanying hail? How about an internal explosion?

You can be protected against each and every one of these hazards with an Extended Coverage Endorsement added to your present policy. The cost is moderate compared to the greatly increased protection you will realize.

Dick Barry

Dick Barry was one of Quincy's brightest attorneys. You won't get much argument from anyone on that.

He knew how to try a case - criminal or civil. He did his homework and went to court prepared. His clients got a lot more than a 100 percent effort everytime.

Dick was also up there in the human being department.

He was always ready to help when a colleague was down on his luck and in need of a helping hand. Or when a friend or a family member of a friend was in some kind of jam. You could always count on Dick to be there.

BARRY

Just three weeks ago, Dick was honored at Quincy District Court Law Day ceremonies when he was presented the James R. McIntyre Humanitarian Award for his volunteer work with Quincy's Asian community and other minorities. He set up a clinic where they could get free legal counsel.

Making the presentation were two close and long-time friends, Mrs. Sheila McIntyre, wife of the late mayor-senator for whom the award is named and Clerk Magistrate and former Mayor Arthur Tobin.

It, coincidentally, was Dick's 56th birthday. Few at the ceremonies knew how really ill Dick was. And just a handful knew that he had been driven from the Dana Farber Cancer Institute that morning to receive the award and taken right back after the ceremonies.

He died there Sunday - just 18 days later.

Dick had a promising political career first as Ward 6 city councillor in 1962 and then as councillor at-large. He later became first assistant District Attorney under his long-time friend and law partner, George Burke, when the latter was elected Norfolk District Attorney in 1966.

Dick was an outstanding prosecutor while with the district attorney's office and after that became an equally outstanding defense attorney. So, he well knew both sides of a courtroom.

When Arthur Tobin came into the mayor's office in 1978 he asked Dick to be his city solicitor. Dick couldn't say no to an old friend, despite the fact he had a booming private law practice.

Dick was solicitor during the Blizzard of '78 and guided the city through numerous knotty legal technicalities and problems that great storm heaped upon the city along with 26 inches of snow.

"He was my good friend, a wonderful person and a tremendous city solicitor," said Tobin this week.

Dick and George Burke went to Quincy High School together, Boston College Law School together and served in the district attorney's office together.

They started their law careers and practice as a partnership. It was a humble beginning for two young lawyers who would become two of the city's most prominent attorneys. They shared the same desk in the real estate office of Dick's father.

"I have lost a very dear, close friend," said Burke. Dick was a great attorney and a great friend."

Dick had a keen sense of humor. Sometimes, though, it wasn't fully appreciated.

Like the time when he was in the city council in the 1960's and came up with the idea to black-top historic Hancock Cemetery next to City Hall and make a parking lot out of it.

The 800-grave cemetery contains the remains of Quincy's early settlers.

Black top over their hallowed remains? "Oh, no," said Dick, or something like that. "We'll move them to Mount Wollaston Cemetery."

But, a parking lot? "Why not! You can't beat the location. And it would make it a lot easier for people doing business at City Hall to park their cars."

Dick's proposal, which shocked the Quincy Historical Society and descendants of the early settlers, actually was made with tongue in cheek.

He wanted to see if anyone was paying attention to what was going on at City Hall.

Nothing ever seemed to rattle him. He took things in stride. He could always smile when things got tough.

A couple of days before he lost his courageous battle to cancer, former Mayor Walter Hannon who had served with him in the City Council, Fr. William McCarthy, pastor of St. John's Church and Tobin visited him at the Dana Farber.

Dick was happy to see them. They talked awhile. The three hoped they were cheering him.

As they were getting ready to leave, Dick smiled at them and then winked.

He was trying to cheer them even though it was also his "so-long" to them.

Hats Off To Pierce

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

Hats off to Steve Pierce for having the guts to stand up and say what the people of Massachusetts have been longing to hear from their elected representatives - No More Taxes!!!

Rep. Pierce's No Tax Budget proposal, which was assailed by nearly every Democratic official in Massachusetts, is a responsible, common-sense beginning to solving this state's fiscal problems. The tax-hungry Democrats cried bloody murder over Pierce's attempt to balance the budget without foisting yet another tax increase on the people of TAXachusetts.

Those of us who struggle to make our rent or mortgage payments and provide for our families applaud Steve Pierce's efforts to bring government spending under control. When will the other candidates for Governor stop complaining and criticizing and offer some constructive solutions of their own?

Remember In November

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

We'll remember in November that our state taxes and fees cost us $1 billion, while our small businesses went Chapter 11 and we lost our jobs.

We'll remember in November that our State increased spending by another $1.3 billion, while our residents and businesses had to decrease their spending. We'll remember in November that our State increased our taxes another $1 billion, while many of our residents are picking up and leaving this Commonwealth of Misery. Oh yes, we'll remember in November!

The same forces that brought you Proposition 2½ thought you had gotten the message and then re-elected you to office. We wanted reform in state government. The mistake was not proposition 2½, it was the trust we had in you to heed our warning. You didn't listen too carefully, so now we'll remember in November.

As each of you are swept from office by the same irate people that put you there, maybe only then, will you say, I heard you in November, but alas, it will be too late, because we'll remember in December how we got rid of you in November!

Vietnam Veteran Keynote Speaker Memorial Day Parade, Ceremonies Monday

Quincy Police Civil Rights Detective Thomas Bolinder, a Marine Corps veteran who was wounded twice during the Vietnam War, will be the keynote speaker for the Memorial Day Parade ceremonies sponsored by the Quincy Veterans Monday, May 28.

Marching units for the annual parade will assemble on School St. and Charles A. Ross Parkway at 9:30 a.m. and step off at 10:30 a.m.

The parade route is School St., Hancock St., Washington St., Coddington St., Sea St., to Mount Wollaston Cemetery where Chief Marshal Robert LaFleur, commander of the Quincy Veterans Council, and honor guests will review the parade.

The parade will rest at Quincy Square where wreaths will be placed on the tombs of John Adams and John Quincy Adams.

Memorial Day services will be held at the World War II Podium, Mount Wollaston Cemetery, where Bolinder will speak.

Bolinder joined the Marines in July 1966. After graduating from Parris Island, he was stationed at Camp Geiger, N.C., for 12 weeks infantry training. He was then stationed at Camp LeJune, N.C., 6th Marines.

From April to September, 1967, he was assigned to Battalion Landing Team 1/6 of the Landing Force Mediterranean Sixth Fleet aboard USS Sandoval. He participated in 12 amphibious landings in Sardinia, Corsica, Greece, Crete, Italy and combined operations with the French Foreign Legion.

In October, 1976, he was assigned to counter-guerilla warfare school at Camp Pendleton, Calif.

A month later, Bolinder arrived in South Vietnam and was assigned to E Co., second Battalion of 7th Marine Regiment, 9th Amphibious Brigade First Marine Division. He participated in 10 major operations, including the Tet Offensive of 1968.

During Operation Allen Brook in May 1968, he was shot twice by an AK-47 and wounded. After spending 33 days in First MAB Hospital, he returned to duty.

Five months later, he was wounded again, this time by a hand grenade during an attempt to capture a fleeing enemy soldier. Bolinder was evacuated to the USS Tripoli for surgery, transferred to the 106th Army Hospital in Japan for additional surgery. After being transferred again for more surgery at Chelsea Naval Hospital, he medically retired from the Marines in June, 1969.

Presently a Civil Rights Detective with the Quincy Police Department, he lives in Hanson with his wife Susan, and three children Matt, Mike and Kate.

On Sunday, the day before Memorial Day, American Legion Post 95 will assemble at the United First Parish Church at 9:45 a.m. to conduct the traditional exercises of the Grand Army of the Republic. They will escort the Sunday School Children to the Hancock Cemetery to decorate graves of veterans. At 11 a.m., all veterans organizations, the auxiliaries and the public are invited to attend services in the United First Parish Church.

At 7 p.m. the George F. Bryan VFW Post and its auxiliary, will proceed to the Boulder and Doughboy Monument at Adams Academy, the G.A.R. Monument at Mount Wollaston Cemetery and Shea Memorial, South Weymouth Air Station.

Also at 7 p.m., the Cyril P. Morrissette American Legion Post and the Quincy Cavanaugh Chapter No. 79, D.A.V. will decorate the graves of John A. Boyd, Cyril P. Morrissette and Charles J. Cavanaugh in St. Mary's Cemetery.

At the conclusion of the ceremonies, the Morrissette Post will decorate the War Memorial at Liberty Square, South Quincy, and the War Memorial at the West Quincy Fire Station. Quincy Cavanaugh Chapter No. 79, D.A.V., will decorate the Cavanaugh Boulder at Cavanaugh Stadium in North Quincy and the Doughboy Statue at Adams Academy.

Before Monday's parade, the Bryan Post will hold memorial exercises at 7 a.m. at the George F. Bryan Square, Franklin and Water Sts., Fr. Tierney Square, Bryan Memorial at Mount Wollaston Cemetery.

Also at 7 a.m., the Wollaston American Legion Post will decorate the graves and hold memorial exercises at the National Sailors Home Cemetery. At 8:30 a.m., a short memorial service will be held in the Wollaston Post Home.

At 8 a.m., William R. Caddy Detachment, M.C.L., will decorate the William R. Caddy Memorial at Caddy Park, Wollaston, John Jackson, Paul Grasso and James Cavicchi Memorials.

Also at 8 a.m., veterans of all wars will assemble at the Morrissette Post and proceed to Hall Place and conduct services at G.A.R. Memorial, and a detachment will place a wreath at the Morrissette Memorial at Pine Hill Cemetery. Following the service the line will reform and proceed to the post where the parade will disband.

At 8:30 a.m., Houghs Neck American Legion Post will hold memorial exercises and decorate O'Hare Square, Adams Shore Memorial, Houghs Neck Memorial and Frederick C. Murphy Memorial and Houghs Neck Memorial Park.

Also in the morning, the Robert I. Nickerson American Legion Post will decorate Nickerson Beach, Gilbert Memorial and Bayfield Memorial.

At 10 a.m. Monday, a short memorial service will be held at Christ Church Burial Grounds.

Cap, Gown Ban Triggers Protests

A storm of protest greeted a School Committee decision to override the wishes of seniors at Quincy and North Quincy High Schools and ban the wearing of caps and gowns at their graduation. The Committee called it part of a trend toward simplicity.

49 Years Ago

An investigation was begun to find the source of rumors that the School Committee was pressured into the ruling by local clothing merchants who felt caps and gowns hurt their business.

School Committeeman John P. Flavin told his colleagues that a cap and gown cost graduates only $1.50 while the traditional coat and white flannel pants or skirt, which were rarely worn again, cost a minimum of $14.

CIVIL DEFENSE SPUTTERS

"Don't let people lull you to sleep by saying, 'It can't happen here.' They don't know what they're talking about," J. Wells Farley, chairman of the Massachusetts Public Safety Committee told a patriotic mass meeting of the Quincy Defense Council.

But apparently a lot of people were lulled to sleep for when the QDC issued a call for 500 volunteers to begin training immediately as auxiliary policemen and firefighters only 17 men between the ages of 18 and 50 stepped forward.

MERRYMOUNT MOVES ON PROBLEMS

Arthur N. Burke was elected president of the Merrymount Association, succeeding Henry F. Nilsen, and the new president immediately set about facing up to the area's thorniest problems.

He named a committee of Ernest G. Healey, Edward E. Peasley and Fred P. Chase to circulate a petition protesting a block of stores that had been proposed for the beachfront at the junction of Quincy Shore Drive and Furnace Brook Parkway.

Planning Board Hearings June 6

The Quincy Planning Board will hold two public hearings Wednesday, June 6 in the second floor conference room of City Hall annex regarding two proposed zoning changes.

At 7 p.m., the board will consider a change from Industry A to PUD for land located on the northerly side of Southern Artery between street numbers 622 and 660 Southern Artery. The land is the former Quincy Lumber site.

Both changes have been proposed by Ward 2 Councillor Ted DeCristofaro. Planning Director Richard Meade says any present usage at the sites would not be affected by the zoning change. If the land is changed to PUD, then any future use would have to be approved by the City Council, he said.

CITY OF QUINCY DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC WORKS FLUSHING PROGRAM

The Quincy Department of Public Works will conduct a water flushing program starting May 7, 1990, which will last approximately two months. Flushing will take place from 9:00 P.M. to 4:00 A.M.

The flushing program will remove sediment from the mains. This process will cause discolored water in varying degrees throughout the City. Persons who experience water discoloration should clear their water Systems by opening the cold water faucet for several minutes and then wait about an hour. If water is still not clear they should repeat the flushing procedure.

Again, the Department of Public Works' Flushing Program is a process to remove sediment, not to be confused with the Fire Department's Hydrant Flushing which verifies the operation of the hydrants throughout the City.

The Public Works Department cannot be responsible for any damages incurred as a result of the activity which is a necessary and normal maintenance function.

Should further information be desired, please call 773-1380, extension 215 between the hours of 7:00 A.M. and 3:30 P.M.

Marie's Kitchen

By MARIE J. D'OLIMPIO

Hash

With all this cool weather I have been cooking soup instead of enjoying an outdoor barbeque.

This past rainy week, I made the soup with some beef and chicken as well. The beef was left over and my family loves hash, so it was a good time to use the beef up in that way. Here is an easy way to prepare it. You can use a food chopper or blender to cut up the meat, however, if it is as tender as mine was, it chops nicely with a sharp knife.

HASH

2 cups cut up beef
(depending on how much is left)
1 small onion, minced
1 stalk of celery cut up small 1 cup cubed boiled potato (sometimes I used mashed)

salt and pepper to taste

1 Tbsp butter, margarine or oil

Saute the onion in the butter or whatever you are using. Add the celery and cook over low heat for about 10 minutes until it is tender. Add the beef and the potatoes and season with salt and pepper. Heat until hot but be careful it doesn't burn (at this point you may add a little water or beef stock if it gets too dry). My husband likes his with eggs, but the rest of us enjoy it all by itself.

Marie D'Olimpio is the author of "Simply Italian-And Then Some," a collection of her own recipes. Copies of the book are available at Previte's Market, Sumner St., Quincy Point, Samoset Pharmacy, Samoset Ave., Merrymount and Winfield Gift Emporium, Hancock St., Quincy Center.

St. Joseph School Eighth Grade Class Visits Nation's Capital

The eighth grade class at St. Joseph School, 22 Pray St., Quincy, recently traveled to Washington, D.C. and spent four days touring the nation's capital, experiencing history and seeing the country's government at work.

Students visited Mt. Vernon, the home of President George Washington; the White House, the Capitol, the Smithsonian Museums of Air and Space, American History and Natural History, Ford's Theatre where President Abraham Lincoln was shot and the Peterson House where he died.

In addition, the students visited the Jefferson, Lincoln, Viet Nam, two Jima monuments, the sculpture entitled "The Awakening," the Bureau of Printing and Engraving, the Federal Bureau of Investigation and Arlington National Cemetery. There, they visited the gravesites of former President John F. Kennedy, his brother, Robert F. Kennedy, and witnessed the changing of the guard at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier.

One of the highlights of the tour was the opportunity to sit in the gallery of the U.S. Senate during an actual session. Students observed roll call, a vote being taken and heard four prominent senators, including Massachusetts Sen. Ted Kennedy, speak.

The trip was both a learning experience and a pleasure for all.

Students also had their picture taken with Congressman Brian Donnelly (D-Massachusetts) and visited the House of Representatives with him.

Melissa A. Adams of Quincy has been named to the Dean's List for the Fall semester at the University of Maine.

"MOSES" and JOAN HAWKSWORTH

'Moses The Mouse' A Delight At St. Chrysostom's

For over a decade at Old St. Chrysostom's Church on Hancock St. in Wollaston, a little creature named "Moses, the Mouse" has endeared himself to the congregation through the volunteer ministry of Joan Hawkesworth.

Each Sunday throughout the school year, Hawkesworth takes the furry little puppet in hand and "becomes" Moses the Mouse at the children's altar services.

"Moses" quotes the Scripture to the children. He talks about his greed for cheese, his battles with his friend, Red Squirrel; relating them to real life struggles with which both adults and children can identify. Popping up from behind "the bushes," (altar flowers) Moses sometimes dialogues with Fr. C. Brian/Black, often catching him off guard. One never knows what to expect from Moses, the secret of his popularity.

Hawkesworth works full-time in Boston as a keypunch operator and is a chaplain volunteer at Massachusetts General Hospital during the week.

Rona, Harold Goodman To Be Honored Friday By Quincy Citizens Assn.

Twenty-three years of service to the city will be celebrated by the Quincy Citizens Association Friday, at the Adams Heights Men's Club.

A Paul Revere Bowl will be presented to Rona and Dr. Harold "Hal" Goodman, her husband, "Citizens of the Year," for their "selfless dedication for making our city a better place in which to live and work."

Rona has given hundreds of hours of service to the neighborhood of Squantum and the City of Quincy. She was president of the Squantum Community Association. An attorney, she has appeared at many hearings on the fate of Boston Harbor. She participated in the S.O.S. ("Save Our Shores") and Metropolitan District Commission's cleanups at Wollaston Beach.

Children's Sunday At United First Parish

United First Parish Unitarian Church, Quincy Center, will hold its annual Children's Sunday Service June 3, at 10:30 a.m.

The service will begin with lighting the chalice, symbol of Unitarians worldwide, and will focus on parables from Confucius, Buddha, and Jesus rather than a sermon.

Music will include the Youth Choir and Friends under the direction of guitarist Stewart Roberts; and a trombone solo, by Dan Metzel.

Each class in the Church School will give a brief presentation of something learned during the past year. Level 1, with teacher Barbara Wiggins, will present their Opening Ritual; Level 2, with Jane Molloy, will give an overview of "What is Religion, for Others and for Us?" the Junior Youth Group, with leader Celia Blight, will tell a few of the ideas they learned in their study of the Old Testament and, after the service, present a videotape of their puppet show "Moses;" and the Senior Youth Group, who studied parables as a teaching form, will read parables from some of the world's major religions.

Mary Vallier will present each child with a tomato plant she grew for the occasion; Chairman of the Board, Bryan Donovan, will read the scroll of the teachers.

Social Hour will follow the service at 11:30 a.m. in the parish hall.

A light luncheon, provided by the R.E.C. Committee, will be served to parishioners on the church grounds following the social hour, with games and activities for all ages.

The Church School program is administered by Director of Religious Education Brenda Chin and Chairpersons Celia Blight and Amy Ross.

'We Are Witnesses'

Community Methodist Topic

"We Are Witnesses" will be the topic of Rev. Harry Soper at Quincy Community United Methodist Church on Sunday, May 27, at the 9:30 and 11 a.m. worship.

Rev. Frank Bauer Receives Distinguished Service Award

The Rev. Frank J. Bauer, pastor emeritus of Wollaston Lutheran Church and executive director of that congregation's-sponsored apartment complex (Fenno House and Town Brook House) was awarded the Concordia College Alumni Association's first Distinguished Service Award during the recent commencement exercises at Bronxville, N.Y.

Bauer is a 1936 graduate of the Concordia Collegiate Institute Preparatory School and a 1938 graduate of the junior college program. The citation, presented by college president Dr. Ralph C. Schultz and association president Hope Wittrock, 1976, of Greenwich, Conn., read, in part,

"Through your inspired leadership and vision of safe and secure housing for your neighbors, the Wollaston Lutheran Church Apartments were built and now provide a home for more than 400 senior citizens."

Following his graduation from Concordia in 1938, Rev. Bauer continued his studies for the pastoral ministry at Concordia Seminary, St. Louis, from whence he received both the bachelor and master of divinity degrees. He served two congregations in New York State before beginning a thirty-year pastorate at Wollaston in 1954. He is a retired U.S. Army chaplain and has served the state of Massachusetts in like positions. He and his wife, Jean, who accompanied him to the ceremony, have three children, two of whom attended Concordia College.

Rev. Bauer's attendance at the commencement allowed him to witness the graduation of Ronald E. Cashman, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Cashman of Quincy, members of Wollaston Lutheran Church. Rev. Bauer baptized young Cashman as an infant and encouraged him in his choice of Concordia College for his undergraduate career. An English major, Cashman was honored with the college prize for Service to Student Publications in recognition of his work as co-editor of the student newsmagazine, The Chronicle.

FUNERAL SERVICE

Postponed Grief Can Hurt The Worst

Grief, when a loved one dies, is so very personal. Sometimes people can't express their grief and may suffer for years with a pain they can't lose.

Delayed grief can be too difficult to deal with at the funeral; but every one must sometime accept their loss. Tears can help. Thinking kindly with love or past happinesses with the deceased can ease the pain.

Also - Your Clergyman, a "grief-group", a relative, or we may be of help.

Quincy Kiwanis Club Pledges $30,000 More To Trauma Institute

Kiwanis Club of Quincy recently pledged $30,000 to the Kiwanis Pediatric Trauma Institute in Boston, to be paid within the next three years.

This will make a total of $100,000 contributed through Quincy Kiwanis Club pledges, together with those of individual members, since the Kiwanis Foundation of New England in 1980 began a joint venture with Tufts-New England Medical Center to deal with the problems of severe injury and children.

"Trauma -- accidental injury is the largest health problem of children," stated David T. Lockwood, Associate Director of the Kiwanis Pediatric Trauma Institute at New England Medical Center. "55% of all childhood deaths are caused by accidents. Annually two children die each day, and an additional 2,500 are permanently disabled here in New England."

A $30,000 PLEDGE to benefit the Kiwanis Pediatric Trauma Institute in Boston is accepted by Gene Gammon, left, Quincy Governor of New England, from Quincy Kiwanis President Robert Bunstein.

The pledge from Quincy Kiwanis was presented by president Robert Bunstein recently and accepted by Gene Gammon, of Dover-Foxcroft, ME, governor of the New England District of Kiwanis, at a meeting of area Kiwanis clubs hosted by the Quincy club.

Buying A Home Requires Careful Planning

Many people are overwhelmed at the thought of beginning to search for a new home, says Maureen McCaffrey, Director, Relocation Services, Jack Conway Company.

"Families looking into the housing market need to carefully consider their likes and dislikes as well as think ahead to future family needs," she says. "One of the best ways for families to gauge housing needs is to ask themselves just how happy they are in their current area," says McCaffrey, whose company is a member of RELO, The International Relocation Network, the nation's oldest and largest referral network of independent real estate brokers, headquartered in Chicago.

The RELO network provides a wide range of relocation services to assist transferees and their families to sell a house in one community and purchase a new home in the new community. It will be celebrating its 30th anniversary this year.

McCaffrey adds that the question of living in an urban or rural setting is a primary consideration of families in their home search. "While some families prefer the cultural opportunities of urban living, other families prefer the quiet open spaces provided by a rural setting. Prospective homebuyers need to be realistic about the types and quality of services available to them in each type of setting," McCaffrey emphasizes. She adds, "Of course, proximity to work may be a major factor in the home search process."

McCaffrey recommends that prospective homeowners do some research of their own in advance of any planned move.

"Families need to look into transportation, the quality of school systems and convenience to shopping areas," she notes.

"Careful review of your likes and dislikes will put you in a position to save time looking for a home by presenting the real estate specialist with specific information and particular characteristics you desire in a home," McCaffrey says. "If a client comes in with the answers to these types of questions, it will give us a good idea of what homes to begin showing," she adds.

McCaffrey also says that careful consideration and planning for that new home will also help greatly to reduce the chances of prospective home buyers being shown properties that are not to their liking. "Since a home buyer's time is a precious commodity, this planning in advance will eventually pay important dividends," she explains.

McCaffrey also notes that families should keep in mind their plans for the next several years. "Many families with children entering their college years often find themselves with too much room. In other instances, elderly parents or other relatives are now moving in with their children in an effort to decrease expenses and improve lifestyles in later years. Both of these examples need to be considered and carefully planned for in advance," she adds.

By carefully assessing every aspect of their lifestyle, potential homeowners are more likely to select a home which will satisfy the needs and desires of all family members, McCaffrey says.

Rudolph Adamo Salon Opens At Hancock Plaza

The Rudolph Adamo Salon for the 90s recently held its grand opening at the Hancock Plaza in downtown Quincy.

The opening included a ribbon cutting ceremony, visits by city officials, and prize drawings, at the site of the former Remick's Building.

Present were City Councillors Patricia Toland and Timothy Cahill.

The opening was considered another step forward in downtown Quincy's revitalization.

The Rudolph Adamo Salon features complete hair care service for the entire family in a spacious new facility of over 2,400 square feet. The bright, sunny salon features floor to ceiling windows on its Cliveden St. side, and looks out into the stunning indoor fountain of the newly renovated Hancock Plaza. Located on the first floor, the Adamo Salon is accessible through the front entrance to Hancock Plaza at 1515 Hancock St., through the skywalk from the Quincy parking garage, or through the side entrance on Cliveden St.

The 10 stylists and aestheticians who bring their talents to this venture are well known in the South Shore.

With the opening of the salon, they are able to provide the latest in style and the highest levels of customer comfort and satisfaction. The opening celebration saw over 200 customers and friends visit the new salon, and share in the excitement and enthusiasm of the latest addition to the business community in downtown Quincy.

The Rudolph Adamo Salon for the 90s is open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Monday and Saturday, and from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. Tuesday through Friday. Walk-in service is available, or appointments may be made by calling 984-1500.

Laura Sullivan Presidents Place Property Manager

Laura Sullivan was recently named property manager at Presidents Place, the $60 million, mixed-use development located in downtown Quincy.

A Boston resident, Sullivan was formerly a property manager with Meredith & Grew, Inc., and for the past three years was the assistant manager of 150 Federal Street in Boston's financial district.

Sullivan said she emphasizes a personal approach when it comes to property management.

"On any day of the week, I could be meeting with prospective tenant one minute, and viewing plumbing fixtures the next," said Sullivan, who is pursuing her masters degree and certification as a real estate property administrator at the University of Massachusetts in Boston.

LAURA SULLIVAN

"The challenge at Presidents Place is coordinating all the activities of the two office towers, the 1,100-car attached parking garage and the Galleria, a first floor retail mall. As a property manager, I prefer a hands-on approach to taking care of problems that may arise," she added.

Sullivan is a member of the Building Owners and Managers Association, a national organization of property managers. In addition, she is an active member of the Society of Real Property Administrators.

Spring HOME IMPROVEMENT

New ideas take shape with geometric windows

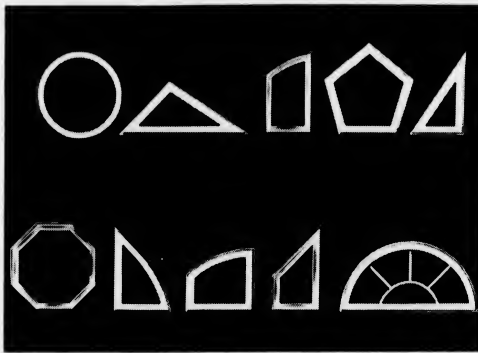

Have you noticed how many new and remodeled homes are displaying a truly distinctive touch with the help of custom windows in unusual shapes and sizes? Today, choices in windows are greater than ever before. Along with traditional double-hung, casement, awning, glider, bay, bow and picture styles, homeowners can now create dramatic effects with half-rounds, hexagons, triangles, arches, rectangles and many other geometric shapes.

CertainTeed Corporation is in the forefront of this trend with its new line of solid vinyl decorative windows. Called "Geometrics," these windows can be custom designed in an unlimited assortment of shapes, sizes and combinations.

In addition to the sheer beauty of custom-shaped windows, the options now available enable homeowners to place windows in spaces that previously would have been unusable. This can be a real plus in rooms with sloping ceilings or limited space, where additional daylight is desirable.

You can take greater advantage of a beautiful outside view. Or, combine privacy with plenty of light by the strategic placement of custom windows. There is virtually no limit to the window designs you and your contractor can create.

Although custom shaped windows can offer many new and different perspectives on your outside and inside world, don't let beauty outweigh practicality. The best custom-shaped windows are strong and thermally efficient as well as beautiful. Look for features like double pane, sealed insulating glass and welded frame construction.

Also, consider window materials and the care and maintenance that may be required. Solid vinyl, for example, has become a leading material of choice for many homeowners because it never needs painting and it won't chip, peel, dent, rust or corrode.

To help consumers understand more about the styles, features and materials available in windows today, CertainTeed offers a 24-page guide, "What You Should Know About Selecting Replacement Windows."

Annoying Phone Calls

Annoying phone calls are a big problem in today's day and age. If you look at today's condensed journal you will see that on Friday, October 17th we had two calls about obscene phone calls, this is not unusual as we generally receive about eight to ten complaints a week about annoying or obscene phone calls, and I am sure that many more go unreported.

Here are some tips on how to stop those annoying or obscene phone calls:

1. If a caller won't identify himself or herself, hang up. You only encourage the caller when you talk to him or her. Remember these callers have no right to invade your privacy without courteously identifying themselves.

2. Never give out personal information on the phone. You really never know for sure whom you are talking with.

3. Never let small children answer the phone. They are very susceptible to obscene phone calls. Children may also give out information to the caller that you may not want known, such things as when your home is unoccupied or when you will be on vacation.

4. Keep a whistle by the phone and if you receive an annoying call first put some cotton in your own ears to protect them and then blow the whistle as loudly as you can into the voice portion of the receiver. This will hurt the callers ears.

5. To avoid becoming the victim of an obscene phone call, single women should use initials instead of first names in the telephone book listings.

If you follow these tips you will reduce your chances of receiving annoying or obscene phone calls.

While we are talking about the phone I would like to remind parents that it is important to instruct your children not to play with the phone. Every so often we receive calls on the 911 emergency line from youngsters that are playing with the phone. This not only ties up an emergency line but also ties up personal at our communications center. When a call comes in on 911 we can lock it in to trace it back to the original phone. Some parents are very surprised when a police officer shows up at the door. Remember: it is important that children know how to use a phone in an emergency, but it is also important for them to know that the phone is not a toy.

Manet Health Care Awarded State Energy Grant

Manet Community Health Care has been awarded a state energy grant of $4,796.08 through the Dukakis Administration's Nonprofit Energy Efficiency Program, Commissioner of Energy Resources Paul Gromer announced today.

Funds from the grant will be used to install energy conservation measures in the organization's facility located at 24 Wall Street in Quincy.

This grant will pay for the entire energy improvement project.

The NEEP is funded through oil overcharge funds, not state tax dollars, and provides technical and financial assistance to help nonprofit organizations improve the efficiency of their facilities.

In announcing the award, Commissioner Gromer stated, "We are pleased to provide this assistance to Manet Community Health Care, Inc. The energy improvements funded through this grant will reduce the organization's energy costs now and into the future. This investment also contributes to our goal of promoting energy conservation."

Health Care Executive Director Ellen Hafer said,

"We want to thank the Commonwealth of Massachusetts for this important contribution to our energy conservation efforts."

NEEP is administered statewide through Community Energy Partnership of Boston through a grant from the Massachusetts Energy Office. The program is operated in Greater Boston by Fair Share Development Corp.

Red Cross Develops Special Lifeguard Course

The American Red Cross of Mass Bay which includes Quincy has developed a special training course to meet the critical need for summer lifeguards in the state.

The Massachusetts Lifeguard First Aid Course combines critical lifesaving techniques such as cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR) and emergency trauma care. The 16-hour course includes nationally-developed Red Cross textbooks and videos.

The first aid certification, when teamed with the Red Cross Lifeguard Training Swimming Course, provides the student with superior credentials for a lifeguard position at pools, beaches and recreation facilities in Massachusetts.

Persons interested in the course should contact the American Red Cross at (617) 262-1234 ext. 221. Space is limited due to the hiring deadlines for lifeguards and a high demand from the public.

John DeCarli:

'Another Dream Has Been Realized'

Another dream has been realized for our Lodge No. 1295.

When it was opened 19 years ago, those responsible were justifiably proud of what they had accomplished. Now, as we finally compete the renovations and redecorating, we too feel pride in what we have done.

I want to thank everyone who made this dream become a reality: Richard Realini, John Brown, Joseph Sacco, John Fantacchio, John Tamasco, Pat Ruscio, Dan Paluzzi, Jim Perleruto and particularly Arthur Boyle, who was in charge of the project and former Chairman of the Board Charles Middendorf who did so much to get this renovation off the ground. I would also like to thank my fellow Lodge Brothers for their patience while the work was being done.

To our younger Brother Members: I hope that your dreams for our Lodge will bring as much satisfaction to you as ours have to us.

JOHN DECARLI

Chairman of the Board of Trust

John Falvey:

'Many Thanks'

I am joyed to welcome all of you to our newly renovated Lodge Home. Our Lodge existence started 66 years ago when we became Charter Members of the Order Sons of Italy of America. Our first home was a small building on Furnace Avenue in Quincy. With much hard work by previous Board of Trust and Executive Board Members who raised funds in various ways, we were able to open the doors to our new home in November, 1971.

After almost twenty years of "wear and tear" it was decided that renovations were necessary to not only provide a long promised "Member's Room," but to assure that we offer the most attractive function accommodations possible. Many thanks to all past and present board members, and all of the membership who in any way insured the success of this ambitious undertaking.

7 Months Labor Of Love

Renovation Project Gives Lodge Bright, New Look

In November, 1988, the Board of Trust of the Quincy SIA Lodge No. 1295 with the approval of the general membership embarked on a plan to completely renovate the Sons of Italy Social Center at 120 Quarry St., Quincy.

The renovation of our lodge, which was built in 1971, was necessary to allow us to continue to provide a first class function hall for weddings, banquets, membership gatherings and social and charitable functions.

Charles Middendorf and Arthur Boyle, members of the Board of Trust were assigned the task to manage this renovation project.

Architect, Farouk Youssef, AIA, of Hingham, was hired to provide professional architectural services and Robert Barstow, a professional mechanical engineer was selected to redesign our air conditioning and ventilation systems.

After Middendorf was transferred by his company to Houston, TX, in July 1989, John DeCarli became president of the Board of Trust and actively pursued the completion of this project.

In August 1989, eight local contractors bid this project which was estimated to cost $350,000. The 45 Construction Company from Malden. President Joseph Cimino, was awarded the contract for general construction and the work began in November 1989.

All the members of the Board of Trust and the officers of the lodge assisted during the project.

Members of the Board of Trust, Richard Realini and John Fantucchio secured the financing for this project. John Falvey and Joe Sacco rebuilt the deceased members plaque and obtained furnishings. John Tamasco and Jim Perletuo assisted with decisions on the planning and construction.

John DeCarli coordinated the installation of our new sound system and new venetian room bar. John's constant assistance throughout the project was invaluable.

Our project manager, Arthur Boyle, expended countless hours for the past year and a half with the architect during the design and planning of the renovations, the preparations of the bid and the award of the contract, the negotiations with the city to obtain the proper permits, the selection of the interior designer and coordinators of the selection of fabrics, colors, lighting and finishes throughout the hall and the coordination with the general contractor and his sub-contractors during all phases of construction.

Sam Mascotta and Aubrey Payzant daily provided insights about the hall and assistance to the contractor in many ways.

Finally, our sidewalk superintendents whose interest and suggestions added levity to the entire project, participated in our project.

As you visit our new social center you will notice:

- Our shiny new lobby with its bright vinyl wallcovering, marble and carpet floors, new ceilings and lighting and bright oak doors.

- The Golden Lions Room (upper level hall) with three large Italian glass chandeliers from Camer Glass, the oak tambor trim throughout the hall, the carpeted stage, rejuvenated bar area, mirrors, panels and wood trim with fabric wallcovering to replace our drapes.

- The Venetian Room (lower level hall) with its carpeted and parquet floor, fabric walls, warm lighting and new bar area.

The members lounge appearance has changed dramatically with carpeted floors, vinyl wall covering, new lighting and many improvements to the bar area.

To the rear of the lower level, a members room has been added to allow the members a place to relax, watch TV and read.

A new membrane roof has been added with a 20-year warranty. A large (6'x12'x7') walk-in cooler by Masterbilt has been added to serve our functions.

Throughout the hall and within every room, ceilings, lights and floors have been replaced, walls painted and doors replaced or refinished. Electronic Air Cleaner has been added to both upper and lower halls.

A new sound system was designed and installed by WCRB of Waltham, MA. They provided us with a professional, high quality system to meet our present and future needs utilizing BOSE speakers and amplifiers.

Through the efforts of all the contractors, subcontractors, designers, architect, engineer, our Board of Trust, the lodge officers and all the membership, we once again have a lodge and social center of which we can be proud.

Tell all your friends and relatives that they can be proud to plan any of their

OFFICE OF THE MAYOR

On behalf of the City of Quincy, I would like to congratulate the Quincy Order, Sons of Italy on the completion of the renovations to your Lodge.

Through the years the Sons of Italy have engaged in many civic endeavors of great benefit to the people in Quincy.

Your sensitivity to the needs of others - your caring and your responding - have demonstrated a continuing attitude of support for our great City.

May the future bring much success to the Sons of Italy and each of the members.

The 45 Construction Co., inc.

The 45 Construction Company was formed in July, 1982 by Joseph Cimino, after many years of employment in the construction business.

The company's first major contract was the rehabilitation of a once-elegant brownstone in Boston's historic South End. As that project neared completion, the company was under contract to provide the same work for several other brownstones in the area.

During the 2 years these rehabilitation projects were in progress, the company was successful in winning several bids on construction projects in and around Greater Boston at banks, hospitals and schools. Since then, the company has progressed to performing commercial development in several areas in Eastern Massachusetts.

Personal attention to detail by the owner, and a stable work force of experienced people skilled in their craft, insures a quality project.

The 45 Construction Company wishes the Sons of Italy many years of success in their newly renovated building.

Traditions Grow With Each Generation.

Back in 1931, Joe Sweeney joined his Uncle Dennis to help renovate the newly acquired funeral home on Elm Street. Originally a cabinetmaker by trade, Joe soon became the second-generation link in a family-owned tradition. One of instinctive and genuine concern for the city's bereaved families.

After the home's renovations were complete, Joe began assisting with services and went on to become a funeral director in 1941. When Dennis Sweeney died in 1948, it was to Joe that he entrusted the continuation of the Sweeney Tradition.

Well-liked in Quincy, M. Joseph Sweeney not only respected the customs of the large Catholic population, but also those of newcomers in the Protestant and Moslem communities. In 1962, he acquired the Elcock Estate, circa 1863, in West Quincy to better serve the residents in that growing area of the city.

Since 1917, Sweeney Funeral Homes have been responding to the needs of South Shore residents — whatever they were. As early as 1940, we began offering pre-planning as a way for wise Quincy residents to plan their future.

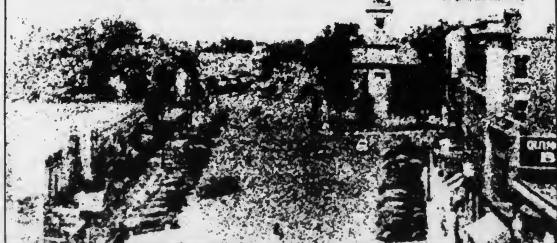

Today, with funeral costs one of the top five major expenses for most families, pre-arrangements make better sense than ever before. Call Dennis Sweeney, our third-generation funeral director, at (617) 773-2728 for a free consultation. We've been helping South Shore residents with difficult decisions for over 70 years.

North Clinches Tourney Berth

By TOM SULLIVAN

The North Quincy baseball team didn't wait until the last game of the season to qualify for the Eastern Mass. Tournament for the second year in a row.

Last year the Raiders had to win their last nine games to make it for the first time in 10 years. This year they clinched a berth with a 7-1 victory over Waltham with three games remaining. The win improved North's record to 12-5 (8-1 in the suburban League).

North's next goal is a second straight league title and the weather has raised havoc with its quest. Last Friday's game with Quincy and Monday's game with Brookline were rained out.

If the weatherman cooperates this week, North was scheduled to meet Brockton, league co-leader, yesterday (Wednesday) in the last regularly scheduled game. The Raiders were scheduled to play the rained out game with Quincy today (Thursday) at 3:30 at Adams Field and the rained-out game at Brookline Saturday morning.

In the tourney-clinching win over Waltham last Saturday, Gary Rawdon pitched a three-hitter and struck out nine in improving to 4-1.

George Rozanitis, Ron Boudreau and Jeff Calvert each had two hits for North.

In their previous game North defeated Newton North, 5-1, as ace Erik DeBoer continued his masterful pitching.

DeBoer pitched a two-hitter, struck out nine and walked only one to improve to 4-3. He could easily be 6-1.

In 51 2/3 innings, DeBoer, the leading pitcher in the league, has given up 24 hits, struck out 75, walked 13 and has an ERA of under 0.90. Two of his losses were the result of his mates' errors.

DeBoer, also one of North's top hitters, drove in two runs with a single in a six-run sixth inning. Mark Kelliher, Rozanitis and Jim Maloney also had key hits.

"I'm very happy for the boys' making the tournament again, they have played hard all season," said coach Leo Donovan. "It would be nice to win the league title again in our final year in the league, but it will be rough beating Brockton." Brockton handed North its only league setback.

Rawdon is 4-1 on the mound, DeBoer 4-3, Tony Anderlionis 2-1, Brian O'Malley 1-0 and freshman Sean Donovan, the coach's son, 1-0.

Quincy 'Up' For 12-6 Explosion

Quincy's baseball team continued its up and down season last week and this time it was 'up' as the Presidents exploded for a 12-6 victory over Cambridge Rindge and Latin in a game halted by rain after five innings.

The win improved Quincy's record to 7-10.

Rain has raised havoc with the games during the past week and last Friday's game with North Quincy and Monday's game with Newton North were rained out.

With the weatherman's cooperation this week,

Quincy was slated to play Waltham yesterday (Wednesday) in the last regularly scheduled game, will meet North Quincy today (Thursday) at 3:30 at Adams Field and will wind up Saturday morning at 11 o'clock against Newton North at Adams.

In the rain-shortened win at Cambridge Rindge and Latin, Tom Balzano continued his torrid hitting with a two-run homer and Steve McInnis also had a two-run blast in a six-run second inning.

Babe Ruth

Bryan Blanks SOI Behind Kanes Pitching

Bryan Post VFW, defending city champion, defeated Sons of Italy, 5-0, in its Babe Ruth League opener, behind the two-hit pitching of Rob Kane.

Kane had a no-hitter through five innings but John Gladu doubled in the sixth and Steve Rayne singled in the seventh for S. of I.

Sean Herron of S. of I. hooked up in a fine pitching duel with Kane until Todd Portesi singled to score Tom Nutley with the winning run in the fifth. Bryan broke the game open with four runs in the sixth on hits by Paul King, Kane, Nutley, Portesi and Sean Skahan.

Nutley, Portesi, Skahan and King had two hits apiece and George Wirtz, Bill Morrissey and Kane had one each. Bryan's infield of Skahan, Rich Gorman, King and Wirtz played excellent defense. Catcher Morrissey made several outstanding plays. Terry Skeehan, Mike Koski, Jeff Breslin, Dan Donahue and Matt McSweeney also contributed to the win.

Barry's Deli edged Granite City Electric, 7-6, in eight innings in the season's opener for both teams.

Danny Duncan pitched six strong innings but tired in the seventh when Granite City scored three runs to send the game into extra innings. Duncan had two outs and two strikes on Bob Verney with the bases loaded. Verney poked a single over first baseman Jeff Tirrell's head for the tying runs. Duncan allowed 11 hits and struck out 10 but walks kept him in trouble. He ended five innings with strikeouts as Granite City stranded 17 runners and left the bases loaded three times. Mike Conner pitched the eighth and shut Granite City down for the victory.

With the score tied at 6-6 in the bottom of the eighth, Chris Geary led off with a walk, rookie Ron McGann laid down a perfect sacrifice bunt, Chris Murphy walked and Duncan singled down the third base line scoring Geary with the winning run.

Connor went 4-for-4 with four RBI to pace Barry's. David Raftery had a long triple and single and Murphy, Derek Thompson, Tirrell and McGann had key hits.

Playing well on defense were Jeff Craig, Jimmy Goldrick, Kenny Ledwale, Charlie Hardiman, and Patrick Sweeney.

Mildram Completes Season

Sarah Mildram of Quincy, a graduate of Thayer Academy, completed her third season on the Connecticut College women's basketball team.

The 5-3 junior guard played in 15 of the Camels' 23 games and contributed two points, six rebounds and six assists as the team posted an 18-5 record and finished among the top ten of the New England Division 3.

Triple A

Athletics Bomb Braves, Costa Hurls 2-Hitter

The Yellow Cab Athletics defeated the Braves, 12-3, in Triple A Baseball League action, behind the pitching of Neil Costa, who allowed two hits in four innings, and Arron Marshall, who allowed one hit over the last two.

Jaime Murphy, Lorne Andrea, Costa, Steve Rose,

Joe Bracken and Marshall paced the attack and Joshua Maloney and Mark Bracken played fine defense.

For the Braves Joey Donahue led the offense and Jimmie Mastoiani and Donahue played strong defense.

Jarvis & Alexander topped

Fernald Plumbing, 11-4, behind the pitching of Robby Churchill, who struck out nine.

Churchill had a home run, Jason Smith a double and Justin Bernier and Mike Sheehan two hits each. Terrance Roche and Churchill played strong defense.

Farm League

Powers Hurls, Bats Dodgers To 9-0 Win

The First American Bank Dodgers, behind the nine-strikeout pitching of Mike Powers, shut out the Rotary Cubs, 9-0, to improve its record to 4-1 in the Junior

Farm League.

After Powers struck out the side in the first, he stroked a two-run home run. After Chris Bregoli walked, Philip Belmont doubled him home.

Steve Rochon also followed with a double, driving in Belmont for a 4-0 lead.

Kevin Walsh homered in the bottom of the third for the fifth run. Powers, who went 3-for-3, went four innings for his second win, while Walsh and Bregoli finished up.

T.J. Wilson had two RBI and Jonathan Brillo, Steve Marks, John Sullivan and Chris Griffin had RBI.

For the Cubs Paul Hussey pitched a strong game and Jimmy Barrett had two triples.

Boys Under 10 Remain Undefeated

Quincy's boys under 10 youth soccer team remained undefeated (6-0) in Div. 2 of the South Shore League after rolling over Brockton, 9-0.

Chad Fitzpatrick, Quincy's leading scorer, took a pass from Paul Hussey and scored early. He then returned the favor as he fed Hussey in front to put Quincy up, 2-0.

Fitzpatrick then scored his seventh goal with Chris Bregoli getting an assist. Hussey scored his second goal of the game with the assist going to Ben Burnes. Kevin Celluci scored his first two goals of the year, the first unassisted and the second with an assist for Robby Bell.

Leading, 6-0, Quincy continued to roll as Danny Kinnecom scored his first of the year from 15 yards out with Burnes getting an assist.

Bard Hajrizaj also scored his first on a pass from Kinnecom. Burnes completed the scoring from 12 yards with Jamie Parisi having an assist.

Also having good scoring chances were Tommy Daley, Jeff Marks, Mike Mulve and Jerry Mulcahy. Combining for the shutout were goalies Daley, Steve Marks and Randy Feetham.

Quincy will host Hanson Sunday at 3 p.m. at Atlantic.

MacDougall On Central Conn. Team

Freshman Billy MacDougall, former North Quincy High standout is a member of the Central Connecticut State University varsity baseball team, which has made the ECAC playoffs for the first time since joining Division I in 1986.

MacDougall, an outfielder, has appeared in 21 games. He has two hits in 18 times at bat, including a key hit in the final inning in a comeback 7-5 win over Delaware State.

"Bill can be a potential star for us in the future," said coach George Redman. "He runs very well, is a great defensive player and hopefully his bat will improve as time and experience present themselves."

Golf's "Big Four" tournaments are the U.S. Open, Masters, P.G.A., and British Open. The golfer who wins all four of these is the winner of the "Grand Slam."

LIBERTY TREE PARK at the corner of Elm and Hancock Sts. has been refurbished by Arborscape Tree and Landscape and Agnitti Insurance Co., both of Quincy. The two companies adopted the park through Mayor James A. Sheets "Adopt-A-Park" program and did nearly $6,000 worth of renovations over 200 man hours. Among the improvements are new sod, flowers and bushes as well as a cobblestone walkway to the Liberty Tree Monument. The park improvements were designed by Mary Smith. ## Steven, David Pitts Memorial Dedication

At Fore River Field Sunday

Through the city's Adopt-a-Park program, the grassy area behind the Fore River field backstop has been adopted by friends of Steven and David Pitts, two brothers who are buried in the veterans section of Mount Wollaston Cemetery.

On Sunday, May 27 at noon, a dedication to the two brothers will be held and a plaque with their names on it will be placed in the area.

Steven Pitts served in the Marine Corps with the first Marine Division in Vietnam in 1966 and 1967. He was wounded in April, 1967, and discharged in 1969. When he died in 1983, he was totally disabled.

Marines from 1967 until his death by sniper fire during the Tet Offensive in 1968.

Both David and Steven were altar boys at St. Joseph's Church, Quincy Point. Both played Little League baseball for Grossman's. They also played for the Point Panthers football team and attended St. Joseph's School and Quincy High School.

Friends of David and Steven are invited to the dedication. A coffee hour will follow.

St. Anthony's Festival At St. John's June 15-16

The 15th annual St. Anthony's Festival, sponsored by St. John's Parish, will be held on the church grounds, School St., Quincy Center June 15 from 6 to 11 p.m. and June 16 from noon to 11 p.m.

Festival proceeds will benefit the Parish building and charitable funds including a 20-bed overnight shelter for homeless men and a newly opened home for pregnant young single women.

A special Mass in honor of St. Anthony of Padua, patron Saint of Italians, will be celebrated Saturday, June 16, at 4 p.m. in the upper church followed by a procession along School St.

Guest celebrant and homilist will be the Most Reverend Robert J. Banks, D.D., Auxiliary Bishop of Boston and Vicar General of the Archdiocese of Boston. Parts of the Mass will be said in Italian.

The two day celebration will include booths, special events, a wide variety of special foods and delicacies, music and entertainment, clowns, games and prizes for children and adults.

A 3.5 mile road race in the Quincy area will be held Saturday, June 9 in conjunction with the Festival.

The Festival has been a major attraction since its beginning and is considered to be one of the most popular religious, social and cultural events of the spring season along the South Shore.

Admission is free and the general public is invited to attend.

Fr. Gary Sullivan, parochial vicar is Festival coordinator with the assistance of hundreds of parish volunteers. Co-chairpersons are Rosemary Martin and Diane Acorn.

Pride Week Marked At North Quincy H.S.

The North Quincy High School Pride Committee, chaired by students Beth Ross, William Lee and Christine Salton, recently offered students, faculty and teachers the chance to show pride for their school with a week long event, Pride Week.

Pride Week, coordinated with the support of Dean Ken McPhee and Assistant Principal Eileen Feeney, featured daily activities intended to motivate school involvement.

Activities were organized to encompass every club, organization, department and grade in the school, and included a student dress-up day, a faculty dress-down day and a schoolwide hat day.

Pride Week ended with a rally in the gymnasium with many NQHS alumni attending.

Work, Inc. Presents Awards On Anniversary

Work, Inc., of Quincy, recently celebrated its 23rd anniversary with an awards presentation at the John F. Kennedy Library in Dorchester.

Chet Curtis and Natalie Jacobson, news anchors for WCVB Channel 5, presented the awards.

James F. Drew, CPA, partner at O'Connor & Drew, P.C., Certified Public Accountants in Quincy, is president of the Friends of Work, Inc., which sponsored the fundraising celebration.

Work, Inc. presented awards to several individuals who have supported the principle that "everyone has a right to work."

David Currier of Bound Tree Corporation received the Corporate Award; Barbara Greenglass received the Probus Award, and Sen. John Kerry was presented the Distinguished Service Award.

Work, Inc. trains and finds employment for mentally, emotionally and physically disabled persons. In the past year, Work, Inc.'s staff have serviced more than 1,300 clients.

Drew described the group as "committed to making it possible for people with serious disabilities to become active, contributing members of society. "They have helped to make the group's belief that 'everybody has the right to work' a reality."

Squantum Pastor Levels Criticism At Madonna, Others

It was "Children's Day" Sunday at the First Church of Squantum and the pastor, the Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin, preached on "The Battle Against Worldliness."

He took particular aim at Andrew Dice Clay, Madonna and the Robert Mapplethorpe exhibit which will be coming to Boston in August.

Dr. Langevin's text was taken from the Letter to the Ephesians: "For we are not contending against flesh and blood, but against the principalities, against the powers, against the world rulers of this present darkness, against the spiritual hosts of wickedness in the heavenly places." (6:12)

The children's part of the service began when Kristin Fluhr played "Amazing Grace" on the piano. After that, several Sunday School classes showed the congregation what they had been learning this year.

Teachers for this year have included Kim Olsen, Lori Ogilvie, and Krista Olsen for the nursery; Patti Hurd and Marci Hurd for children from Kindergarten through the third grade; Blythe Bumpus for children from the fourth grade through the sixth.

Beth Harper, the Chairman of the Board of Christian Education, Patti Hurd, the Superintendent of the Sunday School, and the pastor, the Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin, presented Bibles to these children: Kristin Fluhr, Amy Harper, Adam MacMillan, Ian MacRitchie, Cheryl Potter and Emily Zaehring.

At the conclusion of the service, each child present was given a potted plant to take home and treated to an ice cream sundae.

The offertory anthem sung by the Chancel Choir was "Children of the Heavenly Father," a Swedish hymn. The congregation joined in singing, "Joyful, Joyful, We Adore Thee," "Fair Lord Jesus" and "Fight the Good Fight." The hymns were accompanied by Janet Williamson on the piano and Craig Zaehring on the organ.

Jack and Ruth Westerbeke were the greeters, Tore Wallin and Harry Holmes were the ushers, and the Fellowship Hour was hosted by Del Dougherty and Barbara Walter.

The Bible Study group, which is studying "The Old Testament Prophets," continues to meet each Wednesday night at 7:15 p.m.

The annual Flea Market of the church will be held on Saturday, June 16 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Tables may be reserved by calling Ruth Swenson at 328-1990.

Broadmeadows Students, Teacher Cited For Play At State House

In celebration of Women's History Month, the Massachusetts Department of Education and the Governor's Office honored 11 Broadmeadows Middle School students and their teacher recently at the State House.

The citations were awarded to recognize an original play called "Abigail, Of Sturbridge," which the students wrote as seventh graders.

The play was honored because it represents "The development of curriculum featuring women of different ethnic and cultural groups," according to Lurline Munoz-Bennett of the Department of Education.

After the awards ceremony, the students performed a dramatic reading of excerpts from their ten-scene, one-act play written under the guidance of Language Arts Teacher Ron Adams.

The award winning student authors are Kim Donofrio, Dong Khoa-Pham, Faith Polito, Nancy Kelley, Dennis Greeley, Tim Dowling, Amanda Chapman, Steve Orseno, Melissa Tornberg, Joe Kidney and Ashley Davis.

The play was written as a creative writing culminating activity of a unit on the birth of the American Industrial Revolution which the students completed in their farm to factory social studies class. Adams asked the students to work collaboratively to write a dramatic response to this question: "What if a Yankee farmgirl from 1824 was mysteriously transported to our neighborhood and suddenly became your newest classmate?"

The response to that question is the students' award-winning play. How we react to her different values and how the 1824 time traveller perceives our world is the basic conflict of the student play.

In "Abigail, Of Sturbridge," Abigail makes these observations about Quincy in 1990:

"I have been brought to a world of sludge and pollution. This is a world of many wonders, but the price you pay is too much."

"You've poisoned the land, drinking water and bay. Quincy it seems must pay to clean it all up."

Abigail of 1824 reacts to the progress women in our time have made:

"My dinner table is so beautiful, it has bread and roses. Isn't it great to be in a world where women can earn cash money so they can have bread and roses, necessities and luxuries?"

Abigail continues, "These girls in 1990 have so many opportunities that I never had. I hope these girls know how lucky they are. Most I fear, take these rights for granted."

Through an arts partnership funded by the Massachusetts Arts Lottery Council, Artists Bart McCarthy and Susan Periale advised the Broadmeadows students regarding character development and script-writing.

Mary Schiarizzi Wins Two Emmy Awards

Mary E. Schiarizzi, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Schiarizzi of 14 Newport Terr., North Quincy, recently received two Emmy Awards for her work as an associate producer on ABC's Monday Night Football "All My Rowdy Friends" promotion with country singer Hank Williams, Jr.

The awards ceremonies were held at the Sheraton Center Hotel in New York. Her work as an associate producer won in two categories: Program area: promotion and program area: Opens/Closes/Teases.

She is a 1980 graduate of North Quincy High School and a graduate of Boston University.

Craig Salters Wins College Short Story Contest

Craig Salters, of Quincy, a Lake Forest College junior, has been named winner of the 18th annual Nick Adams Short Story Contest sponsored by The Associated Colleges of the Midwest.

The contest carries a first prize award of $1,000, made possible through a gift from an anonymous donor to the ACM.

Salters is an English major, and fiction editor of Tusitala, the college's literary magazine. After graduation, he hopes to continue study in English literature or participate in the Jesuit Volunteer Corps.

Salters lives at 26 Mullin Ave., Quincy, and is a graduate of Thayer Academy, Braintree.

Salters' story, "Walking to School in Snow," was selected out of 34 stories submitted by students from ACM colleges.

Professor David Goodwin of Coe College and Dean Dennis Moore of Cornell College served as initial readers, selecting the six semi-finalists. The final reader was Janet Desaulniers, short story writer and professor of English at Northwestern University.

Salters' story, Professor

Desaulniers noted, "...is an affecting story of loss—the loss of childhood: of its people, its places, its time—but the story is so enlivened by the narrative voice, by the fresh, frank, and compelling language and detail, that it becomes, rather than a lament, a song of praise for what was singular. Cynthia Ozick, has said that the mission of literature is to illuminate the singular, and in the world of this story—ringing with memorable characters and details, skews, and excesses—this writer has done just that."

Incinerator Dispute PBS Documentary Subject

The dispute over the siting of the Clean Harbors toxic waste incinerator in the Fore River basin in East Braintree, will be the subject of a Public Broadcasting Systems documentary scheduled to air early next year.

The documentary is entitled "Living Against the Odds," and will focus on risks that society faces in everyday life.

WGBH has begun filming and is interviewing people on both sides of the dispute.

The documentary will be shown in three parts and will air nationwide on PBS.

Clearly this proposal (for the incinerator) will put thousands and thousands of people at risk and we will fight with every resource we have to prevent this siting."

The proposed incinerator would burn 90 million pounds of toxic waste per year. The site of the incinerator is controversial because it is in a densely populated area.

Gini Kurtzman of Hingham, a member of the Coalition for a Safe Environment said "we are pleased to have been chosen to be part of such a program."

'No More Human Suffering' On Ch. 3

Men and women from a variety of social service programs will speak out about the impact of state budget cuts in these areas on programs for substance abuse, housing, children abuse, domestic violence, mental health, the mentally retarded and the elderly discuss often the life and death need for continued funding for social service agencies.

The forum, held earlier this month at the City Council Chambers, is moderated by Ted O'Brien of WRKO radio.

The emotional and thought provoking special is produced by Quincy Community Television, local programming for Continental Cablevision of Quincy.

"No More Human Suffering" to air tonight (Thursday) at 6 p.m. on Channel 3.

Family Education Loans Offered At 9.5 Percent

For the fourth consecutive year, the Massachusetts Educational Financing Authority will offer a below-market 9.5 percent interest rate on its family education loan program for the 1990-91 academic year.

The announcement was made by Rep. Michael Morrissey (D-Quincy), chairman of the Public Safety Committee.

Forty-nine participating public and independent colleges and universities in the state offer the loan program. The 9.5 percent fixed rate means borrowers pay only $11.11 per $1,000 each month, for the loan's 15-year repayment period.

Paul Combe, executive director of the Authority, said the program's low monthly payments, fixed rate and home mortgage option help keep participating Massachusetts colleges affordable.

"The family education loan program provides a supplemental source of financing for many who qualify for financial aid and a primary source of assistance for families not eligible for aid," Morrissey said.

More than 16,000 loans totaling more than $110 million have been issued through participating colleges in conjunction with the Authority since 1983.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

Through wars around the world, American blood has been shed in the cause of freedom. Those whom we honor each year on Memorial Day paid the highest price anyone can pay -- their lives.

D. Scott Deware

They did so because they believed as we do today, that freedom is worth any price to be preserved.

Today debate rages in Washington about the high cost of defending our great country. This is nothing new. This debate has been basic to America since our beginning. The central point in 1776 was the same as it is today - whether in dollars or in blood - FREEDOM IS NOT CHEAP. Even in the colonial times, the first settlers debated the high cost of their muskets and shot. Later, during the Revolution, the colonists often argued about the amount needed to defeat the British.

If Memorial Day teaches us anything, it is that our nation is free only because we have spent the money needed for our defense, and because of the blood, sweat and tears shed by millions of Americans who died in the cause of freedom. Spending billions for defense is not an easy or popular choice, but couldn't it be said that what we are really buying is insurance against more bloodshed and our freedom? ... As we honor the dead on Memorial Day, let us not forget the lesson which they have taught us. Freedom is a dear possession, but it does not come without sacrifice ...

Richard W. Barry, 56

Attorney, Former Councillor
Assistant District Attorney

A funeral Mass for Richard W. Barry, 56, prominent Quincy attorney and former city councillor, city solicitor and first assistant district attorney for Norfolk County, was celebrated Wednesday in Sacred Heart Church, North Quincy.

Mr. Barry died Sunday at the Dana-Farber Cancer Institute in Boston after a long illness.

A moment of silence was observed in Mr. Barry's memory at Monday's City Council meeting. Council President Ted DeCristofaro called Mr. Barry "a devoted member of the community who will be sorely missed."

He was honored this month when he was awarded the James R. McIntyre Humanitarian Award during Law Day ceremonies at the Quincy District Court. He was recognized for his volunteer efforts with the city's Asian population and other minorities, offering free legal clinics and legal advice.

Mr. Barry was also named the 1990 Man of the Year by the Norfolk County Bar Association.

He served as city solicitor in the late 1970's under former Mayor Arthur Tobin, now Clerk Magistrate of Quincy District Court.

Mr. Barry was an editor for Lawyers Weekly, a member of the Board of Directors of the Massachusetts Trial Lawyers and a fellow of the Massachusetts Bar Foundation. He was listed in Who's Who in American Law.

Mr. Barry was a member of the American Bar Association and the American Trial Lawyers Association. He was admitted to practice before the state and U.S. Supreme Courts.

Born in Quincy, he had lived in the city most of his life, moving to Milton six months ago.

He was a 1956 graduate of Holy Cross College and graduated from Boston College Law School in 1959.

RICHARD W. BARRY

Mr. Barry played basketball while at Quincy High School. He was also an avid golfer and was a member of the Wollaston Golf Club and the Quechee Lakes Golf Course in Vermont.

Tributes from former associates included:

"He was a dear friend, and to those of us fortunate enough to know him, he enriched all our lives," said Arthur Tobin. "I think we are going to be poorer for his loss. He was just an awfully nice person. I had the privilege of serving in government with him. When I was Mayor, he was my city solicitor. He led the team as chief legal officer in addressing the problems associated with the Blizzard of '78. Dick was the City Solicitor who was in charge."

"A former City Councillor, he understood law and government. I was very happy that he was honored on Law Day when he received the McIntyre Award, only 20 days ago. I am very happy we had the opportunity to honor him and thank him for his contributions to the city."

"He was first assistant District Attorney, and an outstanding trial lawyer, always ready to give of himself to others."

"He was a good friend and we became closer friends during the years after I met him in politics, and the more we got to know each other, we became even better friends. I am very appreciative of his many kindnesses in helping me."

Former Dist. Atty. and Councillor George G. Burke said:

"Dick and I both graduated from Quincy High School together, we went to Boston College Law School, studied together, and graduated together in 1959.

"We decided to set up the firm, Barry and Burke, starting practice in his father's real estate office, sharing one desk.

"I ran for City Council and was elected to serve in 1960 and 1961. Dick ran for Ward 6 Councillor in 1961 for the years '62 and '63. We were not only law partners, but also City Councillors together.

"After we formed the law firm, we then built a building down here at 339 Hancock St., North Quincy, and we have been in this building here for 20 years together—we just burned the mortgage a month ago. We have been here in North Quincy for 30 years.

"In '66 I became District Attorney, and I appointed Dick Barry my first assistant. "I have lost a very dear, close friend, and a business partner. Our lives have been intertwined together since high school. He was a great attorney and a great friend."

Sen. Paul Harold who was city councillor when Mr. Barry was city solicitor said, "Dick Barry had a well deserved reputation as a good lawyer and a good politician. His legal counsel was highly valued and his political support was much sought after. As a young 'Demie' he helped turn the tide in Norfolk County to a Democratic majority, capturing every county office."

Theodore W. Paul, 85

Founded Truck Firm

Theodore W. Paul, 85, of Quincy, formerly of Newton and Cohasset, founder and former owner of the Truck Center Inc. of Roxbury, died May 12 at South Shore Hospital, South Weymouth.

He is survived by his wife, Corinne (Conner) Paul; a Former Mayor Joseph LaRaia who served with Mr. Barry on the City Council said:

"Dick Barry—I was taken aback by his death. The last time I saw him was May 1 when I was at City Hall. He was just the same old Dick. I knew he had been sick, and it was serious. He was a fellow whom I first became acquainted with back in 1962, and I was probably one of the few people associated at City Hall that had that initial contact on his introduction to politics. He was a class guy. He will be missed by me and probably by a lot of people with many years in public service.

"I am very saddened by his death, and my condolences go to his wife and his family. I was shocked to hear of his death."

Assistant City Clerk Thomas Burke said:

"Dick Barry was quite a fellow. I was assistant City Clerk when he was in the Council. I knew him quite well way back. We'll miss him. His death is very tragic."

'Religion For Freedom' Memorial At First Parish

"Religion For Freedom" will be the theme of the 10:30 a.m. worship service this Sunday on Memorial Day weekend at United First Parish Church (Unitarian) in Quincy Center.

The sermon will consider how freedom is not so much a guarantee for religion as religion is the well-spring for the spirit of freedom itself. Dr. Sheldon W. Bennett, minister, will preach.

Visitors are welcome and are invited to the social hour in the Parish Hall following the service. Mary Starrs will be hostess. Louise Hall will be greeter, and Richard Post and Jim Van Doren will usher.

Tomorrow night (Friday) at 7:30 there will be a concert of music for the harp, featuring harpist Michelle Pinet, in the sanctuary of the church. A donation will be requested.

Historic First Parish, "Church of the Presidents," is located in Quincy Sq., opposite City Hall.

Church School and child care are provided. Call 773-1290 for information.

Walter P. Schmidt Owned Quincy Music Shop

A funeral service for Walter P. Schmidt of South Dennis, formerly of Quincy, was conducted Tuesday at the Doane, Beal and Ames Funeral Home in South Dennis, by the Rev. D. Jean Waldron of St. David's Episcopal Church, South Yarmouth.

Burial was in Oak Ridge Cemetery, South Dennis.

Mr. Schmidt died May 19 at Cape Cod Hospital, Hyannis, after a long illness.

Owner of the Quincy Music Shop until retiring 20 years ago, he served the Chamber of Commerce in the early 1960's.

He played saxophone and clarinet with the Vaughan Monroe Orchestra, and at the Wychmere Harbor Club in Harwichport and the Chatham Bar Inn in Chatham. He was a member of the Boston Musician's Union for more than 50 years.

He was a member of Roosevelt Masonic Lodge in Quincy and the Cape Cod Shrine Club. He was a former member of Rotary International.

Born in Boston, he graduated from Boston Latin School.

He was a first lieutenant in the Army Quartermaster Corps in World War II.

Mr. Schmidt is survived by his wife, Josephine (Dmohowski) Schmidt; a daughter, Laureen B. Schmidt of Boston, and many nephews and nieces.

Contributions may be made to the American Cancer Society, 572 Main St., West Yarmouth, 02673.

Helen Alexander, 92

Former Church Treasurer

A funeral service for Helen (Gorman) Alexander, 92, of Quincy, was held Tuesday at the Hamel, Wickens & Troupe Funeral Home, 26 Adams St., conducted by the Rev. Frederick Atwood-Lyon of Quincy Point Congregational Church. Burial was in Mount Hope Cemetery, Boston.

Mrs. Alexander died May 20 at Colonial Nursing Home, Weymouth, after a long illness.

She was a member of the Rebekah Lodge and Quincy Point Congregational Church.

A native of Boston, she was a former treasurer of Bethany Baptist Church, Boston.

Wife of the late Henry Alexander, she is survived by three sons, Alfred B. Alexander of Scituate, Harry G. Alexander of Franklin and David G. Alexander of Boston; ten grandchildren and 15 great-grandchildren.

What Does A Funeral Cost?

We get many calls asking us this question. We're pleased to give price information but the problem is that funerals are very personal. So, each one is slightly different. Asking "what does a funeral cost?" can be like calling a nice restaurant and asking what a meal costs.

To help our customers make informed choices we now offer a new service — the free funeral cost analysis. By answering a few simple questions we can tell you exactly what your funeral will cost. We can even help you lock in today's prices so you can fight against inflation.

Call or write us today for a free, no obligation funeral cost analysis.

DPW Reorganization, Composting Plan Outlined

City Engineer Fred Mirza and City Planner Michael Wheelwright were scheduled to outline a new Department of Public Works Corporation Yard Reorganization Plan before the Quincy Conservation Commission Tuesday evening.

Salient features of the proposal for the 7.4 acre parcel located at 55 Sea St. included consolidation of materials and maintenance functions to free up a two-acre site for a pilot leaf composting operation.

According to DPW Commissioner David Colton, the plan would provide better security, increased safety, greater internal space utilization and allocation and quicker emergency response time in time of flood, snow and other emergencies.

Colton said the pilot compost program scheduled for the fall is projected to produce between 2,800 and 4,200 tons of leaves producing an average of 1,750 tons of finished (mulch) product in the first year of operation.

According to permit application, the area which contains workshops, storage areas, parking and waste dumpsters, is "in total disarray and highly disorganized, resulting in a lack of control and inefficient traffic circulation and operations."

If implemented, unpaved access ways would be provided to eliminate the existing unrestrained traffic circulation, and to improve accessibility of the storage and work areas.

In addition, all non-usable sheds would be demolished and all debris and waste piles removed from the yard for appropriate disposal.

The proposal also calls for yard improvements, including controlling ingress/egress points and fencing the uncontrolled opening at the northern side of the site.

The yard is located in a split zone district with approximately 70 percent of the area located within land zoned Business B. The remaining area, along the northern and western boundaries, is open space. This space would become part of the proposed 100-foot wide buffer zone.

The existing drainage pattern (approximately east to west) would be maintained.

Engineers Recommend Protecting Town River Bay Shoreline

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers has recommended protection of 260 feet of the Town River Bay shoreline in Quincy to curb bank erosion.

"Our recommended protective measures would help stabilize the bank adjacent to the Taffrail Road Housing Project which has suffered severe erosion in recent years," said Colonel Daniel Wilson, head of the Army Engineers in New England. Tidal wash, vessel wake, coastal storms, rain runoff and pedestrian traffic in the area has caused the erosion and reduced the area between the housing units and shoreline to as little as 10 feet in some locations.

The Engineers' plan calls for clearing, grubbing and excavating the existing bank, then constructing a stone revetment on top of gravel and compacted material. Stone protection would extend from below mean low water to about five feet above mean high water, while the upper portion of the embankment would be covered with granular material, topsoiled and then seeded.

The revetment would cost an estimated $95,000 of which the federal government would pay $71,250, and the remaining $23,750 paid by nonfederal interests (the Quincy Housing Authority). Work is scheduled to be accomplished during a three to four week period between October, 1990 and January, 1991.

$25 Fine Penalty

Sheets Seeks Anti-Litter Ordinance

By ROBERT BOSWORTH
Pedestrians littering on public property and private property owners who don't keep their premises free of litter would be subject to a $25 fine under an ordinance being pursued by Mayor James Sheets.

meeting of the City Council. The ordinance would need City Council approval before it can be enacted. Sheets said City Solicitor Stephen McGrath is reviewing how the Cambridge ordinance conforms with the city's present litter ordinance. McGrath will make some recommendations from a legal perspective and then Sheets will decide what sections of the Cambridge law will be included in the city's ordinance. Presently, the mayor is looking at four sections of the Cambridge ordinance. Essentially, they involve pedestrians who litter on public property and private property owners and occupants who do not keep their premises and adjacent areas free of litter.

The section on pedestrians states "no person shall throw or deposit litter in or upon any street, sidewalk, square, playground, park or other public place except in authorized public or private litter receptacles." The section regarding property owners and occupants keeping premises litter-free requires every owner or occupants to "maintain his property free of

Meter 'Feeding' Crackdown

Motorists who think they have outmaneuvered city meter maids by feeding the meters in Quincy Square should think again.

Beginning this week, the city's Department of Traffic and Parking will step up its enforcement of the exceeding meter violation, the so-called "meter feeding," in the Quincy Center business district, said Traffic Engineer David Kinnecum.

City ordinance provides a one-hour time limit at all metered spaces on Hancock St. in the Quincy Square area between 8 a.m. and 6 p.m. The one-hour limit applies even if additional coins are inserted to extend the time on the meter to avoid expiration.

Violators may be ticketed under Code 21 "Exceeding Meter Ordinance." The fine for this violation is $5 and violators may be ticketed more than once per day.

According to Kinnecum, the purpose of the ordinance is to ensure there is a regular turnover of parking spaces for customers and patrons of businesses in the square. "Meter feeders" who take up parking spaces all day reduce the number of valuable spaces available for customers.

Kinnecum said the increased enforcement was requested by the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association. The QCBPA asked his department to crack down on motorists who park their cars at a meter and then feed the meter all day long.

"I think the real intent (of the increased enforcement) is to get to the people who park there all day. The QCBPA feels motorists who do that are taking away valuable spaces from customers."

"The idea is to get people who park all day to use the (Ross parking garage and Hancock parking lot)," Kinnecum said. The cost of parking in the garage or lot is

Will Join Ch. 3 July 2

Sun To Cease News Coverage On Cable Ch. 26

The Quincy Sun will cease operation of its news Channel 26 on Continental Cablevision effective July 2.

The Sun, effective that same date, will begin a new role providing daily community news updates on Channel 3.

Announcement was made jointly by Sun Publisher Henry Bosworth and Continental Cablevision General Manager Stephen Farquhar.

The Sun has operated a 24-hour a day news channel since 1982, first on Channel 8 and then Channel 26.

The Sun was the first newspaper in the South Shore and one of the first in the state to provide news coverage over cable television.

The videotaped portion of the program was discontinued last January.

The decision to cease operations on Channel 26 was Bosworth's who said he made it from a business standpoint.

"You might say it was a noble experiment," Bosworth said. "We were one of the first newspapers to go into news coverage on cable television."

"We had a good, faithful audience. But we just could not come up with sustained advertising revenue to continue to support it. It came down to, finally, a business decision."

"I want to thank our many loyal viewers who welcomed us into their homes these past eight years. I hope they will understand why this decision was made."

Bosworth added: "We are looking forward to moving our new role with Channel 3 as part of that channel's operation."

Farquhar said: "We have had a long, happy association with The Quincy Sun and are pleased that it will continue."

"The Financial News Network will expand to full time and move to Channel 26 July 2," Farquhar said.

"C-SPAN II, live coverage of the U.S. Senate, will expand its hours and move to Channel 42, allowing The Discovery Channel to expand to full time as well," he said.

Board Continues Hearing On Paid Police Details At Cinema

By JANE ARENA

The License Board Tuesday continued until June 26 a hearing regarding the need for paid police details at the Quincy Entertainment Cinema complex at Quincy Fair Mall.

The matter was brought before the board last April after several complaints were received about groups of youths loitering inside and outside the cinema complex on upper Hancock St.

Several patrons of the cinema and other shops and restaurants in the complex complained about having cars vandalized in the parking garage.

Cinema owner Robert Haney told the board that Metro Parking had upgraded their security in the parking garage and that no reports of vandalism had occurred since the April meeting. He also told the board that police presence in the area had been increased.

In addition, Haney said that F.X. Messina Enterprises, which owns the complex, had upgraded their own security.

He also told the board that he himself had been "more aggressive" about hiring police details, especially on Friday nights when a film opens which is expected to draw a large crowd of teenagers.

Haney told the board that things have been quiet at the cinema complex since the last hearing.

Councillor-At-Large Timothy Cahill, present at the hearing, agreed that trouble has decreased in the area recently, and he credited the Quincy Police for increased presence.

"What concerns me is that things are not going to get any easier," he said, noting that budget cutbacks will make it more difficult to place an officer on duty on upper Hancock St.

Cahill said that there should be an assurance of police presence in the area, especially on weekend nights, in order to protect the interests of existing businesses and to attract new business to vacant stores.

"If we have one bad incident there this summer we'll have problems filling those empty stores," he said. "One way or another, there has to be police protection."

Board chairman John Gillis reminded Haney that, according to law, it is the responsibility of the licensee to pay for police details for public entertainment, including movies.

Police Chief Paul Nestor agreed that the responsibility lies with the cinema.

The board voted to continue the matter for one month, until June 26, in order to monitor the area.

Haney told the board that he will continue to be "aggressive" in hiring police details on nights when a large crowd is anticipated.

FORE RIVER FIELD was dedicated in memory of two Quincy Point brothers, P.F.C. David Pitts and L.C.P.L. Steven Pitts, both U.S. Marines who are buried in the veterans section of Mount Wollaston Cemetery. Steven was wounded in 1967, discharged in 1969 and died in 1983. David was killed during the Tet Offensive in 1968. Family members posing at the plaque are, from left, Lauri Pitts, mother Beverly Pitts, Buddy, Bobby and son, Steven.

'Vietnam Veterans Most Tragic Of Heroes'

Quincy Police detective and Vietnam combat veteran Thomas Bolinder was the featured speaker during Quincy Veterans Council Memorial Day services Monday morning at Mount Wollaston Cemetery.

Bolinder, a civil rights detective, spoke of the aftermath of the Vietnam conflict and of the treatment received by veterans on their homecoming.

"Vietnam veterans are the most tragic of all heroes," he said to the several hundred gathered. "They must not be."

He told of his own homecoming when kids spit at the bus on which he and other returning veterans rode.

"The treatment given to Vietnam veterans must never be repeated to any homecoming veterans," he said.

Bolinder also urged those in attendance to support fund raising efforts to help the 3,000 homeless veterans in the Boston area and he spoke of those Vietnam veterans who suffer physical effects of Agent Orange and psychological effects of post traumatic stress syndrome.

Finally, Bolinder spoke of those veterans who have not as yet returned from Vietnam and he urged those in attendance to remember them too. He asked that people sign two petitions which request a full accounting of those missing in action from China and Hanoi.

"As sure as I am standing here today," he said, "I believe that men are still being held against their will."

The ceremonies also included marching units in a parade from School St. to the cemetery, the firing of volleys and the playing of taps.

THOMAS BOLINDER, a Vietnam veteran, delivers the keynote address during Monday's Memorial Day ceremonies. Bolinder, now a Quincy Police Civil Rights Detective, touched upon his experiences in Vietnam and expressed hope that he and fellow Vietnam veterans will be treated fairly. Twice wounded during the war, he also told of some 1,200 homeless Vietnam veterans in greater Boston in need of aid. (Quincy Sun photos by Tom Gorman)

HOW TO MAKE MONEY ON YOUR AUTO INSURANCE POLICY

Certainly, auto insurance is costly, and it's becoming more so all the time. There is, however, a side to this expensive necessity which all drivers should be taking advantage of. It's called the Safe Driver Insurance Plan. Safe and careful driving not only protects your life and the lives of others on the road, but good driving habits can also save you important money on your premiums.

This year, the Safe Driver Insurance Plan provides an excellent driver with three, four or five year credits which are applied to the vehicle on the basis of the driving record of its owner. If there have been no surcharges, at-fault accidents or traffic violations within these periods credits are applied, and can reduce your premiums by as much as $120 depending upon the limits placed. If you have an exemplary road record take advantage of these insurance benefits.

At Riley & Riley Insurance Agency, Inc., our insurance professionals are happy to discuss the many protection options available today. Please give us a call at 471-6200 or stop by our office at 1050 Hancock Street in Quincy.

Pet Peeves, Anyone!

You can call them pet peeves, annoyances or whatever, but we all have our share of them.

Here are a few of mine. Maybe some of them are yours, too.

- You're waiting for an important telephone call. The phone finally rings. And a voice says: "Hello, I'm a talking computer."

Not for long, pal. Click!

- The "get-the-hell-out-of-my-way" cowboy who roars through a residential area, tires screeching, ignoring parked cars from which a youngster might dart out from behind. You wouldn't feel too badly to see him again about a block away wrapped around a steel utility pole.

- And his buddy who has a ball for himself speeding through puddles seeing how many pedestrians he can soak. You wouldn't mind meeting him later, too, dead in the water, his engine conked out.

- The writer who dashes off a sizzling letter-to-the-editor alleging somebody is a criminal or something is a crime and finishing it off with a challenging "I bet you don't have the guts to print this letter." But doesn't have the guts to sign the letter.

- The waitress who doesn't know how to take an order for a dry martini on the rocks with a twist. Or, if she gets it right, the bartender who doesn't know the science of mixing it.

- The guy who steals a parking space reserved for the handicapped.

- Drivers -- men and woman -- who sail through pedestrian lights in front of City Hall or at Hancock and Temple Sts. with no police officer around to see them. Meanwhile, meter maids are busy ticketing parked cars.

- People who talk during the playing of the National Anthem.

- Men who keep their hats on when Old Glory passes by in a parade.

- The horn tooter who lets you know as soon as the red light turns green.

- Blaring car radios (especially in warm weather) that force loud rock 'n' roll and other noise they call music on everyone within earshot.

- Ditto boom boxes.

- Women who champion equal rights but don't want to open all-women colleges to men.

- Kids on skateboards risking their young necks maneuvering alongside traffic on Hancock St.

- That sticky string stuff kids leave on sidewalks for pedestrians to step on and spend the rest of the day trying to get off their shoes.

- Young girls in small cars who apparently have seen too many movies or TV shows with young girls in small cars and trying to drive just like them.

- The guy who likes to surprise you by waiting until he starts making a turn before giving a directional signal.

- People who love dogs but love to let them roam with no control, tipping over trash barrels, leaving souvenir deposits on the lawn, and howling at the moon at night.

- Motorcycle cowboys who just can't get enough noise out of their bikes. If your car made as much noise, the Registry would have you in court for faulty equipment.

And, did you say one of your pet peeves is an opinionated columnist forcing his pet peeves on you?

Health And Safety An Issue For Everyone

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

I was disappointed to see how the rally against Clean Harbors on May 20 was used as a showcase for Democrat politicians rather than an opportunity for all to voice their opposition to the proposed incinerator.

All the Democrats were enthusiastically introduced, and some chose to speak. However, when Judy Balzano, Republican candidate for state representative wanted to speak, neither she nor any other Republicans there were given the least consideration. In fact, their names were read only if they insisted, and were tossed out in a "who cares" way as the crowd was breaking up. Is this fairness?

I know that Mrs. Balzano, as a mother and a grandmother, is very concerned about our local environment, and she deserved the same courtesy shown to the Democrats. Let's remember that it was many of these same incumbent pols who voted to create these authorities and agencies that are cramming Clean Harbors and the MWRA sludge plant down our throats. Perhaps electing some Republicans in November will be an improvement, but that won't happen if they are not allowed to be seen and heard.

Above all, let's remember that the health and safety of our people should not be either a Democrat or Republican issue. It's a life and death matter to everyone, and leaders like Mrs. Balzano deserve to be heard too.

Bothered By Billboard

Editor, The Quincy Sun:
As a daily commuter who rides the Red Line into Boston, I have noticed a very disturbing billboard at North Quincy MBTA Station that reads: This summer, die harder.

This type of advertising message is both questionable marketing and quite inflammatory, especially when one recalls the incidents of racial violence last summer in North Quincy. As the Boston Business Journal (May 14) recently editorialized, "It would not have been a miss of the (MBTA) authority to turn away (that ad) or to ask for one less provocative."

My question is: who is behind this particular advertisement and what is the product or idea being marketed? And must the MBTA accept all types of advertising or can it be a bit more selective? First amendment rights do not give people the right to yell "fire" in a crowded MBTA station, or, I assume, force the marketing and advertising folks at the MBTA to take advertising that is clearly offensive and somewhat violent-prone.

Apparently it is time to "Just Say No" to some advertising.

O'Connell To Return To Vietnam For Study Of War

By JANE ARENA

Fire Chief Paul O'Connell is participating in a research project with the William Joiner Center for the study of War and Social Consequences which is returning to Vietnam.

O'Connell and 12 other Massachusetts veterans will return to Vietnam for three weeks to assist the William Joiner Center in determining the benefits of veterans returning to the country. The research may be useful in better understanding the healing process of post traumatic stress, a condition from which Vietnam veterans suffer.

The group project, called "Full Circle" will depart Massachusetts on June 6 and arrive in Hanoi on June 9 after a layover in Bangkok, Thailand. Chief O'Connell said he will return on the evening of June 28. During his absence, Deputy Chief Anthony Iannello will be acting Fire Chief. Although the Chief said he is looking forward to the trip, he admits that it is with "some apprehension."

"This is travelling back into the past for me," he says. "Sometimes it seems so long ago that it seems like a dream, that I hadn't really been there."

O'Connell first went to Vietnam in October of 1968 as a United States Marine. While in Vietnam he participated in combat operations against both the Viet Cong and the North Vietnamese Army in and around DaNang. He returned home in the fall of 1969.

O'Connell, who joined the William Joiner Center group just two months ago, says he has long considered returning to Vietnam.

"I look at this as a chance of a lifetime," he said Friday. "and I wouldn't want to let it go by."

The group will spend 18 days touring Vietnam, going from Hanoi to Ho Chi Minh City. Where possible, the group will be returning to base camps and battlefields where group members served during the war.

The main emphasis of the trip will be meeting with Vietnamese veterans and in establishing a personal and cultural contact with the Vietnamese people.

"I am hoping to go back and see a nation of peace," O'Connell says tentatively. "And I'm hoping they accept me as a citizen of America and a citizen of peace."

Following the trip there will be a follow-up work with the William Joiner Center. O'Connell explains, including immediate interviews about the experience and then interviews at two six-month intervals.

"I do feel positive about the whole project," he said. "I really do believe it will be beneficial ... I think it will be positive for myself and for other veterans."

Quincy's Yesterdays

Old Colony Line Near The End

Many schemes were afoot to provide mass transportation to the South Shore as the New Haven Railroad's Old Colony Division approached the financial point of no return.

The Greater Boston Chamber of Commerce recommended a formula for assessing $750,000 in public service payments on 37 communities in order to keep passenger trains running.

All cities and towns served by the branch would pay $375,000 on a population basis and the 22 with direct rail connections would ante up an additional $375,000 on the basis of patronage.

Quincy's share would come to $204,000, equal to $1.21 on the tax rate.

The Greater Boston Economic Study Committee also recommended a temporary area subsidy to keep the Old Colony running until it could be replaced by the Metropolitan Transit Authority to Hingham.

BROAD MEADOWS PLANT SOUGHT

Mayor Amelio Della Chiesa announced plans to open negotiations with the federal government for return of 11.6 acres of land in Broad Meadows that was sold 15 years ago for $1 as a spoilage area.

The land was appraised for $2,500.

The Quincy Electric Co. had offered the city $75,000 for about 100 acres of Broad Meadows, including the federally owned land, as a site for a generating plant costing $30 to $55 million.

BACK HOES COSTLY TO CITY

Mayor Della Chiesa said the City Council's refusal to buy two back hoes for $13,000 would eventually cost the city more than $60,000 in rentals of the digging machines at $64 a day.

Seafood Delightful Takes Very Little Time

There are rare times when my husband and I are the only ones having dinner. And although it is difficult to cook for just the two of us, I did recently find a few nice recipes which can certainly be doubled if need be. Today's recipe is a mixture of various seafood blended together and takes very little time to do.

SEAFOOD DELIGHTFUL

About 5 ounces scallops
4 large shrimp (peeled and deveined) about 5 ounces of crabmeat
2 garlic cloves (chopped)
1 scallion stalk (finely chopped)
3 Tbsps butter (or margarine)
1 Tbsp lemon juice
About an eighth cup of white wine
Flour to coat the shrimp and scallops
Chopped parsley
Boiled rice
(one cup of uncooked serves four) Melt the butter (or margarine) and then add the garlic, scallions, lemon juice and white wine. Lightly flour the shrimp and scallops and cook them for about 3 or 4 minutes. When they are about half cooked add the crabmeat and cook for about 3 or 4 more minutes.

Serve over heated rice arranging the shrimp and scallops around the edge of the plate and the crabmeat in the center. Sprinkle with chopped parsley. (We also used some grated cheese). This seafood mixture also goes well with a wide egg noodle in place of the rice.

Marie D'Olimpio is the author of "Simply Italian-And Then Some," a collection of her own recipes. Copies of the book are available at Previte's Market, Sumner St., Quincy Point, Samoset Pharmacy, Samoset Ave., Merrymount and Winfield Gift Emporium, Hancock St., Quincy Center.

People who have never received the benefits of acupuncture sometimes show a fear of being needed.

However, it only takes one visit to overcome this fear. First-time visitors to the acupuncture clinic usually like to ask questions such as the ones below.

Does acupuncture hurt?

Acupuncture needles are very fine, and a special technique is used which makes insertion just a trifle uncomfortable. Patients are always surprised that needles have already been inserted; they had imagined it much worse. The small discomfort that is sometimes felt is well worth the improvement that usually follows.

What needles are used? In ancient China, sharp splinters of stone were used. Today's solid steel needles are much thinner than needles used for injections and thus not painful.

Is there a danger of AIDS? Absolutely not. We use sterile disposable acupuncture needles. There has never been a single documented case of AIDS transmission via acupuncture needles.

How many points will be used? This depends not only on the illness but also on how long the patient has had his problems, areas of the body involved, if there are concomitant diseases to be treated, age, etc. Sometimes two needles may be enough, and sometimes a dozen are needed.

Which areas need treatment? The areas that receive needling may bear no obvious link to where the problem is. For instance, it is often possible to help a headache with a single needle in the foot.

Will symptoms improve during treatment? This happens, but most patients will experience slow and gradual relief spread over days or weeks.

Will symptoms improve during treatment? This happens, but most patients will experience slow and gradual relief spread over days or weeks.

What if my pain changes to another area? Sometimes pain may disappear in one area but reappear in another. For example, the pain may move from one side of the shoulder to the other. If this happens, the therapist will change the points to force the pain out of this new area too.

Parenting Can Uncover Hidden Scars From Childhood

by GENE POGANY, Ph.D.

All too-often what we do as parents reveals the sore spots in our own unhealed childhood. How often has each of us been puzzled at how anxious, angry or guilty we felt at our children's provocations? It's easy to assume that we did alright even while other children suffered abuse or neglect. Their pain was visible; ours is well-hidden. Yet, how many of us have suffered more subtle forms of hurt and abuse, feeling put down, belittled, ignored, excessively pressured or silently unsupported?

Our usual answer is: "My parents did the best they could, and I'm doing the best I can." It surely does not do any good to blame any one for our unhappiness. But neither does it help to explain away or rationalize it. What we avoid or deny from our childhoods can get played out in our parenting. So how do we change, heal, grow up into more effective adults, spouses and parents? First, we realize that we haven't stopped growing up despite our adult years. Next, we see that healing is not an event but a process. Then, at times when we most need it, we seek out friends, counselors, support groups who can hear and affirm our feelings, thoughts and memories. The goal is to be more and more clear about what happened to us in our childhood and to be able to make different choices for ourselves in our own families.

Gene Pogany and Triah Dandrow are licensed psychotherapists at LIFESTAGE, providing individual, family and group counseling. They are located at 110 W. Squantum St., Suite 21, N. Quincy. For information or an appointment, call 773-2606.

Chiropractic Update

by Mark C. Jaehnnig D.C.

ARM AND SHOULDER PAIN

Arm and shoulder pain can have a number of causes, but the large percentage of cases are caused by misalignment of one or more spinal bones (vertebrae), improper posture, spinal curvatures, occupational stresses, or injury to the spine. Any of these conditions may cause irritation or impingement of the nerves supplying the arms, shoulder, and neck. Arm and shoulder pain does not always mean trouble where the pain is felt.

The degree of pain may vary between slight and intermittent, to excruciating. But do not be fooled by the degree of pain; sometimes, a slight pain goes along with a serious condition while intense pain may be a symptom of nothing more than temporary muscle soreness caused by a weekend of unusual activity.

It should be apparent to anyone that arm and shoulder pain may indicate a serious condition. But whether the problem is serious or not, the pain can become quite debilitating. Fortunately, the doctor of chiropractic is eminently qualified to correct arm, and shoulder problems. The chiropractor's education and experience have been directed to just such problems that involve the spine, nerves, muscles and joints of the human body.

If you have any questions or would like to make an appointment please call Dr. Mark Jaehnnig, a lifelong Quincy resident, at Quincy Chiropractic Office, 440 Hancock Street, North Quincy -- 773-4400.

75th Anniversary Visit Cardinal Law Delights Blessed Sacrament Parishioners

By RUTH WAINWRIGHT
Cardinal Bernard Law, arriving early on his first visit to Houghts Neck, delighted parishioners of Most Blessed Sacrament Church Sunday by greeting them in front of the historic building.

The Church is observing its 75th anniversary as an independent parish.

"Some of you will have to spend a long time in purgatory for living in such a beautiful community and to have such a beautiful setting for a church," the Cardinal said later as he reviewed its history and recognized the various groups and organizations.

"In the 75 years since the establishment of this parish, on this Memorial weekend, we have had World War I, World War II, the Korean conflict and the Vietnam conflict," he remarked, asking all veterans present to stand.

"A grateful nation this weekend remembers you and your comrades, and all those in the service of this country."

He listed many of the material changes which have taken place, too many automobiles, airplanes, landing of a man on the moon, pizza, Ninja Turtles—"you could note the changes in any number of ways," he pointed out.

"In speaking of all the ways in which changes have occurred," he continued, "we still pray to His name. We don't have a new Scripture today. We have the same Scripture that we used 75 years ago, and will use 75 years from now when we will have passed on and younger parish members who are here today will take over. It will be the same Scripture and the same Eucharist. Jesus has established a church to be here to the end of time."

Assisting at the Mass were the Rev. Charles D. Logue, pastor, who was principal concelebrant; Rev. Cornelius J. Heery, pastor of Sacred Heart Church, North Quincy and head of the Quincy Vicariate; Vincent Norton, Donna O'Hare and Bobbie Casey, readers; Billy Murphy and Ryan Krueger, Charlene Pascua and Liel Pascua, gift bearers. Msgr. Timothy J. Moran was master of ceremonies.

Joseph Brophy, John Cotter, Robert Kamb, Frank Molloy, William Nugent, Stanley Provost and Frank Puccia were ministers of hospitality. 4th Degree Knights of Columbus were the honor guard for the Cardinal.

Music was by Most Blessed Sacrament Youth and Senior Choirs, with Mrs. Jeannine H. Horan, organist; Mrs. Marion Knudsen playing the guitar, and Robert Collins, drums.

New Homeownership Campaign Underway

Buy '90, a major homeownership campaign focusing on the opportunities available in today's real estate market is underway, announces Rep. Michael Morrissey (D-Quincy).

Campaign co-sponsors include the Massachusetts Housing Partnership, the Executive Office of Communities and Development, the Massachusetts Housing Finance Agency, the Massachusetts of Realtors, the Home Builders Association of Massachusetts, the Massachusetts Affordable Housing Alliance and the Massachusetts Mortgage Bankers Association.

The Massachusetts housing market today is softer than in recent years. But a soft market can offer unique opportunities to a special group of buyers: low-to-moderate income households trying to purchase for the first time. Prices on many units are lower than they have been in years, and many lenders now are offering favorable terms and financing incentives.

The buy '90 campaign focuses on the wide range of opportunities now available for first-time buyers and for trade-up buyers in search of affordable housing.

"This is an exciting opportunity for prospective homebuyers to explore what the current market has to offer and help developers and builders to move the large number of properties currently for sale," Morrissey said.

The campaign will be highlighted at a fair Saturday, June 23 from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Hyman Convention Center. At the fair, local builders, brokers and lenders will display attractive, affordable units, incentive financing packages, credit counseling information, home inspection services and more.

Settles Glass Companies Opens 21st Store

Dick Settles, president of Settles Glass Companies, Inc., announces the opening of Cape Ann Glass, Settles' 21st store, located in downtown Gloucester.

"We're very excited about the opportunity to do business in Gloucester," said Settles. "There is a large need in the area for the type of service we provide. We sell a complete line of auto glass and flat glass products, including over 200 styles of mirrors and tables. With our experience, quick response and capabilities, we expect to be a great resource for the people of the area."

Although the store has recently opened, renovations are underway and an open house is planned for the Spring.

Settles Glass Companies, founded in 1923 by John H. Settles, sells and installs flat glass products such as windows, patio doors, furniture tops, plexiglas and decorative mirrors as well as auto glass parts and replacements.

In addition to the Gloucester store, the company has 20 other locations in eastern Mass., including two Quincy stores, and stores in Andover, Brockton, Chelmsford, Everett, Falmouth, Hingham, Holbrook, Hyannis, Hyde Park, Marshfield, Milford, Needham, Norwood, Randolph, Stoughton, Warrington, North Weymouth and South Weymouth.

Spring HOME IMPROVEMENT

A little color revives old patio furniture

A recent survey by House Beautiful magazine indicated that consumers want design ideas that extend their living space beyond the walls of their homes.

And they reportedly are looking for more than dime store chaise lounges and folding chairs. They want color and comfort combined with interesting design. Many manufacturers have responded with trendy, expensive new outdoor furniture lines. Here are money-saving tips for using your creativity to make your own trendsetting outdoor furniture.

Start by examining your outdoor spaces to determine what you need. Consider space, use and color. Then hit your neighborhood garage sales in search of treasures: rusty wrought iron and metal patio furniture, from tables and chairs to love seats and benches; beat-up wood sun lounges and planters; and discolored sun dials or statues.

"The greatest thing about finding an old set of lawn furniture to refinish is that you can go crazy with color," says Scott Seman, product manager for spray paints at DAP Inc., makers of the DeRusto, Spray-N-Go, Tuff 'n Easy and Touch 'n Tone brands of spray paint.

Picture this: bright yellow wrought iron patio furniture cushioned in a black, white, yellow and green floral print. Or how about baby blue Adirondack chairs cradling puffy white cloud pillows?

Try your hand at these techniques:

- Masking. Create stripes, diamonds, nearly any straight-sided shape simply by using masking tape and paper to outline your design and protect the surfaces you want to be another color.

If you're painting metal furniture, be sure to use a rust-inhibitive paint and, to save a step, look for paints like DAP DeRusto with built-in primers.

NEIGHBORHOOD GARAGE SALES are great places to go hunting for old outdoor furniture—metal or wood. "The greatest thing about refinishing an old set of lawn furniture is that you can go crazy with color," says Scott Seman, product manager for spray paints at DAP Inc.

- Stenciling. Why should stenciling be only an indoors and country project featuring ducks and hearts? You can stencil geometric shapes or even a family insignia onto metal front porch chairs.

To speed up the job, use a quick dry enamel paint like DAP Spray-N-Go.

These paints dry in as little as 10 minutes, allowing you to do the base coat and stencil coat in only about 30 minutes.

- "Antiquing." The old technique of streaking stain over paint can get a new twist from two coats of spray paint. Create texture in the second coat by dragging a wire brush through the wet paint or blotting it with a dry sponge.

"The key is to have some fun with it," says Seman. "The bargain basement price you can get on furniture at garage sales is your license to experiment. All you need is masking tape and paper."

Seman has two final tips. Even when painting outside, protect the area beneath and around your work area—spray paint particles drift.

And you should not use metal furniture on a pressure treated wood deck.

Instead, opt for wood or plastic furniture to decorate your deck.

Confirmation And Communion On Pentecost Sunday At Bethany

Pentecost will be observed at the 10 a.m. service Sunday, at Bethany Congregational Church, a congregation of the United Church of Christ, Coddington and Spear Sts., Quincy Center.

Pentecost is the day when the Holy Spirit gave power to the early Christians to form the Church and continue the ministry of Jesus Christ. In keeping with tradition, young people will be confirmed into the Church through the ancient rite of prayer and the 'Laying on of Hands.'

The confirmands are Janette Archer, Lisa Chenette, Steven Fernald, Curtis Gifford and Kristina Massey. The confirmation class was taught by the Pastor and his wife, Bill and Joan Arnold, assisted by the associate minister Rev. Elizabeth Upton, and Deacon Ronnie Rivera.

Each confirmand will receive a copy of the new Oxford Annotated Bible, designed to facilitate study of the scriptures.

The Holy Communion will also be celebrated during the ten o'clock worship and the confirmands will receive their first Communion. The senior minister, Rev. J. William Arnold, will give the meditation and Rev. Upton will serve as liturgist. The Chancel Choir, under the direction of organist Charles J. Blue, will sing the offertory anthem.

The worship service will be broadcast "live" direct from Bethany's sanctuary at 10 a.m. over radio station WJDA, 1300 kc. In addition, a tape cassette of the sermon and service can be obtained for $2 by contacting the church office.

The Sunday School will be in session from 10 to 11 a.m. with classes for children and pre-school through 9th grade. Child care is also provided for babies and toddlers.

At 11 a.m. there will be a fellowship time in the Allen Parlor, during which the newly confirmed young people will be honored. Everyone is welcome to attend the worship service and fellowship hour.

For additional information about Bethany's ministries and programs contact the church office at 479-7300.

United Cerebral Palsy Seeking Quincy Volunteers

United Cerebral Palsy Association is looking for Quincy area residents interested in volunteering five to 10 hours per week to help expand its coin canister program in the greater Quincy area.

UCPA is a local health care agency serving more than 250 adults and children with cerebral palsy and other developmental disabilities who live in the state of Massachusetts. Nearly 90 percent of every dollar raised goes directly to programs and services, which makes community volunteers so important.

Interested applicants or for other volunteer opportunities should contact Brian Tremblay at UCPA at 926-5480.

The Quincy Community United Methodist Church will observe Pentecost Sunday at both the 9:30 and 11 a.m. services.

Rev. Harry Soper Jr. will deliver the sermon "The Holy Spirit, A Gift."

The Ad Hoc Committee, formed to advise on the new Methodist Hymnal, will meet June 4 at 7 p.m. Members are Judith Blair, Isabel Davis, Florence Hunter, Scott Hutton, Esther Paulsen, Melvia Sears, Herbert Williams, and Natalie Yule.

The Council on Ministries will meet June 5 in Fellowship Hall. David Mikalian, of Olin Mills, will discuss a new Pictorial Directory.

The Youth Group will meet June 6, 7 p.m. at the church. Practices for the Senior and Junior Choirs will be Thursday, June 7 and Saturday, June 9 respectively, both at 10 a.m.

Rev. Soper, Herbert Williams, and Margaret Minyard will attend the 21st session of the Southern New England U.M. Annual Conference, June 6-9, at Springfield College, Springfield.

20 Youth And Adults To Join Point Congregational

On Pentecost Sunday, June 3, 20 young people and adults will express their vows of Christian faith and their covenant with the Quincy Point Congregational Church.

During the 10:30 a.m. worship service conducted by the Revs. Fred and Carol Atwood-Lyon, the 1990 Confirmation Class will be received into the Church with "the laying on of hands," a custom of the early Church, and the prayers of confirmation.

The Confirmands include: Mark Hodges, son of Robert and Carol Hodges; Michael Hourin, son of Jerome and Elizabeth Hourin; Deborah Jolliemore, daughter of Richard and Diane Jolliemore; Timothy Read, son of Robert and Barbara Read; Dennis Rynne, son of Daniel and Jean Rynne; Andrew Smith, son of William and Patricia Smith; Holly Soderstrom, daughter of Carl and Elizabeth Soderstrom; and Denise Van Schagen, daughter of David and Deanna Van Schagen.

Adults affirming or reaffirming their Christian faith include: Robert and Patricia Castaneda, Anthony and Laurie Jakaitis, Patricia Johnston, Robert and Carol Johnston, James O'Neill, James and Andrea Taverna, and Ian and Deborah Tait.

The Sacrament of Christian Baptism will be administered for those who are joining the church who have not yet been baptized; and the Sacrament of Holy Communion will be celebrated and received by the entire congregation.

Dr. Herman Weiss is Church Organist and Chancel Choir Director.

All parents are reminded to bring their children to Church School on June 3 and 10, at 9:30 a.m., for rehearsing the "Church School Sunday" service scheduled for Sunday, June 10, at 10:30 a.m. On June 10, children and young people will conduct the morning service, receive their Church School "Certificates of Promotion," "Certificates of Attendance" and the traditional, potted geraniums. Children graduating from the second grade will receive their Children's Bibles, and students graduating from grade six will receive their study Bibles.

Quincy Point Congregational Church is located at the corner of Washington St. and Southern Artery, where there is offstreet parking. Child Care is provided for infants and very young children in the Crib Room each Sunday during the worship hour, so that parents may attend services. For more information call the church office at 773-6424 Monday through Friday, from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. and ask for Rev. Fred or Rev. Carol Atwood-Lyon. For daily devotions, call "The Daily Bible" at 472-4434, day or night, 24-hours a day for a different tape recording each day.

At ENC Commencement Schubert Puts Accent On Future Challenges

Richard F. Schubert, former president of the American Red Cross, former president of Bethlehem Steel, and former U.S. Undersecretary of Labor, was the featured speaker during commencement ceremonies at Eastern Nazarene College Monday.

Schubert, a 1958 graduate of ENC, spoke to the Class of 1990 of the challenges that lie ahead in the next decade; challenges to the country, the school, and to the graduates themselves.

Excerpts from his speech follow:

"The challenge for your nation, our nation, as a leader in world society, involves among other things, the geopolitical transition, or how to manage break-outs of peace and encourage democratization in such a way as to avoid the tyranny of anarchy and the consequential, almost inevitable, return of autocracy.... the challenge for our nation also includes wrestling with the vulnerability of everyone of us on our planet to terrorism — even chemical and nuclear terrorism. And then there are the challenges of AIDS, the continuing cleavage between the haves and have nots, environmental degradation, the threat to our standard of living precipitated by a growing competitive global economy, a worldwide drug problem that is fueled increasingly and insanely by increasing demand.... and the ever-intensifying and challenging cultural diversity that suggests that most of us in this commencement exercise audience will be a minority within a short period of time....

"For you and my alma mater, this will also be a decade of singular importance when we face up to issues first of life and death, and then excellence or mediocrity. This will be a period of a dramatically declining undergraduate pool of students in the geographical area in which we operate. It will also be a period of continually escalating costs.... it will also be a time when the full impact of our aging campus will be felt and a time of changing culture and demographics in our educational zone with all the attendant challenges. It will be a time of increasing secularism mixed with a strain, however, of increasing sensitivity to values....

"And now to the personal level. This decade will most likely be the period in which you pick a mate and begin a family development pattern, select your first, probably second, maybe even third job, and set a career direction; establish a lifestyle; adopt implicitly, if not expressly, a life mission and a vision; and finally, and most importantly, determine, in a significant way, what you will do with the demands of Jesus Christ....

"I challenge you, Class of 1990, as you walk forward up the stairs, across this platform, and figuratively through the doors to the rest of your life, to hold your head high and bowed low at the same time, stimulated by the challenge of being a change agent in this decade and humbled and made keenly aware that you cannot do it on your own, but with His help, you can — not somehow, but triumphantly."

Transportation Deputy Secretary Commencement Speaker At QJC

Deputy Secretary Elaine S. Chao, second in command at the U.S. Department of Transportation, will be the commencement speaker at Quincy Junior College's graduation ceremonies Sunday, June 3.

"We are very proud that Elaine Chao, the highest-ranked Asian-American in U.S. government history, should be giving the commencement address at Quincy Junior College," said college President O. Clayton Johnston.

"It is particularly fitting that Ms. Chao has chosen to come to Quincy, a city with a burgeoning Asian-American population," Dr. Johnston said, "and to Quincy's college, which has worked so hard to build an ethnically diverse student body and to provide education and training to so many newcomers to our country."

Johnson added: "Ms. Chao's address is also very timely in light of the many serious transportation issues, involving federal policy and dollars, facing the South Shore — particularly commuter rail and water transportation."

Chao, in her mid-30's, is the youngest deputy secretary in the Bush administration and, as second in command at the Department of Transportation, its chief operating officer. She oversees a $28 billion budget, a workforce of 104,000, and is responsible for programs and policy on land, sea and air transportation.

Chao spoke no English when she came to America as a third-grader in 1961 aboard a freighter from Taiwan, where she was born after her parents fled from Mainland China. Her parents now reside in Harrison, N.Y.

The deputy secretary has education roots in Massachusetts, having received her master's degree in business administration from Harvard Business School and her bachelor's in economics from Mount Holyoke College. She also has studied at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and Dartmouth College.

Her route to the Department of Transportation came via banking and maritime administration.

Prior to her confirmation as Deputy Transportation

Secretary in April 1989, Chao was chairman of the Federal Maritime Commission and, from 1986 to 1988, deputy administrator of the Maritime Administration. From 1984 to 1986 she served as vice president-syndications for Bank America's Capital Market Group and, before that, as a transportation finance specialist with Citicorp in New York.

Between the two banking assignments, Chao was chosen a White House Fellow and served on President Ronald Reagan's policy staff at the White House.

Quincy Junior College's commencement is scheduled to begin at 1 p.m. June 3 at Veterans Memorial Stadium on Hancock St., Quincy. In the event of rain, the ceremonies will be held in the Quincy Vocational Technical School Gymnasium.

Giving the charge to the 1990 graduating class will be President Johnston. Greetings will be given by Mayor James Sheets, City Council President Theodore DeCristofaro, Colleges Courses Inc. President Paul Hunt, college board of Trustees Chairman Richard Cahill and Quincy School Superintendent Robert Ricci.

Giving the student address and presenting the Class of 1990 gift will be Michael Villanova of Pembroke, president of the college's Student Government Association.

Dr. Cecil Paul Installed ENC President

Dr. Cecil R. Paul of Quincy, was officially installed as the 10th president of Eastern Nazarene College in ceremonies held at the college Sunday.

Dr. Paul, a Quincy resident since 1965, was the former chairman of ENC's Psychology department and the founding director of the school's Division of Graduate Studies.

He is the founder of Beechwood Counseling Service and the founding director of the Beechwood Community Life Center.

Dr. Paul based his address, entitled "The Threefold Promise of God," on a passage from Acts 2:14-28 taken from the New International Version of the Bible.

"The first word of promise has to do with empowerment," Paul said. "After more than 40 years of oppression and the denial of justice and power, nation after nation has risen up to challenge the oppressors and to seek empowerment and freedom. Who would have dreamed that the currents of change would be so dramatic ... strange new works like 'perestroika' and 'glasnost' signal the possibility of change toward empowerment of the people."

"A basic consequence of the pursuit of empowerment is its expression," he continued. "How will we handle power? The question carries significant implications about the value and purpose of individual and corporate existence," he said, alluding to the second promise, the promise of purpose. "The purpose of empowerment is present, he said in the changes and developments in the sciences, social sciences, and the humanities as well as biblical and theological disciplines.

"This second promise from God is directly related to the rising concern that those who have power may misuse it. The problem with empowerment is that humans lost sight of the vision. They cannot define the purpose or find direction for the expression of their empowerment ... I believe we must self-consciously hold power loosely and give it back to those God sends our way. Those who receive it back must use that power in like manner for service to others."

"The third word of promise is presence," he continued. "We need more than empowerment and purpose ... To whom do we turn when our empowerment is threatened or our purpose not fulfilled? ... With whom do we share empowerment or purpose? ... At the heart of our mission as a Christian, liberal arts institution is the celebration of the presence of God and of God's activity in the lives of our people.

"I will hold this office as a servant. I will hold onto my own power lightly, and hold only God tightly."

"I am very aware of my limited space in the larger scheme of things. My service will be relatively short. That which will last will be that which is grounded in the power, purpose and presence of God."

QHS Third In NEML Competition

Quincy High School students in grades 10, 11 and 12 are in third place (of 15 schools) in Norfolk County in three of six competitions held by the New England Mathematics League during the school year.

In addition, students are in 16th place out of 111 schools in Massachusetts, and 21st place of 246 schools in New England.

Eight top scoring students are: Fan Feng (Frank) Zhou, Steven Hill, Cindy Galman, Dean Tantillo, Jason Bouffard, Cristen Clarke, Susan Crispo and Jimmy Iorio.

Supervising the students are Mrs. Anne Basiliere, Mrs. Maureen Berggren and Thomas Welch.

30 Quincy Vo-Tech Students Involved In Space Seeds Experiments

About 30 budding student scientists in grades 9-12 at Quincy Vocational-Technical school recently planted seeds to experiment with tomato seeds from space.

During this term, students at the school will grow and monitor space-exposed seeds and Earth-based seeds, searching for differences caused by long-term exposure to cosmic radiation.

Results gathered by students will be forwarded to the National Aeronautics & Space Administration (NASA) by June 15 for a final report.

John Sullivan of the Vo-Tech science department is coordinating the student experiments. Also helping out are teachers Roy Eldridge and Elic Papile.

For nearly six years, the seeds were exposed to the harsh environment of space, subjected to cosmic radiation, temperature extremes, weightlessness and the vacuum of space. Students will be looking for possible mutations to the tomato plant, such as changes in fruit size and color, growth rate, and leaf, stem and stalk shapes and sizes. The pink grapefruit is a mutation resulting from irradiating the white grapefruit seed.

The Space Exposed Experiment Developed for Students (SEEDS) was one of 57 experiments housed on the recently recovered 11-ton Long Duration Exposure Facility satellite. After a nearly six-year voyage in space, the 12.5 million tomato seeds were rescued by the crew of the space shuttle Columbia Jan. 12.

While in orbit, the tomato seeds experienced apparent weightlessness and were exposed to cosmic radiation for longer than any other space-based NASA experiment involving biological tissue prior to the LDEF mission.

Experimenters will compare growth responses of space-exposed seeds with those of control seeds stored on Earth. Students who participate in the SEEDS project learn to appreciate and understand the scientific investigation process. Data resulting from these experiments will be summarized into national reports.

The young scientists are encouraged to perform self-designed experiments with plants produced from space-exposed and control seeds. Experiments may be designed using plants from successive generations.

SEEDS is a cooperative project between NASA and Park Seed Company, Greenwood, S.C., offering to students a one of a kind, hands-on experiment to study the effects of long-term space exposure on living tissue. SEEDS has the potential to involve 4 million students and 40,000 educators.

Last month, NASA distributed 180,000 SEEDS kits containing space-exposed seeds and an equal number of Earth-based seeds to teachers from the upper elementary school to the university level for experiments and study.

6 Koch Club Scholarship Winners

Six 1990 Koch Club Scholarship winners from Quincy's three high schools have been announced.

Jonathan Rork and Susan Williams are North Quincy High winners; Thomas Morrell and Barbara Kelley, Quincy High; and Craig Galligan and Donna Delorey, Quincy Vo-Tech.

The Koch Club Scholarship program began in the 1950's under the direction of the Club's founder, the late Richard J. Koch. Two North Quincy High graduates, one male and one female, were awarded scholarships. The program was expanded to Quincy High and later Vo-Tech through the work of Tony Delmonico, Thomas Nestor and other Koch Club organizers.

The permanent scholarship fund was established in 1973 at the 25th anniversary of the Koch Club with a donation of $5,000 from proceeds of the Anniversary Dinner/Dance. The fund is now at $25,000, in trust with the City of Quincy ensuring perpetuity. Each year a male and female graduate of each High School is awarded a scholarship in the amount of the interest accrued from the fund.

William Esselstyn On ENC Honor Roll

William R. Esselstyn, of Quincy, formerly of South Africa, son of Dr. Theodore I. and Joan M. Esselstyn of South Africa, has been named to the Eastern Nazarene Honor Roll.

Esselstyn, a senior majoring in business administration with a minor in management and accounting, is a 1986 graduate of Florida Park High School in Florida, South Africa. He is a recipient of the New England Adjustment Managers Scholarship and ENC's Honor Scholarship.

Now the president of the ENC Business Club, he was the vice president in 1988-1989, and the chairperson of the 1990 Business Forum. He is currently the treasurer of Mu Kappa International, a society for the children of missionaries.

After graduation, Mr. Esselstyn plans to obtain a master's of business administration in finance and take the certified public accountant examination. He then plans to enter the international banking field in order to study world banking.

Quincy Schools Praised For Restructuring Technical Education

Dennis R. Smith, New England Regional Representative restructuring of technical education which is currently underway.

Speaking at Quincy Vocational Technical School's annual Legislative Day, Smith emphasized money alone cannot solve the nation's education problems. "We need to look at our resources," he said. "You are showing that major changes can be made," he told Advisory Board members, administrators, faculty and local legislators. "Don't stop there."

He discussed the Merit School program, which is included in President George Bush's education initiative, the $300 million Education Excellence Act.

Thomas Leonard

Thomas M. Leonard, of Quincy, is one of the 19 new members of the National Honor Society at Don Bosco Technical High School in Boston.

To be named to the society, students have to maintain a cumulative average of 85, be involved in service to the school and community, volunteer 25 hours, and display good leadership and character.

"Historically and constitutionally, education is a local function, not a federal one," Smith said. "Although we spend more on education than we do in defense, only 6 percent of the funding comes from the federal government."

Smith, a selectman in Middleboro, and a supporter in school and business partnerships. "Business can assist by providing money, by providing mentors for students, by hiring students and by providing field trip opportunities," he said.

Legislative Day, established by Joseph A. Mazzarella, Director of Quincy Vocational Technical provides a forum to keep local legislators abreast of technical education developments. "It also gives us the opportunity to formally thank lawmakers for their continued support," Mazzarella said in a statement today.

ASIAN SERVICES FAIR was held recently at the Wollaston Lutheran Church. Some 20 local organizations were on hand to offer assistance to the city's Asian residents. ## Kolson Thanks Ward 1 Cleanup Volunteers

Ward 1 Councillor Peter Kolson has extended his thanks and appreciation to all those who participated in the recent Cleaner, Greener Quincy cleanup effort.

About 85 people from Ward 1 and employees from the Department of Public Works, Park and Forestry Departments and Cemetery Department cleaned various spots in the area.

"Everyone gave generously of their time in the clean-up project. It was a beautiful day. A perfect setting to initiate the Cleaner, Greener program," Kolson said.

Cleanups were held in Wards 1, 3 and 6. Similar cleanups took place in Wards 2, 4 and 5 several weeks ago.

Kolson also thanked the Hofbrau and Harry's Pizza for donating free pizza and cold drinks for the workers.

The councillor also noted there are a number of projects in the planning stages that will take place over the summer and into next spring. Kolson says he hopes these projects attract even a greater number of friends and neighbors to work together for the "common good of caring for and improving the areas we live in and raise our families in."

DPW Moves Ahead On Reorganization, Composting

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

Given the green light by the Quincy Conservation Commission, the city's Department of Public Works is continuing with its reorganization and composting plan.

Last week, the Conservation Commission unanimously approved the plan which calls for consolidating materials and maintenance functions at the 7.4 acre parcel at 55 Sea St. The plan also involves freeing up a two-acre site for a pilot leaf composting operation.

DPW Commissioner David Colton said implementing the plan will provide better security, increased safety, greater internal space utilization and allocation and quicker emergency response time in time of flood, snow and other emergencies.

Colton said the Conservation Commission will issue its order of conditions within the next three weeks. Once the conditions are issued, the DPW will ask the Department of Environmental Protection for a composting license.

"I believe we'll have a leaf composting plan up and operating by the fall," Colton said Tuesday.

The composting program is projected to produce between 2,800 and 4,200 tons of leaves yielding an average of 1,750 tons of finished (mulch) product in the first year of operation.

While the DPW waits for the license, Colton said the site will be graded.

The plan also calls for unpaved access ways which will eliminate existing unrestrained traffic circulation and improved accessibility of the storage and work areas.

In addition, all non-usable shacks would be demolished and all debris and waste piles removed from the yard for appropriate disposal. Other yard improvements, including controlling ingress egress points and fencing the uncontrolled opening at the northern side of the site, will also be done.

Speaking in favor of the project were Councilors Lawrence Chretien, Peter Kolson and Michael Cheney.

Josiah Quincy House To Open June 2

The Josiah Quincy House, 20 Muirhead St., Wollaston, will open for the season Saturday, June 2.

Built in 1770 by Colonel Josiah Quincy, a leader during the American Revolution, this country house is impressively ornamented with a Chinese fretwork balustrade, quoins, and a classical portico. Several generations of the Quincy family lived here, including Josiah Quincy III, who was the second mayor of Boston, commissioner of the Quincy Market Warehouses, and president of Harvard.

Much of what is known about the property today is due to the preservation efforts of family historian Eliza Susan Quincy in the 1980s. The rooms contain Georgian paneling and fireplaces with colorful English tiles, English and American furniture from Colonel Quincy's time, and objects added by later generations of the family.

Josiah Quincy House is one of 23 historic house museums in five New England states owned and operated by the Boston-based Society for the Preservation of New England Antiquities, the country's largest regional historic preservation organization.

An illustrated House Guide describing all 23 SPNEA houses may be obtained by sending a stamped (45 cent), self-addressed, legal-size envelope to House Guide, SPNEA, 141 Cambridge Street, Boston, MA 02114.

Members of SPNEA are admitted free to Quincy House. The regular admission charge is $3 for adults, $2.50 for seniors, $1.50 for children. The house will be open from June 2 to Oct. 14; Tuesday, Thursday, Saturday and Sunday, 12-5 p.m. Tours on the hour; last tour at 4 p.m.

For more information, call SPNEA at 617-227-3956. SPNEA is funded in part by the Massachusetts Cultural Council, a state agency.

Fundraiser June 5

$60,000 Goal Of New Quincy PAL

Almost one third of the 156 members of the Quincy Police Department have enrolled as volunteers for a new city-wide youth sports program.

"Bringing cops and kids together is our goal," said Officer William Hanna, a co-founder with Officer Robert Clark of the Quincy Police Athletic League, Inc. (PAL)

Only the second program of its type in Massachusetts, the Quincy PAL is currently sponsoring a variety of teams in the city. "Now we're ready to move forward with an expanded program," said Quincy PAL Board Chairman William D. Delahunt, Norfolk County District Attorney.

On Tuesday, June 5, the organization will sponsor a Texas clambake fund-raising event from 6 to 9 p.m. at Barrett's Tent at Marina Bay, Quincy.

"This year we will raise $60,000 for Quincy PAL," said Delahunt.

The group plans to purchase a van and equip it with all types of sports equipment.

The Marina Bay fundraiser will honor the 40 Quincy Police Officers who have volunteered for the athletic activities.

"This is a remarkable response," said Mayor James Sheets, a PAL board member. "Our officers are committed to being part of the community and that's what it takes to reduce crime."

At the June 5 event, the Quincy Police Athletic League will also honor Chief Francis X. Finn, who is retiring.

Balzano Pledges No New Taxes At Boston Common Rally

Judith Balzano, Republican candidate for state representative in the Third Norfolk District of Quincy and Weymouth, stated her "no new taxes" pledge during a rally recently on Boston Common.

Balzano, who joined some 5,000 other no-new tax advocates, also said she would do her best "to restore fiscal sanity to our state and return government to the people" if elected.

At the rally, she said, "I'm here today to join my fellow citizens in saying no to new taxes and no to (Proposition 2½) overrides. I've had enough. The people of Massachusetts have had enough."

"Through the years I have stood against the tax-and-spend mentality that has bankrupt our state."

Balzano, who is challenging incumbent Democrat Robert Cerasoli, also said she thinks the time is right for new legislators to be elected. She accused present state officials of "trying to stop the (fiscal) crisis we warned them about by sticking their finger in the dike."

"I say it's too late for a bandaid approach. It's time for a change. It's time to clean house."

"I pledge that when I am elected I'll do my best to restore fiscal sanity to our state and return government to the people. The best way to do that is running government as we run our homes -- by living within our means, and by not spending what we don't have," she added.

North Lands Berth In E-Mass Tourney

By TOM SULLIVAN

The North Quincy baseball team didn't repeat as Suburban League champions, but the Raiders, in their final year in the league, will be in the Eastern Mass. Tournament for the second straight season.

North hoped to end the season with a victory over Brookline on Tuesday and take a 14-6 record into the tourney, giving it a better seeding than last year when it had a 12-8 mark, winning its last nine games to qualify.

The Brookline game was previously rained out and rescheduled for last Saturday but Brookline officials requested the game be put off until Tuesday.

The Raiders' hopes of another league title went out the window earlier last week when they dropped a 6-2 decision to Brockton, which claimed the crown. The Boxers handed North (9-2 in the league) its only league losses.

The teams were tied at 2-2 going into the seventh inning when North ace Erik DeBoer was hit hard for the first time this year and Brockton scored four runs.

John Conley had a triple

QUINCY third baseman Chad McMahon slaps tag on North Quincy's Tony Anderlionis during last week's North win.

and Steve Lalli a two-run double to lead the Boxers' winning rally.

North's Jeff Calvert tied the game with a two-run triple in the sixth inning.

"This was the first time Erik had been hit hard all season," said North coach Leo Donovan. "Brockton has one of the best hitting teams in the league with several players among the Top Ten batters."

North Quincy was forced into an extra inning before defeating stubborn Quincy, 9-5, in eight innings.

Quincy scored two runs in the sixth inning on Tom Balzano's single but North came up with four runs in the eighth, led by Billy Warren's two-run single.

Tony Anderlionis went 2-for-3 with two RBI and Calvert went 2-for-4 with an RBI.

Gary Rawdon went all the way for North Quincy to improve his record to 5-1. He gave up five hits, struck out 12 and walked only two.

ERIK DEBOER, North Quincy's top pitcher and one of its leading batters, waits for a pitch during last week's game.

Quincy Finishes On Downside

The Quincy baseball team finished the season on the downside, losing its last three games, but did end up with a 7-13 record, a huge improvement over last year when the Presidents won only one game.

"I'm disappointed we didn't win a few more games, but we had a young team with a particularly young pitching staff," said coach Bob Sylvia. "Using our young pitchers against much more experienced teams was asking a lot, but the experience they gained should help us next season in our first year in the Old Colony League."

In their final Suburban League game last Saturday the Presidents were walloped by Newton North, 12-0.

While Quincy was held to four hits, Steve Loud, Chad McMahon and Joe Crespi were unable to stem Newton North's bats.

In its previous game Quincy made an excellent showing as it forced league runnerup and tourney-bound North Quincy into an extra inning before the Raiders pulled out a 9-5 decision.

Tom Balzano, the Presidents' top batter, tied the game at 5-5 with a two run single in the bottom of the sixth inning. However, North's Billy Warren keyed a four run eighth with a run single.

Quincy freshman Rob Kane went 2 for 2 with two runs scored.

McMahon, Loud, Mike Malvesti and Dewey Holmes all pitched for the Presidents.

Earlier Quincy lost to Waltham, 7-4, with Balzano leading the Presidents with a double and a single and sophomore Pat Gallagher had a hit.

Quincy had the youngest double play combination in the league with freshman Kane at second and sophomore Gallagher at shortstop. Loud and Malvesti, who should be much better next year, are sophomores.

Balzano finished as the number five hitter in the league with a .438 average.

Higgins Fires No-Hitter For Bryan, 6-0

Malachy Higgins pitched a no-hitter against previously undefeated Bryan VFW Post as Rotary won, 6-0, to improve its record to 8-0 in the Junior Baseball League. VFW fell to 6-1.

J.J. Farrell, Matt Beston and David Gunther led the Rotary offense, while Adam Delorey and Chris Brundage stood out on defense.

Rotary topped Quincy Cable, 5-2, as Beston pitched a three-hitter. Beston, Brian Shields and Chris Earler were the hitting stars and Sean Coughlin, Mike Eddy and John Richards played strong defense.

Ten-year-old Jason Walberg and 11-year-old Earler combined for a three-hitter as Rotary rolled over Foley's, 13-1. Richards, Beston, Erik Goodrich and Higgins were the hitting stars and Mike McLaughlin, Jason Johnson and Eddy were defensive stars.

The standings:

NATIONAL LEAGUE:
Rotary, 8-0; Keohane's, 4-4; Colonial Federal, 3-4; Houghs Neck, 2-5-1; Elks, 2-5-1; S.S. Buick, 1-6-1.

AMERICAN LEAGUE:
VFW, 6-1; S.S. Bank, 6-2-1; Kiwanis, 5-3; Cable, 4-3-1. No standings were turned in for Burgin Platner and Foley.

QHS Football Hall Of Fame To Award 2 Scholarships

Lionel 'Shine' Buckley, president of the Quincy-North Quincy Football Hall of Fame, announces that $500 scholarships will be given to a senior football player from both high schools.

Any senior on the football squads is eligible and applications can be made to coaches Jack Raymer of Quincy or Ken McPhee of North Quincy.

Buckley heads a selection committee from each school. The Quincy committee includes principal Lloyd Hill, Raymer and assistant coaches Bob Noble and Bob Keuther.

The North committee includes principal Peter Chrisom, McPhee and assistants Peter Zoia and Peter Chrisom Jr.

North Defeats Quincy In Final

The Quincy and North Quincy boys' track teams went into their annual meet last week winless but the Raiders, taking 10 of the 12 events, easily defeated the Presidents, 107-29, in the final dual meet of the season.

Junior Jason Buckley was a double winner for North as the Raiders swept five events, the 400 and 800-meter runs, the mile, two-mile and discus. John O'Donnell was also a double winner, taking the high jump at 5-8 and the triple jump 37.0.

Buckley won the mile in 5:06.8 and the two-mile in 10:53.6.

Also winning for North were Wayne Sit in the 100 (11.5), Marc Cocuzzo, 200 (25.3); Peter Wildes, 400 (54.2); Mike Herman, 800 (2:13); Mike Yee, 300 hurdles (43.9); Blaine D'Acci, shot put (39.7); Matt Swierk, discus (114-8); and the 4x400 relay team.

Chris Walker was a double winner for the young Quincy team, winning the long jump at 19-4; and the 110 hurdles in 17.1.

Gary Collins was the Presidents' only other winner, taking the javelin at 141.4.

Finishing second for North Quincy were Chris Murray, 200; Dave Cawthorne, 400; Andy Wohlrab, 800; Willie O'Donnell, mile; Chris Ballum, two-mile; Yee, 110 hurdles; Brian Zimmerman, discus; Cocuzzo, javelin; and Desmond Bellotti, high jump and long jump.

Placing second for Quincy were Chris Fay, 100 and triple jump; Steve MacPherson, 300 hurdles; and Mike Tempesta, shot put.

Taking thirds for North were Josh O'Donnell, 400; D'Acci, 200; Ballum, 800; John Heaney, mile; Greg Buck, two-mile; Marc Larson, 110 hurdles; Chris Hill, 300 hurdles; Swierk, shot put; Mike Oliva, discus; Mike Sweeney, javelin; Buckley, long jump, and Yee, triple jump.

Placing third for Quincy was Mark Bogan, 100 and high jump.

"All of our meets were pretty close and we worked hard all season," said North coach Peter Chisom. "The kids were determined to do their best and they showed that today."

Quincy coach Jack Raymer wasn't disheartened. "Chris Fay is our only senior," he said. "We will have everyone else back next season so we are already looking forward to it."

Both Quincy and North were in their final Suburban League meet. They will join the Old Colony League next season.

North Girls Sparkle In Triple Performance

The North Quincy girls' track team finished its dual meet season with a 4-2 record following a 98-33 victory over Quincy.

The North girls also turned in fine individual performances in the South Shore Principals meet at Norwell and in the Suburban League championships at Marciano Stadium in Brockton.

This was the last year in the Suburban League for both North and Quincy, who move into the Old Colony League next season.

Girls from both North and Quincy turned in season bests in North's easy win.

North's Tristen Mastrogiacombo was a triple winner, taking the 100m hurdles, shot put and discus. Amy Wong was a double winner in the 100 meters and triple jump.

Quincy's Amy Dunn won the high jump, anchored the winning 4x100 relay team and finished second in the 200 meters. Sarah Edwards won the mile.

Other winners for North Quincy were Tricia Hughes, 200 and long jump; Tammy Coul, 400; Jenn Flynn, 800; Kara Sullivan, two-mile; Regina Murphy, 300 hurdles, and Tara Miles, javelin.

Running on Quincy's winning 4x100 relay team were Jackie Potter, Kim Perry, Courtney Tierney and Dunn.

Taking seconds for North were Suzanne Hamilton, 100; Ilana Cobban, 400; Cindy Walsh, 800; Brenda Hayduk, mile; Janet Corrigan, two-mile; Aimee Chin, 100 hurdles; Amanda Young, 300 hurdles and triple jump; Hughes, high jump, and Alana Crehan, javelin.

Placing second for Quincy were Maureen O'Donnell, long jump, and Jennifer D'Alessandro, shot put and discus.

Finishing third for North were Jennifer Nutley, 200; Julie Tangney, 800; Lesley Mahoney, mile; Joanne Moriarty, two-mile; Murphy, long jump; Hamilton, high jump; Crehan, shot put, and Tricia McNamara, discus.

Third place finishers for Quincy were Jackie Potter, 100; Margaret McLean, 400; Christine Miele, 100 hurdles; Nicole Shaunnassy, 300 hurdles and javelin, and Anna Marinilli, triple jump.

In the South Shore Meet North scored 19 points behind the fine performances of Sherrin Quintiliani, Hughes and Suzanne Lewis. Quintiliani won the two-mile in 11:41.4. Hughes took fourth in the 400 and Lewis took fourth in the mile. The mile relay team of Hughes, Cobban, Sullivan and Coull placed sixth.

Several girls turned in personal bests in the league championship meet. Hughes took third in the 400 and long jump. Young second in the triple jump and fifth in the 300 hurdles. Amy Wong second in the 100 and fourth in the triple jump. Mastrogiacombo third in the discus and fifth in the 100 hurdles. Cobban fifth in the shot and McNamara sixth in the discus. The 4x100 relay team of Wong, Hamilton, Coull and Nugley placed fourth and the mile relay team of Hughes, Cobban, Coull and Kearen Leary took fifth.

Murphy Inducted Into Bentley Hall Of Fame

Kevin Murphy, a North Quincy native now living in Falmouth was one of the seven inductees into the Bentley College Athletic Hall of Fame last Saturday on the campus in the LaCava Student Center.

Murphy played three seasons of club football at Bentley, serving as co-captain in his final two years. A fixture along the defensive line, he was among the team's leading tacklers each year, averaging better than eight a game during his career and was an all-conference honoree in 1976 and 1978.

Murphy's contributions off the field, as president of the football club, were just as distinguished.

Quincy Players Shine For UMass/Boston

The UMass/Boston women's softball team recently ended its season, tying the school record for victories with an 11-8 record, gaining its first tournament berth and first no-hitter.

Among the wins was an 11-0 no-hitter against Mass. Maritime Academy by freshman Kristen Drake of Quincy.

Senior co-captain Chris Cucinatta of Quincy and pitcher Ann Anderlionis of North Quincy also contributed heavily to the Lady Beacons' success.

Cucinatta, the third baseman, hit .286 and was outstanding defensively. Anderlionis set a school record with nine wins while hitting .383 as a junior. She now owns school marks for most wins, 23, and most games pitched, 42, in a career.

Molloy Wins Varsity Letter At Wesleyan

Mark Molloy of Quincy, a sophomore at Wesleyan University in Middletown, Conn., was recently presented his first varsity letter in basketball by coach Herb Kenny.

Molloy was a reserve guard for the Cardinals and appeared in 14 games. Wesleyan won six of its last eight games to finish with an 11-12 mark.

Molloy is the son of John and Betty Molloy of Overlook Road.

Molloy is also a varsity letter winner in football. He is a defensive back and special teams player. Molloy is interested in majoring in government.

'Fewest Putts' Tourney At Ponkapoag

A 'fewest putts' tournament was held by the Ponkapoag Golf Course Ladies' Inner Club and the nine-hole winners were Gera Farwell and Hilda Appel, tied at 18, and Mary Garber and Elsie Hagberg, tied at 20.

The 18-hole winners were Mary Carchedi, Ruth Zaleski, Bess Vanzler and Kay Iredale.

A get-acquainted tournament was held. It was required that players be paired with members they had not played with before. Winners of the nine holes were Mary Garber and Florence Koffman, and second place finishers were Rita Rogers and Edna Tenney.

The 18-hole winners were Charlotte Dickie and Ruth Zeliski and second place finishers were Anne Bell and Stephanie Rizza.

Earlier the club had begun its weekly tournaments with a Florida best ball, 9-hole event.

Nancy Carlton won the annual Gibney Cup Tournament with a net of 77.

This is the fifth time she has won and a beautiful cup will be presented to her at the club's awards dinner in the fall. The tournament is held annually in memory of Clarence Gibney, the first pro at Ponkapoag. He served in that position for 22 years.

Mary Lewis Golf Tourney In July

The grandchildren of Mary F. Lewis of Waterston Ave., Wollaston take an active part in the planning of the annual Mary F. Lewis Golf Tournament to be held in July at the Holly Ridge Golf Course in Sandwich.

Robert E. Lewis turns preparation for the third annual event over to president Michael K. Nevins, grandson of Grammy Lewis, as she is known to family and friends. First vice president is Stephen Golden, second vice president David Lewis, secretary Maureen Lewis and treasurer

Farm League

Yankees On Spree

Scoring nine runs in the second inning, the Egan Sunoco Yankees defeated the Giants, 18-10, in Junior Farm League action with Matt Nicklas picking up his first career victory. He had nine strikeouts.

Nicklas also paced the offense with three hits, Adam Goodrich had a double and single, Joe Watson and Brian Kalil two hits each and Kevin Walsh one each. Eric Rackauskas, Chris Petit and Quentin Lam also had hits. Billy Meade, Matt Nelson and Jeff Solomon played well.

The Yankees also rolled over the Red Sox, 20-0, scoring 11 runs in the fifth inning. Goodrich gained his third win and had 15 strikeouts.

Goodrich also sparked the attack with two doubles and two singles. Watson, Shaw and Kalil each had four hits, Kalil's including a grand slam. Nicklas had two hits and Mike Clancy one. Nelson, Petit and Solomon played strong defense.

The Pirates and Giants played to a 7-7 tie.

Chris Carthas had a grand slam homer in the last inning to tie the game, called in because of darkness. Chad Fitzpatrick had two hits and Shawn Manning pitched well for the Giants. Teddy Phillips had two hits for the Pirates, Jacob Shields reached base twice and Jose Diaz homered and pitched well.

The Pirates topped the Indians, 9-5, with Paul Markarhin pitching well for the Indians with relief help from Matt Lebo. Karl Ehrenes had a key hit and Christian Bowes made a fine running catch. The Pirates were led by Matt Kiesel and Adam Razezich, each of whom reached four times. Brent Austin reached three times and Matt Graham had three RBI.

The Pirates downed the Mets, 8-3, with Matt Hill pitching well for the Mets. Shawn Fitzgerald had two hits as did Jeff Brophy. For the Pirates Matt Graham pitched six strong innings and had a big RBI double. Matt Gibbons reached twice and made a big play at the plate to end the game. Pasquale Roosa played fine defense for the Pirates.

The Pirates also defeated the Orioles, 5-2, with Kiesel out-pitching Kevin Garrigan in a fine duel. Each struck out 12. Graham's grand slam was the difference in the game. Gerry Powers and Matt O'Connell reached twice for the Pirates. Tom Slowe tripled for the O's and Mike Kelly had a fine day on defense.

The Pirates outlasted the Yankees, 11-10, with Chris Meyers driving in a key run and scoring a run and Eric France drove in a key run. John Kiesel played well and pitcher Jose Diaz led the attack. Goodrich, Shaw, Clancy and Watkins had big games for the Yankees.

The First American Dodgers swept to their sixth straight win with three wins during the past week, improving their record to 7-1.

The Dodgers jumped out to a 10-0 lead after two innings and walloped the Giants, 12-3. Jonathan Brillo's base-clearing hit and Ryan Deshler's double drove in two runs in the first. Paul Wise had the key hit in the second, a two-run double. Starting pitcher Kevin Walsh gave up only three hits for the win. Chris Bregoli picked up a save with three innings of one-hit ball. The defensive play of the game came in the third inning with a fine Kerry Twomey to Wise to John Sullivan relay cutting down a run at the plate.

Mike Powers pitched a complete-game four-hitter in a 10-1 win over the Indians. Steve Rochon led off a second inning with a double. After Pat Dolbear walked, Wise drove in two runs with a double and Sullivan drove in Wise with a single. Walsh doubled to lead off the third and back-to-back triples by Powers and Bregoli upped the lead to 6-0. The Dodgers closed out the scoring with Brillo and Rochon getting the key hits. Powers struck out 12 and Wise had three RBI.

The Dodgers outslugged the Egan Sunoco Yankees, 13-9. After the Dodgers took a 1-0 lead in the first on Powers' homer, the Yankees struck for three runs on a Kevin Shaw triple with the bases loaded.

Powers doubled home Tom Gouthro in the third and Bregoli followed with a home run. Powers drove in three more with another triple in the fourth. Bregoli doubled him home with Deshler. Steve Marks and T.J. Wilson following with RBI hits. The Yankees closed the gap to 13-9 with Shaw's double the key hit. Bregoli settled down and picked up the save for Walsh.

Powers had five RBI and Bregoli three. Walsh struck out seven in three innings while Bregoli had six. Shaw struck but 12 for the Yankees.

Squantum Y.C. Opens 100th Anniversary Season

The Squantum Yacht Club recently opened its 100th anniversary season with opening night festivities.

Club members, guests and flag officers from surrounding yacht clubs participated in the evening's celebration.

Commodore Don Mac-

Gilvray presented SYC with two plaques in honor of the anniversary. One plaque commemorates all of the club's commodores during its first 100 years and the other honors veterans from the Spanish-American War through Vietnam.

SYC's 100th anniversary season schedule includes hosting the Tornado and the Hustler National Championships as well as the 4th annual Sir Thomas Lipton Cup. A fishing tournament is also planned.

Robert Player Memorial Golf Tourney June 2

The Alumni Cafe of Wollaston will sponsor the first Robert J. Player Memorial scholarship golf tournament to benefit scholarship awards at each of Quincy's high schools next year.

The tournament, to be held at the Presidential Golf Course June 2, will feature prizes, a buffet and raffle at the restaurant between 4 and 8 p.m., catered by LaCucina of Wollaston.

Additional events are planned during the coming year including tennis and basketball tournaments. Contributions of cash prizes are welcome from all sources. Checks should be made payable to Alumni Tournaments Scholarship Fund and prize donations can be left at the Cafe.

Sylvia Praises Troup

Quincy High hockey coach Bob Sylvia paid tribute to Bob Troup, who resigned as junior varsity coach this year after 10 years with the Presidents.

Bob did a tremendous job for us and there was no pressure whatever to have him resign," Sylvia said. "Bob said at the start of the year that he would be leaving. I think he was just burned out and felt it was time to step down.

"The past two years we had trouble getting enough players for a junior varsity team and I think Bob was caught in a bind.

"He was not just a coach during our hockey season, he worked 12 months a year and developed a lot of our players. He didn't care if a boy was from Quincy, Weymouth, Braintree or anywhere else, he worked hard with them. He coached several youth teams and had a genuine interest in youngsters. He paid his dues and felt it was time to face other challenges.

"Bob should definitely make the Quincy Hockey Hall-of-Fame at a future date, if not as a player than as one who contributed so much to Quincy hockey.

Babe Ruth

Barry's Bomb Morrisette, Blank Poland, 3-0

Barry's Deli, off to its best start in the Babe Ruth League, improved to 3-0 with two victories during the past week.

Danny Duncan pitched a three-hitter as Barry's walloped Morrisette, 14-1. Duncan had a no-hitter until Nick Mastrogiacommo broke it up in fourth inning. He struck out 11 and walked only two.

Barry's had 14 hits, with Mike Connor having three, Duncan, Dave Raftery and Jeff Tirrell two each and rookies Sean Kennerson, Charlie Hardman and Ron McGann one apiece. Barry's was able to use its rookies for most of the game and they did an outstanding job. Kenny Ledwak, Neil Hutchinson and Jimmy Goldrick played strong defense.

Barry's blanked Poland Springs, 3-0, with Connor pitching a one-hitter, striking out five and walking only two. Barry's defense was flawless with Jeff Craig particularly outstanding at shortstop. Jeff Tirrell did a fine job catching and Chris Geary made several spectacular plays in right field and threw out a runner at the plate.

Eric Kreuz pitched an excellent game for Poland Springs, allowing six hits.

Raftery had a single and double, Geary two singles and Connor and Craig a single each for Barry's.

Morrisette came from behind to edge Houghs Neck, 7-6.

Thirteen-year old Brian Raftery pitched the first three innings for HN, giving up two runs and striking out four. Mike DesRoche had three hits for Morrisette. Brian Connolly and Mark Gilmore paced Houghs Neck both offensively and defensively. Mark Walsh took the loss despite pitching well.

Junior Colorguard Seeking Recruits

Emerald Marquis Junior Colorguard is seeking Quincy recruits, boys and girls, between the ages of 8 and 14 years.

The colorguard, organized in June, 1989, and trained by Janice Taylor who has 18 years experience, is practicing Saturdays from 12:30 to 2:30 p.m. at the Atherton Hough School on Sea St., Quincy.

Uniforms and equipment are provided. Recruits will learn basic marching techniques and the art of spinning rifles, flags and sabre sticks.

The first appearance is planned for the 350th Anniversary Parade in Braintree in May. Next year they will compete in one of the local circuits.

There is a one-time registration fee of $5. Dues are $2 per week. Parents must consent and medical forms are also necessary.

Further information may be obtained by calling Janice Taylor at 472-5243 after 7 p.m.

WEEK OF: May 24

BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK

You are intellectually inclined, and generally quite versatile. You seek out challenging assignments. Financial matters are spotlighted over the coming six months or so, and you learn much regarding this sphere. Career choices abound in the Fall.

AQUARIUS - January 21 - February 19

Optimism is your most notable quality in a week that combines challenges and a surplus of paperwork. Romance requires a more upfront approach. Routine task becomes more intriguing.

PISCES - February 20 - March 20

A coworker's attitude improves, thanks largely to your recent tactics. Avoid any confrontation in the neighborhood, the "problem" is likely to blow over by Tuesday.

ARIES - March 21 - April 20

Some work-related crises can be avoided thanks to your enterprising spirit and ingenuity. One caution to be exercised through the week: don't expect others to read your mind.

TAURUS - April 21 - May 22

Thursday-Friday are favorable for financial research. The weekend is an opportune time for investigating ways to earn spare cash. Monday-Wednesday another reconciliation.

GEMINI - May 23 - June 21

Keep informed of community happenings -- they may affect your interests. News of a celebration may throw you off your guard. Some interesting invitations may be arriving.

CANCER - June 22 - July 22

Good week to catch up on correspondence, no matter how belated it may be. This is also a favorable time for reviewing finances and making monetary plans for the long- and short-term.

LEO - July 23 - August 22

Excellent week for interviews, regardless of the side of the desk on which you find yourself. Some experimentation pays off, though probably not in the kitchen.

VIRGO - August 23 - September 22

Your humanitarian side shines through as you volunteer in the support of an important cause. Partner is more generous, at least with words. Home life is surprisingly lively.

LIBRA - September 23 - October 22

Visits from surprise friends brighten the scene but put you behind in your daily chores. It may be time to recruit help. Excellent week for shopping for special gifts.

SCORPIO - October 23 - November 21

Thursday and Friday are favorable for financial review and financial planning. Weekend offers good opportunities for spontaneous travel. Plans may be too oilbeat on Monday-Tuesday.

SAGITTARIUS - November 22 - December 22

Shopping expeditions may be more expensive than thought; it may be best to arrive armed with a list. Romance accents its lighthearted side. Partnership arrangement needs thorough review.

CAPRICORN - December 23 - January 20

Joint efforts bring surprisingly bright results, but the key is to define everyone's tasks clearly. A discouraged friend is more upbeat. Family matters are generally more harmonious.

BORN THIS WEEK

May 24th, singer Bob Dylan; 25th, singer Leslie Uggams; 26th, singer Peggy Lee; 27th, actor Christopher Lee; 28th, singer Gladys Knight; 29th, actor Bob Hope; 30th, actor Michael Pollard.

City, MBTA To Team On Summer Maintenance At Stations

Quincy and the MBTA are working on an agreement which would provide summer maintenance of the external portions at the city's four Red Line stations.

According to Mayor James Sheets, the city would employ one working foreman and eight laborers at the stations with funding by the MBTA. There would be no cost to the city, the mayor emphasized.

The employees would be responsible for cleaning up litter and certain maintenance at the Quincy Adams, Quincy Center, Wollaston and North Quincy stations. The mayor said the "parameters of responsibility" still have to be worked out.

A deal could be finalized within the week, he added.

As presently proposed, two full-time laborers would be placed at each station. The laborers would work a 40-hour week and be paid about $7.50 an hour. Sheets said he wants at least one laborer to be at each station on Saturdays and Sunday.

The working foreman would work under the city's Department of Public Works and receive $13 an hour.

Sheets said he will look toward hiring Quincy people for the positions. He also said he wants to expand the 12-week summer pilot program into a year-round agreement.

A few words on FUNERAL SERVICE

Postponed Grief Can Hurt The Worst

Grief, when a loved one dies, is so very personal. Sometimes people can't express their grief and may suffer for years with a pain they can't lose.

Delayed grief can be too difficult to deal with at the funeral; but every one must sometime accept their loss. Tears can help. Thinking kindly with love or past happinesses with the deceased can ease the pain.

Tutors Honored At Library

The Thomas Crane Public Library recently honored tutors in its adult literacy program in observance of "Literacy Volunteers Day," May 18, declared by Mayor James Sheets.

More than 100 people filled the historic reference room for the reception, which recognized tutors as "Stars in Literacy."

Ann McLaughlin, Assistant Director of the Library and director of Literacy Volunteers of America-Quincy, described accomplishments of the program.

Since October, 1985, 392 people have completed tutor training in either basic reading or conversational English. Today there are 170 active volunteers. Tutors give two hours per week for a year helping another adult learn to read or to speak English.

Tina Klutmeier, ESL program coordinator, and Fairlie Kinnecom, Basic Reading program coordinator, spoke of the effort by tutors in bridging cultural and language gaps, and read letters of thanks from students.

Special gifts of thanks were given to 11 volunteers: Ellen Connors, Charles Karas, Rose Sawyer, Karen Stone, Helene White, Irene Carlson, Norma McKenzie, Anita Macklenburg, Kate Brenton, Donna Connelly and Dorothy Noonan.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

No one is born with prejudice. It is acquired. But once acquired it is hard to disarm. It is one of the most difficult obstacles to combat. The word is derived from two words which mean "to judge before" or "to judge ahead of time." In other words, to prejudice before having heard. It exists when a person is down on something he isn't up on. It is based on feeling rather than on reasoning and understanding. It usually comes from pride, anger, greed or jealousy.

Lots of people think they have convictions ... when they only have prejudices. Convictions grow out of opinions formed after considering both sides. Prejudices grow out of opinions formed without taking the trouble ... or really wanting ... to hear both sides. All of us have our full share of both.

Sometimes it's hard to tell which is which. We cling stubbornly to inherited or self-evolved opinions ... 'believing' they are right. There is a test we can take ... the test that will tell us in a hurry whether what we are sounding off about so loudly is a conviction or simply a prejudice. "How does the opinion we hug to our bosom jibe with the Golden Rule?"

We think the question has significance? Don't you?

EVERYBODY'S MARKETPLACE

QCA Urges Incinerator Site Be Rejected

Arthur M. Chandler, President of the Quincy Citizens Association, has written to Joan Gardner, Executive Secretary of the Hazardous Waste Safety Siting Council, urging that the council reject the East Braintree site for the Clean Harbors hazardous waste incinerator.

"The East Braintree site is grossly unsuitable and unacceptable to the residents of Braintree, Weymouth, Quincy, Hull, Milton and other South Shore communities because it is an absolute health hazard to the 500,000 living here and a threat to our whole environment."

The letter continues by explaining that the Fore River Basin is already crowded with businesses which contribute to the air pollution in the area, including the Proctor and Gamble plant, gas and oil storage tanks, and Clean Harbors present hazardous waste treatment plant.

"And the volume of air pollution will be increased a hundredfold when the MWRA's sludge-cooking facility is put into operation in the former shipyard."

"State medical reports already show a big increase in cancer deaths of residents of Braintree, Weymouth, and the Quincy Point, Germantown and Hough's Neck sections of Quincy," the letter states. "And the additional toxic fumes and particles emitted by another Clean Harbors hazardous waste incinerator will surely threaten the lives of local residents of all ages! This cannot be condoned!"

The letter asks the Council to reject the highly populated Fore River Basin as the site for the incinerator and to "seek a substitute location that is remote from a populous area like the South Shore."

Crackdown On Meter Feeding

$25 cents an hour, $2 a day or $25 a month.

Kinnecomp, who said the exceeding meter ordinance has been enforced in the past, said warnings will be issued to violators beginning this week. Motorists who continue to feed the meters will be fined $5.

Kinnecomp said his department does not have the authority to tow motorists who violate the meter feeding ordinance.

The QCBPA is the only business organization to ask for the increased enforcement, the traffic engineer said.

Mayor James A. Sheets agrees with the increased enforcement because it facilitates a turnover of parking spaces.

"I think we have to enforce the law and that's the law."

any accumulation of litter" and to "prevent any litter from escaping to any other public or private property."

Under Cambridge law, private property owners and occupants must also maintain sidewalks or footways and the adjoining gutter to the center of the street free of litter.

In addition, every owner or occupant must cut and dispose of weeds in any yard area or vacant lot or around any public or private property. The Cambridge law forbids anyone from sweeping into or depositing in any gutter, street, square or other public place the accumulation of litter from any building or lot, or from any public or private sidewalk, footway or driveway.

Sheets also said the city's litter ordinance might include a crackdown on litter from commercial or non-profit establishments.

Cambridge law mandates that litter from commercial or non-profit establishments shall not be thrown or deposited in any public litter receptacles.

The law also states that commercial and non-profit establishments may maintain authorized litter receptacles for public use outdoors on private property or on the adjoining sidewalk but "in a manner not to inconvenience the use of the sidewalk by pedestrians." Cambridge mandates establishments empty the receptacles regularly.

As for fines, the mayor is considering a $25 maximum fine which is the same as Cambridge. "Twenty-five dollars seems reasonable," he said, adding his administration will look into increased fines, perhaps as high as $50, for repeat offenders.

Ticketing duties would probably be divided between the Quincy Police Department and the city's Health Department. The police department would take care of pedestrian violations while the health department could handle dumpster and other health-related infractions.

Sheets said the litter ordinance is in line with his Cleaner, Greener effort. Although many citizens don't litter, the mayor said there are instances where the ordinance is necessary.

"I'm a great believer in that people should be doing this voluntarily. But there are some apartment buildings in Quincy where the litter is never picked up."

"That's where we're concerned."

Other sections of the Cambridge litter law deal with sidewalk placement and time restrictions of receptacles as well as snow and ice removal on sidewalks.

Uncovering Old Quincy

A FRONT END LOADER full of cobblestones prepares to remove them from Hancock Street in front of the Hancock Cemetery. The cobblestones were found while laborers dug up the street as part of the $652,339 Quincy Center Traffic Improvement Project. The project has inconvenienced motorists as well as some businesses and employees in the area with rough driving conditions and dusty air. To help keep the dust down, calcium chloride and water have been sprinkled on the unpaved road surface. It is expected a base coat of pavement will be put down within two weeks or less.

MANNY MEIDEROS, a construction worker for Pavao Construction Inc., cuts through an old steel trolley rail on Hancock St. in Quincy Square in front of Christmas Tree Island. Laborers found the rail and other materials including cobblestones while working on the Quincy Center Traffic Improvement Project. The project entails new drainage, road surfacing, traffic lights, road markings and landscaping on Hancock Street from Saville Ave. to Christmas Tree Island, Temple St. and portions of Coddington and Washington Sts.

Non-Alcoholic Night Club Planned In Downtown

By JANE ARENA

The License Board Tuesday continued for two weeks a hearing on a request from John Blythe of Quincy for a common victualer license, a cabaret license and a Lord's Day license for Foot Prints, 1515 Hancock St., Quincy Center.

Blythe told the board he plans to open a non-alcoholic night club on the lower level of the Quincy Fair Mall which would be open seven days a week and feature different nightly themes.

For example, he said, Monday night would be "sports night," Tuesday would be "senior citizen night," and Wednesday would be an "open house."

Blythe said he would run the club as an adult night club for people "20 years old and up." He said it would not be an "under 21" club even though he planned to serve no alcohol.

Building Commissioner Matthias Mulvey said he had seen the building and the layout plans and said Blythe is "doing okay."

Acting Police Chief Paul Nestor asked the hearing be continued for two weeks so that the police department could run a routine background check on the applicant and the board could acquire more information on the request.

In Wake Of Drastic Hikes Sheets To Seek Assessments Limit

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

Mayor James A. Sheets said Tuesday he will have a bill filed by local legislators to limit assessment increases for residential, commercial and industrial properties in a given year.

Since the proposal will be in the form of a bill and not a home-rule petition, it would affect the entire state if enacted.

Sheets said the bill is in direct response to the recently completed revaluation process which saw many properties in Quincy increase dramatically, some by as much as 500 percent.

The increased assessments, released in March, angered hundreds of homeowners and business property owners as well as the mayor and some city councilors. City assessors advised disgruntled taxpayers to file an abatement if they believed their property value had been unfairly increased.

Approximately 2,800 residents filed for abatements by the May 1 deadline. The figure does not include the number filed after the deadline.

"My filing this bill is in response to dramatic increases in (property) values and therefore the dramatic increases in property bills.

"This legislation if passed, in my opinion, would correct that," the mayor said.

Essentially, the bill would prevent residential, commercial and industrial property values from increasing beyond a certain percentage in a given year.

"I think it's reasonable for the state legislature to limit the percentage that a property can go up in value in a given year," Sheets said, noting some assessments in Quincy shot up by 100 to 500 percent this year.

Sheets said he has not decided on the exact limit, but added 20 percent is being considered.

With a 20 percent limit, a house valued at $200,000 could only increase a maximum of $40,000 for a ceiling of $240,000.

The mayor said the bill would protect people on a fixed income, such as senior citizens.

"It's unfair and unrealistic to allow the values to go up on homes beyond that percentage. People simply don't have the money to pay for those increases."

The mayor has discussed the proposal with Senator Paul Harold whom Sheets said supports the concept. Sheets also said he plans to discuss the idea with Representatives Robert Cerasoli, Michael Morrissey and Steve Tobin.

If adopted, the bill would affect the entire state. Once the bill is drafted, Sheets said he will contact the mayor of Brockton and other cities in an effort to build support.

If filed this year, the bill would need four-fifths vote of the House and Senate Rules Committee.

If it fails, the bill must be filed next year.

The bill would not increase the city's collection of property taxes under Proposition 2 and a half. The levy, with or without the bill, will continue to be not more than two and a half percent than the previous year.

Council Wants Close Look At Golf Club Operation

The City Council Monday night approved $23,383 for the city's share of property taxes on the Furnace Brook Golf Course and vowed to scrutinize the club's operation to determine whether Quincy residents are being charged illegal green fees.

At the request of Ward 1 Councillor Peter Kolson, City Solicitor Stephen McGrath reviewed the city's lease with the club. He and other councilors want to know whether the club is charging high green fees to Quincy residents who are not club members.

The lease stipulates that Quincy residents may use the club with a 50 percent reduction of the regular green fee rates. An employee in the club's pro shop said Tuesday the club's green fees are $20 for Quincy residents and $40 for non-residents.

However, some councilors said the club is charging residents rates higher than $20. McGrath, who noted the course "is not a private club," said he will provide the council with a breakdown of the club's operating expenses and bookkeeping records.

Ward 6 Councillor Thomas Nutley called for an "in-depth report" on how the course operates. Noting nearby municipal courses such as Braintree operate in the black, Nutley said, "A golf course can be a tremendous source of income. And this is the year of the big L— layoffs."

"I think we should have a much better idea of what's going on here."

McGrath said the lease is "silent" on whether the club is a profit or non-profit organization.

The city's lease with the club was executed in 1971 on a year to year basis with provisions for an annual renewal for 50 years. The city, which pays taxes on the parcel, will not own the land until the year 2021 according to the lease.

McGrath said he believes the golf club could apply for an assessment of 25 percent of the fair cash value under a provision of state law which permits a special classification and taxation of recorded land. He added "this would be worth pursuing."

The land, located off Summit Ave., had been assessed at $3,072,500. However, city assessors abated $300,154. of that figure.

The land is zoned open space. If the course operation ceased, McGrath said nothing could be done to the land without an act by the legislature.

Quincy Firemen's Memorial Exercises Sunday

The Quincy Firemen's Relief Association will conduct its annual memorial exercises Sunday, June 10 at 10:30 a.m. at the Quincy Firemen's Monument in Mount Wollaston Cemetery.

Participating in the exercises for Quincy's deceased firefighters will be Chief Paul O'Connell, President Harold Carroll, Vice President Noel Balducci, Treasurer Harold Sheed and Secretary John Bille.

In the event of inclement weather, the program will be conducted at the George F. Bryan V.F.W. Post, 24 Broad St., Quincy.

Koch Flag Day Observance June 14

The Koch Club of Quincy will sponsor its 36th annual Flag Day Observance Thursday, June 14 at the Ruth

Gordon Amphitheater at Pageant Field. There will be a flag raising ceremony and a band concert beginning at 7 p.m. The George F. Bryan VFW Post will present the colors, the Canton Legion Band will be the featured band and flags will be distributed to all those attending.

After 36 years of sponsoring a Flag Day Observance and parade, the club cancelled the parade last year due to the lack of funding and participants, but continued to observe the day with a presentation of flags to the City of Quincy. Realizing the importance of Flag Day to many people and especially the Club's late founder, Richard J. Koch, the Koch Club will continue to recognize and observe Flag Day in Quincy.

People of all ages are welcome to join in a tribute to Old Glory.

Largest Underground Utility Project $7 Million Approved For West Quincy Sewer Interceptor

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

The City Council Monday night approved a loan order of $7 million for the construction of a West Quincy sewer interceptor, a project officials say will rectify sewer backups in that area "once and for all."

Ward 4 Councillor Thomas Fabrizio asked his fellow councillors to support the project, saying "The people of West Quincy have waited 30 years for this."

Some 8,000 people in that section of the city will be served by what Public Works Commr. David Colton called the largest underground utility project in recent city history. Once completed, the interceptor will increase the sewer capacity from four million gallons a day to seven million gallons a day.

John McSweeney, project manager for Whitman and Howard Engineers, said the increased capacity was calculated to handle the existing zoning and future developments in the area.

Work includes the construction of about 14,200 linear feet of 10 to 30 inch diameter gravity sewer pipe and rehabilitation of about 1600 linear feet of 8 to 12 inch gravity sewer pipe and eight sewer manholes in West

Quincy.

The project will cover the area from Furnace Brook Parkway at Adams St. to Quarry St. then the parkway at Quarry St. to the Southeast Expressway. It will continue under the expressway to Furnace Brook Parkway at Malden St. to Frederick St., proceed back to Quarry St., County Rd. to Willard St. back to Joyce Rd., Connell St., Robertson St. to Ballou St. and finally to Willard St. to Ricciuti Dr. to Larry Pl. at Furnace Brook Parkway.

Construction is expected to last 300 days as crews work at a pace of 40 feet per day. The project, which is out to bid, falls under the city's prevailing wage law. The law requires developers and construction firms to hire city residents for construction jobs at a three to one ratio.

The project calls for $5.5 million in construction costs, $324,000 for State, MDC and Quincy police detail, another $100,000 for city administration and $850,000 for engineering.

Money for the project will be funded through a state revolving loan trust fund. The city will borrow money from the fund and pay the money back at a low interest rate.

Essentially, money for the project is already in the trust fund. If all goes according to plan, the city will pay 25 percent of the project, Colton said.

The interceptor project marks the first bond issue for the city since the new police station.

Colton advised the council that the project will not solve the surface water runoff problem which has plagued West Quincy throughout the years. Instead, it will prevent sewerage from backing up into homes.

"The project is designed with all the possible future developments that we could put into it. It won't solve the surface water runoff but it will solve sewer backups, once and for all," Colton said.

Ward 5 Councillor Charles Phelan asked whether the city could use the revolving trust program to alleviate other flood prone areas in the city. Colton said the fund is for correcting sanitary sewer system problems only.

The commissioner added the city is in the process of securing other funding to help alleviate flooding problems in such areas as Quincy Point, Houghs Neck, Squantum as well as North Quincy and Quincy Center.

License Board Briefs

The Quincy License Board took the following action during Tuesday's meeting at City Hall:

- Granted a request for Joanne Bythrow of the Houghs Neck Community Council, to hold its Annual Field Day on Saturday, June 30 from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. at St. Thomas Aquinas Hall.

- Granted a request for a change of license name from Kowloon Bay Restaurant to Kowloon Bay, Inc., doing business as Kong Hoi Bay Restaurant, 656 Washington St.

- Continued for two weeks a request from Denis Lefas of Baintree for a common victualer license for Danny's Place, 610 Hancock St. The board continued the hearing on the request of Ward 5 Councillor Charles Phelan who wants to discuss the matter with area residents.

- Continued a hearing on the request of the North Quincy High School Girls Volleyball team to hold a canning drive on September 14, 15 and 16. The applicant was not present at the meeting.

- Granted a request from the Quincy Point Congregational Church to hold a flea market Saturday June 9 from 9:30 a.m. to 2 p.m. on church grounds, 444 Washington St.

New Quincy Historic Trail Signs To Attract Tourists

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

Viewed as a major step toward encouraging local tourism, the city has begun installing new signs for Quincy's Historic Trail.

The first brown and white sign which includes the new historic trail logo, a capital letter Q topped by a minuteman's hat, was erected Monday outside the Dorothy Quincy Homestead, corner of Hancock and Butler Sts.

In all, 70 signs will be installed along the Quincy Historic Trail. The signs, which are expected to be up within the next six weeks, come in three versions.

The first type identifies a specific historic site, the second is a directional sign which will be placed at intersections, and the third type is a trail marker which will be placed in between the sites.

For better visibility, the signs will have four-inch white lettering, much larger than the old national park signs.

The trail and signs are designed to make it easier for visitors and local residents to get to one of the historic sites, and then drive with confidence from one site to another, said City Historian Hobart Holly.

He explained that many tourists visit only the Adams National Historic Site. The visitors "get off the Southeast Expressway, visit the site, and then get back on the expressway," Holly said.

"(The signs) should make the tourists' visit to Quincy more pleasant and encourage them to spend more time in our city," he said, adding the signs could increase the number of visitors to the city.

New signs were pursued by the Quincy Tourism Association after the Trail was studied and revised. The study was conducted with cooperation from the city's Planning Department.

The logo on the new signs was designed by Nick Panarelli of Quincy. A logo contest, sponsored by the QTA, was held and Panarelli's entry was selected.

Former Mayor Francis X.

McCauley approved the study and for the new signs and asked the City Council to approve funding. After it was approved, the project was handled by the city's Sign Department, under the direction of Traffic Engineer David Kinnecom.

Besides the new signs and revised trail, the QTA has produced new brochures for Historic Quincy.

During the last decade, the Association has helped Quincy come to realize an increased tourism industry here would be an economic asset, Holly said. It has also spread the word across North America that Quincy is a great place to visit.

More than 60,000 tourists visit Quincy annually and the QTA expects the figure will increase during the next five years. The Association has been working with the city and business interests, to not only attract more tourists, but to make their visits here more meaningful to them and more beneficial to the city, Holly said.

A $47,000 appropriation to rehire the city's coordinator of community education was objected to by Ward 3 Councilor Lawrence Chretien at Monday's City Council meeting.

Chretien said his objection does not necessarily mean he will not support the position now occupied by Arthur Keogh. Instead, the councilor questioned whether Keogh's job can be done by other city personnel.

As community education coordinator, Keogh applies for state and federal grants which fund adult education programs for city residents, especially Asian immigrants.

In addition, his job responsibilities include program management and developing comprehensive programs for newcomers. The programs include teaching survival English skills, vocational training, work training and mental health services.

Keogh, who was picked for the position last year by former Mayor Francis McCauley, secured $241,000 in grants this past year, including $200,000 during a three-month period.

Speaking in favor of the reappointment were Council President Ted DeCristofaro and Councilor Michael Cheney.

Cheney, noting Keogh's job is funded through U.D.A.G. money, not city dollars, said, "He has been well worth the expense." He added that Keogh has earned his salary "five times over."

"I think it's money well spent. I think it would be a step backwards (if the council doesn't refund the position)," Cheney said.

DeCristofaro agreed, calling Keogh's appointment an "investment."

"I think Mr. Keogh has done a fine job," DeCristofaro added.

Last year, the council approved Keogh's position after some debate.

The next council meeting is Monday, June 18.

Jail And Bail Fundraiser To Aid Cancer Society

Public officials, business leaders, media figures and assorted civic celebrities will be "arrested" and put behind "bars" Thursday and Friday, June 7 and 8, at 1200 Crown Colony Dr., Quincy, all to help support the work of the South Shore unit of the American Cancer Society.

This is the "Jail And Bail" fundraising project that involves requiring the prominent jailbirds to call friends from the cell asking to bail them out through contributions to the Cancer Society. In the Jail And Bail process, the victims are brought before a "judge," cited for horrendous offenses, mugged and sentenced. In striped prison garb they make their calls for bail.

Many of these victims will have agreed to be hauled off to jail for this worthy cause, but others may be taken into custody by surprise at the mischievous instigation of associates.

City Clerk John Gillis, who served in a lead role in a Jail and Bail last year, heads a large committee recruited from the nine communities now comprising the South Shore unit. Serving as co-chairmen with him are Kevin Costello, Tom Koch and Marty Paul.

The South Shore unit of the Cancer Society carries on a program of public information, professional education and service to cancer patients in Braintree, Cohasset, Hingham, Hull, Milton, Norwell, Quincy, Scituate and Weymouth.

HN Post Holds Memorial Service

Houghs Neck Legion Post held its annual Memorial Service for deceased members on Sunday at Most Blessed Sacrament Church.

Attending, along with families and friends, were officers and members of the Houghs Neck Post and Auxiliary, members of Morrisette Post, George F. Bryan VFW, Civilian Defense and Quincy Police details, and Auxiliary Police.

Commander Raymond

LaRue spoke briefly, introduced by Rev. Charles D. Logue, pastor. The roster of Post and Auxiliary deceased members was read by Alice Scribner, chaplain.

The Houghs Neck Post color guard included John Christensen, Wayne Ellsmore, Raymond LaRue, Jack Hennessey and Robert Dolan.

The VFW color guard provided a firing detail.

A brunch at the Post Home followed the ceremony.

HOW WOULD YOUR FAMILY SURVIVE?

A disquieting thought, we all agree. But it's something for every breadwinner to consider who has the welfare of his family and his assets uppermost in mind.

Statistics indicate that some of us will be disabled before the age of sixty five, either through a crippling injury or a serious accident that prevents us from earning a living.

Protect yourself, your family and your income now by establishing a plan for disability protection that will cover you and your loved ones against any threats of financial disaster. With such a plan you can avoid, forever, dipping into your savings or investments, borrowing from banks, family or friends, or selling personal property just to maintain your comfortable lifestyle if and when disability strikes.

Tobin Seen Sticker Winner

Rep. Stephen Tobin's failure to file his nomination papers before last week's deadline is seen as more a political embarrassment than a political blunder.

Immediate reaction from some observers was that the oversight would open the floodgates for candidates in his Second Norfolk District.

But as the days go by that appears highly unlikely.

And, if a couple of candidates do get in — they are going to have to do the same thing Tobin now has to do: run a sticker campaign.

Tobin would have the advantage: with nearly two years in office, he is better known and already has a campaign organization.

When Tobin's papers were not filed with the Secretary of State's office in time, it created a rare primary election situation: no names on either the Democrat or Republican ballot in the district.

No Democrats had taken out papers to run against Tobin. And although Republicans have been challenging many Democrats this year, Tobin was one of the few they passed on.

Most observers feel Tobin will be nominated on stickers in September whether any other Democrat decides to run or not.

A Republican sticker winner — if there is a Republican candidate — would then have to square off against Tobin in the November final election when his name would be on the ballot.

The oversight would have been a lot more serious if a Democratic challenger had filed papers. It would have put the latter's name on the ballot and Tobin having to run against him on stickers.

But, because there are no names on the primary ballot, all candidates — Democrat and Republican — would have to run sticker campaigns. The edge, observers feel, still belongs to Tobin.

Tobin did file his papers at City Hall where he had them certified. Next and final step to get on the ballot was to file the certified papers at the Secretary of State's office.

An aide was to file them, but time got away from him on deadline day (May 29). It was half an hour past the deadline when he realized the oversight. Tobin, however, said he personally would take the blame.

It is doubtful that City Councillor Patricia Toland, or School Committeeman Steve Durkin will look on this as opportunity knocking at their door. Both were Tobin's primary opponents in 1988.

Republican Richard Harris, Quincy school teacher who ran against Tobin two years ago, is thinking about it. Denis Tardo, another Republican, might be flirting with the idea. Former Mayor Francis McCauley has already taken himself out of the ball game.

What it boils down to, for any Republican candidate, is that he or she would almost surely have to face Tobin in November, with Tobin's name on that ballot.

If they thought they could beat him, they probably would have filed primary nomination papers themselves this year.

CITY CLERK John Gillis says he is never again going to complain about the rainy weather in New England.

GILLIS

"We don't know what rain really is," says Gillis who recently returned from flood ravaged Arkansas.

Gillis was attending the International City Clerks conference in Little Rock.

"We think we get heavy rain in New England," Gillis says. "But it's nothing compared to what Arkansas got. The Arkansas River rose two to three feet above its normal level and flooded everything. The farms were devastated. I couldn't believe how bad it can get."

Gillis and his colleagues were in no real danger. Luckily, the hotel they were staying in had only the basement flooded.

ATTY. GEORGE BURKE, former Norfolk County district attorney and city councillor, will be honored by his alma mater, the University of Massachusetts at Amherst Saturday.

Burke will receive a Special Citation For Outstanding Public Service from the Directors of the Alumni Association.

Burke was a basketball star at U-Mass setting a number of records which stood until a fellow by the name of Julius Irving came along. Both he and Irving wore number 32. Burke also wore it as a Boston Celtics rookie. The number now, of course, belongs to Kevin McHale.

Burke gave up the basketball court for the courtroom becoming one of the South Shore area's most successful attorneys.

FR. DAN GRAHAM, popular former associate pastor at St. John's Church, Quincy, is trying to raise some much needed money to help his present parish, St. Brendan's in Dorchester.

A recent fire heavily damaged St. Brendan's and $250,000 is needed for repairs and renovations.

A fund-raising cocktail party will be held Thursday, June 14, from 6 to 9 p.m. in St. Brendan's church hall. Tickets are $100 per person and are tax deductible.

If you would like tickets or to help in any other way you can reach Fr. Graham at 436-0310.

Ethnic Bias Continues Toward Candidates Of Italian Heritage

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

As a political activist and Italian-American, I would have to agree with both former Attorney General Frank Bellotti and former state Senator Gerald D'Amico on the continued presence of ethnic bias toward Bay State politicians who happen to share an Italian heritage.

The piece by Globe reporter Scot Lehigh (Old stereotypes haunt Bellotti, May 26) attempts to portray some of the so-called stereotyping as nothing more than an, apparent, oversensitive imagination. Is Bellotti just prone to see anti-Italian slights or is he correctly reading what most Italian-Americans have angrily come to accept as normal campaign tactics used against politicians like Bellotti or D'Amico who carry multi-vowelled names and "look" very Italian? When D'Amico says he was too liberal for Italians and too Italian for liberals during an unsuccessful congressional race back in 1974, he verifies the point that Italian-American pols will always remain vulnerable to innuendo, whispering campaigns and smears.

As a commentator for the Post-Gazette, a Boston North End-based community weekly, I was confronted by a delegate at the March 10 Republican state convention who just wanted to let me know that Bellotti was "tied to the Mob." I saw this statement as an ethnic slur against all Italian-Americans, Bellotti in particular and to me personally. The ethnic prejudice facing Italian-Americans who enter the public arena is just as strong today as it was when my Sicilian grandfather arrived at Ellis Island back in April 1906. Bellotti has a right to be wary of his opponents. He was the victim of the most vicious stereotyping twice during the 1960s.

Are Italian-Americans suffering from a victim complex when they voice their collective outrage at Billy Crystal's opening monologue as host of the March 26 Academy Awards when he overstepped the bounds of good taste with a joke defaming Italians. An estimated one billion viewers heard his "joke" linking Italian-Americans to organized crime. Crystal eventually apologized for those remarks on the "Johnny Carson Show" April 16.

Proud of my Italian heritage, I agree with Frank Bellotti's assessment of anti-Italian bias. Personally, I see it as one of the most persistent of ethnic prejudices in American history.

A Page In History Marching In Soviet Parade A Thrill To Remember

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

Although four weeks have passed since Quincy's John (Jake) Comer marched in the Soviet Union's Victory Day Parade, the experience is still fresh in his mind, and, he says, it always will be.

In fact, it's something he says he'll never, ever forget.

"This was the most interesting and traumatic experience in my life," says Comer, a past national commander of the American Legion. "I never thought I'd march down a square in Moscow singing God Bless America. Never."

Comer, as the ranking American Legion official, helped lead the Waltham American Legion Band down Gorky Avenue in the USSR's Victory Day Parade in Moscow May 9. The event was unique and historic for two reasons.

First, it marked the first time a group outside the Eastern Bloc countries was allowed to march in Moscow. Secondly, the group that broke down that barrier was an American military veterans organization.

Those reasons, coupled with many touching and heart-tugging moments, made the march and visit unforgettable.

One special moment involved a Soviet man who met Comer before the parade began. After the parade, the man approached Comer with a letter.

The man gave the letter to Comer and asked him if he could mail it in the United States. The letter was addressed to a friend who lives in Tulsa, Oklahoma.

Comer took the letter and noticed it had been opened. The Soviet man remarked, "In this country, the government reads mail going in and going out."

Comer then sealed the letter and put it in his pocket. "When I did that, the man started crying. He just couldn't believe it."

The day he returned home, Comer fulfilled his promise and mailed the letter.

Accompanying the past commander were his wife, Eileen, and Paul Hunt, a member of the Morrisette American Legion Post in West Quincy. Hunt marched with Comer while carrying his national commander colors. It was the first time Comer's colors had been carried since he left office in August, 1988.

During their 11-day stay, the band, led by Dorothy Hill, marched in one parade and performed six concerts. Besides God Bless America, the band played other patriotic songs including Stars and Stripes Forever, All Hail Massachusetts, For Boston (the Boston College fight song) and the Soviet and American national anthems.

Comer says the reaction from the Muscovites was incredible. Little children grabbed the American flag and kissed it, other Muscovites gave the victory sign and chanted, "America, America."

"When we were marching by, the people were six, seven, eight people deep. They all left the parade route and followed us, singing and clapping."

"After the parade, the band held an impromptu concert. The Soviet people were singing, clapping and crying. It was just beautiful."

Comer was also impressed

JOHN (JAKE) COMER of Quincy, right, past national commander of the American Legion, receives a flower from a blind World War II Soviet veteran while marching in the recent Victory Day parade in Moscow.

by the friendliness expressed by the Soviet citizens who lined the 1.5 mile parade route.

"We just couldn't believe how friendly the Soviet people were toward the American people. We didn't ever talk about politics. We talked to the people with music, the international language."

"Everywhere we went during the 11 days, we were treated like royalty," he added.

Why the red carpet treatment?

"(The Soviets) feel the Americans represent the total picture of freedom. They know that America represents the ultimate in a free nation," Comer said, adding the Soviets appreciate the human rights granted by President Mikhail Gorbachev but desire more.

Perhaps the Soviets also associate the United States with a higher standard of living. Much of the Soviet economy is based on military might; as a result, their economy is soft and infrastructure weak. Long food and gas lines are common.

And, although there's a lot of natural beauty to the Soviet Union, there's also a lot of pollution, especially to fresh water. Comer and his wife brought bottled water to wash their teeth.

As for the visit's impact on improved relations between the two super powers, Comer said, "I don't think the impact will be felt for a while. But, realistically, it may start more tourism between the two countries and let them know Russian people are just like American people. They go to work and try hard to make a living."

"We don't have to like communism or their government. We were there to promote friendship and brotherhood. They just don't want any more war, just like us."

It appears the trip is paying peace dividends already. On June 8, Soviet Peace Committee President Genrikh Borovik will attend a welcome home reception and salute to Hill and the band at the Hillcrest function facility on Bear Hill Rd.

Borovik will express the feelings of Soviet citizens toward the American visit at the reception which will feature a concert by the band. He and Hill may discuss a future visit by a Soviet band to the United States.

Meanwhile, Comer has asked Ronald Kaufman of Quincy, deputy director of personnel for the Bush Administration, to allow the Waltham Band to play at the White House. Kaufman called the request "a great idea."

Council Turns Down Revaluation

The City Council voted by a 6-1 margin to turn down a $37,000 appropriation order to activate a tax equalization order sought by City Manager William J. Deegan Jr.

Only Mayor Thomas S. Burgin voted for the appropriation which would put in motion a $110,000 three-year plan to reevaluate all the property in the city.

"Such a program is absolutely inevitable," said Councillor Edna B. Austin. "But maybe this is not a good time to do it. I think it would be extremely unpopular. Perhaps the people need to be educated for it."

"The small homeowners will get it where the chicken got the axe," said Councillor Frank N. Orcutt. "The rich will benefit because much of their valuation has been frozen in cases before the Appellate Tax Board."

"Your comments indicate that you apparently have no concept of the problems confronting the assessors," said Duggan, adding that 30 percent of the tax burden was borne by business and industry when it should be 55 percent.

"With increasing pressure on tax rates it is more and more essential that the tax rate be applied equitably against assessable valuation."

CONSTITUTION SAILS

The American Export Lines cargo-passenger ship Constitution left the Fore River Shipyard for Commonwealth Pier, Boston, to host a U.S. Defense Bond program featuring Treasury Secretary John W. Snyder.

The departure of the Constitution left the shipyard with two destroyers and one cruiser under construction and contracts to build three tankers and five big cargo ships.

HOUSING OPPOSED

The City Council was entertaining a federal urban renewal grant of $500,000 with which to acquire a sub-standard housing, demolish it and resell the property to private investors for redevelopment.

Mayor Burgin opposed it.

"I'm all through with subsidizing housing," he said, "It Costs us too much. We have completed our obligations to veterans now. Subsidized housing discourages private enterprise."

Layered Meatloaf

Even though I enjoy cooking many different varieties of good, and love to dine out at a restaurant, my husband and I still think meatloaf, mashed potatoes and peas as one of our favorite entrees. Maybe it's a throw-back of all the times I cooked it for the kids when they were all home. I usually made creamed peas to go with it. Anyway, this week instead of making an ordinary meatloaf in a meatloaf pan, or a meatloaf stuffed roll, I made a layered meatloaf instead. I also used different seasonings.

LAYERED MEATLOAF

1½ Lbs ground beef
1 egg
1 cup plain breadcrumbs
½ cup or so seasoned breadcrumbs
1 Tbsp Bell's seasoning
1 Tbsp chili powder
1 small minced onion
8 oz. container low fat cottage cheese
1 bag fresh spinach ketchup and mustard for topping
salt and pepper to taste
½ cup grated cheese (any kind)

Cook the spinach your own favorite way and set aside. Mix the egg, breadcrumbs, Bell's seasoning, chili powder, onion, salt and pepper and grated cheese for the meatloaf. Or use your favorite meatloaf recipe. In a slightly greased baking pan, start with the meatloaf for the bottom layer, then the cottage cheese and then the spinach. The rest of the meatloaf mixture will be for the top layer. On top of that add the ketchup and mustard for the topping with small slices of onion. Bake uncovered in a 350 degree oven for about 40-45 minutes. Let stand for at least five minutes before cutting.

Charlene Sherman Honored As Big Sister Assn. Volunteer Of Year

The Big Sister Association of Greater Boston recently honored Charlene Sherman of Quincy as a "1990 Volunteer of the Year."

CHARLENE SHERMAN (left) of Quincy and her Little Sister, Cherie. Sherman was recently honored by the Big Sister Association as a 1990 Volunteer of the Year.

Sherman, who has been a Big Sister to 9-year old Cherie for 2½ years, was honored for going above and beyond her role as a Big Sister.

During her association with Big Sister, Sherman has attended South Shoe support group meetings and has participated in several fund-raising activities.

When asked what she gained from being a Big Sister, Sherman said that it gives her "great self-satisfaction and fulfillment." During the 2½ years she and Cherie have been matched, she notes, her Little Sister has become "more appreciative and thoughtful of others and has learned a great deal about sharing."

Jerry Martinson, Executive Director of the Big Sister Association, praised Sherman for her patience and dedication.

The Big Sister Association matches at-risk girls in Boston and 81 surrounding towns with stable and caring adult women who serve as role models and friends.

St. Anthony's Festival At St. John's June 15-16

The 15th annual St. Anthony's Festival sponsored by St. John's Parish will be held on the church grounds, 41 School St., Quincy, Friday, June 15 from 6 to 11 p.m. and Saturday, June 16 from noon to 11 p.m.

Proceeds from the festival will be used to support the parish building and charitable funds including a twenty-bed overnight shelter for homeless men, and a newly opened home for pregnant young women.

A special Mass in honor of St. Anthony of Padua, patron saint of Italians, will be celebrated Saturday (June 16) at 4 p.m. followed by a procession along School Street. Guest Celebrant and Homilist will be the Most Reverend Robert J. Banks, D.D., Auxiliary Bishop of Boston and Vicar General of the Diocese of Boston. Parts of the Mass will be said in Italian.

The festival will feature the awarding of a free trip to Italy.

The two-day celebration will include booths, special events, a wide variety of special foods and delicacies, music and entertainment, and games and prizes for children and adults.

There will also be a 3.5 mile road race on Saturday June 9 as part of the festival.

The festival has become a major attraction and most popular religious, social and cultural event of the spring season along the South Shore.

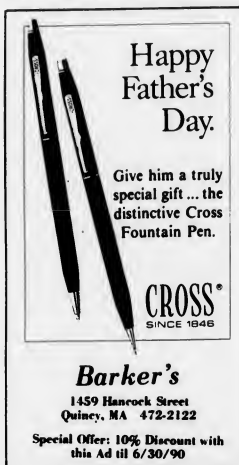

Admission is free and the public is invited to attend. Andiamo! Festa Italiano.

Mortgage Rates Expected To Drift Downward

Mortgage interest rates likely will trend downward in the summer, according to the latest monthly "Outlook for the Economy and Real Estate" from the National Association of Realtors.

In the outlook's economic commentary, NAR Chief Economist John A. Tuccillo notes that although rates increased steadily through mid-spring, they have not reached a point high enough to shut down the housing sector. According to Tuccillo, the rate increases are due to both psychological and real reasons—the psychological being market analysts' fear of inflation; the real factors, a reflection of rising interest rates in Germany and Japan.

With little change expected for the economies of the foreign countries, the key to a downward trend in U.S. interest rates will be a change in market perception of the U.S. economy, he says. Market recognition of the nation's slow economic growth should alleviate inflation worries, Tuccillo says.

"When that takes hold, rates will drift downward, and the summer of 1990 will be a rerun of 1989," he says.

Home construction and sales of new homes could be curbed in spite of rate movements later this year, the outlook says. It predicts continued weakness in these sectors mainly because of a credit crunch builders are facing. The tightening is due to a provision in last year's savings and loan reform law, which severely cut the maximum loan that a thrift can make to a single borrower.

A copy of the outlook, published by NAR's forecasting and policy analysis division, is enclosed. It contains the following predictions for the real estate industry and economy in general for 1990:

- Sales of existing single-family homes are expected to total 3,458 million units, rising 0.5 percent above sales for 1989.

- Sales of new single-family homes are expected to total 612,000 units, dropping 5.9 percent from 1989.

- Housing starts are expected to total 1,331 million units, dropping 3.9 percent from a year ago. A total of 997,000 starts for single-family units is expected, dropping 1.2 percent from 1989. Starts for buildings with two-to-four units are expected to total 44,000 units, falling 20.0 percent from 1989; and starts for buildings with five or more units are expected to total 290,000 units, falling 9.7 percent from

- 1989.
- The national median existing-home price is expected to reach $97,700, rising 4.9 percent from last year. The national median new-home price is expected to reach $127,900, rising 6.6 percent from 1989.

- Interest rates for fixed-rate, 30-year mortgages are expected to average 10.3 percent, remaining unchanged from 1989. Interest rates for one-year, adjustable-rate mortgages are expected to average 8.6 percent, falling from an average of 9.3 percent last year.

- The gross national product (the total value of the nation's goods and services) is expected to total $5,557 trillion in current dollar terms, representing an inflation-adjusted increase of 1.9 percent from 1989.

- Consumer price inflation is expected to reach a rate of 4.9 percent, compared to 4.8 percent in 1989.

- The civilian unemployment rate is expected to be 5.3 percent, unchanged from last year.

The National Association of Realtors, the nation's largest trade association, is the voice for real estate, representing nearly 800,000 members involved in all aspects of the real estate industry.

BRIGHT HORIZONS Child Center at Crown Colony Office Park.

Child Care Center Completed At Crown Colony

Vazza Associates and Edward A. Fish Associates, Inc., joint venture developers of Crown Colony Office Park in Quincy, have finished construction and opened Bright Horizons Children's Center at 2100 Crown Colony Drive.

The free-standing, 6,375 square-foot child care facility was designed and is operated by Bright Horizons Children's Centers, Inc. of Cambridge.

"We are very excited about being at Crown Colony and are looking forward to meeting the child care needs of tenants and members of the community," said Diane Sullivan, Vice President of Marketing and Corporate Sales and Consulting for Bright Horizons.

"The Vazza and Fish companies have made a wonderful contribution to Crown Colony tenants and to the surrounding business and residential communities. This is an important first on the South Shore."

This first phase of the Center will accommodate 100 children (16 infants, 24 toddlers, and 60 preschoolers). Phase II, to begin construction when Phase I has reached full capacity, will add a second 5,500 square-foot building and accommodate another 100 children. This will make Bright Horizons Children's Center at Crown Colony the largest free-standing child care facility in New England.

Bright Horizons, one of the country's leading designers and operators of worksite child care centers, conceived the Children's Center as an environment designed specifically to maximize education, safety and quality care for young children. Full and part-time programs for infants, toddlers, preschoolers and kindergartners as well as special summer programs, will be offered at the center.

The Bright Horizons curriculum, called The Developmental Path, fosters independence, self-esteem, and a love of learning through individual and group exploration. A unique science and nature curriculum celebrating Earth Day 1990 was developed by Bright Horizons Director of Education Bobbi Burns, and was endorsed by the National Earth Day 1990 Committee.

Crown Colony is a 175-acre master planned office park located seven miles south of Boston at the intersection of Route 93 (the Southeast Expressway), Route 128, Route 1 and Route 3.

The Crown Colony master plan provides for a 300-room hotel, retail shops, restaurants and cafes, a fitness center jogging trails, and a medical center. The Crown Colony Medical Center at 500 Congress St. has been completed. Meredith & Grew, Incorporated serves as exclusive leasing agent for the Park.

Directly across from the park entrance and serviced by shuttle buses is the Quincy Adams MBTA Station, with Logan Express bus service leaving regularly. Crown Colony received a 1989 PRISM Award for Best Commercial Project by the Builders Association of Greater Boston.

Companies or firms already in occupancy or under least at Crown Colony include: Aetna Insurance, Arbella Insurance, Clean Harbors, United States Fidelity & Guarantee, Tony Insurance, The Patriot Ledger, Kennedy & Lehan, Amwest Surety, Bromas Associates, Devine & Partners, Medical Claims Associates, Builders Association, The Quincy Savings Bank, Manpower Inc., and Fort Dearborn Life Insurance Company.

Vazza Associates, founded in 1965, is a diversified South Shore based real estate development company. Its portfolio includes over three million square feet of first class office and mixed-use development, suburban office parks and shopping centers. Edward A. Fish Associates, Inc. incorporated in 1951, is developer and manager of over 35 real estate projects throughout New England.

Founded in 1986, Bright Horizons currently operated 30 children's centers throughout New England and in New York, Virginia, and North Carolina. Bright Horizons works with developers, corporations, and individual employers to help address employee concerns about what has been called "the benefit of the 90's": worksite child care. For information about the Children's Center at Crown Colony call Heather Samson of Bright Horizons at 617-577-8020.

Spring HOME IMPROVEMENT

Wood flooring: there's a product for every interior design style, every budget

From the fancy parquets in Versailles, to the hand-hewn planks in Mount Vernon, to the contemporary white heringbone flooring in a New York City townhouse, wood has been the flooring choice (or necessity) for hundreds of years.

For discerning homeowners today, it is obviously the flooring choice. And what a choice!

There seems to be an unlimited number of wood flooring options—from planks and parquets, to species that range from popular oak to exotic merbau, in natural finishes or soft pastels, for professional or do-it-yourself installation, in any price range you want.

One major floor covering company interviewed for this article counted over 1,200 different flooring products in their line.

"Wood flooring is more popular today than ever before," said Cliff Morrison, director of marketing for Tarkett, Hardwood Division-North America, based in Johnson City, Tenn.

"Five years ago, wood flooring was used primarily in the dining room and foyer," he said. "Today, it is very common to find wood flooring used throughout the house."

And it's no wonder. Not only is there a product to suit any interior design style, but with the advanced factory finishes, wood flooring can be used in almost any room. And there's a product for every budget, said Morrison.

Morrison cited two Tarkett products, one brand new, the other a best seller, as examples of how the company responds to consumer demand.

"Our research confirmed that the trend was moving away from the linear, plank look to a renewed interest in the patterned look of parquets," he said. "To respond to that trend, we introduced the OakWeld™ Collection of prefinished parquets."

The OakWeld Collection features the traditional mosaic pattern in four species: Oak, Parawood, Merbau and Ash. Oak, Parawood and Ash are available in three popular finishes: honey, polar white and natural.

Malaysian Merbau is available in a natural finish. Merbau is an extremely hard wood, which makes it ideal for high-traffic areas such as entryways and even kitchens, noted Morrison. Three coats of acrylic finish ensure long-lasting beauty and durability.

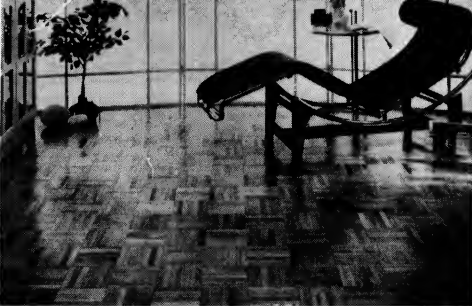

Best of all, the OakWeld Collection is very reasonably priced, making it competitive with carpeting, sheet vinyl and vinyl floor tile, he added.

The best seller Morrison alluded to is Longstrip, a prefinished laminated plant product that can be installed over most subfloors without nails or adhesives. Longstrip products now produced in Sweden by Tarkett's parent company, have been available in North America for over eight years and are one of the company's most popular lines.

"Our Longstrip products are available in a wide range of species and stains, from a natural colonial-like pine plank to a contemporary strip oak look in Nordic white," said Morrison. "And with the tough Swedish polyurethane finish, we recommend Longstrip for almost any room in the house, including the kitchen."

THE TRADITIONAL MOSAIC PARQUET PATTERN, very much at home in this contemporary living room, is from the new OakWeld™ Collection from Tarkett, Hardwood Division-North America. Its three-coat acrylic finish ensures long-lasting beauty and durability.

'Medicine Prayer And Healing' Sermon Topic At First Parish Unitarian

This Sunday, Dr. Sheldon W. Bennett, minister, will deliver the sermon "Medicine, Prayer and Healing" during the 10:30 a.m. service at United First Parish Church (Unitarian) in Quincy Center.

Reflecting on the Twitchell trial, Dr. Bennett will consider how science and religion are each a source of power for the healing of ills—social and spiritual, as well as physical. Dr. Bennett will also consider how each power can be also misused and abused. The church choir will sing anthems by Elgar and Handel. Music director Norman Corey will play organ works by Scheidt, Pachelbel and Frescobaldi.

There will be a ceremony of child dedication for Rebecca Joan Cavanagh, daughter of Tom and Cindy Cavanagh, during the service.

Visitors are welcome and are invited to attend the social hour following the service. Ushers are Joyce and Mark Sullivan. The greeter is Helen Knight. Hosts for social hour are Julie Dzengeleski and Elaine Sincavage.

Historic First Parish, "Church of the Presidents," is located at Hancock St., Quincy Sq., opposite City Hall. Call 773-1290 for further information.

Trinity Sunday At Covenant Congregational

At the 10:45 a.m. worship service Sunday at the Covenant Congregational Church, Whitwell and Granite Streets, the sermon will focus on the Trinity, its meaning and significance.

Rev. Kathleen Graves, co-pastor with Rev. Kirk Johnson, will preach.

Children's Day will be recognized with the presentation of Bibles to Mason LaCoste and Jack Lovendale. The Sunday School picnic will also follow the service. Church School, with classes for all ages, nursery through adult, will begin at 9:30 a.m. It will be the final meeting before summer.

The choir, directed and accompanied on the organ by Richard Smith, Minister of Music, will sing.

During the service, a nursery is available for children age five and younger. The attendant will be Nancy Johnson.

Activities for the week are: choir rehearsal Wednesday at 7 p.m., a Memorial Fund Committee meeting at 8:15 p.m., a music committee meeting on Thursday at 7 p.m. and the Naomi Society annual picnic on Monday, June 11 at the church. The Auxiliary members are also invited to attend.

For more information about any of the church's activities please call the church office at 479-5728.

'Church School Sunday' At Point

This Sunday, at Quincy Point Congregational Church, the 10:30 a.m. worship service will be conducted by children, young people, Church School teachers, members of the Christian Education Board and the pastors, the Revs. Fred and Carol Atwood-Lyon.

Members of the 1990 Confirmation Class will serve as ushers.

Theme for "Church School Sunday" will be "Discipleship: 'Come, Follow Me'" with children and youth from each class conducting a portion of the order of worship, including a call to worship by the nursery and kindergarten children and their teachers; a prayer of invocation by Jason McAuliffe; the Lord's Prayer by the first graders and congregation; and the 23rd Psalm by the second graders.

Scripture readings and sermonettes will be presented by the older children, including grades three through nine. Michael Bolduc will lead in the "Time With the Adults", a lesson for grownups rather than the usual "Time with the Children".

Music by the children will include "If Any Man Would Come After Me", "I've Decided to Follow Jesus" and "Peace Be With You". The Organ Selections by Dr. Herman Weiss, Church Organist and Choir Director, include "Song of Youth" by Froberger and "Allegro Vivo" by Dandrieu, and "Spring Song" by Haydn.

Sunday's service will also include the awarding of Bibles to children of the second and sixth grades, the presentation of Certificates of Promotion, Certificates for Outstanding Attendance and geranium plants for children attending this service. Sunday's Church School service will be the final Sunday for classes. Children and young people are reminded to arrive at church this Sunday at 9:30 a.m. for their last rehearsal in preparation for the 10:30 a.m. service. Church School classes will begin again on Sunday, September 9.

Beginning Sunday, June 17, and continuing throughout the summer months, morning worship at the church will be moved to 10 a.m. The church is located at Washington St. and Southern Artery.

Infant Care is provided in the Crib Room each Sunday throughout the summer from 10 to 11:15 a.m. A social hour is provided after worship services from 11 to 11:30 a.m.

For more information call 773-6424, Monday through Thursday, 8 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Squantum Church Members Wear Red For Pentecost Sunday

The congregation of the First Church of Squantum celebrated Pentecost Sunday by wearing the color red to church and sharing in the Lord's Supper.

Red, the traditional color of Pentecost, symbolizes the coming of the Holy Spirit in power on the early Christian Church.

The Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin, pastor, preached on the subject, "A New Pentecost."

The Chancel Choir and the congregation were accompanied by Janet Williamson on the piano and Mary Ruth Scott on the organ.

Seated at the Lord's Table with the pastor were Deacons Sandra Ahearn, Richard Hendry, Mindi Hurd, Tom Williamson and Andrew Ogilvie.

Sandra Stohberg and Ellen Ogilvie were the greeters. Torie Wallin and Harry Holmes were the ushers, and the Fellowship Hour was hosted by Virginia Sorenson and Edna Swanson.

The Bible Study group, which is studying "The Old Testament Prophets", continues to meet each Wednesday night at 7:15 p.m. The annual Flea Market will be held Saturday, June 16 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Tables may be reserved by calling Ruth Swenson at 328-1990 or Hazel Mayne at 328-4367.

The service this Sunday begins at 10:30 a.m. Members of the congregation who have graduated recently will be recognized. Young people in "The Way Up" will be going on a mountain-climbing trip right after church and should dress appropriately.

Flea Market At Atlantic Church

A Flea Market will be held Saturday, June 16, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. at Atlantic Memorial Church, Sagamore St. and Newbury Ave., North Quincy.

North Quincy Annual Sidewalk Sale June 22-23

The North Quincy Business and Professional Association will hold its annual Sidewalk Sale on Friday and Saturday, June 22 and 23, from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Craft people may take part in the two-day sale by telephoning John Doran, president of the association at 328-0100, or Carmelo Corbin at 328-1926 for further information.

More than $1,000 in prizes will be awarded. The Quincy Sun centerfold carries coupons to be filled out and dropped at each store. The drawing will be Saturday at 6 p.m.

Many activities are planned for children to see and do. The grown ups will find super buys at an old fashioned sidewalk sale.

Peter Benelli To Retire As Thayer Academy's Headmaster

After 23 years as headmaster and 32 years at Thayer Academy, Peter J. Benelli announces the next academic year will be his last in that capacity.

Benelli will continue his association with Thayer, as a special consultant on capital development, working to build an enriched endowment program for Thayer.

A Quincy native, and graduate of Quincy High School, Benelli did his undergraduate work at Yale earning a B.A. in English, and graduate work at Harvard, obtaining an M.Ed. in English Education. When he came to Thayer in 1958, Benelli taught in the English Department, and served as a college counselor and football, and baseball coach before becoming headmaster.

"My dream," Benelli confided in a letter to David Ries, Chairman of the Academy's Board of Trustees, "has always been to see the Academy strong and secure in capital resources...I firmly believe that the continued growth of this Academy and the support of students and faculty can be ensured only by serious growth in our capital resources."

Benelli described his career as rich and rewarding. "I have been able to assist hundreds of students and teachers in their important work and nothing could be more gratifying."

In reply to Benelli's letter, David Ries, Chairman of the Academy's Board of Trustees, lauded the headmaster for his "vision, energy and firm hand on the controls. It is rare," Ries asserted, "to find in one individual the combination of good judgment, intelligence, and authority it takes to make a great headmaster...we are deeply grateful to you for your commitment to Thayer."

As plans are underway for the formation of a committee to conduct a national search for a new head for the 113-year-old coed day school, Ries acknowledged Benelli's professionalism in announcing his retirement this year.

"We also appreciate your concern for Thayer, evidenced by the one year advance notice of your plans. We will begin the difficult task of finding your successor this spring. With luck, we will have located a new Head in time to allow a smooth transfer of responsibility."

Keynote Commencement Speaker Chao Urges QJC Graduates Toward Public Service

The commencement address was given by Elaine L. Chao, Deputy Secretary of the United States Department of Transportation. Chao, the highest ranking Asian-American in the Federal Government, told the graduates that they could hold no higher ambition than public service.

"The country needs your energy, enthusiasm and hard work," she said. "I know you are up to these challenges and will serve society well."

Chao said that only through increased volunteerism can the country grow stronger, and not through expanding the role of government.

Also during commencement ceremonies, Francis Anselmo, 92, a 32 member of the Quincy School Committee, was given a distinguished service and trusteeship award.

The president's community service award was presented to City Councillor Patricia M. Toland who has also served six years on the School Committee.

The graduating students:

Vo-Tech To Merge With QHS In Fall

By JANE ARENA

The last graduating class of the Quincy Vocational Technical High School had only 53 members.

Declining enrollment in recent years may have been the impetus for the merger of Quincy Vo-Tech and Quincy High School, but, according to Vo-Tech Director Joseph Mazzarella, it was not the reason.

"The declining enrollment was a good opportunity to take advantage of what we feel is necessary," he said Tuesday. "That is to infuse and involve technical education in all education because of the needs of industry and society today."

Mazzarella, who will become director of occupational education for Quincy Public Schools in the fall, cited a recent study conducted by the National Center for Research in Berkeley, California which called for new methods for secondary education.

"We should be integrating technical education with academic education," he said, "and we feel pretty good about being at the forefront of something the country is moving toward."

Mazzarella explained that his new position will involve career education programs in K-12 and will also incorporate post-secondary career education programs. He will be working closely with business departments in the high schools and with industrial arts and art departments in middle schools and high schools. "While it may seem like we're doing away with a school, we're not," he said, "we're emphasizing its importance for the entire city."

North Bows Out With Loss To Durfee

By TOM SULLIVAN

The North Quincy baseball team's first Suburban League season ended last Saturday with a disappointing 6-5 loss to Durfee of Fall River in the opening round of the Eastern Mass. tournament.

The Raiders, who won the league championship last year, finished second to Brockton this season with their only league losses coming at the hands of the Boxers.

Leo Donovan's North team finished the regular season at 13-6 (9-2 in the league).

Durfee ace Jeff Davis pitched all the way for Durfee and allowed six hits and two walks while striking out 11. "He's their big gun," said Donovan. "He's a quality pitcher and really shut us down."

North took a quick 1-0 lead but Durfee scored three times in the second inning and added single runs in the third and fourth innings.

North cut the lead to 5-3 when Mark Kelleher blasted a two-run homer in the fifth but Durfee added its final run in the bottom of the inning.

North cut the lead to 6-5 in the ninth on a single by Erik DeBoer, a throwing error and a sacrifice fly by Jim Glynn. Davis, however, got the next two batters on a strikeout and a line drive to first base, ending North's hopes of a comeback.

DeBoer, the top pitcher in the league, went the route for North and was touched up for nine hits. He struck out six and walked only one.

Kelleher had a single in addition to his homer. DeBoer had two hits and Jim Bryan and Jeff Calvert had one apiece.

"It was a good season and, despite the fact we are losing a lot of outstanding players, I am looking forward to next year, our first in the Old Colony League," said Donovan. "Dave Perdios' junior varsity had a fine season with the same record as ours, 13-6, and I think several of them will help us next year."

One of those jayvees is freshman Sean Donovan, the coach's son, who, in his only varsity game this year, pitched a five-hitter and struck out nine in a 7-1 win over Quincy.

Returning varsity players will be George Rozanitis, Kelleher, Doug McLean, Ron Boudreau and Scott Dunn.

DeBoer will attend the University of Connecticut in the fall on a full baseball scholarship.

Legion Baseball

Morrisette, Quincy, Wollaston Underway

The Morrisette Legion baseball team, which finished second to Braintree in Zone 6 last year, defeated Milton in the playoffs but lost to Braintree, opened its season last night (Wednesday) with a home with Randolph at Adams Field.

Morrisette will host Mass Tire Friday night at 8 at Adams and will meet Wollaston next Wednesday at 8 at Adams.

Quincy met Carter Post last night, will host Mass Tire Monday at Adams and will be at Weymouth next Wednesday at 6.

Wollaston played at Dorchester last night, will be at Holbrook Friday night at 8:30, will be at Milton at 6

Monday and will meet Morrisette next Wednesday night at 8 at Adams.

Morrisette, again coached by Dave Perdios and Tom Malvesti, has an excellent nucleus of veterans to build around.

They include Erik DeBoer of North Quincy High, the top pitcher this year in the Suburban League, shortstop Tony Anderlonis of North Quincy, infielder-pitcher Mike Baylis from B.C. High, third baseman Jeff Calvert of North Quincy, outfielder Jim Glynn of North and pitcher-outfielder Kevin MacDougall of North.

Also pitcher Gary Rawdon of North, first baseman George Rozanitis of North, outfielder Dan Ryan of Fitchburg State, catcher-infielder Brian Taylor of Quincy and pitcher Billy Warren of North.

Leading the newcomers is catcher Tom Balzano of Quincy, the fourth leading batter in the Suburban League this year. Others are infielder Vincent Anderlonis of North, pitcher Patrick Clifford of Abp. Williams, pitcher Sean Donovan of North, outfielder-pitcher Liam Higgins of North, outfielder Mark Kelleher of North and pitcher Mike Malvesti of Quincy.

Ray Cattaneo, coach for many years, is back as manager, Berger Ryan is back as scorer and Frank Osborne is the athletic officer.

Triple A

Pirates Shell White Sox, 9-1

The Locker Room Pirates walloped the Local 2222 White Sox, 9-1, in Triple A Baseball League action.

Jarred Leikauskas pitched a two-hitter and struck out nine. Chris Pagliarulo and Laikauskas had two hits each and Mike Ferguson had a double. Brian Brownell played a fine game in left field.

The Pirates topped the Fernald Plumbing Dodgers, 11-5, with Laikauskas allowing six hits and striking out 13. Ferguson had four hits, Jon Mahoney three and Sean Carta and Pagliarulo two each. Ferguson had two triples. Cara a triple and Dan O'Donnell a double.

The hot Pirates also edged the Darby & Alexander Mets, 9-8, with Ferguson the winning pitcher, giving up five hits and striking out 13. Mahoney had four hits, Laikauskas and Pagliarulo three apiece and Ferguson and O'Donnell two each. Pagliarulo played a strong defense.

Local 2222 defeated Papa Gino's, 17-7, with winning pitcher Mike Lynch striking out 18. T.J. Miller was the losing pitcher.

For Local 2222 Joe Carr and Brian Walsh each had three hits and Lynch and Jonathan Haddad two apiece. Carr had a triple, Walsh a triple and double and Lynch two triples. Matt McDonough and Robert Casey played strong defense.

Bob Shepard had a grand slam homer for Papa Gino's.

Local 2222 also topped the Mets, 12-8, scoring seven runs in the fourth inning. Lynch was again the winner and had 12 strikeouts.

Walsh had a home run and single and Andrew Bisconte and Vinny Pivnicny played well defensively.

Hanson goalkeeper.

Five minutes before the half Chad Fitzpatrick, Quincy's leading scorer, scored his first of two goals with an assist from Mike Sullivan. Good scoring chances by Mike Mulvey, Ben Burnes and Chris Gregoli were turned aside.

Both teams' defenses were tough throughout most of the second half. Quincy, led by Dan Kinnecom, Steve and Jeff Marks, Kevin Cellucci and Jamie Parisi kept Hanson from scoring while midfielders Randy Teetham and Bard Hajrizaj controlled the play.

With 10 minutes left, Fitzpatrick scored his ninth goal of the season after Paul Hussey got him the ball 10 yards out. Burnes, Teetham and Jerry Mulcahy also had good scoring chances.

Quincy goalie Steve Marks stopped a penalty shot late in the game to preserve the shutout. Quincy's fifth in seven games, Tom Daley, who played the first three quarters in goal, also played well.

Murphy with Anthony Bianco, Garvin Chan, Chris Hill, John Lewis, Mike MacDonald, Aiden O'Donoghue and Brian Doherty outstanding.

An Australian football team has 18 players.

Babe Ruth

Barry's Stretches Win Streak To 6

Barry's Deli improved its record to 6-0 in the Babe Ruth League with three wins during the past week.

In its latest game Barry's overcame an 8-0 deficit to edge the Firemen, 10-9.

Barry's trailed, 6-0, after three innings and the score became 8-0 in the fourth as the Firemen added two runs.

In the bottom half Barry's erupted for six runs, sparked by a bases loaded triple by Danny Duncan. In the bottom of the sixth Barry's scored four to take a 10-8 lead. The Firemen added a run in the seventh.

Duncan was the winning pitcher, giving up seven hits, four in the first inning, striking out seven and walking five. He also led the offense with three hits. Chris Murphy, Jeff Craig and Mike Connors each had two hits and Dave Raftery, Chris Geary and Sean Kennerson one each. Kennerson, Jeff Tirrell and Ron McGann played solid defense and also contributing to the win were Neil Hutchinson, Derek Thompson, Patrick Sweeney, Kenny Ledwak and Jimmy Goldrick.

Bob Hanaford pitched well in defeat. Serge Belcastro and Jay Schnabel had two hits each for the Firemen and Dewey Holmes, Keith Martinson and Ed Chin had a hit each. Chin also had two great catches in center field and Mark Carlson made several good plays at third base.

Barry's also blanked the Elks, 12-0, behind the three hit pitching of Connors, who struck out 12. Connors and Craig led the attack with three hits each and Craig also played well behind the plate. Rookie Jimmy Goldrick had two singles and rookies Kennerson and McGann also had hits. Fifi Tirrell, Duncan, Murphy, Hutchinson and Ledwak played strong defense.

For the Elks Pat Bryan pitched well and Johnny McGlothlin made several good catches in center field. A.J. Carthas had two hits and Scott Khoeler one.

Barry's edged Golden Print, 4-2, with Raftery pitching three hit ball, striking out nine and walking four. He also had a long triple.

Kennerson had two singles and did another fine job at third base. Also having key hits were Murphy, Duncan, Geary and McGann.

Thompson drove in the winning and insurance runs. Raftery struck out the side in the last inning.

Dave Reinhart pitched well for Golden Print and also had one of the three hits. Chris Anastos and Aidan O'Donoghue had the others.

Bryan Post VFW improved to 3-2 as Rob Kane turned in two outstanding pitching performances.

Bryan defeated Local 1139, 12-3, and Houghs Neck, 5-2, behind Kane's fine pitching. In 21 innings he has allowed only one earned run.

Against Local 1139 Bryan took a two run lead in the second but Local tied it up in the third. Bryan erupted for 10 runs in the seventh on key hits by George Wirtz, Bill Morrissey, Mike Koski, Rich Gorman and Kane's long triple. Terry Sheehan also had a single. Bob Shaw provided fine baserunning and outfielders Todd Portesi, Tom Nutley, Sheehan and Dan Donahue played flawless defense. Wirtz, Koski, Gorman, Sean Schatzl and Paul King also stood out on defense. Catcher Morrissey did an exceptional job.

Local's Pat Shea pitched well, striking out nine and also had two singles. Paul Tangney also had two hits and Taylor Ahearn had a clutch single driving in two runs.

Ahearn's RBI was set up by a perfect bunt by Pat Donahue. Shortstop Jim Sapienza and first baseman Costa Rozanitis anchored the Local defense.

Kane pitched a four-hitter and struck out nine against Houghs Neck. Catcher Morrissey threw out two runners and made several other fine defensive plays.

Kane and Nutley had two hits each, Morrissey had a double and Wirtz, Portesi and Jeff Breslin singled.

Bryan jumped out to a 3-0 lead in the first as Kane, who had four stolen bases, and Nutley scored on Morrissey's double. Morrissey scored on an infield out.

Bryan went up, 4-0, in the fifth as Nutley singled, Portesi singled and Sheehan hit a long sacrifice fly.

Brian Connolly led off the sixth for Houghs Neck with a triple and scored on an infield out.

Bryan added a pad run in the sixth as Kane scored on Wirtz' hit.

Houghs Neck added a run in the seventh on hits by Steve Provost and Jason Picardi.

Tom Satkevich represented the tying run at the plate but lined out to Koski, who made an excellent unassisted double play.

Provost hit the ball hard each time and turned in a fine game in left field and Mark Walsh pitched well for HN.

For Bryan, Breslin had a nice all-around game, hitting with authority and playing well in right field. Schatzl, Gorman, Shaw, Donohue and Matt McSweeney also contributed to the win.

Harvey's Disabled Veterans Fishing Derby July 10

Harvey's Salt Water Fishing Club will hold its 30th annual Disabled Veterans Fishing Derby July 10.

Veterans from hospitals throughout the state are treated to a day of fishing, fun and companionship. The event is held at the Quincy Yacht Club with the Boston Harbor Lobstermen's Association providing the boats.

After the fishermen are in, dinner is served and the talk turns to the 'one that got away.' About 450 people are served, including the veterans, nurses, boat captains and companies including the Telephone Pioneers, the Mass. Lottery and Budweiser.

The first formal rules for baseball required that the winning team score no fewer than twenty-one runs.

Boys Under 10 Clinch Top Spot In Division 2

The Quincy Youth Soccer League boys under 10 team, sponsored by Dependable Cleaners, clinched first place in Div. 2 of the South Shore League and will face either Randolph or Abington Saturday at a site to be determined for the league championship.

Quincy defeated Hanson, 3-0, to set up the final game of the season. After an evenly played 10 minutes, forward Nick Bissante broke the scoring ice, taking a perfectly placed pass from wing Sean Slattery and driving it by the

Boys Under 16 In First Place

With wins over Weymouth and Raynham, the Quincy Youth Soccer League's boys under 16 team moved into first place in Div. 1 of the South Shore League.

Quincy, sponsored by Beacon Sports, shut out Weymouth, 3-0. Scoring were Kevin Kane with two goals and Matt Flynn with one. Kevin Kane, Chris Cunio and John MacNeil had assists. Mike Martorano, Paul McCluskey and Dean Morris played strong defense.

Quincy then blasted Raynham, 8-0, with goalie Kevin Murphy recording his third shutout. Everyone played well in support of

An Australian football team has 18 players.

Junior League

McCarthy Hurls No-Hitter, Fans 12

Joey McCarthy pitched a no-hitter as Kiwanis blanked Foley Chrysler, 5-0, in Quincy Junior Baseball League play. He struck out 12.

Joe Biagini pitched well for Foley.

Shortstop Dave Rowell helped preserve the no-hitter with two outstanding defensive plays, ranging into the hole to field a ball that went off the third baseman's glove and throwing the batter out. He also drove in a run. The big hit came off the bat of J.P. DeAngelis, whose two-out double in the third drove in Jeff Russell and Danny Toland. Russell also doubled and Toland reached when hit by a pitch.

Kiwanis, which improved to 7-3 with three straight wins, also shut out the VFW, 2-0, behind the two-hit pitching of Russell, who struck out 12. Russell improved to 5-0. Mike Kenney was the hard-luck losing pitcher, giving up only three hits.

Kiwanis scored once in the first when Russell hit a sacrifice fly driving in Chris Malone, who had singled. The second run came in the third when McCarthy drove in Russell with one of his two hits. DeAngelis played excellent defense at first base. Kiwanis also topped Burgin Platner, 9-8, scoring eight runs in the second inning.

For Burgin Platner Pat Tevenan had a double and two singles, John Duffy two singles, Robbie Callow a triple, Billy Barron a double, and John Chagnon and Tom Cunio a single each. Callow had a triple and stole home.

Burgin Platner defeated Colonial Federal, 8-4, with Duffy the winning pitcher.

Matt Razevich, Duffy, Jason Chagnon and John Chagnon had hits for Burgin Platner and Callow again stole home. Cunio and John Laukanun teamed up for a fast double play.

The Elks won two and lost one during the past week, rolling over Quincy Cable, 9-0, with Mark Glynn, the player of the month for May, pitching a one-hitter, striking out six and walking only one. He also went 2-for-4 with two RBIs. Robbie Pirelli was 2-for-2 and Scott Cooper, John Riley, Steve Finn and Brad Smith each had a hit.

Defensively Todd Sullivan, Scott Dyer, Sean Tirrell and

Cooper played well. The play of the game came when Ronnie Gamel, with the bases loaded, made a fine catch against the wall in foul ground.

The Elks lost to South Shore Buick, 3-1, despite a fine pitching performance by 10-year old Matt McLaughlin, allowing only four hits in four innings.

The Elks topped Keohane's, 6-4, with a strong pitching effort by Glynn, who pitched a two-hitter and struck out nine.

Riley and Tirrell had key hits. After a walk to Cooper, Tirrell put down a picture-perfect bunt to advance Cooper, who, with a burst of speed, scored from second base on a wild pitch. Billy Armstrong, Fred Corson, Dan Calnan and Riley played strong defense.

The standings:
NATIONAL LEAGUE—Rotary, 11-0; Keohane's, 5-6; Houghs Neck, 3-7-1; Elks, 3-6-1; Colonial Federal, 3-7; S.S. Buick, 2-8-1.

First Owens Memorial Baseball Scholarships To Be Presented June 28

The first Thomas A. Owens memorial baseball scholarships, given in memory of the late co-founder of the Quincy semi-pro tournament, the Quincy Sheriffs and the Independent Youth Baseball Association, who died in October, 1988, will be presented Thursday night, June 28, at 8 p.m. at Adams Field prior to the Morrisette-Quincy Legion baseball game.

The first recipients are Rich Burns of Quincy High and Quincy Legion and Tony Anderionis of North Quincy High and Morrisette Legion.

"These scholarships will continue as long as the Owens Memorial Tournament is held at Adams Field," said Al Julian, co-founder of the tournament and the Sheriffs along with Owens.

Burns played in the Quincy Little League with the State Street Visa team for four years, was the MVP and league all-star. He played for Golden Market Press in Babe Ruth League for three years and made the all-star and all-tournament team. He is now in his third year with Quincy Legion as a pitcher and third baseman.

At age 16 he was 3-0 in his first year as a starting pitcher. This season he is captain of the Quincy High team and playing well as pitcher and third baseman. He plans to continue his education at Fitchburg State College and to play semi-pro ball.

Anderionis has also played in the Quincy Little League and Babe Ruth League and this year will play his final season for Morrisette Legion.

In Babe Ruth League he changed from outfield to shortstop and has become one of the top shortstops in the Suburban League for North Quincy High and in Zone 6 for Morrisette. As a sophomore he made the Suburban League all-star team and last year, starring for the league champions, he again made the all-star team. This year, as a North tri-captain, he has made the all-stars for the third straight year.

He will attend Brandeis University and hopes to play for the Rockland Royals of the Budweiser/Cranberry League.

This year's Thomas A. Owens Memorial Tournament will be held starting on or about Aug. 10.

Anyone wishing to donate to the scholarship fund is asked to send a check made out to the T.A. Owens Memorial Scholarship Fund to Julian at 320 Beale Street, Quincy 02170 or call him at 773-8142 for further information.

Farm League

Yankees Outslug Indians, 16-14

The Egan Sunoco Yankees outslug the Indians, 16-14 in the Junior Farm Baseball League.

Matt Nicklas got his second win with Kevin Shaw getting a save. Joe Watson found two hits, a homer and single, Adam Goodrich, Shaw, Brian Kalil, Nicklas and Eric Rackauskas two hits each and Matt Nelson and Jeff Solomon one apiece. Chris Lee, Mike Clancy and Billy Meade had strong games.

The Yellow Cab Pirates edged the Tigers, 9-8, with Jose Diaz, the winning pitcher, having a long home run. Adam Radzevich and Matt Kiesel had two hits each and Matt Graham had two, including the game winner. For the Tigers Brian Doyle went 3 for 3, including a home run, Billy Connolly and Joe Sullivan each had two hits and Chris Cummings pitched well.

The Pirates also topped the Angels, 12-5, with Kiesel the winning pitcher. John Kisielous, Brent Austin and Eric France paced the attack. For the Angels pitcher Matt Tobin struck out 13 and Jason Lisowski, Matt Praetch and Tim O'Connor played well.

The Pirates remained undefeated with a 12-8 victory over the Cubs. Jacob Shields, Mike Young and Matt Gibbons had big hits for the Pirates and Diaz, in relief, struck out the final batter with the bases full.

The First American Bank Dodgers remained a half game out of first place as a result of two impressive wins during the past week.

Mike Powers, Kevin Walsh and Chris Bregoli combined to shut out the Mets in a 28-0 walkaway. Twelve runs in the first inning keyed the win with Ryan Desher driving in two runs with a single and T.J. Wilson having a timely hit.

Paul Wise hit a bases-loaded triple late in the game to wrap up the decision.

For the Dodgers Walsh, Powers and Wilson had three hits each. Wise had five RBI and Philip Belmont, Jonathan Brillo, Pat Dolbeare and Desher each drove in three runs. Also driving in runs were Bregoli, Steve Rochon and Tommy Gouthro.

Mike Sullivan and Matt Hill played well for the Mets.

The Dodgers overcame a 5-3 deficit after two innings to post a 14-5 win over the Orioles.

Walsh pitched four no hit innings and also drove in six runs, which included a grand slam home run which gave the Dodgers the lead.

Also starring was Wilson, who had a triple, single and four RBI. Also playing well for the Dodgers were Kerry Twomey, who scored three runs and Chris Griffin, who had an RBI. Steve Marks had a long double.

Mike McEvoy and Kevin Garrigan stood out for the Orioles.

3 High School Graduations On Ch. 3

Quincy Community Television, the local programming channel for Continental Cablevision in Quincy, will provide special rebroadcasts of the Quincy High School, Vocational Technical High School and North Quincy High School graduation ceremonies this week and again later in June.

The North Quincy commencement was scheduled to be rebroadcast Wednesday, June 6 starting at 6 p.m. and Wednesday, June 13 at 8 p.m. The Quincy and Voc-Tech graduations will rerun tonight (Thursday), at 6 p.m. and Wednesday, June 20 at 8 p.m.

Channel 3 originally carried the ceremonies live from Veteran's Memorial Field Monday and Tuesday of this week using the QCTV Mobile Van. Community Television crews arrived at the field at 2 p.m. to volunteer their time setting up the cameras and running the many video and audio cords necessary for live, multi-camera shoots.

Community Television

Volunteers are trained in television production workshops provided free of charge by Continental Cablevision to anyone who lives or works in Quincy. Volunteers assist in all aspects of QCTV productions, running cameras, directing, audio, graphics, and many of the detailed functions necessary to quality productions.

Continental Cablevision and the QCTV Volunteers who worked to produce the live graduation ceremonies wish the best of luck to all those who graduated this year.

Standing Ovation For QHS Chorus

The Quincy High School Chorus was rewarded with a standing ovation at the conclusion of their 1990 production "Through The Years" presented recently at the North Quincy High School auditorium.

"Through the Years" featured song and dance numbers from the turn of the century to the present. Included was a tribute to Florenz Zeigfield that included elaborate Zeigfield-style costumes being modeled by chorus members.

performed by the chorus; by the Horizons, a ten member show choir; and by a number of talented soloists, including Lisa Connelly, Ruthie Hernandez, John Porcaro, Dan Timmons, Jackie Potter, Teresa DeAngelis, and Wendy Eng.

The show was produced and directed by Mr. Salvatore Bartolotti and choreographed by Ms. Joan Kennedy. Individual numbers were choreographed by students Lisa Connelly, Ruthie Hernandez, Jackie Potter and Wendy Eng.

Quincy City Festival At Marina Bay June 12-17

A new family entertainment attraction, the first annual Quincy City Festival will be held at Marina Bay from Tuesday, June 12 through Sunday, June 17.

Fiesta Shows, the largest carnival in New England will provide the midway rides, games, and eating concessions.

In addition to the huge midway, several free shows will also be presented. Under a colorful 40 foot by 80 foot circus tent, patrons will find the Commerford Petting Zoo. Dozens of exotic animals from around the world roam in open pens anxious to be touched and fed. Elephant and camel rides will also be available.

Robinson's Racing Pigs

from Tampa, Florida will present six shows daily around the specially constructed course. This show has proven most popular at fairs and special events throughout the country.

The Wallenda family, having entertained more circus fans for a longer period of time than any other performers in history, will provide a spectacular aerial demonstration throughout the six day festival.

Money-saving promotions are planned for the local event. Wednesday, June 13 is "Family Night." Newspaper and direct mail ad coupons will allow a free ride and soda and reduced admission.

Thursday, June 14 and Saturday, June 16 feature

"Pay-One-Price" ride specials. On Thursday, patrons purchasing a handstamp from the 6 p.m. opening to 10 p.m. can ride unlimited mechanical rides for $8 ($7 with newspaper and direct mail coupon), until closing. On Saturday, handstamps will be sold from 12 noon to 5 p.m. providing unlimited mechanical rides for $6 ($5 with newspaper and direct mail coupon), until 6 p.m.

In addition to the usual carnival midway delights, ethnic foods will be available. The festival opens at 6 p.m. nightly, 12 noon on Saturday, and Sunday. Admission is $1., children under 6 are free. Free parking is being provided throughout the event.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

We learn the words to the "Pledge of Allegiance" early in our lives. Yet many Americans do not know the history of the heritage of our flag. They are unaware that the first Flag Day was in 1777. On June 14 of that year, the Continental Congress passed a resolution, legally establishing the "stars and stripes." As a young nation, our new flag proved to be a symbol of strength and victory. We all link the name of Francis Scott Key and the then poem "The Star Spangled Banner." Key was held prisoner aboard a British man-of-war in Baltimore harbor during the war of 1812. The British were confident they would capture the Fort before sunrise. All through the night with the "rockets red glare" and bursting bombs the stars and stripes held fast. The Americans had been victorious.

In some cases, one flag can have many histories. Did you know that the same flag that flew over the U.S. Capitol in Washington on Dec. 7, 1941, at the beginning of World War II, was also flown from the mast of the USS Missouri during the final Japanese surrender on Sept. 2, 1945?

Let us on June 14 take time to remember our flag and be proud of what it represents to all of us ...

Church School Celebration

Sunday At Bethany

A service of celebration this Sunday will mark the conclusion of the 1989-90 Church School year at Bethany Congregational Church, Coddington and Spear Sts., Quincy Center.

The single service at 10 a.m. in the sanctuary will celebrate the vital place of children and young people in the life of the congregation.

The opening call to worship will be led by students from the 6th, 7th and 8th grades. The Old Testament lesson will be a recitation of the Ten Commandments by pupils of the second and third grades. The New Testament epistle will be read by Eric Leuchte and the Gospel by Keith Briggs.

Illustrated copies of "Bible Stories for Children" will be presented to 11 children entering the second or third grades. Good News Bibles in modern English will be presented to students entering the fourth or fifth grades.

The recent confirmands of the ninth grade class will give a choral reading entitled "The Spirit of Jesus." The Ben Hodgkinson Award will be presented to a youth of the congregation under 21 who has evidenced special Christian character and service to the church and to the community.

Pupils of the fourth and fifth grade class will sing "Up With People" accompanied by Lisa Birr on the autoharp. The Chancel Choir under the direction of organist Charles J. Blue, will sing as the offertory anthem, Bach's arrangement of "Now Thank We All Our God." Guitarist Carol Ann Bohlken will lead the pupils and the congregation in singing several selections.

Gerard Capobianci, Church School superintendent, will give brief remarks and conduct the recognition ceremony for the teachers and aides who served on the 1989-90 staff, assisted by Pamela Ford Curran, the Church School Coordinator.

Houghs Neck Children's Day

Children's Day was observed Sunday at the Houghs Neck Congregational Church with Church School students conducting the service.

The message was given by Melissa Freil.

Others taking part were Jacqui Freil, Susan Mackay, and Colleen McLain, with singing by the various groups. Brent Dennis, Domenic Catrambone, Craig Bentley, Michael Freil and David Taylor were ushers.

Bibles were presented to Charlie Taylor, Michael Hastings, Stephen Foster, George Khilil, Brent Dennis, Donna Robbins, Mark Haves and Mark Peterson.

Rev. Dr. Peter V. Corea, pastor, expressed appreciation to the Church School staff, Gloria M. Brummit, superintendent, and Susan Carr, assistant; Joyce Filibotte, Kimberly Nelson, Suzanne Dennis, Jacqui Freil and Janet Morris of the Early Childhood Department.

Cheryl Catrambone, Susan Stimpson, Peter Johnston, Susan Mackay, Gail Freil, Jason Schofield and Barbara Houston of the Intermediate Department; Ada Freeman and Melissa Freil, Middle High.

Continuing through June, July and August, and the first Sunday in September, there will be one service of worship at the church at 9:30 a.m.

Council In 'Total' Opposition To Waste Incinerator At FR

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

The City Council went on record Monday night "as being in total and complete opposition to Clean Harbors' proposal to locate a hazardous waste incinerator in the Fore River basin."

Although councillors have expressed their opposition to the project since it was first proposed several years ago, the full council had not taken an official stand up until Monday night.

Council President Ted DeCristofaro, whose ward includes the Fore River basin area, introduced the resolution so that the council could go on record as officially against the idea.

"The East Braintree site

(near the Quincy line) is grossly unsuitable and unacceptable to the residents of Quincy, Braintree and Weymouth and other South Shore communities because it is an absolute health threat not only to the population, but to the entire environment which is already suffering from air pollution," DeCristofaro said.

"Residents of Quincy, Braintree and Weymouth reject this site for a hazardous waste incinerator and will not tolerate such a facility in this densely populated area," the council president added.

Other councillors speaking in support were Peter Kolson, Charles Phelan, Michael Cheney, Lawrence Chretien, and Patricia Toland. A few agreed the incinerator is a worse evil than the permanent sludge facility proposed by the MWRA at the former Fore River shipyard.

Kolson called the incinerator proposal process between the state and Clean Harbors "bizarre, ill-conceived and wrecked with political favoritism."

"We should continue, along with Mayor James Sheets and the residents of Braintree and Weymouth, to fight Clean Harbors on every corner and every street," Phelan said.

Toland agreed and called on her fellow councillors to join her in forming a human chain to block the incinerator entrance if the license is granted.

Board Approves Quincy Point Liquor, Food Licenses Transfer

The License Board Tuesday granted a request from Margaret M. Cronin for the transfer of the common victualer-all alcoholic license as held by the C.M. Kane Corporation, doing business as Kane's Food and Spirits, 23 Des Moines Rd., Quincy Point.

Under new management the establishment would be licensed as Cronin's Public House, Inc.

Atty. Carl Johnson, representing Cronin, told the board that she and several of her family members had worked at the establishment with owner Charles Kane for many years. He said she is familiar with the operations of the establishment and is fully qualified to manage the restaurant.

Johnson said that no changes are planned in the operation of the establishment.

Cronin and members of her family have completed an alcohol education program,

Johnson said, which deals with the serving of alcohol.

Cronin would manage the establishment at night and her son would be the day manager, he said.

Kane, who was present at the hearing, was agreeable to the transfer.

The board agreed that there had been no problems at the establishment in the 12 years Kane had operated it.

The board agreed to the transfer with the same conditions as on the present license.

Comer Appointed To Korean War Memorial Board By Bush

John (Jake) Comer of Quincy, executive director of the Quincy Housing Authority, has been appointed to the Korean War Veterans Memorial Advisory Board by President Bush.

Comer, past national commander of the American Legion, will help select a sculptor for a Korean War veterans memorial in Washington, D.C.

Comer will go to Washington for his first panel meeting Thursday, June 14, The sculptor will be chosen July 1 by the 11-member board.

The design for the memorial was created by four Penn State faculty members and selected by a committee of Korean War veterans.

It features 38 statues depicting an infantry platoon. More than 54,000 Americans died during the war and 103,284 were wounded.

The design must be approved by the National Capitol Memorialization Commission, the Commission on Fine Arts and the National Capitol Planning Commission.

Comer said he believes he was nominated because of his active participation with the Legion and his strong fundraising experience.

While national commander from August 1987 to August 1988, Comer helped raise $1 million for the Child Welfare Foundation.

About $6 million in public donations is needed to build the memorial. Its statues will line a path from an open plaza near the Lincoln Memorial to a point where an American flag will fly.

The site, which is located across the reflecting pool from the Vietnam Memorial, has a view of the Washington Monument and the Capitol.

The sculpting is expected to take three years. Organizers hope to have a dedication July 27, 1993, the 40th anniversary of the end of the Korean hostilities.

PETER O'CONNELL stands in front of the former Burgin Platner building on Hancock St., one of several downtown buildings his company recently purchased or has agreement to purchase, and plans to rehabilitate.

'The Potential Is Here' O'Connell: 'We CAN Compete With Plaza'

By JANE ARENA

Peter O'Connell says downtown Quincy Center has the potential to compete with the South Shore Plaza.

And, he truly believes it. O'Connell has faith in downtown Quincy, despite some pessimistic outlooks. And he is putting his money where his faith is: Sizeable investments in Quincy Center.

Through his development company O'Connell has purchased the former Burgin Platner Building on Hancock St., has "an agreement to purchase" the old Patriot Ledger Building on Temple St., and is negotiating to purchase the Sher Drug building next door.

All of this, he says, in addition to "a number of other (downtown) buildings that are in various stages of discussion."

"I intend to be active in making Quincy the best city in America," he says, borrowing his own campaign line from his Mayoral bid last year.

This time though, O'Connell is not campaigning.

"We just intend to be a player," he says of his company, "and to be a positive influence on what happens here in this historic area."

O'Connell says he sees his own development in Quincy as just "phase one" of a totally revived downtown, one that can attract business and retail and tourists. He hopes that through his own demonstration of faith and by improving the buildings he acquires, others will come to see Quincy Center as a viable investment.

"What we would like to do is try and make it interesting enough to make them want to come here," he says. "The thing we have to concentrate on is that Quincy Center is for shopping and for business, and not just a traffic network to get people who live in communities south of here through us to Boston. We need to cater to people that want to do business in Quincy."

His recipe for doing that seems simple enough: Clean the center up and highlight what is unique to the city—its history. After that, he hopes, business and retail will follow.

O'Connell would like to see better and more attractive sidewalks downtown, improved landscaping, and he wants Quincy's historic buildings to be illuminated at night.

"The potential for the city is there," he insists. "The first step is to take advantage of the opportunity that exists."

The time is right to take advantage of that opportunity, O'Connell feels, because of the progress and improvements being implemented by Mayor James Sheets and his administration.

"We're sort of just piggy-backing on what is being said," he says. "Look at the improvements that are underway right now...that are being expanded by the Sheets administration."

The Mayor's "Cleaner, Greener Quincy" campaign was, perhaps, the impetus for O'Connell's investment in Quincy Center.

"We are encouraged," he says, "and we would not be investing a nickel in Quincy Center if we didn't feel that the administration is going to deliver on its desire...I see some real positive changes in the cleanliness of the city and the real effort that's being made to make Quincy the residential city that I think it is. I would not have invested nickel one in the downtown if I had not seen a real signal from the administration..."

Downtown revitalization was a focal point of O'Connell's own campaign for Mayor.

Expressway Noise Barriers Meeting June 21

The state Department of Public Works will conduct an informational meeting Thursday, June 21 at 7:30 p.m. at St. Agatha's School Hall, Adams St., Milton, to discuss the proposed construction of noise barriers at three locations along the Southeast Expressway.

One barrier is proposed in Quincy and another is proposed for the Quincy-Milton line.

The proposed locations are:

- Quincy: northbound side of expressway between Hall Place at Willard St. and about 600 feet northwest of Stedman St. at Willard St.
- Milton-Quincy: southbound side of expressway between Bates Ave. at Bryant Ave. in Quincy and about 800 feet beyond the Lochland St. cul-de-sac in Milton.
- Milton: northbound side of expressway between Wood St. at Granite Ave. and about 1,600 feet northwest of Squantum St. at I-93.

The meeting will determine if there is consensus among residents to support the installation of noise barriers. If consensus exists, the state DPW will proceed with barrier design analysis.

Department personnel will be available to answer questions and provide information. Residents and abutters are encouraged to attend.

Mission To Washington

Quincy Delegation Seeks U.S. Funds For Downtown

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

A delegation from Quincy, led by Mayor James Sheets, traveled to Washington, D.C., earlier this week in pursuit of federal funds for planning and designing the redevelopment of Downtown Quincy.

The group, which included Planning Director Richard Meade, Executive Secretary Thomas Koch, Councilor-at-Large Tim Cahill, Businessman Peter O'Connell and Bob Galligan of the O'Connell Management Company, left for the nation's capital Tuesday afternoon as The Sun went to press. They were scheduled to return Wednesday evening.

While in Washington, the local leaders were to meet with federal officials in an attempt to line up Democratic and Republican support for $500,000 to $750,000 in federal rehabilitation funds.

Sheets was set to have breakfast Wednesday morning with two aides of President Bush: Ronald Kaufman, deputy director of Personnel, and Andrew Card, assistant to Chief of Staff John Sununu.

The visit set up a reunion between Sheets and Kaufman. The mayor taught Kaufman while he was an instructor at Quincy Junior College several years ago.

Sheets and the others also planned to meet with Senator Edward Kennedy and Congressman Brian Donnelly.

The mayor, who did not think he would meet with the President, viewed the trip as opportunity and a learning experience.

"Our objective is to secure some planning money for the redevelopment of downtown and or actual money for beautification in that area," Sheets said Monday. "I think it's important for us to know if there is any actual money beyond the planning stages for the development."

"We should really come away from our trip with a real knowledge of the role the federal government can play in helping us fund our efforts to revitalize downtown."

"I think if we could come away with a half million dollars in planning money, I will be pleased with that," he added.

Asked whether he was optimistic, the mayor replied, "I think we'll get something. I think if (federal funding is) available, we'll get our share of it."

He added the historical significance in the area could help their request. "This is an extremely historical area. There are the birthplaces and tombs of two Presidents and their wives."

At the very least, Sheets said he hoped the federal government would provide a grant which would allow the city to hire a professional planner for the downtown area.

"The redevelopment takes a tremendous amount of work. We need a full-time professional planner for that."

Obtaining funds for a professional planner soon is essential since a committee is now working on determining the future character of the downtown.

The committee, chaired by Cahill, meets frequently to discuss ideas related to economic development, beautification, retail strategy, tourism and historic

Hearing Postponed On Serving Liquor At 11 A.M.

The License Board Tuesday postponed a hearing on the request of Peter Kelly of Kelly's In The Square Restaurant, Cottage Ave., for permission to sell alcohol at 11 a.m. on Sundays for his Sunday brunch.

Kelly was also requesting a permit for dancing on the ground floor restaurant level. Kelly was not present at Tuesday's meeting.

Building Commissioner Matthias Mulvey made the motion that the board postpone the hearing until a resolution is reached in a matter involving Kelly and the Alcoholic Beverage Control Commission on a charge that the establishment allegedly served alcohol after hours some months ago.

The board agreed and accepted the motion.

APPROXIMATELY $35,000 was raised during the recent Jail and Bail fundraiser conducted by the Quincy-South Shore Unit of the American Cancer Society at 1200 Crown Colony. # Traffic Project Seen Completed By December

By ROBERT BOSWORTH
In case you haven't noticed—but you surely must have—the Quincy Center Traffic Improvement Project has begun.

The project is designed to improve vehicular and pedestrian traffic flow, as well as enhance aesthetics to help attract more business and tourists to the downtown. Once completed, city officials hope the $650,000 project will accommodate and facilitate the current and planned residential, office and retail development of the Quincy Center business district.

The project area includes Hancock St. from Granite St. to Saville Ave. and parts of Washington, Temple and Coddington Sts. Thirteen major projects have either been recently developed or are being proposed in Quincy Center which would directly impact four intersections:

Hancock, Granite and Chestnut Sts.; Hancock and Temple Sts.; Temple, Washington and Coddington Sts.; and Hancock and Washington Sts.

The proposed improvements include new traffic signals at the aforementioned intersections as well as roadway construction, curb realignment and channelization with new islands to provide greater traffic capacity and improved safety for both vehicular and pedestrian traffic.

Presently, laborers are working on a new drainage system. The road surface in the entire project area has been stripped, creating bad road conditions and occasional dust storms.

To help the situation, calcium chloride has been sprinkled throughout the area to keep the dust down. Water from city hydrants has also been put down.

City Planner Kevin Shea said a base pavement will likely be laid within the next week, thereby eliminating the inconvenience to motorists and nuisance to pedestrians and business owners.

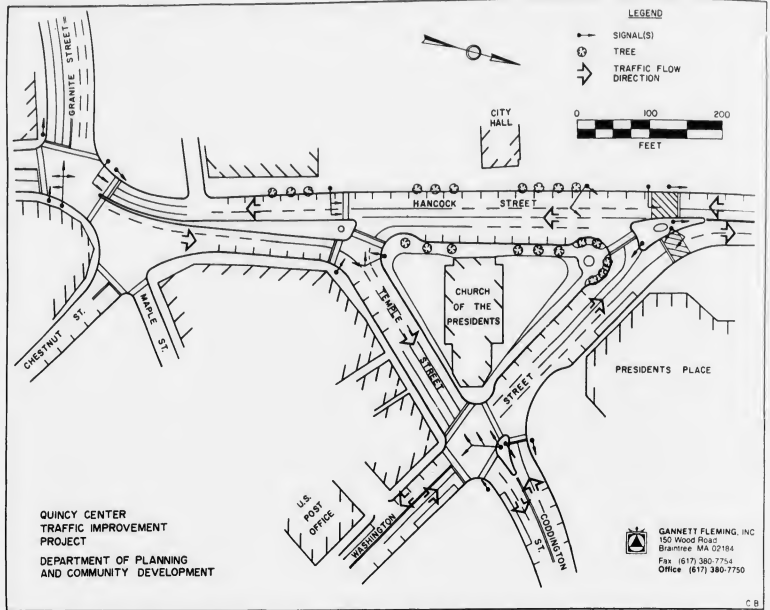

She said he has received only a handful of complaints.

The entire project, including new electrical conduits, traffic signals, excavation, paving, curbing, sidewalks, landscaping, signing and line painting, will be complete by December. All but the new traffic signals, final paving, signing and line painting should be finished before December.

The present rotary traffic circulation pattern around the United First Parish Church will remain the same. The only change to the existing traffic pattern will be to prevent left turns from Hancock St. to Chestnut St. This will be accomplished by extending the existing island southerly approximately 110 feet, just short of the intersection at Hancock and Granite Sts.

In selected areas, benches, street trees and landscaping have been added to the project to improve the aesthetics of Quincy Center.

A larger island will be constructed at the Hancock and Washington Sts. intersection, with the TECHNICAL BLUEPRINT of the Quincy Center Traffic Improvement Project now underway. The project, designed to improve vehicular and pedestrian traffic flow, Washington St. approach narrowed to better define travel lanes, and to channelize traffic flows as well as provide a shorter distance for pedestrian crossings.

Additional curb line realignment will also occur on Coddington St. and on Hancock St. between the church and City Hall.

At the Hancock St. southbound approach to Granite St., in front of Quincy Center Plaza, the street will be widened to provide an additional lane. At the northeast corner of Washington features only one traffic change: motorists driving south on Hancock St. will not be allowed to take a left onto Chestnut St.

and Hancock St. intersection, the curb line will be relocated to provide a wider turn for vehicular traffic.

Overall, the pavement within the project limits will be reduced by approximately 24,000 square feet, providing greater area for sidewalks, landscaping, pedestrian amenities and islands.

New pavement markings and signings will be provided to better define travel lanes and crosswalks.

Incinerator Meeting At NQHS Sheets To Attend Mayors Conference In Chicago

The Department of Environmental Protection will hold a public information meeting regarding the Clean Harbors of Braintree, Inc., hazardous waste incinerator project Tuesday, June 19 from 7 to 10 p.m. at North Quincy High School, 316 Hancock St.

The meeting will be held for the sole purpose of explaining the process for public comment and testimony regarding the suitability of the Braintree site proposed by CHI. The site, near the Quincy line, is within close proximity of a large residential area. At the meeting, DEP officials will explain:

- Regulatory criteria governing site suitability.
- Ways by which interested citizens, public officials and the company may provide comment to the department regarding site suitability.
- The schedule for decision making leading to a draft decision by the department no later than Sept. 18.
- The statutory standard for licensing a hazardous waste facility.

Two other meetings have been scheduled. One will take place Wednesday, June 20 from 7 to 10 p.m. at East Junior High School, 89 Middle St., Weymouth, and the other will be held Thursday, June 21 from 7 to 10 p.m. at East Middle School, 305 River St., Braintree.

The meetings are not public hearings. The meetings are to assist communities in understanding the agency's decision-making process and how they may be participants in the process.

No testimony will be taken at these meetings. Attendees may ask questions after a brief presentation by DEP licensing officials.

A public comment period will begin June 22 and continue until Aug. 10. Public hearings, to be determined, will be held in early August.

Mayor James Sheets will attend his first U.S. Conference of Mayors as the city's chief executive Friday, June 15 through Wednesday, June 20 in Chicago.

At the conference, Sheets will attend meetings as a member of the Community Development Committee. He will also march in a televised parade, set up by Chicago Mayor Richard Daley, will feature mayors from 250 cities and be televised live by ABC-TV Saturday from 10 to 10:45 a.m.

It will also include youngsters carrying the flags from the cities that are represented at the conference. Sheets said a Quincy flag has been sent out to Chicago already to help with the planning of the big event.

One or two youngsters will carry each flag and the mayor from that particular city will march behind them.

"It's going to be very impressive," Sheets said.

After the conference, the mayor said he will stay in Chicago for a few days and tour several large facilities. One facility is a major recycling center and the other is a solid waste treatment center.

Quincy recently announced plans to begin an expanded recycling program to include plastics and glass. Also, the city has filed a lawsuit against the MWRA in an attempt to prevent a permanent sludge treatment facility from being located at the former Fore River shipyard.

The mayor said he will likely return to Quincy next Friday or Saturday.

preservation.

Sheets noted the committee will submit a comprehensive recommendation of what the character of the downtown should be by the end of August. Included in the recommendation will be the steps needed to accomplish that character.

For instance, the mayor explained the committee's recommendation might call for a mix of commercial and retail properties with the latter focusing on factory outlets.

"The planner would help us execute those plans."

Sheets, who is being briefed on the committee's progress by Administrative Secretary Bernice Mader, said he hopes to take immediate action once the recommendation is made.

City-MBTA In Agreement To Clean T-Station Areas

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

Quincy's Cleaner, Greener campaign took another step forward Monday as the city and the MBTA entered into a 12-week agreement designed to clean and maintain the external areas of Quincy's four Red Line T stations.

Mayor James Sheets and MBTA General Manager Thomas Glynn signed the agreement Monday in the mayor's office. The deal, which officially began Monday, June 4 and will continue through Aug. 24, covers the outside areas at the Quincy Adams, Quincy Center, Wollaston and North Quincy stations.

Sheets and Glynn are optimistic the agreement will help clean, beautify and maintain the four stations.

Nothing some cleaning has already taken place, Glynn said, "The program is working well. We appreciate your help." The mayor replied, "I'm excited about it. I think you'll see a big difference."

Under the terms of the agreement, Quincy will employ one working foreman and eight laborers not less than 18 years of age in conjunction with Quincy's summer employment program. The MBTA will fund the foreman at $13.70 per hour and each laborer at $7.50 per hour. Quincy residents will be given priority for the positions.

Laborers will be required to pick up, clean and remove trash and debris in all exterior station areas as well as cut grass, remove weeds and fertilize plants, trees, shrubs and flowers.

They will also plant flowers, shrubs and trees, trim and prune trees and perform special tasks and related duties as assigned.

According to Public Works Commissioner David Colton, already, laborers have removed weeds and planted 25 shrubs at the Quincy Center station. Weeds have also been removed at the Wollaston station while the North Quincy station has been generally cleaned up.

Soon, the community parking lot and drop-off center at the Quincy Adams station will be cleaned, Colton added.

The deal calls for a 40-hour work week which may include Saturdays and Sundays for each working foreman and each laborer. The T has agreed to pay Quincy $35,376 in advance to cover labor. In addition, the MBTA will pay the city an additional lump sum of $5,000 for administration and contingency. The total cost of the deal shall not exceed $36,000 and any money left over will be returned to the MBTA.

All tools and supplies as required will be supplied by the MBTA.

Quincy will supply the work vehicle for transporting the employees to and from the work site.

In the event the city cannot provide workers capable of working "in harmony with the MBTA or its agents and contractors," the contract can be terminated on 10 days notice.

At the mayor's request, Glynn will send a letter to taxi companies doing business at the four stations. Sheets said the taxis contribute to the litter by tossing away coffee cups and newspapers.

Sheets also suggested joining police forces in the future to rid groups from loitering at the four stations. The mayor remarked that Quincy is beginning a renewed push toward tourism and therefore, the city wants the T stations to be pleasant for visitors.

Glynn replied the MBTA is willing to help.

IT'S OFFICIAL — Mayor James A. Sheets, left, and MBTA General Manager Thomas Glynn, sign an agreement Monday in the Mayor's office which will allow Quincy's four Red Line stations to be cleaned, maintained and beautified by nine city workers with funding by the MBTA. The contract expires Aug. 24.

On Abatement Sought Properties Sheets Checking Assessment Hikes

Mayor James Sheets, who is seeking a limit on property assessment increases in a single year, has asked city assessors to give him the average assessment increases for properties which have been filed for abatement.

Sheets, who is drafting an assessment limiting bill with Senator Paul Harold, wants to know the average increase for residential properties separate from the average hike in commercial and industrial properties.

On Monday, the mayor said he thinks the average increases will be "somewhere between 30 and 50 percent." He said he hopes to have the average increases next week.

Republican Candidates Night

The Quincy Republican City Committee will sponsor a Republican Candidates Night Wednesday, June 27 at 7 p.m. at the Quincy Sons of Italy, 120 Quarry St.

All candidates for statewide, county and local office in the Norfolk and the Second Suffolk and Norfolk senate districts are invited to attend as are elected Republican officials.

Last week, Sheets announced he is having a bill filed by local legislators which would limit assessment increases for residential, commercial and industrial properties in a single year.

The bill is in direct response to the recently completed revaluation process which saw many properties in Quincy increase dramatically. Sheets said he believes some assessments shot up by 500 percent since the last revaluation process three years ago.

Noting that some 2,800 taxpayers in Quincy have filed for abatements, the mayor remarked, "If it would take a substantial increase (in assessments) to make people file for abatements,

"These increases are terrible. Something has to be done about them," he added.

Earlier this week, Sheets said the bill was "still being put together" by Harold. Once the facts are gathered, the bill will be formally drafted and introduced to the state legislature.

The mayor will also ask Quincy's three state representatives, Robert Cerasoli, Michael Morrissey and Steve Tobin, to join Harold in filing the bill.

Since the proposal will be in the form of a bill and not a home-rule petition, it would affect the entire state if approved.

Sheets said he believes he has a chance of getting the bill passed into law.

"I think they'll be more support on (Beacon) hill for that bill than people realize. There's been a dramatic drop in real estate prices."

Lexington Sets World Aircraft Launch Record

The aircraft carrier USS Lexington (AVT-16), built during World War II at the Fore River Shipyard in Quincy, set a new world's record June 8 when she launched her 300,000th aircraft during exercises in the Gulf of Mexico.

The record for the ship's catapult No. One outstrips any other Navy catapult by more than 100,000. The Lexington, ranked as the world's oldest active duty aircraft carrier, also has logged nearly 488,000 arrested landings—another impressive event in carrier aviation.

"This is a major milestone for the world's hardest working catapult," said Navy Lt. Neal Miller, who cleared the way for the record-setting launch. "It's a team effort and we have a great crew."

Lexington's primary mission is to conduct carrier qualification landings and launches for student and fleet naval aviators. Untold numbers of student pilots have demonstrated their abilities in carrier operations on her decks—their final and most critical exam before earning the coveted "Wings of Gold" and joining the exclusive fraternity of naval aviators.

Commissioned in February, 1943, Lexington served in the Pacific campaigns, including the Gilbert Islands operation, the Battle of the Philippine Sea, the Battle for Leyte Gulf and attacks on the Japanese home islands. After the war, and following six years in "mothballs," she was modernized in 1953 and made Far East deployments with the Seventh Fleet until she was assigned to Pensacola in 1963 as a training ship.

The present-day Lexington—last of the Essex-class carriers—is the fifth ship to bear the name, beginning with a Revolutionary War brigantine. Commanded by Capt. C. Flack Logan, Lexington is scheduled for a six-month overhaul this September in Portsmouth, Va.

Silver Haired Legislature Filing Deadline June 27

June 27 (Wednesday) is the deadline for filing nomination papers by candidates seeking election to the Silver Haired Legislature.

The election is scheduled for Thursday, Sept. 13.

Nomination papers are available at the Council on Aging, the John F. Kennedy, Health Center, Quincy.

Senior citizens eligible for a two-year term as Representative or Senator must be Massachusetts registered voters, aged 60 or older, and reside in the district that they seek to represent. Present incumbents and former members of the Silver Haired Legislature may seek re-election.

Candidates' nomination papers must carry the signatures of 25 registered Massachusetts voters age 60 or older and residing in the district of the candidate.
Campaigning by candidates will begin on July 12 and continue to election day, Sept.
13.

The Silver Haired Legislature was adopted in Massachusetts in 1980 to provide educational and advocacy training/action programs. Elections are held with the cooperation of Area Agencies on Aging, Home Care Corporations, Senior Centers and Councils on Aging.

Sheets Backs Kaufman

Mayor James Sheets is convinced that his long-time friend and former student, Ron Kaufman, had nothing to do with the police picketing at the Democratic state convention in Springfield.

Now Deputy Director of Personnel at the White House, the Quincy resident is still denying accusations by the Democrats of having a hand in the police picketing which disrupted and delayed the start of the convention for four hours.

SHEETS

KAUFMAN

"I've been involved in a lot of things but I wasn't involved in this one," Kaufman told Sheets last week during a telephone call.

"I believe him," says Sheets. "If he was involved or was going to be involved in something like that, he wouldn't have been anywhere near Springfield." (When it happened).

Mary Matalin, chief of staff to the Republican National Committee, agrees with Sheets but put it a little differently. If Kaufman was involved in any plan to foul up the Democrats convention, she said, "he would never have left the (his) tracks."

Sheets, who attended the convention as a delegate for fellow Quincyite Frank Bellotti, said he didn't see Kaufman there until after the convention was over.

"Ronnie was there," says Sheets, "because he had been invited to be there to give a Republican response to a Democratic convention."

Sheets says Kaufman isn't happy over Democrat charges that he and the Springfield police union "engaged in Watergate style dirty tricks" to sabotage the convention.

"The President obviously didn't want to see the Bush administration in the same paragraph with Watergate in newspapers," said Sheets. "But he is not upset with Ronnie."

Kaufman has taken the whole thing in stride except for a charge by James Roosevelt, Jr., the Democratic Party's legal counsel that he used "Nazi-like tactics" to disrupt the convention.

"Ronnie is still fuming over that," says Sheets. "He is Jewish and he takes that charge as a personal insult."

Roosevelt insists he didn't call anyone a Nazi but was only comparing the actions at the convention to those of Germany's Nazis in the 1930's where law enforcement officers were used to disrupt peaceful political gatherings.

"It shows he's (Roosevelt) a desperate and dangerous person," Kaufman reported.

Kaufman, a former student of Sheets at Quincy Junior College, campaigned for the Mayor in the latter's first bid for the Ward 4 City Council seat 17 years ago.

He graduated to the national political scene in 1980 as a Bush worker and 1988 he moved up to New England campaign coordinator for Bush, and helped send Mike Dukakis down the chute.

He is credited with staging Bush's Boston Harbor pollution extravaganza under Dukakis' nose, and lining up the Boston Police Patrolmen's Union endorsement for Bush.

And he topped it off with dredging up Willie Horton and hanging him around Dukakis' neck like an albatross.

So, maybe when the Democrats knew Kaufman was in Springfield and the Democratic convention got messed up, it was easy to blame it all on Kaufman.

Sheets was scheduled to have breakfast with Kaufman in Washington yesterday while there seeking federal funds for downtown Quincy revitalization.

Making the trip to Washington with Sheets were City Planning Director Richard Meade, Tom Koch, Sheet's executive secretary; Councilor Tim Cahill and businessman Peter O'Connell, Sheets' rival in last year's mayoral race but good friend.

The Quincy group, you might say, is trying to work both sides of the political street seeking an estimated quarter million dollars for planning and design work in downtown. Republican Kaufman will be asked to help at the White House and Democrat Senator Edward Kennedy will be asked at an afternoon meeting to push for the funds in Congress.

"Ronnie's having the time of his life," says Sheets.
"He became a legend in Washington in 1988. Now this (the publicity over the Springfield affair) will make him a bigger one."

SHEETS, incidentally, was inducted into the Quincy Lions Club last week, giving the service club the distinction of two mayors as members.

The other is Frank McCauley who swore Sheets into membership. His sponsor was Arthur Woodward of the Quincy School system.

Will it get confusing when someone says "Mr. Mayor."

"No," says Sheets. "They should be able to easily tell us apart. When they talk about the mayor in general, that's me. When they talk about the mayor and money, that's Frank."

It's believed to be the first time one mayor was sworn into membership by another mayor in a Quincy service club. It may also be the first time two mayors have been members of the club at the same time.

A Commendation For Broad Meadows 7th Graders

Dear Residents of Quincy:

I wish to publicly recognize the accomplishments of the entire seventh grade class of Broad Meadows Middle School for the outstanding performance they gave of Spindle City Sisters May 23.

Though my historical musical on the birth of the American Industrial Revolution has been staged four times before, this performance in the Quincy Schools was the first time a team of teachers used an interdisciplinary approach and put the Arts at the center of their curriculum.

The final result was not only a fine example of the Performing Arts, but was also an exhibition of excellence in Education. For the seventh graders who had been studying the 19th century mill era in social studies, "living" their roles on stage was the next-best-thing to actually being there.

However, the students, as committed as they were, were only able to make these achievements because of their truly outstanding team of teachers, willing to take the risk to try something they had never done before. Hats off to Ron Adams, Tom Callahan,

Harold Crowley, Bob Garner,
Paul Haight, Mary Karalexis,
Marcia McCarthy, Donna
Miller, Ellen Power, Nancy Sundheimer, Donna Willoughby, and Cindy Wilson!

Your courage, energetic enthusiasm, unquestionable dedication, and above-and-beyond commitment to all students is the finest example of what is best in Education today.

May I also add a personal note: my being welcomed as a small, temporary part of your team and school was one of the most uplifting experiences
I have had in all 16 years of my teaching career. Thank you for giving me this opportunity.

MR. RETAILER: IS YOUR DISASTER INSURANCE IN ORDER?

When you look up at night, can you go home secure in the knowledge that your place of business is protected against the perils of fire, theft and vandalism?

You can if your livelihood is covered by a Small Business Owner's Policy, a package policy which contains a number of important built-in coverages; or a Commercial policy for those larger retail operations which may also involve manufacturing.

As a minimum coverage, we recommend fire coverage on both building and contents, plus business operations and loss of earnings coverage. We also strongly suggest considering a peak-season endorsement if there are certain times of the year when inventory is at its heaviest.
This endorsement is similar to a term life insurance policy, increasing coverage for a specified period of time.

Quincy CAN Compete With Plaza Says O'Connell

"One of the things that really pushed me to run for office was that I was dissatisfied with the deteriorating condition of the city," he says. "We have evolved from 'Shopper's Town' to a scenario where, really, people can hardly wait to get out and they're just tired of hanging on ... I wasn't going to live in this city if it continued the way it was going, just sort of a dirty, urban area where people tolerate litter. You drive people out that way."

If you turn that around, he reasons, you can drive people in. He plans improvements and changes to the buildings he purchases in an effort to attract business.

"The buildings will be reviewed architecturally and a number of them need to be re-evaluated as to what we can do to make them look better."

The improvements, he says, will range from cosmetic, (window replacement and exterior painting) to structural, (adding much needed parking for office tenants).

He describes some of the ultimate changes with the enthusiasm of an artist.

Eventually he would like to see uniform signage in the downtown area. He'd like to see the Burgin Platter building painted gray to complement the granite of City Hall.

O'Connell is having fun

envisioning the future of Quincy Center, and that, he says, is the main reason for his investments.

"We did it for fun," he says. "I think we're certainly not being foolhardy ... but, for fun ... I hope our presence in the downtown can at least stabilize people's necessity to get out and make them re-evaluate that. Because it's going to change ... it's important to show people what the downtown can be like and make it desirable to be here."

If the improvements to Quincy Center continue while rents at the South Shore Plaza continue to increase, O'Connell feels confident that retailers will eventually prefer to set up shop in downtown Quincy.

"In the 90's, I think, if Quincy does its job, it will recapture a piece of the business ... Quincy was very successful in the past, and I think in the future it can get enough business because it's interesting. A mall is much more sterile ... people want to be where history is, and culture, that's our tradition, it's our values. We are a very special city."

When Peter O'Connell ran for mayor he said it was because he loved his native city and saw the opportunity to give something back to it.

It's a rare thing to see a candidate stick to his campaign promises. Especially when he didn't win.

McGrath, Council Deadlock Broken On New Streets

A deadlock between Mayor Thomas J. McGrath and the City Council was broken when the Mayor submitted an order for $2,500 to make possible passage of the annual appropriation for new streets.

June 12-18

62 Years Ago

The hassle started at a previous meeting when McGrath refused to accept the proposed figure of $256,500 for 46 new streets. The Council finally reduced the total to $232,500.

McGrath said he was concerned that borrowing such a sum would so cut into the city's borrowing power that it would be unable to build needed schools in Adams Shore, Merrymount, Montclair and Hughes Neck.

HOD CARRIERS STRIKE

Brick-carrying members of the Hod Carriers Union were out on strike seeking a 5 cent hourly wage increase that would bring them to 90 cents an hour. Said one unidentified Quincy contractor:

"Local labor doesn't seem to realize how slack are conditions in many other cities and towns where workers are either looking for jobs or taking work at 40 to 50 cents an hour."

NO LOW FLYING

Harold T. Dennison, head of the Dennison Aircraft Corp., of Atlantic, issued an order prohibiting its pilots from flying at less than 1,000 feet altitude over residential areas of Quincy.

The airport reported that during the first week in June its planes had made 44 flights lasting 799 minutes.

Senior Citizens Angry Over Toxic Waste Incinerator Site

The Coalition for A Safe Environment, a group of citizens organized to fight the hazardous waste incinerator proposed for the Fore River Basin by Clean Harbors, recently gave an informational presentation to senior citizens at 1000 Southern Artery.

According to Suzanne Anderson of Hingham, one of the founding members of the Coalition, only about 30 or 40 seniors were expected to attend the presentation, but over 100 people turned out.

"They were interested and they were angry," Anderson said Thursday.

Several who attended signed prototype letters expressing concern on the proposal which will be sent to state officials. Many also agreed to do telephone work on behalf of the Coalition, Anderson added.

"Seniors are a very powerful group," she said, "they are motivated and they have the time ... the only difference between them and us is that they're older and have experienced more."

Anderson noted that members of the Coalition are available to give presentations on the incinerator issue and may be reached by calling her at 749-0624 or Gini Kurtzman at 740-2428.

The Coalition also holds weekly meetings at the All Souls Church, 165 Elm St., Braintree, Tuesdays at 7:30 p.m. Anderson noted that attendance at the regular meetings has doubled in recent weeks.

The weekly meetings are open to the public.

Farmer's Market Opens Friday In Hancock Parking Lot

Quincy Farmers' Market will open its ninth summer season Friday, June 15 from 11:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the John Hancock Parking Lot, across from the Quincy courthouse.

The market will continue every Friday from 11:30 to 5 p.m. at the parking area through October.

For consumers, the market is a convenient place to buy directly from the grower fresh, locally-grown produce at a lower price. For farmers, the market provides a unique direct to buyer outlet for extra fresh produce.

Among the farmers present will be William Steverman of Scituate, Richard Birro of Weymouth, David Sturges of Hingham, Jeanette MacKenzie of Duxbury, Albert Sullivan of Randolph and Steve Foxwell of Green Acres Turkey Farm in Wrentham. Produce available now are bedding plants, lettuce, radishes, rhubarb, frozen turkey pies, honey and maple syrup.

As the season continues, a full-line of produce will become available. Strawberries usually usher in the summer and are available from mid-June through early July. Recent rains have helped produce a bumper crop, Steverman said.

Anneli Johnson, coordinator of the Quincy Farmers' Market, said there is still time for home gardeners to plant tomatoes, other vegetables and flowers. Gardeners should check what plants farmers have available, she said.

"Plants from local farmers' markets are sure to grow since they are the same plants farmers grow, she added.

Johnson invites those who have never visited the Farmers' Market in Quincy to stop by. "Do not let another summer go by without the treat of fresh flavor and real nutrition," she said.

For more information, call Johnson at 479-1601 or 727-3018.

Charges Discrimination In Trash Collection

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

In early January 1990, a City of Quincy Dept. of Public Works employee allegedly called some landlords with four over units, ordering them to get their own rubbish contractor within two weeks to have their tenants trash picked up.

In February, the Dept. of Public Works sent out letters to some landlords of over four units instructing them to be aware of a "substantial increase in rubbish collection and disposal costs and the city will strictly enforce current contractual specifications. Since you may not have been aware of this contractual obligation, we are allowing this practice to continue until June 30, 1990. Therefore, as of July 1, 1990 the City's contractor will cease collecting your rubbish." Signed by David A. Colton, Commissioner of Public Works.

Because of this very questionable contract entered into in September of 1989 under former Mayor McCauley's administration, and taking effect commencing Jan. 1, 1990 and then notifying a limited class of landlords whose tenants are paying their share in taxes in their rents, after the fact, that because their tenants don't own their own property, as do small home owners or condo owners or single family home owners, they are being discriminated against as not being equal to their neighbors!

The South Shore Rental Association has engaged counsel to investigate this biased proposal affecting primarily Quincy's citizens living in older buildings with lower rents, small yards in old neighborhoods and in affordable housing.

We asked for and had a meeting with Mr. Colton on April 27, and followed it with a request to meet and discuss it with our Mayor James Sheets. Our request was granted and we had a lengthy meeting with Mayor Sheets on May 30. At the conclusion of the meeting Commissioner Colton agreed to send me a copy of the 1990 contract and Mayor Sheets stated he would give us another answer in two weeks.

The reason we question the City's participation in this illegal action is that it is a violation of the tenants equal protection under the law, as in equal rights and in equal taxation. If I heard Mr. Colton correctly, those notified are just the owners of five to eight units. From what we have seen, these tenants use trash barrels and there is no room for containers.

Quincy is facing a business recession. We have an over supply of condominiums. A good thousand of them have gone 'belly up'. We have far more vacancies than we ever imagined possible. We have had a serious increase in vandalism, houses for sale, foreclosures and an enormous amount of vacant apartments and an equally large exodus of Quincy citizens.

With the added burden of new tax increases in real estate and sewer and water bills, and then to tell a certain class of landlords to instruct their tenants to find other means to dispose of their rubbish and garbage (unless they live in a condo) is absurd.

I respectfully request that Mayor James Sheets abandon this ill advised plan which he inherited as Quincy may well have other more serious financial problems for a little while and that they should all be faced equally and fairly by all its citizens.

Braciola A Meat Roll

A real tasty tomato sauce for pasta is one in which several types of meat varieties are used.

For instance, in addition to meatballs, sausages and pork pieces, there is braciola (a meat roll, and spelled many different ways) that spices up that sauce. When my mother cooked them, they were large rolls of the beef with the filling and could be sliced in pretty round pieces. However, one can also prepare them in smaller rolls, the size of a Chinese egg roll. At times, I've made such small ones that instead of slicing them, each person had one of their own to slice.

BRACIOLA

- 1 Lb beef (thinly cut steak)
- 2 cups seasoned breadcrumbs
- 3 Tbsps grated romano cheese
- 2 Tbsps fresh parsley
- 2 eggs
- salt and pepper to taste

Cut the slices into 3 or 4 inch squares. Mix the breadcrumbs, the eggs, salt and pepper, cheese and parsley until it is well blended and can be easily spread on the pieces of beef. Place some of the mixture on each slice of meat, rolling them tightly and then securing them with toothpicks, or tie with white string. Brown the rolls of meat on all sides in oil and then place them in that delicious tomato sauce you've been cooking. At this point they only take about 40 minutes to finish their cooking in the sauce. You can certainly make these ahead of time and feel like the gourmet cook when served. Especially if you've also made meatballs and cooked sausages along with it. Arranging all these meats in a pretty tray with some peas placed around them really looks appetizing.

Houghs Neck Council To Present $6,500 In Scholarships

Twelve Houghs Neck students will receive book scholarship awards totaling $6,500 Tuesday, June 19 at an 8 p.m. open meeting of the Houghs Neck Community Council at the Houghs Neck Community Center, 1193 Sea St.

Twenty-nine applications from high school graduates and college students were received. Recipients qualified for awards on Scholarship achievements indicated by a grade point score. The amount awarded by the Houghs Neck Community Council Scholarship Fund since 1964 totals $52,160 presented to 223 students.

William P. Doyle of 49 Crosby St., a Suffolk University student, was awarded a book scholarship of $1,000; Patricia Morrell of 64 Parkhurst St., attending Plymouth State University, N.H., $650; Jeffrey Cotter of 157 Spring St., at Salem State College, $600; Gayle Morrell of 64 Parkhurst St., Plymouth State University, N.H., $500.

Patricia Stewart of 35 Nut Island Ave., at Wellesley College, $350; Jeanine Quigley of 99 Stoughton St., University of Massachusetts, Boston, $300; and Sandra Wysocki of 981 Sea St., attending Suffolk University, $200.

Eric Gustafson of 19 Rock Island Rd., a North Quincy High School graduate entering Harvard University, received a $1,000 book scholarship.

Other graduates, all from Quincy High School, were Randi Guara of 155 Babcock St., entering Northeastern University, who received $750; Jennifer Brooks of 37 Sea Ave., entering Suffolk University, $500; Lynn Rimovitz of 67 Bay View Ave., entering University of Massachusetts, $300; and Kelli Galligan of 125 Macy St., entering Bridgewater State College, $200.

Scholarship funds are raised through memorial contributions and investments. This past year some 21 individual memorials of $100 or more each were contributed toward the book scholarships.

Arnold Beresen is Scholarship Committee chairman.

James Whalen Emerson Graduate

James Whalen, 29 Buckingham Rd., recently received a bachelor of science degree in mass communication from Emerson College, Boston.

He was also named to the Dean's Honor List, as he achieved a grade point average of at least 3.3.

Michael Morrissey Candidate For 8th Term

Rep. Michael W. Morrissey, D-Quincy, officially announces he will seek reelection to an eighth term in the Massachusetts House of Representatives. Morrissey is a lifelong resident of the City of Quincy, a graduate of Quincy Public Schools and the University of Massachusetts in Amherst. He is also a graduate of Suffolk Law School and holds a masters degree in public administration from Western New England College.

Morrissey has served eight years on the Housing and Urban Development Committee including six years as vice chairman. As the chairman of the Committee on Counties for two years, Morrissey notes, he is listed as a prime sponsor and supporter of legislation that changed the face of county government and saw County Charter Reform signed into law.

Morrissey also helped bring to the forefront the inability of local taxpayers to continue to pay for county corrections expenses and improvements. Morrissey said he oversaw legislation to bring out dated county facilities up to current building code standards and supported legislation to build five new correctional facilities, including the new Norfolk County House of Correction on Route 128 in Dedham. He has strived to reduce the local tax burden while improving regional services to assist local communities, he noted.

For the past four years, Morrissey has been chairman of the Committee on Public Safety. The committee has taken an active role in public safety issues including change in the area of school bus and automobile safety issues.

Under Morrissey's leadership, older and outdated school buses have been forced off the road, while communities have benefited by better made and safer buses with the most up-to-date equipment, he said.

MICHAEL MORRISSEY

The committee has also focused its attention in making the roads of the Commonwealth safer, exchanging driver information on bad drivers with other states and penalizing overweight vehicles. According to Morrissey, the Committee has been a leader in making Massachusetts roads some of the safest in the nation.

Since his first term in the Legislature, Morrissey said, "I have always played a strong role in issues that affect the quality of life of the residents of the City of Quincy."

As a freshman legislator, he was called upon to help organize local opposition to airplane noise and overflight that were affecting the City of Quincy. As a result of his involvement, local activists set up a Citizens Advisory Committee and a permanent noise monitoring station was set up in Squantum. Massport and the FAA agreed to change airplane routes to abate noise problems.

A number of other issues have presented significant challenges and obstacles to the people of Quincy. When the City of Boston sought to build a new Suffolk County House of Correction on Moon Island in Quincy, Morrissey was able to garner support from his legislative colleagues to defeat this proposal, he said.

When a question was placed on the state ballot to sell the Norfolk County Golf Course, Morrissey mobilized local opposition and led a movement to keep the Golf course as open space. As a result of his involvement, the ballot questions were defeated and the golf course and recreational facilities will continue to be an asset to be used and admired by all the residents, he said.

Morrissey has clashed with the MWRA over the location of their executive offices. He has successfully fought their attempt to locate the headquarters at Parcel 18 in Roxbury. He said he is continuing to lead the fight to locate the headquarters in the MWRA owned building at the Quincy Shipyard. He came within two votes of overriding a gubernatorial veto.

In his announcement, Morrissey expressed a strong desire to continue with his work and opposition to a plan by Clean Harbors to locate a hazardous waste incinerator on the Braintree-Quincy line. Morrissey called this proposal, "the single most important and dangerous issue I have faced in my legislative career. The Clean Harbors proposal is ill-conceived and will have a dramatic affect on the hundreds of thousands of people who live in this area," said Morrissey.

Morrissey notes he has also supported rules reform and more public access to the legislative process. He has not been afraid to take a stand or to stand alone on a difficult or politically unpopular issue. He has tried to maintain his visibility and availability through periodic office hours and strong constituent services, he said.

On June 20, Morrissey said his election committee will sponsor a "Campaign Kick-Off and Fund-raiser" at the Sons of Italy from 7-10 p.m. Tickets may be obtained by calling 328-0900.

No Plans For Major Overhaul At Fore River Bridge

Responding to a letter by Council President Ted DeCristofaro, the head of the state Department of Public Works said there are no current plans for a major rehabilitation project for the Fore River Bridge "at this time."

State Public Works Commissioner Jane Garvey told DeCristofaro in a letter dated June 7 her department is aware of the physical problems concerning the bridge. However, because of the state's financial woes, no rehabilitation project has been scheduled.

DeCristofaro said he will continue to fight to have the bridge which connects Quincy to Weymouth "restored to the best possible condition." He said he will also closely monitor the various repairs as they are made.

In her letter, Garvey said state Maintenance Engineer Robert Hyldburg "is very familiar with the current state of the bridge and its need for a major rehabilitation contract."

During the past year, Garvey noted various sections of the deck have required construction work, consisting mainly of repairing and/or replacing several minor structural members that support the deck.

Also, in February, a problem with the bridge's machinery was corrected by a temporary solution which allows the drawspan to continue functioning. Garvey said the repairs were undertaken in response to emergency situations.

However, due to financial restraints, future repairs will be based on the utilization of available forces and weighed against other bridge projects in the state, Garvey said.

Hyldburg agreed with DeCristofaro's assessment of the deteriorated concrete bridge rails which are unsightly with debris. Garvey said the debris will be "continually cleaned up by district personnel whenever possible."

As for the bridge lighting system, state Traffic Engineer Donald Chausse is expecting an electrical maintenance contract proposal to be advertised in the near future.

Garvey told DeCristofaro "this contract was assembled with other site locations in mind, but it may be possible to use the contract to have repairs made to the Fore River Bridge."

In the meantime, the lighting may be repaired using district personnel, she added.

Matthew Tobin Memorial Fund Walk To Be Held June 24

The third annual benefit walk in memory of Matthew Tobin will be held Sunday, June 24 beginning at 9 a.m.

The five-mile walk, which begins at the Elks Club Lodge on East Squantum St. near Marina Bay and continues along Wollaston Beach to Merrymount Beach and back again, raises funds to be donated to several area needy causes and disadvantaged individuals through the Matthew David Tobin Memorial fund.

Walkers are asked to solicit pledges from family and friends for every mile they walk.

All of the proceeds from the walk will be donated to charitable causes. No money raised will be used for expenses.

Matthew Tobin, son of Quincy District Court Clerk Magistrate, Arthur Tobin, died in an automobile accident Thanksgiving Day, 1987.

Pledge forms are available by contacting Mrs. Shirley Tobin at 773-7454.

Pledge forms may also be picked up prior to the walk.

When pledges are collected, checks should be made out to the Matthew David Tobin Memorial Fund and mailed to 58 Huntley Rd., Quincy, MA 02169.

'Father Abraham' Sermon Topic At Covenant Congregational

At the 10:45 a.m. worship service Sunday at Covenant Congregational Church, Whitwell and Granite Sts., Rev. Kirk Johnson, co-pastor with Rev. Kathleen Graves, will preach. In recognition of Fathers Day, his subject will be Abraham, the father of the Israelites.

The choir will be directed and accompanied on the organ by Richard Smith, Minister of Music. The choir will sing during the month of June, after which various members will be featured in solos, duets or quartets.

There will be no Church School, but the Confirmation class will meet for their last meeting. During the service, a nursery is still available for children age five and under. The attendant will be Beth Wynne.

Immediately following the service, coffee will be served in the fellowship hall downstairs. Members are asked to sign up to host one Sunday during the summer. The flower committee also requests that members who have garden flowers they are willing to share with the congregation, contact them.

Activities for the week are: choir rehearsal on Wednesday at 7 p.m., a Diaconate meeting Thursday at 7 p.m. and a Trustee meeting Sunday, June 24 at 5:30 p.m. The annual meeting of the Covenant will be held in Chicago on June 19-24. Pastor Kathy, Pastor Kirk and family will be attending.

Coming events include Rev. James Lindgren, Chaplain for the New England Seamen's Mission as speaker June 24; the International Sea Festival in Providence, R.I. from 12 to 6 p.m. Sunday July 8, an outdoor service on Sunday, July 29, and Vacation Bible School August 13-17 from 9 a.m. to noon.

For more information about any of the church's activities, please call the church office at 479-5728.

'Catching It From Dad' Point Congregational Sermon Topic

"Father's Day" will be observed at Quincy Point Congregational Church this week, the first Sunday of the summer schedule when services start at 10 a.m.

The Rev. Carol Atwood-Lyon will preach on "Catching It From Dad!"

Music will be by Dr. Herman Weiss, organist and Choir director and James Hill, tenor and Jeffrey Spasato, bass will sing a duet.

Following the service, there will be a Social Hour with refreshments and fellowship in the social hall.

The church is located at Washington St. and Southern Artery, Quincy Point. Infant Care is provided each Sunday during the summer months and throughout the year in the Crib Room and Nursery so that parents of young children may attend morning worship.

Worshippers are encouraged to dress casually during the warmer weather. The church has off-street parking. For more information, call the church office at 773-6424.

4 Graduates Honored At Squantum Church

The First Church of Squantum honored four college and graduate school graduates Sunday during the morning worship service.

They are Todd Klock, Brown University; Susan Scott, University of Vermont; David Williams, Quincy Junior College, and Karen Sorensen, who has received her Master's degree from the University of Connecticut.

The Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin, Pastor, preached on the subject, "The Slippery Slope."

Each of the graduates was asked to go up front with family members where Dr. Langevin congratulated them and led in prayer and Beth Harper, as Chairman of the Board of Christian Education, presented each graduate with a copy of the New Revised Standard Version of the Bible.

The mother of one of the graduates, Dore Klock, sang

"His Love" as the offertory solo.

The congregation hymns were accompanied by Janet Williamson on the piano and Mary Ruth Scott on the organ.

Beth Harper and her daughters, Amy and Lauren, and Kathy Sullivan-Moran and her son, Matthew, were the greeters, Tore Wallin and Harry Holmes were the ushers, and the Fellowship Hour was hosted by Patti Hurd and Evelyn Ahearn.

The Bible Study group, which is studying "The Old Testament Prophets", continues to meet each Wednesday night at 7:15 p.m.

Over $1,000 In Prizes For North Quincy Sidewalk Sale June 22-23

The North Quincy Business and Professional Association will hold its annual Sidewalk Sale on Friday and Saturday, June 22 and 23, from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m.

The sidewalk sale will feature special buys from area stores and specialty shops.

In addition, over $1,000 in prizes will be awarded. The Quincy Sun centerfold Thursday, June 21 will carry coupons to be filled out and dropped off at participating stores. The stores will then hold drawings for the winners on Saturday at 6 p.m.

Several activities have also been planned for children, including the Metro Zoo's Wildlife On Wheels (W.O.W.), which will be on Billings Rd. Friday from 12 to 2 p.m. The exhibit, featuring live animals, is both educational and fun for children of all ages.

There will also be face painting and balloons for children, as well as music and hopefully a fire truck for children to explore.

For adults, Dr. Mark Jaehnig will set up a blood pressure clinic on Friday from 12 to 3 p.m.

According to NBPA President Joe Doran other attractions are also being sought, but have not been confirmed yet.

Early Childhood Students Present $2,400 To Genesis Fund

Students in the Early Childhood Programs at North Quincy and Quincy Vocational Technical Schools presented a check for $2,400 to the Genesis Fund at the recent Genesis Fund Telethon at Channel 5.

The Quincy students worked as volunteers at the telethon.

Throughout the school year the students have raised money through organized events including a pre-school jump-a-thon, pictures with Santa, a celebrity basketball game, and the sale of candy, balloons and popcorn.

The Genesis Fund is an organization which provides funding for specialized care and treatment of children born with genetic diseases, birth defects or mental retardation.

DOVE Honors Volunteers

DOVE recently honored its volunteers at a buffet held at the Quincy Historical Society.

Mary Vallier, DOVE Board member, presented to Tina Redden-Mapping a special award for contributing

Col. Walter Fuller Square Dedicated In North Quincy

The corner of Newbury Ave. and Kendall St., North Quincy, was dedicated Sunday as Col. Walter C. Fuller Square, in memory of Col. Fuller, an Army veteran of World War II.

The Disabled American Veterans, Quincy - Cavanagh Chapter No. 79 and the Quincy Veterans Council dedicated a Memorial Marker in honor of Fuller, who died in May of 1988.

Fuller, a past Commander of the Quincy - Cavanagh DAV worked on the state level as an Aide to the State DAV Commander. He was also past Commander of the Quincy Veterans Council.

He was a member of the VFW, American Legion, American Division Veterans Association, the 101st Infantry Association, the Reserve Officers Association of the United States, and the Guadalcanal Campaign Veterans.

Fuller was past Director of the Quincy Lions Club and past Secretary of the Quincy Board of Trade.

He was Chief of Staff of the Massachusetts delegation in the Eisenhower Inaugural parade in Washington, D.C. in 1957 and served as Military Aide to the late Governor Christian A. Herter from 1953 to 1957.

Mayor Amelio Della Chiesa of Quincy appointed Col. Fuller to the board of registrars in 1960 and in 1961 he was appointed Civil Defense Director, a position he held for five years.

Merrymount Third Graders Embark On Space Learning Adventure

For the past three months, Dawn Heckman's third grade class at the Merrymount School has been on an adventure to the reaches of the solar system.

Each student was given a Captain's Log containing data sheets for the information needed to make their mission a successful trip.

Maps, supply lists, research sheets and picture files were included in the log. Each student was required to find the information using whatever resources available to them; books, encyclopedias, videos, magazines and other sources.

Students were exposed to a variety of activities to aid them in their learning experience. A video showing the history of man's quest in space was seen. The "Skylab", a portable planetarium, was brought to the school and the children learned more about the stars and planets seen in the evening skies.

A large mural was done by the class depicting the sun and the planets and their orbits. The teacher and children worked together to build a space shuttle which measured nine feet long with a six foot wingspan. The shuttle was christened the "ZX200" and was suspended from the ceiling.

Children made models of their planets, some made drawings. Another child chose to make a time capsule containing important personal memorabilia which was to be opened "upon her return to earth (or in the event of her inability to return)." Students learned the meanings to new vocabulary related to space.

They also explored the advantages and disadvantages of space travel. They also explored the advantages and disadvantages of space travel.

Discussions became lively as children expressed their vision of what life would be like on other planets.

To culminate the study of the solar system, "Space Day," a special day of activities was planned. The room had been transformed into "Mission Control: Merrymount Space Center." Each child has made a "control panel" and placed it on his desk.

The space shuttle hung above the students as a space capsule occupied a corner of the room. Planets and stars were suspended in space. All this helped transform room 35 into Mission Control.

In the morning a special guest speaker, Edward Fenby, of the Air Force Search and Rescue Team came to share exciting information with the children.

Fenby showed videos on the training needed to become a pararescuer, as well as rescue procedures. He also brought in his parachute and some of the rescue equipment he uses in his work. Everyone enjoyed learning about being a pararescuer and the important role they play in the space program.

In the afternoon a special "press conference" was held at the Merrymount Space Center. With video cameras rolling, the "Captains" shared the information they had learned during their voyages to the planets with the "members of the press" and the other scientists at the conference. Questions were taken from the floor as the experts shared their findings. Each captain was awarded the "Neil Armstrong Space Award" for outstanding achievement in the field of space exploration.

Massachusetts Association Of Realtors: First Time Buyers Promotion

The Massachusetts Association of REALTORS (MAR) recently kicked off a public awareness program aimed at first-time home buyers with a rally and proclamation signing ceremony at the State House in Boston.

The summer-long campaign, which has adopted the theme "Yes You Can Buy a Home in Massachusetts," will educate individuals and families who rent about the value of homeownership and also will publicize information about mortgage programs and homes available within an affordable price range.

"We are currently experiencing one of the best buyer's markets in years, but many people have put off the purchase of their first home because of uncertainty over the future of the local economy or other reasons," said MAR President J. Thomas Marquis. "The goal of the 'Yes You Can' campaign is to restore confidence among prospective first-time home buyers and alert them to the window of opportunity that exists to enter the housing market now."

"Our association recognizes that the correction occurring in the housing market is part of the reason for the temporary slowdown in our economy, but there is a silver lining in the clouds that have formed over Massachusetts," Marquis stated.

"We now have a number of ideal conditions, including a great selection of available inventory; stable, realistically-set home prices; affordable interest rates; and many new, attractive financing programs designed specifically for first-time home buyers; which make this an ideal time to purchase a home."

Numerous promotional materials, including buttons and window decals, have been distributed to more than 4,000 REALTOR offices throughout the Commonwealth to increase the campaign's visibility. As part of the campaign, the MAR also has published two brochures which provide valuable information on the home-buying process and are being made available to the public at no cost.

"The real estate industry is the second largest contributor to the country's gross national product, and is a prime engine for growth in Massachusetts," noted Marquis. "The 'Yes You Can' campaign will be our vehicle to improve the state's economy by motivating entry level buyers to purchase homes, which, in turn, will stimulate other home sales through the 'trickle-up' effect."

"It's time to get beyond the doom and gloom stories and take a positive approach to our market. Today's young home buyers are scared and confused because all they hear about is the 'slumping real estate market.' What we will tell them through our 'Yes You Can' campaign is that current market conditions are the most favorable they have been for buyers in years," he added.

At the rally to mark the official start of the campaign, Governor Dukakis presented a proclamation declaring June as "Yes You Can Buy a Home in Massachusetts" Month.

"This is a time of real opportunity for home buyers, and I'm pleased that we're working with the REALTORS Association to promote homeownership in the Commonwealth. 'Yes You Can - Buy 90' sends a positive message of hope to families trying to realize the American dream of homeownership," he said.

Also participating in the rally were leaders of the Massachusetts Bankers Association, Massachusetts Mortgage Bankers Association, Massachusetts Association of Mortgage Brokers and Homebuilders Association of Massachusetts, who have encouraged their members to incorporate the "Yes You Can" theme into their own institutional promotions and advertising efforts as well.

Building Dept. Open To Homeowners Wednesday Nights

Building Inspector Matthias Mulvey reminds homeowners that the Building Department is now open Wednesday nights from 4:30 to 8:30 p.m. through Aug. 29.

Only homeowners, not contractors, can be serviced Wednesday evenings. During that time, a building inspector and secretary are available to issue building permits for homeowners only, Mulvey said.

The service is not costing the city any additional money. Employees work the Wednesday night shift on a rotating basis.

If the Wednesday evening openings prove successful, Mulvey said the trial operation would become permanent.

$430,216 In Wiring

The Quincy Wire Department issued 217 permits for an estimated $430,216 in May, reports Wire Inspector Thomas Purpura.

The department also collected $10,194 in fees and issued 61 certificates of approval to the Massachusetts

Electric Company last month.

In addition, there were 449 inspections, 86 defects noted, 59 re-inspections and 1 fire call.

Major projects which were permitted in May were a two-family dwelling at 299 Common St.; 24-unit dwelling at 175-E Centre St.; 12-unit multi-dwelling at 175-F Centre St. and a 12-unit multi-dwelling at 175-G Centre St.

When A House Becomes A Home

MEETING A NEED. FULFILLING A DREAM

Here you see end result; fulfillment of a dream and meeting of a need.

One home is a one-of-a-kind-if-you-miss-this-it-won't-happen-again opportunity. The other home is the perfect-for-us-home that cuts commuting time and gives our family more time together.

The Common denominator, looking to the future, the buyer for each of these homes had purchased a starter home and through the sale of those "starter" homes were able to acquire a dream and to meet a need.

Other Energy Saving Tips

Other simple steps you can take to help reduce cooling costs include:

- Air conditioners: Monthly upkeep will maintain efficiency and help cut energy costs. Clean the internal coils with a damp rag or soft brush and then vacuum. Foam filters should be washed or replaced at least once a month. For high efficiency, air conditioners should be serviced once a year; motors lubricated, coils cleaned and filters changed.

If possible, place the unit on the north side of the home or in the shade, and try to keep the thermostat set at a comfortable 78 degrees. Utility findings show that each degree the thermostat is lowered represents a 2 or 3 percent increase in cooling costs.

- Seal cracks: Caulk and weatherstrip doors and windows to reduce infiltration of hot air. Weatherstripping (available as felt strips, foam rubber and flexible vinyl) is easy to install. Doors between air conditioned and non-air conditioned spaces should be stripped on all sides, tops and bottoms. This includes entrance doors, attic doors and inside and outside basement doors, as well as window sashes.

For more information on the benefits of insulating, write to M.S.U. Meeks, Owens-Corning Fiberglas Corp., Fiberglas Tower, Toledo, OH 43659.

Insulate to help reduce power demand and keep your house cool this summer

Electricity industry analysts predict that one third of the country will have insufficient power by 1993.

The reason: Demand is increasing and new energy sources are not being developed.

In fact, electricity use has increased 4.8 percent per year for the last two years. And in some areas, peak demand has been rising as much as 10 percent annually.

Areas affected include the Northeast, the Southeast and portions of the Midwest. The rapidly growing Pacific Northwest economy could spur brownouts in that area as well. Brownouts are a result of a small cutback in power—which forces equipment to work harder.

"To help reduce the likelihood of brownouts—and reduce air conditioning costs at the same time—homeowners should consider energy conservation measures, such as insulating," advises Frank Glover of Owens-Corning Fiberglas Corp., a leading manufacturer of energy-efficient building materials.

"Three important areas to insulate," Mr. Glover says, "are the attic, basement and crawl space."

Unfinished attics

Most American homes need R-38 or 12 in. of fiber glass batt insulation in their attics, according to the U.S. Department of Energy (DOE).

"Installing insulation in your home is a simple and inexpensive do-it-yourself project," Mr. Glover adds. "And insulating your attic is one of the most cost-effective energy-saving projects. For example, if the DOE recommended level in your area is R-38 (and your attic already has 4 in. of fiber glass insulation), it would cost about $350 to insulate an average 1000 sq-ft. space with R-25 Attic Blanket® (or 8 in.) of fiber glass insulation."

THIS DO-IT-YOURSELFER is helping to conserve energy and lower his utility bills by completing an easy weekend project: insulating his attic.

Before you begin work, you'll need safety glasses, work gloves, a long-sleeved shirt, a breathing mask and a sharp knife.

Lay a piece of temporary flooring to kneel on while working, such as a plank or 1/2 in. piece of plywood. Leave the insulation in rolls until you're ready to use it.

Start laying fiber glass batt insulation at the outer edges of the attic, making sure not to block the flow of air from eave vents. Keep insulation a minimum of 3 in. from light fixtures, and use unfaced material in the space between a masonry chimney and wood framing.

Lay the long runs in first and use leftovers to fill up the smaller spaces later. Push the insulation under any wiring, and butt each section of insulation tightly up against the adjacent one for a complete thermal barrier.

If you are adding to existing insulation and the joist cavity is already filled, lay the new insulation perpendicular to existing insulation. If your joist cavity is only half full and the recommended insulation level in your area is R-38 or 12 in. of fiber glass batt insulation, fill up the cavity with R-11 or 3 1/2 in. of fiber glass batt insulation. Then lay a second layer of R-19 or 6 1/4 in. of fiber glass batt insulation perpendicular to the existing layer.

Basement walls

To insulate walls in a heated basement, build a framework of 2x4 studs, 16 or 24 in. on-center over the masonry walls. Wedge the insulation directly between the studs. If you are using a faced material, place the facing toward the warm-in-winter side. Finish by installing paneling or drywall.

When using unfaced material, be sure to install a separate vapor barrier over the insulation. Cut pieces of insulation to fit in the band joist between the top plate of the framework and the floor above.

Spring HOME IMPROVEMENT

A REMODELED ROOM LOOKS GREAT with a textured white suspended ceiling and contrasting black grid system. The black and white color scheme offers a striking, contemporary look that helps reflect natural outdoor light. The ceiling can also be installed with a white grid system.

Sunlight plays role in decor

It's springtime—time for home repairs. But before undertaking a project, consider the amount and degree of sunlight a room will receive and choose a color scheme accordingly. For instance, light surfaces and furnishings work well in a sunny room, while intense colors from the red, yellow and orange parts of the spectrum can help cheer up northern rooms that get little light.

To tone down a room that gets too much light, consider cool blues and greens. Rough textures on ceilings or walls can also give a light-reducing effect.

One technique for remodeling is to start at the top for a fresh look. Recessed lighting, hanging plants and a new suspended ceiling to hide an old stained or cracked ceiling are all ideas to consider.

For example, a remodeled room looks great with textured white suspended ceiling panels and contrasting black grid system. (A grid system, attached to or "suspended from" the existing ceiling, is what holds the new ceiling up. The panels rest in the grid.)

White panels in a black grid give the ceiling a striking, contemporary look that also helps reflect natural light. The ceiling panels can also be installed with a white grid.

For rooms that need extra lighting, compatible fluorescent fixtures and luminous panels can be positioned where needed. Furniture, artwork and decorative accessories seem vibrant under the soft, evenly diffused light.

A suspended ceiling can offer a lot more than good looks. An acoustical suspended ceiling helps muffle noises when family activities take place or the neighbors are over for a get-together while the kids are asleep upstairs. And washable panels are easy to maintain. Simply lift them out of the grid for cleaning.

One manufacturer offers a 10-year warranty when its grid and panels are used together.

Do-it-yourselfers who'd like to explore the possibilities of suspended ceilings can call toll-free for more information. For a free booklet, just dial 800-233-3823 and request a complimentary copy from the Armstrong service representative.

THE '90s KITCHEN will feature cabinets in lighter shades, such as ALNOgolf in the light spruce shade, from ALNO Kitchen Cabinets, Inc. SH905376

Light, bright colors are the latest look

The current style in kitchen remodeling is to go light and bright. Around the U.S., the popular choice is light-colored surfaces for the kitchen.

This is especially true with cabinetry, and kitchen experts recommend styles in lighter woods, laminates, and lacquers. The popular wood cabinets include natural ash, spruce and oak. White washing and white pigments are added to the oak and spruce to further lighten the natural wood shades. Laminate and lacquer cabinet styles are popular in white and off-white.

The pale cabinet colors work well in kitchens because they open up the space. The kitchen becomes a larger and brighter area to cook in, work in, and eat in.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

HAPPY FATHER'S DAY FROM OUR FILES

Here is a partial excerpt of a speech given by Rev. Spitt at the age of 8 at a Father/Son banquet held at Faith Lutheran Church, in Arlington, Va. It was published in the September 1955 issue of Women's Home Companion ...

"Father's have many names. Some are called Dad. Some are called Sir. Others are called Pop, Daddy, Pa, Hey You or That Old Grouch ... Fathers like to have fun with the boys. They like to play poker with the boys, and they like to drink beer with the boys ... Fathers sometimes spend time with their sons. They do homework with sons. They mow lawns and rake leaves with sons. Mostly, though, these things are done by sons along ... Fathers get special privileges around the house. They can watch TV after 8 o'clock. They can hang coats on the back of a chair. They get ice cream even though they don't eat all their spinach ... Fathers usually are kind, generous, helpful and understanding. A smart son can usually manage to raise a pretty good father ..."

Legion Baseball

Morrisette Opens With Two Wins

By STEVE KAVANAGH

Morrisette opened its 46th season of Legion baseball by winning its first two games of the season at Adams Field.

Morrisette topped Randolph, 8-3, and breezed by Mass. Truck of Weymouth, 9-2.

Kevin MacDougall started against Randolph and struck out five while walking just one in 5 1/3 innings. MacDougall scattered seven hits while allowing three runs (two earned runs) to earn the win.

Erik DeBoer earned a save by striking out five of six batters in 1 2/3 innings.

Randolph grabbed an early lead on four hits (three infield hits) and an error which parlayed into two runs in the first.

Morrisette got one back in the second. Jim Glynn walked and Tony Anderionis singled him to third. Glynn scored on a wild pitch.

Randolph scored again in the third but Morrisette came back to tie it, 3-3, in the bottom of the inning thanks to three Randolph errors and a Tom Balzano single.

MacDougall singled and stole second in the fourth inning and scored on Jeff Calvert's single.

Morrisette put the icing on the cake with a four-run sixth inning. The key hits were a RBI single by Balzano, a two-run double by Anderionis, and a pinch-hit single by Mark Kelleher.

Balzano finished with three hits and two RBI and Anderionis had two hits and two RBI.

Morrisette scored three in the first and two in the second and never looked back against Mass. Truck.

Gary Rawdon went 4 1/3 innings allowing one earned run, walked four and struck out five to pick up the win. DeBoer pitched 1 2/3 innings allowed a run and struck out three.

Sean Donovan was impressive in his first Legion appearance as he struck out three and walked one in the seventh inning.

In the first, Balzano reached on a two-base error and scored on Brian Taylor's single. Calvert tripled and then scored on a DeBoer single.

Mike Baylis led off the second with a triple and Rawdon singled him home. Glynn bunted Rawdon to second and Balzano singled home another run. Morrisette added a run in the fourth, two in the fifth and one in the sixth.

Balzano was two for three with a double and two RBI. Baylis had two hits and Anderionis had two RBI.

Morrisette hosts Braintree at Adams Field Friday at 8:30 p.m. and Canton Monday. Morrisette will play at Dorchester next Wednesday at 6 p.m.

Dodgers Clinch N.L. First Place

The First American Bank Dodgers clinched first place in the National League with two big wins last week.

The Dodgers whitewashed the previously unbeaten Pirates, 7-0, behind the two-hit pitching of Chris Bregoli.

Kevin Walsh led off with a triple and was knocked in by Mike Powers. Bregoli doubled and Philip Belmont singled home two runs for a 3-0 lead.

The Dodgers clinched it with four runs in the fifth inning. Jonathan Brillo walked. Steve Rochoon singled. Paul Wise singled to load the bases and a run scored when Steve Marks was hit by a pitch. T.J. Wilson singled to score three more runs.

Wise doubled and Wilson had another single for the Dodgers.

Jose Diaz pitched for the Pirates and struck out eight. He also belted a triple. Bregoli struck out 15 batters.

Walsh and Powers combined for another Dodger shutout, 10-0, over the Red Sox. Belmont tripled home Walsh, Powers and Bregoli for a 3-0 lead.

In the third, Kenny Twomey walked, Walsh doubled and Bregoli and Belmont singled home a run each.

Powers singled home two men in the fifth and the Dodgers added three more in the sixth. Belmont tripled and scored on Pat Dolbicare's single.

Ryan Deshler doubled home two runs and John Sullivan also hit a double.

50-50 Week For Quincy Legion

It was a 50-50 week for the Quincy Legion baseball team. Quincy is celebrating its 50th anniversary of its Legion team and split the first two games of the season.

Quincy managed just two hits in a 6-0 loss to Randolph but rebounded with an 11-6 wallop of Carter Post.

Pitcher Rich Burns struck out nine and allowed just six hits and gave up just one unearned run in the first 6 1/3 innings.

Quincy failed to capitalize on its only threat in the fourth when it had men at second and third and no outs.

Burns and Kevin Daly had the only hits for Quincy. Ron Boudreau, Don Anderson, and Barry Glynn had outstanding games defensively.

Jim Maloney set the tone against Carter Post with a lead off home run. Sean Mulhern had three of Quincy's 14 hits. Wayne McCulley, Eric Bistany, Burns and Maloney each had two hits.

Steve McInnis went the distance, scattered six hits and struck out eight.

Quincy played Mass. Truck Monday and faces Weymouth at Libbey Field Wednesday. Quincy meets Wollaston Saturday at 8 p.m. at Adams Field.

Triple A

Pirates, White Sox Rack Up 2 Wins Each

The Locker Room Pirates and IBEW 2222 White Sox each won two games in Triple A baseball action last week.

The Pirates topped the Yellow Cab A's, 10-7, and beat the Papa Gino's Tigers, 15-6.

Jarrod Leikauskas was the winning pitcher and had two hits in the Pirates win over the A's. Chris Pagliarulo had three hits including a home run and Mike Ferguson had three hits including a triple. Jon Mahoney also tripled.

Jamie Murphy went 3 for 3 including a double and a triple and Neil Costa was also 3 for 3. Joe Braken tripled for the A's.

Costa pitched well and Steve Rose had a good game defensively.

Ferguson allowed just three hits and struck out 14 in the win over the Tigers. Mahoney, Leikauskas and Sean Carta each had three hits and Robbie Bowes, Brian Brownell and Ferguson had two each.

Pagliarulo and Mahoney played good defense for the Pirates and T.J. Miller had a good game at first base for the Tigers.

The White Sox held off a late rally by the A's to win 9-6. Brian Walsh was the winning pitcher and helped his own cause with two triples. Joe Carr belted a double for the Sox and John Wall and Mike Coseboom were sharp in the field.

Braken and Rose had two hits apiece for the A's and Rose pitched well.

The White Sox scored two runs in the sixth to overcome Flavin & Flavin, 8-7. Matt McDonough was the winning pitcher. Joe Carr had three hits including a double and Brian Walsh cracked two doubles. Mike Lynch also had a double and Cedric Douglas had a fine defensive game.

M. Lind had two hits including a triple and Kate Gallagher had two hits to lead Flavin & Flavin. Jason Fontana also pitched well.

Quincy Boys Under 10 Win League Crown

The Quincy boys under 10 Division II team, sponsored by Dependable Cleaners, won the South Shore League championship with a hard fought, 1-0, victory over previously unbeaten (6-0-2) Abington II.

Abington controlled play early and had several good scoring chances. Excellent play by sweeper Danny Kinnecom and outside backs Steve Marks and Jamie Parisi helped keep the game scoreless.

Quincy began to play well at midfield and got some scoring opportunities of their own. Kevin Cellucci's hard shot sailed high and a Chad Fitzpatrick to Mike Sullivan pass just missed going in. Chris Bregoli's shot late in the first half hit the post and wing Sean Slattery was unable to convert the rebound. Goalie Tom Daley kept Abington off the board with a sliding save and the first half ended scoreless.

Abington started strong in the second half but Quincy's defense (which allowed just two goals this season) stiffened with fine play from Ben Burnes, Kinnecom and Parisi.

Quincy's passing attack produced several excellent chances. Nick Bissanti, Paul Hussey and Fitzpatrick had their shots turned aside and Bregoli again hit the post with the rebound just getting past wing Jeff Marks.

With about three-and-a-half minutes to play, Winger Randy Feetham intercepted a pass. Fitzpatrick then got the ball to Bissanti whose shot was knocked down by hand in the penalty area. Quincy was awarded a penalty shot. Bregoli's shot was stopped but he knocked in the rebound. Daley made a big save with under a minute to go to preserve his seventh shutout.

Previously Quincy whitewashed Abington I, 8-0, for its final regular season win. Daley, in a rare game out of net, scored on a pass by Bregoli. Kinnecom set up Fitzpatrick for another score and Bregoli assisted on Fitzpatrick's second goal of the game. Mike Sullivan then assisted on Bregoli's goal for a 4-0 halftime lead.

Bissanti scored two goals the first assisted by Fitzpatrick and the second by Marks. Paul Hussey scored with an assist by Robby Bell and Sullivan closed out the scoring with an assist by Mike Mulvey. Feetham, Fitzpatrick, Jerry Mulcahy and Steve Marks combined for the shutout.

Fitzpatrick led the team in scoring this season with 11 goals and four assists. Bissanti, Bregoli and Hussey each scored five goals. Sullivan had three goals and Cellucci and Bell had two each. Slattery, Burnes, Kinnecom, Daley, Mulcahy, and Bard Hajrizaj also scored. Other players included Parisi, Steve and Jeff Marks, Mulvey and Feetham.

Coaches were Paul Bregoli and Alex Courts and team mascot was Patrick Bregoli. Joey Daley did pre-game ceremonies.

Babe Ruth

Nutley, Gorman Shine In Bryan Win

Bryan Post VFW upped its record to 4-4 with a 5-3 win over Granite City Electric.

Pitcher Tom Nutley scattered five hits and did not allow an earned run.

The game featured a spectacular effort by BP centerfielder Rich Gorman. Gorman made a nice running catch on Brian Jennette to open the game and, following a Justin Ackerman double, stole an extra-base hit from Rob Guarnieri with a diving catch in the gap.

Rob Kane doubled and scored on Nutley's double to give VFW a 1-0 lead in the first. BP increased the lead to 3-0 in the third on hits by Sean Skehan, Terry Sheehan and a sacrifice fly by Gorman.

Granite City scored one in the third on a hit by Mike MacDougall and tied it up in the fourth on hits by Andrew Joyce and Jennette.

Bill Morrissey and Jeff Breslin had key hits for Bryan Post in the fifth as it regained the lead, 5-3.

Gorman preserved the win with two big catches in the seventh including a diving catch in the gap on Guarnieri again to end the game.

Morrissey had a good game at catcher, Paul King singled, and George Wirtz, Todd Portesi, Mike Koski, Dan Donahue and Matt McSweeney also contributed.

For Granite City Electric, MacDougall and Joyce pitched well and Dan Burke had a hit and played well in centerfield.

GCE previously defeated Poland Springs, 5-2, behind the solid pitching of Bob Verney and Burke. Verney started and won his third game and Burke came on in the sixth to shut down Poland Springs.

Mike Patch pitched a strong game for Poland Springs as he struck out 11 and allowed eight hits.

Granite City won it in the fourth when it stacked a 3-1 lead on hits by Guarnieri, Steve Tangney and Kevin Boylen. Guarnieri and MacDougall had two hits each. Erik MacFarlane and Jennette also singled and Ackerman played well at shortstop.

Poland Springs got two hits apiece from Eric Kruez and Terry Manning and triples from Patch and Matt McGowan. John McLoughlin also had a single.

Jeff Burrell, Paul Colleary, Billy Dunn and Ryan Ackerman also played well for GCE.

Bryan's Deli is off to its best start ever (8-0) with its most recent win, 13-4, over Bryan Post VFW.

Danny Duncan, with relief help from Derek Thompson, allowed just six hits for the win. Sean Kennerson paced Barry's with a 4 for 4 performance with a walk and five RBI and a good game at third base. Jeff Craig and David Rafferty both had three hits and Jeff Tirrell, Duncan, Mike Connors and Thompson also had hits.

Kenny Ledwak, Charlie Hardiman, Jimmy Goldrick and Ron McGann played well on defense.

Rob Kane pitched well for VFW and contributed a hit. Nutley, Koski, Morrissey, Dan Sheehan and Dan Donahue also had hits.

Wirtz played a strong game at second base for BP.

Barry's also trounced Local 1039, 8-4, behind the complete game, five-hit pitching of Connors.

Craig and Connors had two hits each and Tirrell knocked in two runs with a bases loaded single. McGann and Duncan each singled to cap the five-run inning. Rafferty added a long ground rule double.

Kennerson, Hardiman, Goldrick and Ledwak each played excellent defense.

Jim Sapienza pitched well for Local and belted a grand slam. Pete Shea had a good game at catcher and Mike Santoro, Eric Kane, Doug Nolan and Mike Ahern also had hits.

Women's Sports Day Camp Opens June 19

Play Ball Camp will conduct its second annual one-week day camp at Brintree High School in conjunction with the New Agenda Northeast Project geared to the advancement of the role of women in sports.

A unique feature of this year's sessions will be the inclusion of tennis into the afternoon program. So many of the basic skills of softball and tennis are similar that it was decided to focus the emphasis on the commonalities that exist between the two sports.

The camp will be held from June 19 through 23 at the Brintree softball and tennis facilities. The morning session will run from 9 a.m. to noon and the afternoon session from 12:30 to 3 p.m.

The staff members include Mary Pratt, longtime coach and physical instructor in the Quincy schools; Barbara Webster, North Quincy High softball coach and physical ed instructor; Mary Lydon of the Quincy physical education department; Sue Cullen of Quincy, and Amy Aitken, Maureen Connolly, Ann O'Brien and Minh Tran, all of Brintree.

One of the goals of the New Agenda project is to introduce young girls into the coaching and officiating aspect of girls' sports in order that they may in turn become more involved in the conduct of these programs in their future roles of coaches, officials, teachers and parents.

The morning program will include the teaching of the basic skills of softball and the practical application of these skills in game situations. Basic rules of the game and an introduction into beginning officiating will also be included in the morning.

The afternoon sessions will follow the same format but applied to the game of tennis. Girls can register for one or both programs and are encouraged to take part in both. Both programs are designed for girls grades 5 through 12. Flyers are available at the girls' athletic office at Brintree High School and through staff members.

QHS Inducts 20 Into Basketball Hall Of Fame

By PETE ZOIA

Twenty more former Quincy High basketball players were inducted into the Quincy Basketball Alumni Association Hall of Fame at the second annual induction ceremonies at the Bryan VFW Post.

Association president Guido "Buddy" Pettinelli introduced the head table guests, Rev. Joseph Papile, who gave the invocation; Quincy principal Lloyd Hill, present coach John Franceschini and assistants Ray Papile and Mike Draicchio, former coaches Martin Finnegan, Joe Amoroso, and Rick DeCristofaro.

The following former Presidents were inducted into the Hall of Fame:

The late Hobie Robinson,

captain of the 1928 team and a highly respected basketball official for many years.

Jim McGuinness, a clutch player from 1930.

Howard Marin, captain of the 1934 team known for his scoring and rebounding.

Oz Honkalehto, who played at MIT and in the Army and presently is a professor at Colgate University.

Bob Pettinelli from 1949 whose job was to cover the opponents' high scorer in every game.

Al Pasquale from 1949 was an all-state player and was a high scorer at George Washington University.

Dick Drake from 1951 played junior high sports at North Quincy and moved to Quincy where he was a three-sport star. He played at Williams College.

Marv Weinstein from the 1954 team was a three-sport star selected to the Greater Boston League and All Tech tournament teams and played at Northeastern University. He is presently located in Hong Kong.

Bob MacDonald from 1956 was described by his coach, the late Munroe MacLean, as a "great all-around performer."

Ron Dearden, also from 1956 played at George Washington and currently is an administrator in the Florida school system.

Ed Dunham from 1958 remembers his coach telling him "to always shoot when you're hot." He starred at the University of Massachusetts.

Fred Greer from 1961 was an outstanding point guard and was named the Most Valuable Player in the Greater Boston League.

Bob Mina, 1962, was a big factor in his team going 17-1 in his senior year. He played at Huntington Prep and Bentley College.

Bob Chew, 1962, a watch charm guard, played at Fairfax College in Virginia.

Jack McWilliams, 1965, was a Greater Boston League all-star and excelled in the Tech Tourney.

Steve Berlucchi, 1966, was a two-time Patriot Ledger all-star.

Bob Pike, 1971, was an all-scholastic who thanked present B.C. High coach Brian Buckley of Quincy for his help.

John Reggiannini, 1973, loved the game so much he was always playing at the park.

Bob Dacey, 1976, was a Suburban League all-star who later starred at Eastern Nazarene College.

Mike Lamie, 1977, was a high scorer and a Patriot Ledger all-star who once hit for 11 of 11 and another time 14 for 15.

Special awards were presented to Dr. Sid Cutler, a loyal supporter of Quincy High basketball for many years, and Herb Fontaine, a longtime WJDA newscaster, who recently retired.

Quincy's famed Granite Chips were recognized and George Page and Ralph Graham from that team were introduced.

Other former Quincy greats in attendance included Vic DiGravio, Ellie Hughes, George Burke, Bill Nolan, Paul Fitzpatrick, Paul Boston, Brian Buckley, Lionel Buckley, Buddy Page and George O'Rourke.

Also present were former and present North Quincy coaches Laroy "Curly" Rogers, Ed Miller, Gus DeBoer and Jed Phelan.

Pettinelli gave Rogers, North's first coach, two copies of the stories of the 1934 team's 15-9 win over Quincy and another story of the Raiders' game in the Tech Tourney the same year.

Assisting Pettinelli with arrangements were Amoroso, Finnegan, DeCristofaro, Franceschini, Papile and Mike and Bill Draicchio.

Competitive Swimming Camp Registration Underway

Director Barry Welch announces the Quincy Recreation Department is accepting registration for its Competitive Swimming Camp, which will be held June 25 through June 29.

Registration will be taken on a first come, first served basis at the Quincy Recreation Department, 100 Southern Artery, Monday through Friday, 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. as long as openings exist.

The camp is a competitive program with an emphasis on the refinement of competitive skills, with an exposure to a number of different types of training. This is not a learn-to-swim program, all applicants are expected to be able to swim and acclimate themselves to the rigors of training. Some of the areas that will be covered are: strokes, (freestyle, backstroke, butterfly, and breaststroke) starts and turns, videotaping, and chalkboard analysis of the skills of world class swimmers. Camp Director is William Y. Walker, Head Coach of swimming at North Quincy high school. The swimming camp will be held at the Lincoln Hancock Community School pool for those age 10 through high school who have intermediate level swimming ability. Co-recreational. Time is from 8:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. Cost is $27.

A horse's easy gallop is called a canter from the gait believed to have been used by pilgrims to Canterbury Cathedral.

Parker School Wins City Literature Contest

Fifth graders from the Francis W. Parker School won the 9th annual City of Quincy Children's Literature Contest held at the Parker School Media Center.

Teams from nine Quincy elementary schools competed.

The contest, which will be telecast on Channel 52, Quincy at the end of June, is much like the quiz show "Jeopardy" in format. Team captains sit in front of light and buzzer sets which they press when one of their teammates knows the answer to questions like:

"In what book does an unusual pet help improve business at the family's newspaper stand in a subway station by playing music?" (The Cricket in Times Square) Or: "How did John Henry die?" (Collapsed after winning a race with a steam drill)

Members of the winning team were Chuck O'Brien, captain; Maureen Sullivan, Vivian Chan, Tim O'Brien, Fong Ting Ng, Kara Lightbourne, John Heim and William Chan. Second place went to Merrymount School and third was a tie between Bernazzani and Wollaston.

The win was the second in a row for Parker. The contest has been won three times by Merrymount, and twice each by Montclair and Squantum.

"This contest gives the children who are good readers a chance to 'star' for their schools," said Ted Clarke, producer of the contest. "We give plenty of publicity to athletes, but here's another area where children can excel.

We need people who can think fast and accurately in front of a large audience, who can analyze what they've read and apply it to a set of circumstances. This event requires those skills."

Clarke, a media specialist in the Quincy Public Schools, said he'd like to see the idea extended to the secondary schools next year.

Swimming Lessons Registration

The Quincy Recreation Department will conduct registration for its instructional swimming lessons at the Lincoln Hancock Community school pool.

The lessons are from non-swimmer through lifeguard training and basic water safety are taught by Red Cross trained instructors. Pool lessons by class are open to Quincy residents over age six. Children under age six are eligible for Parent and Tot lessons. All participants must have a current pool participation card. The registration is done on a first come, first served basis at the Water Street entrance to the pool according to the following schedule.

Monday, June 18: 9 a.m.

Intermediate; Swimmer; Lifeguard training and Basic Water Safety. 10:15 a.m., Synchronized Swimming and Advanced Beginner.

Tuesday, June 19: 9:00 a.m., Beginner I; 9:45 a.m. Beginner II; 10:30 a.m., Parent and Tots.

QCTV Adds 'Senior Beat'

Quincy Community Television has introduced a new program this spring to add to its senior line-up. The program, called "Senior Beat," is a video magazine which features segments that keep seniors informed on health, fitness, city issues and much more.

"Senior Beat" has found its own niche to fill among QCTV's other senior programs which for the past seven years have included "Senior Smarts", an entertainment program featuring game show episodes and occasionally talent episodes and "Senior Spotlight" a studio based talk show featuring light topics. The new magazine show fills the gap with information on current topics and events to keep seniors active and involved in their community.

The program, generally consisting of three segments shot in the field at locations across the city of Quincy, is produced monthly by QCTV Productions Coordinator, Darlene Mendoza and hosted by John Noonan, Chairman for the Council on Aging.

Some of the topics which "Senior Beat" has already covered include long term health care, elderly housing, Alzheimer Disease, updates on proposed Medicare budget cuts and fitness for seniors through programs at the South Shore YMCA. "Senior Beat" has investigated programs for seniors through organizations such as Quincy Hospital and the Quincy Health Department.

On the lighter side, "Senior Beat" has visited the community centers of Quincy neighborhoods and occasionally included reviews of films with a senior interest such as the movies "Dad" and "Driving Miss Daisy".

The fastest breed of dog in the world is the greyhound. It has been clocked at 41.7 miles per hour.

Kerry's Cable Show Airs On Ch. 3

Sen. John Kerry's monthly cable show will air tonight (Thursday) from 7:30 to 8 p.m. on local access cable Ch. 3 in Quincy. "John Kerry's Cable Town Meeting" June edition will focus on developing a national educational strategy that will insure our economic security. "If we are to have any hope of maintaining our economic competitiveness and create jobs for the future, education becomes even more important as we enter the 90s," Kerry said. "It's time for the federal government to provide some leadership—after years of cutbacks and crisis—in education. If we don't, our economic and technological edge over foreign nations will continue to disappear."

Kerry's guests will include representatives from the education and business communities.

Viewers can call Senator Kerry toll free at the Capitol at 1-800-736-8255 during the show. "John Kerry's Cable Town Meeting" is a live, call-in show that airs monthly.

For further information contact Michael Meehan at 617-565-8519 or your local cable operator.

Testing For Swimming Program Friday

Recreation Director Barry Welch announces Quincy Recreation Department will conduct an advance testing program in preparation for registration for its summer instructional swimming program at the Lincoln Hancock Community Pool.

Registration for classes will be held later this month. Children are registered according to their swimming ability. This testing program is for those who are unsure of their child's swimming ability, as well as persons who have not previously enrolled their child in swimming lessons.

The schedule for testing is Friday, June 15, from 5:30 to 8 p.m. The prerequisite swim tests for boating and sailing will also be held at this time.

Pool lessons are open to Quincy residents over the age of six who have a current pool participation card, issued by the Quincy Recreation Department. Youngsters ages 1 through 5 are eligible for Parent and Tot lessons.

Additional information can be obtained by calling the Quincy Recreation Department at 773-1380, ext. 204. The normal recreational swimming schedule of swims will be cancelled during the hours the testing will take place.

Quincy's Bob Seamans, a veteran marathoner, will once again compete for charity in perhaps the most grueling endurance event ever.

For the fourth time in five years, Seamans, 61, will compete in the Western States 100-Mile Same Day Endurance Run Saturday, June 30. The race begins at the Squaw Valley Ski Resort in California and winds through the rugged Sierra Nevada Mountains before finishing in Auburn, Calif.

This year, Seamans is collecting pledges to benefit the Dana Farber Cancer Institute in Boston. He is being sponsored by South Boston Savings Bank and WHDH radio in Boston.

BOB SEAMANS

Personally, Seamans will try to finish the course for the second time. In 1988, he crossed the line in 29 hours, 36 minutes.

In his first attempt in 1986, he ran 57 miles. In 1987, he logged 47 miles before 114-degree heat and a depleted water supply forced him out. He trained last year but an injury kept him out of the race.

Now, Seamans said he is in excellent shape to finish this year's race. In fact, he's set a personal goal of under 24 hours.

"I want to break 24 hours and I'm capable of that," he said. Runners must finish the course in 30 hours or less. When race officials see a runner won't finish on time, he is pulled from the race.

Seamans has trained rigorously and faithfully for this year's race. He has been running an average 85 to 100 miles a week mostly on hilly terrain.

The one thing Seamans hasn't been able to train for is the extreme heat that he'll most likely encounter. He noted temperatures in the canyons can climb to more than 110 degrees.

"That's the only thing that can hurt me—the sun. When the sun goes down, the heat isn't a factor because it's much cooler," he said, adding he'll run with a flashlight at night. For Seamans, the key to finishing is reaching the 60-mile mark. By that time, the sun is near or below the horizon and the temperature has fallen, thus making it more bearable.

"The key is, after 60 miles, you get it out. You're hurting at 60 miles but you reach down and gut it out the last 40 miles. By the 60-mile mark, the sun is down and the heat is not a factor," Seamans said.

Race officials take the heat very seriously. They monitor the 400 runners over the entire course, making sure no one continues unless he or she is physically capable.

Two years ago, Seamans was taken off the course after officials found that he had lost seven percent of his body weight. Before continuing, Seamans stayed on the sidelines until he put on four pounds of mostly water.

Runners who finish burn up an estimated 32,000 calories and lose 50 pounds of water.

Seamans, the 1980 New England 50-Mile Masters champion, has competed in more than 100 full marathons plus numerous 50 milers. However, he views the 100-Mile Same Day Endurance Run the ultimate endurance event and with good reason.

Billed as the toughest and greatest endurance event Outside magazine, the run covers difficult mountainous terrain and spans great extremes of altitude and temperature, from 20 degrees at the start to temperatures along the course that exceed 110 degrees in the shade.

Anyone who would like to pledge money can contact Seamans at 773-1500. Checks should be made out to the Dana Farber Cancer Institute.

IN ARTICLE I ADMINISTRATION, Section 15 Special Permits.
Paragraph 2, Line 8 add ARTICLE III, Section 31 subsection 2(g). Planned Unit Development - Congregate Elderly Facility.

IN ARTICLE II, DEFINITIONS, Section 21 Meaning of Words.
Add

Congregate Elderly Facility - A non-institutional residential shared living environment which integrates shelter and services needed by the functionally impaired or socially isolated elder who does not require the constant supervision or intensive health care services as provided in an institution. The shared living environment shall include at least the following: (a) Shared kitchen facilities; and (b) Shared dining facilities.

IN ARTICLE III ZONING DISTRICTS, Section 31
Establishment of Districts, Subsection 2. Add a new paragraph (g) to read as follows:

(g) (i) Congregate Elderly Facilities shall be permitted upon a recommendation of the Planning Board, and the issuance of a special permit by a two-thirds vote of all members of the City Council. Any change or amendment in the plan or conditions shall require approval by a two-thirds vote of all members of the City Council.

(ii) Each application shall include a development plan with a building profile and site plan, including existing and proposed topography, public utilities, parking, streets or ways, landscaping and other site development related information.

(iii) Each application also shall include a vicinity map showing the proposed use in relation to transit services, grocery stores, parks and open space, community facilities, medical facilities and a description of proposed management of the facility and the number and types of services to be provided to the residents.

Each applicant shall also include a market survey performed by a reputable marketing firm that outlines the need for the proposed congregate elderly housing facility.

(iv) Community space and related equipment shall be required to provide social and recreational opportunities for facility occupants. Included may be such facilities as game rooms, meeting rooms, music or craft rooms. All facilities must provide a doctor's examining room.

(v) Transportation - Each complex must provide a transportation management plan that should demonstrate private transportation for all residents of the complex. This may include, but not be limited to, private van service and taxi cab voucher system.

(vi) In any Planned Unit District - Congregate Elderly Facility, the following dimensional requirements shall apply:

Minimum Size (sq. ft.)	Minimum Area Per DU (sq. ft.)	Parking Minimum Number Spaces per DU
38,000	500	5
Max. FAR 2.0	Maximum No. of Stories 6

(vii) Each applicant shall demonstrate a parking plan which shall include specific parking spaces for staff and visitor parking.

$14 Million Economic Boost Seen Tourism Would Energize Downtown

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

On the surface, it would appear Quincy and tourism would be a natural combination.

After all, Quincy is called the "City of Presidents" and probably boasts more history per square mile than any other city or town in the state, let alone the country. This is the birthplace of two U.S. presidents, the first commercial granite railway, the first ironworks, and scores of other historical facts.

But in terms of tourism numbers, Quincy pales by comparison. Last year, Quincy attracted 60,000 visitors, generating $4 million to the local economy.

Plymouth, nicknamed "America's Hometown," attracts an average of one million visitors to the Plymouth Plantation, Mayflower II and Cranberry Woods each year. According to The Office of Travel and Tourism, tourism generated $130 million in 1988.

But there is a big difference between the two communities. Plymouth depends on tourism for its local economy. One Plymouth official was recently quoted as saying tourism is the number one industry in the town. The local room tax on motels and hotels alone generated $300,000 last year.

Keough Gets 10-Month Reappointment Education Coordinator Rehired On Compromise

After 90 minutes of discussion Monday night, the City Council reached a compromise on rehiring the city's coordinator of community education.

By an 8-0 vote, the council voted to rehire Arthur Keough for a 10-month period at a salary of $39,762. The appointment will run from this September to next June, the end of the fiscal year.

The original order called for Keough to earn $47,000 from this September to September, 1991. Keough will still earn the same weekly rate of $903 but the appointment will expire next June instead of September.

Mayor James Sheets, attending the U.S. Conference of Mayors in Chicago, spoke to The Sun Tuesday by telephone and said "I have no problem with (the change). Whether (the appointment) comes up in September or June makes no difference to me."

Ward 3 Councillor Lawrence Chretien amended the order, saying Keough's position should be part of the regular budgetary process. "The worst thing about this job is that it's separate from the budget. It's treated as a special appointment," Chretien said.

To continue the position, the mayor would have to include it as part of the fiscal 1992 budget process next year.

Old Colony RR Impact Hearing Here June 25

The City Council Public Transportation Committee will conduct a public hearing regarding the Old Colony Railroad Rehabilitation Project Draft Environmental Impact Statement/Report Monday, June 25 at 6:30 p.m. in City Hall Council Chambers.

Stephen Polechonis, the MBTA's project manager for the development, has been invited to attend to give a brief presentation.

Ward 6 Councillor Thomas Nutley is chairman of the committee.

Sheets Optimistic For Direct Federal Aid To Cities

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

Mayor James Sheets, attending the U.S. Conference of Mayors in Chicago, is optimistic the federal government will return to supplying direct aid to cities and towns.

Sheets, who spoke with The Sun Tuesday by telephone, said there is a "guarded optimism" among mayors that the Bush Administration will begin bypassing the state in distributing federal aid to cities and towns.

He said direct aid link between the federal government and cities and towns was present prior to 1980. However, President Reagan changed the system, distributing the money to state governments first.

Although he doubts there will be increase in federal aid for Quincy, Sheets said the direct supply will be more efficient.

"I feel the Bush Administration is going to see the need of local aid coming directly to cities and towns. There was once a direct relationship between the federal government and cities and towns.

"You didn't need the state for federal aid. I think that's a plus."

The city's biggest share of federal aid comes from the Community Development Block Grant fund. This year, the fund totals $1.7 million.

While in Chicago, the mayor has been busy attending various strategy sessions and meetings. City Council President Ted DeCristofaro is accompanying him.

Sheets, who has spoken with several other Massachusetts mayors including Ray Flynn and Mary Hurley of Springfield, said the conference has been very meaningful.

"It's really a time of idea gathering. It's been a very effective convention," Sheets said.

Issues the mayors have discussed and acted include drugs, Gramm-Rudman federal deficit reducing law and the peace dividend.

Earlier this week, a conference policy committee approved a broad, costly domestic agenda that asks Congress to repeal Gramm-Rudman.

The full conference was scheduled to vote on it Wednesday. Sheets appeared to be against the resolution. "Gramm Rudman has to remain until we have something more adequate to replace it," the mayor said Tuesday.

Under the law, automatic spending cuts take effect if Congress and the White

Memorial Service Here For Slain Liberian Rebel Leader

By RUTH WAINWRIGHT

A memorial service for Elmer Johnson, slain Liberian rebel leader, will be held in Christ Church Episcopal, Quincy Ave., Saturday, at 11 a.m.

Johnson, 31, was a Lay Reader at Christ Church for over a year.

Bishop Barbara Harris of the Boston Episcopal Diocese is expected to be the celebrant. Rev. James Rimaki is Christ Church rector.

Johnson was killed in Liberia June 3 during a gun fight between Government troops and rebel attackers. He was identified through his Massachusetts drivers license which was then sent to this country, with his Quincy address.

Johnson was born in Monrovia, where his grandfather was a former Liberian vice president. He came to this country when he was about eight years old. He was educated in Boston schools, attended Newman Preparatory School, received a degree in politics from Boston University, and a master's degree in public administration in 1986 from Suffolk University.

He lived at Presidential Estates in Quincy, commuting to his job with the General Accounting Office in Boston. Little was known of his activities as rebel commander in charge of military strategy in Liberia, although he made frequent visits there. He was known to have taken part in the invasion of Grenada in 1983.

He was separated from his widow, Reva Johnson. He leaves two children, a girl who has been living in Liberia with grandparents, and a son, attending an autistic school in Boston.

Mr. Johnson was last seen in Quincy in January of this year.

THANK-YOU COOK-OUT — Mayor James Sheets, center, gets help at the grill from City Council President Ted DeCristofaro, left, and Ted Maloney, a volunteer, during the mayor's recent Cleaner, Greener cook-out held at Faxon Park. The event was a thank-you from the mayor to those people who participated in the city-wide cleanup effort this spring.

Lincoln Hancock Pool Closed June 27-July 4

The Quincy Recreation Department announces all recreational swimming programs at the Lincoln Hancock Community School will be cancelled from Thursday, June 27 through Wednesday, July 4.

The evening schedule of recreational swimming sponsored by the Quincy Recreation Department will resume with the summer schedule Thursday, July 5 at 5 p.m.

Annual maintenance and preparation for the summer programs will be held while the pool is closed. The pool will re-open with a new summer schedule which will include seven days a week of recreational swimming.

License Board Briefs

The Quincy License Board took the following action during Tuesday's meeting at City Hall:

- Granted a request from the Quincy Youth Football League to hold tag days on Sept. 21, 22, 28, 29.

- Granted a request from the North Quincy High School Girls Volleyball team and Boosters Club to hold a canning drive on Sept. 14, 15 and 16 with a raindate for Sept. 21, 22, and 23.

• Continued a hearing on a request from Denis Lefas for a common victualer license for Danny's Place, 610 Hancock St., until Lefas meets with Ward 5 Councilor Charles Phelan.

• Granted a request from Joseph G. Lynch for a repair and used car license for Jaguar & Imports of Quincy, 68 School St. Lynch told the board he has approval of St. John's Church. The license was granted pending a review of signage and storage regulations.

• Continued for one week a hearing concerning a request from Jean-Claud Massad for a used car license for Cedar's Auto, 516 Quincy Ave.

Auto Repair Shop License Request Placed On File

The License Board Tuesday placed on file a request from Stephen McCarthy for an automotive repair shop license for Sea Street Auto Service Center, 169 Sea St.

The board noted that Building Commissioner Matthias Mulvey had discovered that the location had been unused as a repair shop for over two years, meaning that the non-conforming use in the Residence "A" zoned area, is no longer applicable.

According to city laws, Mulvey said, the non-conforming use does not apply after a business has been defunct for more than two years. At this juncture, he said, a variance from the Zoning Board of Appeals would be needed.

Mulvey also noted that the land in question is currently involved in a pending court case because the owner of the land has proposed to build apartments on the property. He said the ZBA may be prevented from granting a variance while the court case is pending.

The board said that McCarthy should seek legal counsel because he should have been informed by the owner that a ZBA variance is required to open an automotive repair shop there. Because the property had been before the Board of Appeals twice in recent years, Mulvey said the owner of the property should have been aware of city regulations.

McCarthy told the board he has leased the land on a tenant-at-will basis.

Ward 1 Councilor Peter Kolson told the board the repair shop already has signs advertising that it is open for business. He noted that McCarthy has done a lot of work on the property, but said he is "surprised" to see it open without a license.

While Kolson said he does not blame McCarthy for the situation, he said he wants to see the signs taken down until a ZBA variance and license are granted.

Kolson also noted that a ZBA variance may be difficult because the business is in a residential area.

McCarthy agreed to take the signs down and took the board's advice to seek legal help on the matter.

Non-Alcoholic Night Club Hearing Continued

By JANE ARENA
The License Board Tuesday continued indefinitely a hearing on request from John Blythe for a common victualer license, a Lord's Day license and a cabaret license to open a non-alcoholic night club, Foot Prints, at 1515 Hancock St., the former Remick's Building.

The board continued the hearing until such time as Blythe and his business partner William Collins can meet with the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association to discuss the proposal.

Eileen Cohen, QCBPA executive director attended the meeting and told the board that Collins was scheduled to meet with them last week but was unable to attend. She told the board the QCBPA therefore had no input on the matter at this time.

The board noted that the name of William Collins does not appear on the license application. Collins must be named as a partner for the license, Board Chairman John Gillis said, because the police department must run a routine police check on him as it did on Blythe.

The board also said that the applicants must meet with the QCBPA before any decision can be made.

The QCBPA is not scheduled to meet again until mid-August Cohen noted. The License Board stops meeting for the summer after next Tuesday's meeting.

Blythe told the board that he has no problem about meeting with the QCBPA but that it is difficult for him and Collins to adjust their schedules on short notice because they both hold full time jobs.

Blythe also told the board that he wants to meet with the QCBPA and come before the board again quickly because he does not want to run the risk of losing the location at 1515 Hancock St., which he feels is ideal for his night club. He said he hopes to open by the beginning of August.

The board noted that a special summer board meeting is usually scheduled for July or August.

Cohen said she may be able to arrange a meeting of the QCBPA for sometime sooner than mid-August.

Police Chief Paul Nestor said that he has no problem with the proposal, especially since there will be no alcohol involved, but warned against Blythe coming before the board in the future to request an alcohol license.

Blythe said he does not plan to and feels confident the non-alcoholic club will succeed.

The board also requested that Blythe and Collins submit a formal written report on details of the proposal including hours and weekly events.

Quincy Lions Club Donates $2,500 To DARE

The Quincy Lions Club recently donated $2,500 to the innovative DARE program in the Quincy schools.

The program, Drug Awareness Resistance Program, is a series of discussions presented by Quincy Police Officer Bob Edgar for early intervention in the school system to support children against peer pressure to try drugs and alcohol.

The program is gaining visibility through t-shirts given to the children as well as a campaign of bumper stickers with the message

"Quincy Lions Support DARE." The bumper stickers will be available throughout the city at community activities.

The Quincy Lions Club is proud to support this vital program as part of its ongoing service to the Quincy community.

Sunday 11 A.M. Liquor Selling Request Continued

By JANE ARENA
The License Board Tuesday continued a hearing on a request from Peter Kelly of Kelly's In The Square restaurant, Cottage Ave., for a permit to sell alcohol on Sundays at 11 a.m. for his Sunday brunch and also for a permit for dancing on the ground floor restaurant level.

The matter came before the board last week but was continued until a pending issue with the Alcoholic Beverage Control Commission, involving the alleged violation of fire codes, is resolved.

This week the ABCC informed the License Board that there is no need to wait until the pending matter is resolved before deciding on the requested amendments to Kelly's license.

Acting Fire Chief Anthony

Ianello noted that Kelly had an "outstanding account" with the fire department for the payment of faulty alarm fees. He requested a continuation of the hearing until the fees were paid.

Kelly said the fees are the responsibility of the building owner, C.D. Kelly Realty Trust, and not his personal responsibility as a tenant in the building.

The board agreed to continue the hearing until the fees are paid.

After the meeting, Kelly said the matter had been "taken care of" and his requests would come before the board next week.

Sheets Optimistic For Direct Federal Aid

House do not meet specified reduction targets. Some mayors complained that city services are the first to feel the automatic cuts.

Indeed, Sheets said many mayors feel frustrated by the loss of federal aid to their communities. As a result, they are considering asking for a constitutional amendment which would require 40 percent of federal income tax revenue be distributed to cities and towns.

As for the peace dividend, Sheets said the mayors believe military savings should go into cutting the federal deficit and helping the savings and loans crisis.

Before returning to Quincy Friday, the mayor will tour a massive recycling plant and major solid waste treatment facility.

Quincy Hospital Gala To Commemorate 100 Years Service

Members of the community are invited to join Quincy Hospital as it marks its 100th anniversary with a Centennial Dinner-Dance at the Copley Plaza Hotel, Boston, Thursday, June 28.

Fine dining, music, and dancing will light up the hotel's Grand Ballroom that evening, in honor of the hospital's first century of caring for the people of the community.

Eileen Prose, host of WCVB-TV's Good Day program (Channel 5) will be Quincy Hospital's guest-of-honor for the evening. The TV personality will join guests for a reception at 6 p.m. (cash bar) and dinner at 7 p.m., followed by dancing to the sounds of the Tom Ferrante Band. Prose, a highly entertaining public speaker, will also address the 100th anniversary gathering.

Dinner-goers will enjoy a sumptuous array of fine hors d'oeuvres during the cocktail hour, then dine on their choice of swordfish steak with diced tomatoes and cilantro or tenderloin of beef with shallots and red wine sauce.

Tickets to this special fundraising event, which will support the newly founded Quincy Hospital Annual Fund and provide funds for the ongoing renovations to the hospital's surgical suites, are $100 per person. Black tie is optional.

For those individuals and organizations that wish to make an additional contribution to the Annual Fund during the hospital's Centennial celebration event, special sponsorships and ticket packages are available. These packages include blocks of tickets and special recognition in the evening's program.

For further information, contact Lisa Sinatra in the Hospital's Fundraising/Development Office, at (617) 773-6100, ext. 2095.

Kids Are Kids -- Anywhere

Quincy Fire Chief Paul O'Connell knows how to make kids smile -- here and in Vietnam.

He packed a lot of kid stuff goodies when he left earlier this month with 12 other Massachusetts Vietnam veterans on a return trip to that country.

The group is taking part in a three-week research project with the William Joiner Center for the study of War and Social Consequences.

They will be assisting the center in determining veterans benefits and in trying to better understand the post traumatic stress suffered by Vietnam veterans.

They are touring Vietnam from Hanoi to Ho Chi Minh City, meeting with Vietnam veterans and establishing cultural and personal contacts with the people.

And they will return to base camps and battle where they served during the war.

O'Connell is a Marine veteran of combat duty against the Viet Cong and the North Vietnamese army in and around DaNang in 1968-69.

But war was far from his mind when he left Quincy this time. He was thinking about the youngsters over there.

And he must be getting a lot of smiles out of them during this trip.

What makes a Vietnamese youngster smile? Apparently the same things that make American youngsters smile.

O'Connell brought along with him:

- About 70 packages of baseball cards.
- T-shirts and arm patches from the Quincy Fire Department.
- Business cards given to him by friends.

Vietnamese children, he says, love to collect American business cards because Americans are almost "mythical" to them.

"An album with old photos of him and other Americans in Vietnam to show them. Vietnamese children, O'Connell notes, like to collect photos of Americans. But unless the photos are in plastic covers or in an album, the youngsters will grab them thinking they are gifts. In an album, they know they are just to look at -- and not take.

O'Connell did not bring candy with him because, he says, candy could initiate a riot among the youngsters.

O'CONNELL

O'Connell also brought along copies of last year's Quincy Sun Historic Quincy supplement to show the Vietnamese the historic heritage of his hometown.

He also brought with him a sore arm from shots administered at the international clinic at Local Airport to guard against infectious diseases.

O'Connell, due back June 28, said as he left for Vietnam:

"I am hoping to go back and see a nation of peace. And, I am hoping they accept me as a citizen of America and a citizen of peace."

Well, he's sure to get the youngsters' vote. And, seeing they represent the future, that vote someday will really count.

HOUSE SPEAKER George Keverian, speaking at a recent South Shore Chamber of Commerce breakfast told some 450 business people what they didn't want to hear: new taxes are nearly certain.

Keverian, seeking the Democratic nomination for state treasurer said new taxes are critical and noted that kind of a stance may not be helping his campaign.

"But I've been in public office for 37 years and I'm not going to end my public career on a lie."

Sounds like he's not expecting to win.

But he hasn't lost his humor.

"The new word is revenue," he quipped. "We're not going to increase taxes. We're going to increase revenue."

Tain't funny, George. That new revenue will be coming out of the same sagging packets the state has had its hands in for years.

'Applause, Applause' For QHS' Cabaret

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

"Applause, Applause" was their closing number and their applause was what they truly deserved for on May 17 and 18th Quincy High School Chorus put on their spring production, "Cabaret 90 - Through the Years," and it was an evening of pure musical enjoyment.

The whole show was totally wonderful. However, the Chorus' rendition of "One Moment in Time" was truly spectacular. You were all great, and I commend each and every one of you -- so much talent -- Wow!

The teachers performed again this year and are always enjoyable to see and hear.

Much deserved credit and thanks goes to Quincy High's Musical Director, Salvatore Bartolotti, for his talent and patience and for bringing out the best in these talented kids. Thanks also to choreographer, Mrs. Joan Kenney, a great band, and all the crew who worked behind the scenes to make this a successful show.

I look forward to next year's show with great anticipation.

P.S. Congratulations 'on the Chorus' exceptionally high scoring during your Rhode Island competition.

A Thank You For Services Received

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

This is to publicly acknowledge the services I have received for two years from the various agencies listed below.

I had intended to name people but I am not willing to make a long list of names and take the chance of forgetting some of those who have helped me.

What I would like to emphasize is the kindness given me by all these people. In the past two years I have been hospitalized three times, and I am now blind and limited physically. I am one of many thousands who are utterly dependent on home care.

I have no family and very few friends who can or will donate their time to my needs. For people like me, these agencies are key and words of thanks. On account of the economic disaster going on in our state, these agencies are severely limited in the services which they try to render.

I thank God for the help I have been given. May God bless all who work at the following agencies:

The U.S. Post Office, Quincy, The Police and Fire Departments, Quincy, Norfolk-Bristol Ambulance Service, Quincy, Brian Donnelly and staff, Perkins Library for the Blind and Handicapped, Watertown, Thomas Crane Library, Quincy, Milton Visiting Nurses Association, Milton, South Shore Elder Services, Braintree, Best of Care, Quincy, Quincy Housing Authority, Quincy, Milton Hospital, Milton, Doctor M. Ernesti, Milton, Central Diagnostic Laboratory of Quincy.

Tourism Would Energize Downtown

Quincy, on the other hand, has never had to rely on tourism because there were other industries to support it.

However, with Downtown Quincy no "Shoppertown USA", tourism has now emerged as a key component of the revitalization effort. A committee appointed by Mayor James Sheets is focusing on tourism as a way to redevelop downtown.

The mayor's emphasis on tourism pleases Loren Strout, now in his ninth year as president of the Quincy Tourism Association. Since 1981, the association, made up of 78 members, has searched for ways to promote tourism with a yearly operating budget of $2,500 to $3,000.

Strout, like other local leaders, believes tourism can make downtown a viable retail area again for visitors and residents. By 1995, he feels Quincy could attract 120,000 or more visitors, thereby generating more than $14 million to the local economy each year.

The key, he says, is controlled tourism.

"The association feels that (tourism) should reach the level of Plymouth, that it might disrupt Quincy too much. Personally, if we put the bucks behind it and really promoted Quincy and it took off, it could be as big as any other community," Strout said.

"What I think we're basically after is a controlled tourism program. We want to bring enough people into Quincy to benefit Quincy, to help it, but at the same time, not destroy it."

He noted one community, North Conway, N.H., has become such a tourist attraction it must cope with a year-round traffic problem.

Presently, Quincy tourism appears to be picking up. Two historic sites, the Dorothy Quincy Homestead and Adams National Historic Site, are reporting an increase in visitors over last year. Moreover, flounder fishing in Quincy waters is improving.

Just three years ago, Strout said the flounder had "fin rot and lumps on their body." He calls this year's fish "the best in five years" while noting some fishermen are averaging 50 to 75 fish per catch.

Strout says it's too early to tell if flounder fishing is turning around but he's optimistic since many fishermen who came to Quincy in the spring told him they'll return this fall.

While Strout sees some encouraging signs, he's also set his eyes on boosting the number of visitors to Quincy. Specifically, he is aiming at attracting more bus tours here.

"We feel it is the easiest way to get more people to visit Quincy and to spend their money with the smallest amount of traffic," Strout says.

According to the American Bus Association, the average overnight bus tour (with 40 people) draws between $3,500 and $4,000 to that community every 24 hours. The average day tour generates between $1,000 and $2,500 per hour.

If 30 buses visit in one summer, that would mean at least an additional $30,000 to $120,000 to the local economy, depending on the number of tourists and nature of the tour.

To attract more tours, Strout is arranging a familiarization or fam-tour through Quincy with 45 group leaders. The tour is designed to interest group leaders who set up group tours for senior citizens.

After the tour, Strout will write a follow-up letter to each leader to see if any is interested in bringing their group to Quincy. Each leader represents 200 to 500 people or a total of 9,000 to 22,500.

In addition, Strout will attend the American Bus Association's marketplace convention at Niagara Falls Dec. 1-7. He hopes to market Quincy, Quincy tourism and his motel, the 36-room President's City Motel on Hancock St. He will try to arrange at least five overnight tours for next year.

Attracting the tours, Strout says, is just part of the success equation. The city, he says, must be prepared.

"When that bus tour gets here, we better be ready for it and we have to make sure we're acclimated on handling a bus tour. We want to make sure those people have something to do."

For starters, Strout says visitors should receive a welcoming reception. He also believes taking care of accommodations in advance will give the guests more time to see the city.

On a bigger scale, Strout favors siting an official Quincy Tourism Information Center with restroom facilities near a major roadway, such as Furnace Brook Parkway off the Southeast Expressway. An official information center sign on the highway near a Quincy exit would also help.

The center could include information on Quincy as well as Boston and make it perhaps the busiest in the state.

Another center could be located in Quincy Center, Strout said, provided there is available parking and better signage to the parking area.

Presently, Strout uses other state tourist information centers to attract visitors. He distributes Historic Quincy brochures along the Mass turnpike, Interstate 95 in Mansfield and on Route 3 in Plymouth. Quantities of the brochure have also been sent to at least 22 states the last three years.

Strout also distributes other material, including the Quincy Sun Historic Guide published every July. He noted 4,000 guides moved in one four-week period this spring at a center in Charlestown, Mass.

The QTA also runs an ad in the Spirit of Massachusetts Guidebook. Strout said tourism increased 54 percent last year as a direct result of the ad.

While Strout and the QTA try to boost tourism here, the association is also focused on educating public officials, merchants and residents to the benefits of tourism, especially as a downtown revitalization strategy.

"The more people we bring, the more businesses will come to Quincy. The more businesses that are attracted, the better it's going to be for the local residents because they're going to get a big mix of businesses down there."

"It should fall right into place. It may take four, five or six years to fill everything but I feel this tourism thing works. We should be able to revive older retail stores that are in there that are having trouble surviving."

"The process should be able to attract enough interest in Quincy Center that businesses will want to come and it will fill all the vacant stores. They don't have to tear anything down and rebuild the square to do this."

"We're just saying we're bringing the bodies. Now, you make sure there's somebody to take care of them."

"The more that happens," Strout says, "the local residents are then going to see Quincy Square as a thriving retail center again and that's what it's going to become."

School Children Permitted To Aid War Paper Drive

Mayor Charles A. Ross issued an emergency order overriding the School Committee's refusal to permit school children to take a morning off to help in the city's wastepaper drive for the war effort.

The youngsters were needed to pick up bundles of paper in front of homes and deliver them to the Granite St. railroad siding where 15 freight cars were waiting to take them to Boston.

"The Mayor's order undoubtedly prevented the success of the residential drive from being imperilled," said Clarence L. Edwards, chairman of the salvage drive.

"As we see it a war emergency must take precedence over everything else and this is one of those situations."

3 Residents In SMU Student Senate

Three Quincy residents were recently elected to Student Senate positions at Southeastern Massachusetts University for the next academic year.

Joseph C. DeAngelo of 75 Turner St. and Alexander Mann of 76 Rodman St. were both elected representatives from the class of 1993. They will be sophomore political science majors this fall.

DeAngelo, who also served in the senate this year, is the son of Paul and Theresa DeAngelo and a graduate of Quincy High School.

Mann has been a member of the Student Activities Board at SMU and is the founder of Students for the Protection of Walden Pond. He is the son of Geoffrey G. and Ann Mann and a graduate of North Quincy High School.

Suzanne Shea was re-elected a representative from the class of 1992 and was elected recording secretary for the Student Senate. She will be a junior political science major this fall.

Shea has served on numerous senate committees and is a member of Students Against Drunk Driving (SADD). A Quincy High School graduate, she is the daughter of Gerald and Geraldine Shea.

Mary Corwin Receives 'Marble Apple' Award

Continental Cablevision of Quincy recently presented the "Marble Apple" award of recognition to Mary Corwin, a first-grade teacher at Quincy Point Webster Quincy, for her participation in the "Educator Award" competition.

Stephen Farquhar, general manager of Continental Cablevision in Quincy, presented the award at Corwin's classroom. Among those attending were School Supt. Dr. Robert Ricci and Principal Phil Connolly.

The contest was designed to give recognition to those teachers who have come up with innovative ways of using "copyright free" programming being provided to schools free of charge from cable programmers including CNN, CSPAN, Discovery and the Arts and Entertainment Network. The programming is provided in Quincy through Continental Cablevision.

Corwin uses cable programming as a teaching tool for her science lessons, particularly those on oceanography. Programming provides a visually interesting way to attract students to topics such as the ocean food web. Students follow up on the lessons by writing their own creative stories and projects using ocean vocabulary words and the visual images from the cable programming.

Quincy is one of 12 school systems from Eastern Massachusetts which began participating in "Cable in the Classroom" this spring. For September, Continental Cablevision hopes to work closely with teachers from Quincy schools to create more innovative ways of using cable programming to enhance classroom teaching.

NQHS Inducts 40 Into Foreign Language Honor Society

Forty North Quincy High School students were recently inducted into the Foreign Language Honor Society, for having achieved outstanding excellence in language studies over a period of three or four years.

Those honored in their respective languages are:

French

Shana Cobban, Connie Fong, Yat Fung, Erik Gustafson, Charlene McCloskey, Dang Nguyen, Mark O'Neill, Cheri Purves, Meredith Rossi, Eva Shea, Scott Simons, Jodie Trafton, Allen Wong and Chi Yung.

Latin

Christopher Ballum, Dana Guilfooy and Maryann McDonough.

Spanish

Kaitlin Barry, Roald Boudreau, Blythe Mumpus, Michelle Burke, Mong-Ho Chiu, Jody Cochrane, Jana Cocio, Kerry Curreri, Michelle Donovan, Pauline Hamilton, Stephanie Head, Karine Kabilian, Maria Kalantzis, Pauline Lam, Julie Marinilli, Cara McGrath, Anne Marie Montgomery, Joanne Moriarty, Mark O'Neill, Amy Pakkala, Ann Marie Papagno, Soyong Park and Judy Yeung.

The induction ceremony, under the direction of Foreign Language Department Head, Nan Martiak and Maria D'Arcangelo included a variety of International music.

The North Quincy High School choir under the direction of Mrs. Catherine Carnabucci, entertained the guests with a few international songs and a solo by David Ziolkowski. Exchange student Maria Taffala sang a song in Spanish. For the introduction to the ceremony, Erik Gustafson and Andy Wohlrab played several pieces from Mozart on the piano.

Principal Peter Chisom, and Assistant Principal Mrs. Eileen Feeney congratulated the new members of the Honor Society and presented them with Certificates of Achievement.

Gifts were also given to students who placed first in the National Spanish exams. Participating students from North Quincy High School are:

Jeff Cluet, Spanish IV; Marc O'Neill, Spanish III; Nicole Orman, Spanish II; Laura Hughes, Spanish I.

The remaining program dealt with the advantages of being a foreign exchange student. Jeff Cluet spoke of his stay last year in Spain and Jennifer Bellanich told of her summer in Paraguay. Maria Taffala, an exchange student at North, told of her stay here in the United States while her host family Heather and Barbara Stuart, spoke about what it was like to host an exchange student.

Refreshments were provided by the Foreign Language Honor Society following the program.

CONGRATULATIONS, 1990 GRADUATES

Mary Bryan Receives Honorary Degree At Regis

Mary C. Bryan, PhD, of West Quincy, was awarded an honorary doctor of letters degree from Regis College at the recent 60th annual commencement. Sister Therese Higgins, president of Regis College, presented the degree to Bryan, who is a professor emerita of English at Regis.

Bryan retired from the Regis College faculty in 1988 after teaching there for 42 years. She was a pioneer in developing women's studies in literature. Bryan taught English literature and world literature and cofounded the women's studies program at Regis College. She was the chairwoman of the department of English from 1971 to 1975 and was coordinator of the women's studies program from 1972 to 1988. During her long tenure at Regis College, Bryan touched the lives of thousands of Regis College students.

"Over Dr. Bryan's long teaching career, countless faculty and students sought her advice and guidance. Her generosity, sympathy, and rare kindness remain valued and vivid memories and have earned for her our enduring gratitude and affection," said Higgins.

Bryan is the author of several works about Anglo-Irish novelist Forrest Reid, including Forrest Reid: A Critical Study (G.K. Hall and Twayne, 1976). She also contributed a chapter to Woman and Poet (University of Maine Press, 1982), a book about May Sarton. She earned her bachelor of arts degree in English from Regis College and her master's and doctorate in English from Boston University. She studied at the University of Munich in 1954-1955 on a Fulbright Scholarship.

HOME IMPROVEMENT

Paint Your House With Confidence -- And Fun

Painting your home should not be a scary experience, however, people often have three major fears when faced with exterior painting. The experts at Dutch Boy Paints have answers to all three of these concerns.

The first fear is simply—how will the paint job look when it's done? Choosing the right color scheme is a key concern, even for professional decorators. Feeling confident about the colors selected for the job is important. To help take the guesswork out of choosing the right colors for your particular style of home and taste, leading paint manufacturers have introduced computerized color visualizers.

These interactive color imaging systems let you try out a variety of color combinations on a computer screen in your local paint department. Selecting from on-screen color cards that match the in-store color cards, you can change the color of any element to be painted, including shutters, trim and doors. These systems will let you preview your unique color ideas, or will give you designer-selected color schemes. Experts emphasize how creative exterior painting can establish a unique personality for your home.

Using sophisticated color combinations and some imagination, your home can reflect an individuality that can't be found with single-color painting or aluminum siding.

Imaginative color combinations can be created around your home's design heritage, such as multi-colored Victorian or muted Colonial looks. The second fear is that, frankly, it's just a lot of work, and takes what can seem to be intimidating amounts of time and effort. Turning your house painting project into a party is a creative way to turn the task into a good time with friends. A festive theme like a "Pizza Painting Party," with fun food, music and friends, will set the upbeat mood. Divide the project into manageable sections for each of your guest/helpers, give good directions and add some "cheerleading" to keep up spirits.

The third fear of some do-it-yourselfers when faced with an exterior painting project is the potential of the product to fail. Using products from well recognized manufacturers and leading brand names such as Dutch Boy will give you added confidence when you select the paint for your project. To achieve the best results, all products should be from a single supplier. Manufacturers produce their products to be compatible with their own lines.

Radon Tests Available For Realtors.

It used to be myths

Now radioactive Radon is the new problem bugging Realtors. It could prove costly and deadly Radon is a radioactive gas which occurs in nature. It is a product of the natural breakdown of uranium. You cannot see it, smell it, or taste it

Radon is relatively harmless in open air. However, once trapped inside a closed space such as a home, Radon can accumulate. Scientists estimate that 5,000 to 20,000 lung cancer deaths a year in the U.S. may be attributed to long-term exposure to Radon

A simple, inexpensive Radon screening test is now available to determine the potential for a Radon problem in homes

To conduct the test, a small charcoal canister is exposed to the air in a home for 48 hours, under controlled conditions. The canister is then sent to our laboratory for analysis, and a report is sent to you

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

BEING PATIENT

The words of a friend have remained in my mind during the past week, often coming forth as various circumstances arose. My friend had heard the definition of patience described as cooperation with time. This meaning of patience seems so variable...

Many of us check the plants of our yard daily to see their growth. We really cannot hasten their growth. They first appear as buds, growing day by day, and finally bursting open with color and fragrance.

Sometimes cooperation with time can be humorous. There is a story about a robin who decided to make a nest in the hanging geranium plant outside a person's home. Each night the person patiently disassembled the nest. Everyone in the neighborhood wondered who would win the battle... The robin finally decided to settle somewhere else.

Personal problems can be sad, almost seeming insurmountable. It is then that patience and faith in God is really needed. Many older people possess the true feeling of cooperation with time. It may be a true gift of the senior citizen.

Patience is a virtue few of us possess all of the time, but all of us need. It's too bad that it takes such hard work to acquire it...

Father's Day Observance At Squantum First Church

The highlight of the Father's Day service at the First Church of Squantum Sunday was the dedication of an infant 19 days old.

The baby is Sabrina Joann Dixey, daughter of Christopher and Bonnie Dixey of Wollaston.

Led by the Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin, the Dixeys dedicated their infant daughter to God and themselves to be faithful parents. After the prayers, Deacons Barbara Walter and Sandra Ahearn presented the Dixeys with a certificate and a rosebud by which to remember the occasion.

Music was by Susan Scott, the congregation, Janet Williamson, piano, and Mary Ruth Scott, organ.

May Lewis and Drucilla Warnes were the greeters, Tore Wallin and Harry Holmes were the ushers, and the Fellowship Hour was hosted by Rene Johnson, Lorraine Josslyn and Hazel Mayne.

The Bible Study group, which is studying "The Old Testament Prophets", continues to meet each Wednesday night at 7:30 p.m.

This Sunday the worship service begins at 10:30 a.m.

Rev. Zaven Dohanian Anniveraries Celebration At Union Congregational

A celebration of 40 years in the ministry and the 31st ordination anniversary of the Rev. Zaven Dohanian, pastor, will be observed at Union Congregational Church of Wollaston, Beach St. and Rawson Rd., Sunday, June 24.

The 10 a.m. worship service will be followed by a dinner in Fellowship Hall.

Rev. Dr. Russell Metcalfe, pastor of Wollaston Church of the Nazarene, will deliver the sermon. Music will include "Day by Day" by Ahnfelt, sung by Helen Metcalfe. A duet will be sung by the Rev. and Mrs. Merritt Nielson, associate pastor of the Wollaston Church of the Nazarene. The Metcalfes and Nielsons are longtime friends of the Dohanians.

Elizabeth Dingwell, Union Church moderator, will be the worship leader.

Rev. Dohanian, minister of Union Congregational Church since 1985, was formerly senior minister of the First Congregational Church of Fall River, and administrator of the Souter Pastoral Counseling Center there.

Rev. Dohanian, a native of Greater Boston, was born in Somerville and his family home is in Belmont. He graduated from Eastern Nazarene College in 1951, later attending the Nazarene Theological Seminary in Kansas City, Mo., the University of Southern California in Los Angeles, Harvard University, and

REV. ZAVEN DOHANIAN
Fuller Theological Seminary in Pasadena, Calif. in degree programs.

He served churches in Kansas City, Mo. and Torrance, Calif. as a staff minister. He has been pastor in churches in Freeport, Maine; Pittsfield, Maine; Salem, N.H. and was senior minister of First Church in Marlborough (Congregational).

Mrs. Dohanian, the former Vivian Coffee, is also a graduate of Eastern Nazarene College. They have three children Stephanie (Dohanian)

Vitale and her husband, Michael Vitale of East Bridgewater, former Quincy residents; Bryan Dohanian of Wollaston, who works for Putnam Funds; and Lucinda Dohanian of Providence, a student at ENC. They have two grandchildren, Brenna and Brian Vitale.

Members of Rev. Dohanian's family from Belmont will join in this celebration.

'It Fits! It Fits!' Sermon Topic At Bethany

Bethany Congregational Church, now on its summer schedule, will have one worship service this Sunday, at 10 a.m. in the sanctuary.

Bethany is a congregation of the United Church of Christ, located at Coddington and Spear Sts., Quincy Center.

The Rev. J. William Arnold, senior minister, will conduct the worship and preach the sermon titled "It Fits! It Fits!" Lisa C. Andre will serve as the lay scripture reader.

Associate minister, Rev. Elizabeth M. Upton will be in Florida this weekend attending on both church and family matters.

Guest vocalist will be soprano Brenda Bonoli. At the organ console will be Charles J. Blue, Sr. This will be his last Sunday as Bethany's organist and choir director. He has served in this position since September 1988.

The Sacrament of Christian Baptism will be administered during the service to Kyle Robert Rowe, born Jan. 10, the son of Brett A. Rowe and Lisa (Green) Rowe.

The Church School is not in session during the summer. Child care is provided during the worship service for infants and toddlers.

The worship service is broadcast live at 10 a.m. direct from Bethany's sanctuary over radio station WJDA, 1300 K. A cassette tape of the service and sermon is available for $2 by contacting the church office.

There will be a fellowship hour with light refreshments beginning at 11 a.m. immediately following the worship.

Members of the community are always welcome at Bethany. For additional information concerning Bethany's ministries and programs, call the church office, 479-7300.

Legion Baseball

Quincy Edges Wollaston, Loses To Dorchester

Quincy rallied to defeat Wollaston Post, 5-4, but lost to Carter Post of Dorchester, 8-5, in weekend American Legion action.

Peter McLoughlin scored the tying run and Ron Boudreau singled home Kevin Daly for the winning run as Quincy overcame Wollaston.

McLoughlin picked up the win in relief of pitcher Rich Burns who was forced to leave the game in the fifth inning after developing a sore shoulder.

Barry Glynn, Wayne McCulley, Chris Beatrice, Jim Maloney, Don Anderson and Greg Clifford all had fine games defensively for Quincy.

Bob Fitzpatrick pitched well for Wollaston.

Quincy pitching walked 10 batters, five of which scored, against Carter Post. Quincy managed to tie the score in the fourth inning but stranded six men on base after that.

Pitcher Sean Mulkern struck out eight in four and two-thirds innings of work and suffered the loss. Offensively Quincy was paced by Boudreau who tripled home two runs.

Quincy plays two straight home games this week, Wednesday (tonight) against Canton and Thursday versus Baintree. Both games start at 8:30 p.m. at Adams Field.

Morrisette Splits 4

By STEVE KAVANAGH
Morrisette stands at 4-2 after splitting four games in the past week in Zone 6 American Legion action.

Morrisette made nine errors in an 8-2 loss to Weymouth (Mass. Truck). Weymouth scored six unearned runs in the third inning. Morrisette managed only three hits. Tony Anderlonis had two hits including a triple, Jeff Calvert had an RBI single, and Pat Clifford knocked in a run with a sacrifice fly.

Bill Warren pitched 2 2/3 innings and took the loss. Clifford allowed just one earned run in 3 1/3 innings. Sean Donovan pitched the seventh and allowed only a walk.

Morrisette rebounded with a 13-0 thrashing of Wollaston. Kevin MacDougall won his second game allowing two hits over six innings. MacDougall walked one and struck out four. Donovan pitched the seventh walking one and striking out one.

Morrisette batted around and scored six runs in the first inning. Jim Glynn walked and Calvert and Tom Balzano singled to load the bases.

Walks forced home two runs and Erik DeBoer singled home two more. Dan Ryan reached on a fielder's choice which scored a run and another run scored on a wild pitch.

Wollaston's only hits were a single by Dave Gamsby and a triple by Pat Gallagher.

Morrisette scored in the third and fourth and added five in the sixth. MacDougall had two hits and two RBI. George Rozanitis doubled in two runs. Brian Taylor had two RBI. Glynn tripled and Mike Bayliss had an RBI on an excellent squeeze bunt.

The Morrisette defense suffered another lapse when it committed six errors in a 5-0 loss to Baintree which led to four unearned runs.

DeBoer took the loss despite striking out 13, allowing just six hits, and walking only one. Baintree ace Brian McDevitt gave up just three hits and two walks while striking out four. Glynn and DeBoer each singled and Anderlonis belted a double.

Pitcher Gary Rawdon improved to 2-0 with an outstanding game against Canton as he lead Morrisette to a 3-2 win. Rawdon allowed just two hits and one earned run while striking out 10 and walking four.

Shortstop Anderlonis made the play of the game in the seventh to save the win. Rawdon walked the leadoff man and was relieved by MacDougall who walked the next batter. With runners at second and third and one out Anderlonis chased down a flare into short left field and fired to second to double off the runner on what appeared to be a sure hit.

Both teams scored a run in the first inning. Glynn led off with a double and eventually scored on MacDougall's ground out.

Morrisette grabbed the lead in the fifth inning on a Bayliss single and an outfield error. Canton tied it up in the sixth but Morrisette regained the lead in the home half of the inning.

Glynn hit another double and went to third on a Sacrifice by Calvert. Calvert was safe on a throwing error. MacDougall then singled home Glynn with the winning run.

Morrisette will host Holbrook Friday at Adams Field and will play Quincy at Adams Monday at 6 p.m.

Babe Ruth

Barry's Runs Winstreak To 11

Barry's Deli continues to be the team to beat in Babe Ruth League baseball as it won two more games to improve to 11-0.

Barry's edged Houghs Neck Legion, 4-3, in a well-played game by both teams. Mike Connors was the winning pitcher allowing seven hits and striking out 10.

Connors also had the game-winning hit in the last inning. Derek Thompson, Chris Murphy and Sean Kennerson each had two hits and Jeff Craig, Danny Duncan, David Raftery and Jeff Tirrell also had big hits for Barry's.

Ron McGann, Kenny Ledwak, Charlie Hardiman and Jimmy Goldrick each played good defense.

Matt O'Toole pitched well for HN and Tim Byrne played solid defensively. John Connelly had three hits and Brian Raftery had two hits for HN while Mark Walsh and Jim Gilmore had one each.

Barry's topped Quincy Police, 6-4, behind Duncan's three hitter. Craig came on in relief for the last two innings. All Police runs were unearned.

Craig, Connors and Tirrell had two hits each and Duncan, Raftery, Thompson and Kennerson each had two hits.

McGann, Ledwak, Hardiman and Goldrick each played key roles in the win.

Mark Theibeault pitched well for Police and Noel DiBona, Mark Swirbalis and John Mann each had hits.

Houghs Neck rebounded with an 8-7 win over Local 1139. Tom Satkevitch singled home Brian Raftery with the winning run in the bottom of the seventh for HN.

Raftery pitched no-hit ball for four innings but had control problems. Matt O'Toole and Raftery sparked the offense combining for five hits.

Rob Kane pitched a four-hit shutout for Bryan Post VFW against Morrisette Legion 6-0. Kane struck out nine as BP improved to 5-4.

Kane helped himself with two hits and Tom Nutley and Sean Skahan also had two hits. Mike Koski had two key hits, stole two bases and scored twice.

Shortstop George Wirtz singled and anchored the solid BP defense. Todd Portesi, Bill Morrissey, Terry Sheehan, Jeff Breslin, Rich Gorman, Phil Bell, Dan Donahue and Bob Shaw also played well.

Nick Mastrogiamomo, Juan Zuritas, Mike DesRoche and Dan Boylen each had hits for Morrisette.

grand slam.

The Mets walloped the Tigers, 30-4, in recent Triple A Baseball League play.

The Mets were led by pitcher Brad Currie who struck out nine and went six for six at bat. Scott Shepard struck out six Mets batters for the Tigers.

Robby Churchill had four hits including a homer and a triple for the Mets, Justin Bernier had three hits including a triple and Terrance Roche, Mike Sheehan and Rich Rose also had multiple hit games. John Fibotte and Tom Gildea both blasted doubles.

T. Miller, O'Connell, Cohen, Boyd and J. Miller each had hits for the Tigers. In a previous game against Local, Shepard blasted a

Farm League

Dodgers Sweep Pair To Advance To Finals

The First American Bank Dodgers swept the Yellow Cab Pirates in two close games to advance to the Junior Farm League Finals against Tobin's Tigers.

The Dodgers won an exciting, come-from-behind 8-5, win in the first game. Matt Kiesel rapped two doubles to spark the Pirates to an early 5-0 lead.

Pirate pitcher Jose Diaz held the Dodgers scoreless until the fourth inning when four walks and an error led to two runs.

Third baseman Steve Marks broke up the Diaz no-hitter with a grand slam to give the Dodgers a 6-5 lead. Kevin Walsh and Kerry Twomey scored insurance runs in the sixth.

Chris Bregoli earned the win with 3 1/3 innings of hitless relief including seven K's. Mike Powers, Tom Gouthro and T.J. Wilson played well for the Dodgers and Brent Austin. Matt Graham and Matt Gibbons excelled for the Pirates.

The Dodgers fought off a furious Pirate rally to hold on for an 8-8 win in the second game. The Dodgers led 8-0 at one point but the Pirates refused to give up.

Walks to Steve Rochon, Pat Dolbear and Ryan Desher loaded the bases and Steve Marks singled home two runs in the second inning.

The Dodgers added four in the third on four straight walks, a fielder's choice and a two-run double by Jonathan Brillo.

Pitcher Mike Powers allowed just one hit in three innings and the Dodgers added two runs in the fourth as Wilson and Twomey each knocked in a run.

The Pirates got untracked in the bottom of the fourth by scoring four runs. Jake Shields doubled home two runs. Kiesel singled home a run and Diaz tripled for another run.

Rochon singled home Bregoli in the fifth for the eventual game winner. With two on and one out Bregoli relieved Powers in the sixth. Bregoli struck out the next batter but an error and a two-run double by Kiesel made the score 9-7. Diaz and Matt Graham each walked to force home a run but Bregoli fanned the next hitter after falling behind, 2-0, in the count.

Matt Gibbons was outstanding in relief for the Pirates.

Previously the Dodgers won the last game of the regular season by outslugging the Orioles, 21-14. Phillips Belmont belted a grand slam and a two-run double to lead the Dodgers.

John Sullivan, Brillo, Dolbear, Rochon and Desher all had key hits and Bregoli earned the win. Andrew Currie had two hit for the Orioles.

Volleyball Courts To Be Dedicated In Christopher Kennedy's Memory

A ceremony will be held Sat. June 23 at 10 a.m. to officially dedicate the volleyball courts at Pageant Field in the name of the late Christopher F. Kennedy.

Kennedy, a long-time member of the Quincy School Committee, served for 12 years on the Park and Recreation Board as school committee representative. Kennedy served as Chairman of the Park and Recreation Board in 1982, 83 and 84.

The ceremony will take

CHRISTOPHER KENNEDY

place at the volleyball courts located in Merrymount Park and a reception will follow at the Quincy Park and Recreation Board Room, 100 Southern Artery.

The announcement was made by Raymond Cattaneo, executive director of the Quincy Park, Forestry and Cemetery Departments.

Members of the Park and Recreation Board and school committee as well as friends and relatives of Kennedy are invited to attend.

Patriots Girls White Team Competes In Texas

The Mass. Patriots girls' White volleyball team, coached by Quincy's Chris Prenderville and including several Quincy players, recently returned from the Lone Star Classic in Austin, Texas, where it finished 23rd out of 45 of the country's top teams.

After touring the Alamo and other attractions in the San Antonio area, the Patriots opened tourney play by defeating Sun East, Ariz., 15-9, 13-15, 15-11, in a grueling 2 1/2-hour match.

Sparking the win were North Quincy's Brenda Hayduk and Central Middle School's Maureen McCarthy. Cambridge's Cindy Hobbs and Masconomet's Allison Block did some excellent serving.

The following day the Patriots were winless but enjoyed a fine experience by facing the eventual winner, Austin VBC, a team rated among the Top 10 in the country. The Patriots lost, 5-15, 4-15. Hayduk served three aces and great blocking against some premier hitters was turned in by Wellesley's Emma Hurley.

The Patriots did much better against MVP 1 from Texas, losing a three-game match, 5-15, 16-14, 11-15. Brookline's Rachel Sky-Stiskin played tremendous defense and served consistently strong.

Arizona Juniors then defeated the Patriots, 15-3, 15-10, despite some excellent serves by North Quincy's Regina Murphy.

Colorado Foothills gave the Patriots a problem with their strong serving, forcing service reception errors. The Patriots lost the first game, 15-6, and lost a tough second game, 16-14, as Sky-Stiskin played strong offense.

The next day saw a rematch with Sun East and again the Patriots won, 15-12, 14-16, 15-5. Murphy served strong and Hurley blocked several great shots dominating the net.

The tourney marked the Patriots' first experience with the new 'rally' scoring method being used internationally. In any deciding game of a match every serve scores a point regardless of the rally's outcome. If the serving team wins the rally, not only does it 'side-out' the ball to get the serve, but it also gets a point.

Missed serves count for a side-out and a point for the other team. The new system shortens the time of the match and adds considerable excitement.

The final match was against Houston 151 and the Patriots lost, 15-12, 15-9, despite great hitting from Cindy Hobbs.

A.L. All-Stars Bomb N.L. 10-0

The American League clobbered the National League, 10-0, in the Junior Farm League All Star Game.

Billy Connolly of the AL belted a home run and was named MVP. Mike Carloni slammed a double and pitched two scoreless innings and was runner up.

Adam Goodrich, Paul Markarian, Jamie Dalrymple, Chris Duffy and Kristen Bowes also had hits for the AL.

Pat Dolbear, John Uchak, Phillip Belmont and Danny Nichol had hits for the NL.

Representing the AL were Jocelyn West, Matt Praetisch, and Chris Barra of the Angels; Dalrymple, Markarian and Bowes of the Indians; John Gavin, Mike Whalen and Andrew Currie of the Orioles; Carloni, Alex King and Duffy of the Red Sox; Connolly, Craig Bigham and Brian Desher of the Tigers; and Goodrich, Brian Kaili and Eric Rackauskas of the Yankees.

NL All Stars included, Brendon Jones, Nate Witmer, and Benjamin Burnes of the Braves; Matt O'Day, Jason Oriola and Paul Hussey of the Cubs; Dolbear, Jonathan Brillo and Belmont of the Dodgers; Nichol, Steve Ford and Uchak of the Mets; and Jesse Winter, Paul Flynn and Jeff Brophy of the Mets; and Matthew Graham, Pasquale Roosa and Brent Austin of the Pirates.

It Was A Big Turnaround For Quincy Girls

By TOM SULLIVAN
After several losing seasons, the Quincy girls' softball team made an excellent turnaround this season and missed the Eastern Mass Tournament by a single game.

The Quincy girls, under first-year coach Bud Mosher, finished with an overall 9-7 record and were third in their final season in the Suburban League. They were 8-4, losing only to league co-champions Brockton and Waltham.

"The girls did a fine job and it was a shame they couldn't have won that one extra game to make the tournament," said Mosher, who coached the Quincy baseball team for 12 years as head coach and six as assistant. "These were several highlights year. We beat every team in the league except Brockton and Waltham and twice defeated North Quincy to win the annual Mary Pratt Trophy."

Mosher will have eight girls coming back, including Chris Barrett, the league's top batter with a .589 average and second in the MVP voting, and will lose only five girls. Barrett drove in 21 runs and scored 19.

Amy Baker was the league's number four hitter at .481 with 28 RBI and 16 runs scored. She had 13 extra base hits.

The seniors were Christine Clarke (.277, 8 RBI, and 19 runs scored), Aileen Donahue (.273), Cindy Galman, Lisa Connolly (.286) and Maureen Shea.

Freshman Colleen Gallagher, whose brother Pat was sophomore shortstop on the baseball team, had an excellent season with a .284 batting average, 16 RBI and 18 runs scored. She made the league all-star team as a freshman.

Barrett will be returning and again should be one of the best in the league. Baker is back and should have another outstanding season.

Sophomore Holly McDonough, Teresa Elwood, Cristie Richmond, Kim Marsden and Sue McCole played well and should be better with this year's experience.

"We will be a young team with only two seniors," Mosher said.

Connolly pitched every victory and should have had a better record than 9-5. "She did a tremendous job and most of her defeats were the results of errors. We hit well and when we played good defense we won and when we didn't, we lost. She isn't the side-winding fastball type of pitcher we faced many times, and had medium speed. But she had great control and walked only 28 in 92 2/3 innings. She isn't a strikeout pitcher and had only eight strikeouts. That's why she depended on her supporting players, the reason for her five losses."

She had an excellent 3.02 ERA.

"My big problem next year will be finding a side-winding fastball pitcher," said Mosher. "We faced some fine fastball pitchers this year. 'I don't know how many players from Mary Holleran's junior varsity team will help us, but Joan O'Connor and Jennifer Steen had fine seasons and are excellent prospects."

The Quincy and North Quincy girls will move into the Old Colony League next season.

Houghs Neck Wins 3

Houghs Neck picked up three wins in recent Junior League baseball action.

In its most recent game HN downed Kiwanis, 20-1.

Jeremy Neilson allowed just one hit for the win. He also went five for five at the plate. Justin Elwood also had five hits, Brandelle Pickney had three hits, Stephen Kiley, Matt Goguen and Kevin Regan each had two hits and Brian Mahoney had one.

The win moved Hingham into second place in the National League.

HN also topped Burgin Plater, 13-7, with Elwood allowing just two hits for the win. Elwood helped himself by going three for three including a home run.

Chuck Feeley, Mark Regan and Pickney each had two hits. Jared Downed, Kevin Regan and Mahoney each had one hit.

HN scored one in the bottom of the seventh to edge

Keohane's, 5-4 on a home run by Mark Regan.

Pickney picked up the win in relief as he struck out the side in the top of the seventh. Neilson pitched six strong innings for HN.

Elwood had two hits and Feeley, Goguen, and Downey also had hits. Keith Herron, Colin Shea, Russ Corner, Stephen Kiley, Nick Kazolias, Mahoney and Stephen Wiltshire also played well.

N.L. Outshells A.L. In 10 Years Old Slugfest

The National League outscored the American League in a 26-10 slugfest in the Junior League 10-year old All Star Game at McCoy Field.

4 Quincy Players In Friendship Tourney

Quincy was represented by four members of the Boys' Under 10 Soccer team in the recent Susan Floeck Friendship Tournament sponsored by Abington Youth Soccer.

Chad Fitzpatrick, Tommy Daley, Nick Bissanti and Chris Bregoli joined players from Abington, Sharon and Holbrook and won the tourney with a 2-0-1 record.

Bissanti and Bregoli each had goals disallowed in the first game, a scoreless tie.

Quincy players figured in every goal in a 4-0 win in the second game. Fitzpatrick scored two goals including the final goal by Abington's Andy Shanahan.

Fitzpatrick scored the only goal for either team in game three. Daley nearly added an insurance goal but hit the post while Bissanti and Bregoli played well defensively.

Registration For Summer Camps And Workshops

The Quincy Recreation Department will again sponsor its popular summer sports camps and instructional workshop programs.

New offerings have been added this year to bring the number of camps and workshops to 15. The camps and workshops that the department supervises work on a self-supporting basis.

A new addition to this year's programs is "Wrestling Camp." This camp will focus on the fundamental techniques of wrestling; prior exposure to the sport is not necessary. Participants will learn and be drilled on the proper procedures of successful takedowns, escapes, reversals, and pinning combinations.

The wrestlers will have the opportunity to apply the skills they learn through actual competition. Competition will be seated by weight and awards will be given to the most successful competitors. This camp will be held under the direction of Tim Cahill, past wrestling coach at Quincy High School.

The camps implemented by the Recreation Department in 1982 have become increasingly popular. Director Barry Welch noted: "These camps and workshops have been designed to give Quincy residents a low cost alternative for youngsters who desire specialized instruction which is usually associated with high costing residential camps. The week long programs are under the direction of highly qualified coaches and staff from the area, and will feature individual instruction with an approximate ratio of one to ten. The programs are offered on a self supporting basis. In previous years these programs have provided many memorable recreation experiences without additional tax support."

Registration for all the 1990 programs is underway and will continue weekdays from 8:30 a.m. - 4:30 p.m. at the Recreation Department Office at 100 Southern Artery.

Enrollment is limited and is taken on a first come, first served basis.

THE FEELEY SISTERS, Martha, Amy and Liz from Auburn, Me., will perform with the QHS Alumni Band on Saturday, June 30 at 7:30 p.m. at the Ruth Gordon Amphitheatre. Admission is free and the rain date is Sunday, July 1.

QHS Alumni Band Concert June 30 At Ruth Gordon Amphitheatre

The Feeley Sisters of Auburn, Me. will be guest performers with the Quincy High School Alumni Band Saturday, June 30, at 7:30 p.m. at the Ruth Gordon Amphitheatre, 100 Southern Artery, Quincy.

This is the third annual "Traditional Summer Band Concert" of the Alumni Band. The band was formed in September, 1982 by a group of former Quincy High School Band members. It includes 15 members and performs Big Band, Jazz and Popular music, under the direction of George Vallatini, a graduate of QHS and the University of Lowell College of Music.

The Feeley Sisters, Martha, Liz and Amy, brought up in a musical family, learned early to sing in harmony in the style of the Andrews Sisters. Their repertoire includes also many songs of the '40s.

Registration For Youth Garden Workshop Underway

Recreation Director Barry Welch announces the Quincy Recreation Department is accepting registration for its Youth Garden Workshop, which will be held on Tuesdays or Thursdays, June 26 to Aug. 9.

Registration will be taken on a first come, first serve basis at the Recreation Department, 100 Southern Artery, Monday through Friday, 8:30 a.m.-4:30 p.m., as long as openings exist.

The camp is a special hands-on gardening program.

It will be conducted on the grounds of the Lincoln Hancock School. Boys and girls ages seven and above will have the opportunity to participate on Tuesdays or Thursdays for six weeks. The gardeners will nurture plants from seeds to harvest and will participate in a variety of hands-on gardening activities, including composting, corn grinding, canning, insect collecting and many gardening related crafts. A variety of vegetables and flowers will be grown in our Quincy Youth Garden.

The program will be under the supervision of Steve Cantelli, an Elementary school teacher in the Quincy Public Schools. One of the special features of this program is that the produce from the children's garden will be donated to the Quincy Homeless Shelter.

The camp will be held on the grounds of the Lincoln Hancock Community School for boys and girls at least seven years old. Hours will be from 8 a.m. to 10 a.m. Cost is $15.

Senior Olympics Televised In 19 Communities

Continental Cablevision carried coverage of the eighth annual senior olympic games on local programming channels in 19 cities and towns during May. From Raynham and Brockton to Holbrook and Hull, Continental's community programming allowed viewers all over the South Shore to enjoy fun and excitement of this year's Senior Olympics.

Bette Campbell, program director at Beechwood Community Life Center and coordinator of Senior Olympics, said the seniors appreciated Ch. 3's Senior Olympics programming.

"They love it," Campbell said. "They get to see themselves and their friends and find out who the medal winners are...Community TV has become an important part of Senior Olympics."

Quincy Community Television, Channel 3, the local programming department for Continental Cablevision in Quincy, provided this years extensive Olympics coverage, including daily 15 minute updates with the final results for each event, and three 90 minute specials, two of which ran live.

Marie Daiz, Public Affairs producer for Quincy Community TV, directed and produced this ambitious project.

"We borrowed equipment from five different cable systems and spent more than one night working straight through to meet our deadlines, but the response has been wonderful. This was definitely our best coverage yet," said Daiz.

Over 150 production hours were devoted to producing this year's Olympics coverage. The time consuming set-up for on location events coverage, as well as the results calculation and long hours of editing time, meant early mornings and late nights for the QCTV staff.

Throughout the week, Community Television crews had to be coordinated at locations around the city, to ensure that each of the 17 Olympic events held this year had at least two camera coverage. As the crews had no idea of knowing who would win, every competitor in each event had to be recorded on tape; their name, score and order of appearance noted for editing later.

Each night, after the results were tallied and the competitors and TV crews had gone home, Diaz returned to the QCTV studio to compile statistics and search through hours of tape to produce the daily update for telecast the next morning.

Barry Welch, director of the Quincy Recreation Dept., complimented QCTV's Senior Olympics programming.

"This year's coverage was superior," Welch said. "The promptness and professional quality of the daily updates, showing the results of one night's events the following morning, was wonderful. They didn't have to do that. No one expected it, but the Seniors and those who watched Ch. 3 were really impressed."

It was a full week of events. QCTV staff and volunteer crews used the QCTV mobile van and portable cameras to cover golf, four walking and running events, swimming, two nights of bowling, volleyball, basketball, horse shoe pitching and a wide array of track and field events, not to mention live coverage of the Opening Ceremonies and Softball Game and the final Awards Ceremony.

Thirty-one Community Television Volunteers donated their time and skills throughout Senior Olympics week; running cameras, logging results, interviewing competitors and assisting in the time consuming set-up and breakdown required for location productions.

Volunteers are trained in television production at workshops provided free of charge by Continental Cablevision, to anyone who lives or works in Quincy. This year a special "Senior Olympics Workshop" was held specifically for the Senior Olympics crews.

"It's difficult to comprehend the time and effort involved in a production the size of this year's Senior Olympics," said Ed Fiddler, QCTV program director. "Everyone did a super job."

"The thank you letters and calls for reruns are still coming in and that says it all."

THE BOSTON FIVE celebrated National Employee Health and Fitness Day as Kim Lamplough and Maureen Shea enjoy a brisk walk through Quincy Center.

Boston Five Celebrates National Health, Fitness Day

The Boston Five at Presidents Place, Quincy, recently celebrated National Employee Health and Fitness Day.

"Recognition of this day allowed us to remind people of the importance of their health. Hopefully employees at the bank will now take fuller advantage of our own in-house fitness facilities," said Terri Spellman, director of the Healthy Dividend.

By day's end, 270 people teamed up to job, follow a mapped walk of the Quincy area or work out in the health club. The winning team, The Bionic Buffalos, was awarded with Health Dividend T-shirts, a framed photograph of their team from Frantic Framers, and pizzas from Lazzarino's Restaurant located on the first floor of Presidents Place.

National Employee Health and Fitness Day was established to encourage employers to consider initiating long-term fitness and recreation programs. In 1989, 1,200 companies and employer groups took part, making NEHFD the nation's largest celebration of fitness at the worksite.

A 165 year old institution, The Boston Five Cents Savings Bank FSB has total assets of nearly $2.2 billion. It is the largest savings banks headquartered in Massachusetts. Deposits of The Boston Five are insured by the Bank Insurance Fund (BIF) of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation (FDIC).

Education Coordinator Rehired On Compromise

spring. The council would then have to approve it.

The job is funded by the Urban Development Action Grant, which is revenue supplied by the federal government.

As community education coordinator, Keough applies for state and federal grants which fund adult education programs for city residents, especially Asian immigrants which number more than 10,000. In his first year, Keough secured $241,000 in grants, including $200,000 during one three-month period.

In addition, his job responsibilities include program management and developing comprehensive programs for newcomers. Programs include teaching English as a Second Language, vocational training, work training and mental health services.

Keough files a weekly report with Planning Director Richard Meade and the mayor. Councillor Patricia Toland asked Keough to keep the council informed.

With U.D.A.G. money on the decline, councillors inquired about the possibility of having a portion of the grants fund the position. Keough said there was no guarantee the job could be funded entirely through administrative costs since some grants do not include these costs.

"The city could just select grants which cover administrative costs. I can't guarantee that I'll literally give my salary back to the city."

"There are," he added, "some administrative costs which can be rerouted to the general fund."

Overall, Keough viewed the council's decision as a "fair compromise."

"I think it was a fair compromise. The U.D.A.G. money is starting to decrease. I can live, I hope, within the budgetary process," said Keough, who was hospitalized for a heart attack last year.

Three councillors, Michael Cheney, Thomas Fabrizio and Thomas Nutley, came out in support of the $47,000 appropriation.

Cheney and Fabrizio said Keough does more than write grants, pointing out he is actively involved in the groups he helps.

Cheney also noted Keough earned five times his salary last year. "I think to stop this would be a mistake, a grave mistake."

Nutley agreed, saying the city needs more programs, such as health care, for its Asian population. He recalled the city was honored by the governor last year for its leadership and commitment in developing programs to help Asians.

However, Chretien replied other city workers earn more than their salary "every day." He noted Veronica Collins recently secured a $500,000 grant to help residents purchase their first home.

He and Councillor Peter Kolson also pointed out there are 29 city employees qualified to write grants, most of whom make less than $40,000.

"To spend this kind of money on this kind of position seems a little reckless to me when we already have in-house people to do the work," Kolson said.

Councillor Timothy Cahill also called the $47,000 salary too high. "I think $47,000 in these tight economic times is a lot of money."

Susan Gallagher Candidate For State Representative

SUSAN GALLAGHER

Susan Gallagher, the Republican candidate for state representative in the First Norfolk District, will formally announce her candidacy tonight (Thursday) at 7 p.m. at her home at 21 Willow St., Quincy.

If elected, Gallagher said her first priority will be to help solve the present state fiscal crisis. She said this can be accomplished by cutting waste in the budget. Funding would then be available to maintain basic services.

Gallagher said her decision to run stems directly from her belief that "we need to return control of the state government to the people." She opposes legislation which prevents individuals and communities from determining their own destiny.

As a state representative, Gallagher also said she would work on behalf of Quincy citizens, not the interests of the state administration.

A real estate salesperson and part-time student, she is active in many local organizations including Quincy Citizens Association, Wollaston Park Association, Mayors Commission on the Status of Women and Project Impact.

Chairman of the Ward 5 Republican City Committee, Gallagher is also a member of the Board of Directors of St. Chrysostom's Pre-School and a member of the vestry.

Gallagher, who has run her own business, says she would bring experience working with the public to the office.

She has a degree in criminal justice and is currently furthering her education at Suffolk University.

Campaign contributions will be accepted at the announcement.

Anyone wishing to join the Committee to Elect Susan Gallagher can write to 21 Willow St., Quincy, MA 02170 or call 770-0672.

INVITATION FOR BIDS

Sealed bids for construction of the Alrick Road Dewatering System — Phase I for the City of Quincy, Massachusetts, will be received at the Department of Public Works, 55 Sea Street, Quincy, Massachusetts 02169 until 10:30 a.m. prevailing time, on July 2, 1990 at which time and place said bids will be publicly opened and read aloud.

The scope of work includes construction of approximately 1350 feet of 6 inch PVC and 460 feet of 8 inch PVC drain piping, and a pump station, with associated manholes and appurtenances. Bid security in the form of a bid bond, cash, certified check, treasurer's or cashier's check, payable to the Owner, is required in a dollar amount of five percent of the bid amount.

The Instructions to Bidders, Form of General Bid, Contract, Plans, Specifications, Performance and Payment Bond, and other Contract Documents may be examined at the following:

Weston & Sampson Engineers, Inc., Peabody, Massachusetts
Dodge Reports, Boston, Massachusetts

Department of Public Works, Quincy, Massachusetts
Copies may be obtained at the Department of Public Works, 55 Sea Street, Quincy, MA 02169, on payment of a non-refundable fee of $35.00 for each set.

Contract documents and plans will be mailed to prospective bidders upon request and receipt of a separate non-refundable check for $15.00 to cover handling and mailing fees.

Both checks shall be made payable to the City of Quincy.

A Prebid Conference will be held at 10:30 a.m. on June 18, 1990 at the Quincy Department of Public Works, 55 Sea Street. It is imperative that prospective bidders have a representative attend. Any request for interpretation of plans and specifications should be submitted in writing at the same time. Bidders will have an opportunity to view the site of the work following the Prebid Conference.

All bids for this project are subject to applicable bidding laws of Massachusetts, including General Laws Chapter 30, Section 39M as amended.

Minority Business Enterprise (MBE) and Women's Business Enterprise (WBE) policies of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts and the City of Quincy are applicable to this Contract. The goal for this project is a minimum of five (5) percent MBE participation and five (5) percent WBE participation by state-certified MBEs and WBEs. The bidder shall submit completed MBE/WBE forms (Letters of Intent) with the bid. Failure to comply with the requirements of this paragraph may be deemed to render a proposal nonresponsive.

The Bidders attention is called to the requirements and conditions of employment to be observed and minimum wage rates to be paid under the contract as determined by the Department of Labor and Industries under the provisions of the Massachusetts General Laws, Chapter 149, Section 26-27D inclusive.

The Bidder agrees that this bid shall be good and may not be withdrawn for a period of 30 days, Saturdays, Sundays and legal holidays excluded, after the opening of bids.

The Owner reserves the right to waive any informalities or to reject any or all bids.

$2.5 Million For New Water Mains, Other Improvements

The City Council approved a $2,515,000 loan order Monday night to replace 11,100 feet of water mains and improve the water system's reliability and water quality.

Most of the funding will go toward replacing 6,900 feet of water mains under Washington St. from Elm St. to the Fore River Bridge and another 4,200 feet of mains under Quincy Ave. from Faxon Rd. to East Howard St.

It will cost $1,570,000 to replace the Washington St. pipes and $745,000 to replace the Quincy Ave. pipes. According to Public Works Commissioner David Colton, the new pipes will replace the present ones which were installed in 1902.

The city is hoping the state will come through with a $500,000 grant to help pay for the project. If the state reneges, Colton said that Washington St. will be able to be completed since that is the biggest project.

The bond issue will also fund $427,149 in system reliability improvements, $216,000 in water quality improvements and $271,000 in new equipment.

The system reliability improvements are earmarked for Dimmock St. from Hancock St. to Monroe Rd., Sea Ave. from Sea St. to Island Ave. and Island Ave. from Sea Ave. to Sea St.

Water quality improvements are targeted for Albatross, Curlew and Bittern Sts. as well as Penns Hill and Bayside Rd. Colton said these streets were selected because of rusty water complaints.

The DPW, which estimates there are more than 200 broken gates throughout the city, is planning to start an aggressive valve operating program to locate other potential rusty water problems.

The city will replace 50 gates at $700 each or a total of $35,000.

The DPW also plans on purchasing new equipment, including:

- 2000 meters and outside readers at $70 each or $140,000.
- 50 hydrants at $80 each or $40,000.
- One valve operating truck at $35,000.
- One ton emergency truck at $16,000.

In a separate appropriation, the council also approved $315,000 out of the Sewer Rehabilitation Fund to correct drainage problems to homes on Alrick Rd.

Colton said the project will eliminate the need for sump pumps and cut down on the infiltration into sewers.

About $1 million is left in the sewer rehabilitation fund, Colton said.

Ward 3 Councillor Lawrence Chretien said he wants to amend the home-rule petition which created the fund to the Sewer and Drainage Rehabilitation Fund. As presently set up, the fund cannot help pay for drainage improvements in neighborhoods unless it's shown the problem directly impacts the sewer system.

Car Wash Complaint Hearing Placed On File

The License Board Tuesday placed on file a hearing concerning a neighbor's complaint about the Self Service Car Wash, 570 South St., Quincy Point.

The business is owned by Charles Hajjar.

The board noted that the license for the car wash stipulates hours from 8 a.m. to 11 p.m.

According to a letter from a direct abutter, the board noted, customers are apparently using the coin-operated machinery to clean cars after 11 p.m.

Hajjar told the board the lights and electricity are timed to shut off automatically at 11 p.m. but that the car washing and vacuum machines are not timed to be shut down.

Hajjar said at one time the machines were timed to be shut down at 11 p.m., but said that it resulted in vandalism because people were angry when the machines did not operate after coins were inserted.

Hajjar asked if additional signage stating that the car wash is closed at 11 p.m. would help the situation.

Building Commissioner Matthias Mulvey said it would do no good because people don't always read signs.

Mulvey suggested placing gates at the car wash to be locked at 11 p.m.

Hajjar said he preferred not to resort to gates because it would be an inconvenience for him to come to the car wash to lock and unlock them every day.

Mulvey said that something must be done to correct the situation because the neighbors should not have to listen to the machines after 11 p.m.

Hajjar agreed that a solution is needed.

Mulvey will visit the establishment to review the situation and the matter will be taken up with the board after the review.

6 of 9 Dogs Released Found

Phyllis Berlucchi, director of the Quincy Animal Shelter, has some good news to report in the wake of last weekend's break-in at the shelter in which nine dogs were released.

Workers at the Quincy Nursing Home found a white Bichon Tuesday afternoon bringing the total of dogs recovered to six.

Berlucchi said the shelter has been tending to the dog since its owner was hospitalized after being in a car accident.

Berlucchi also reported that John McDuff, president of the Quincy Animal League, has volunteered funds to alarm the building at 56

Broad St.

The three dogs which have not been found include a four-month old black and brown Dobie Shepard, a six-month old male Lab Shepard, and a male Springer Spaniel.

Anyone who has seen these dogs should contact Berlucchi at the Quincy Animal Shelter, 773-6297.

Sheets Returns To Washington For Downtown Funding

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

Mayor James A. Sheets returned to Washington, D.C., today (Thursday) with the hope of securing $250,000 to $500,000 in federal funding for the city's downtown revitalization effort.

Sheets, who visited the nation's capital two weeks ago with several other city leaders in search of federal assistance, was scheduled to meet with Connie Harriman, under secretary for the Department of the Interior's Fish, Wildlife and Parks division at 11 a.m. He was set to come back to Quincy late this afternoon.

Congressman Brian Donnelly and Senator Ted Kennedy were also invited to attend the meeting.

Sheets is focusing on tourism as a key component to the downtown revitalization effort. In fact, the mayor believes Quincy can capitalize on its history and become the second biggest tourist destination in the state, right after Boston.

Presently, Quincy is ranked 18th in historical tourism visits in the state. The mayor said he firmly believes Quincy can surpass Plymouth which attracts one million visitors annually.

Tourism is Plymouth's number one industry. In 1988, tourism generated $150 million to the local economy. Last year, Quincy attracted 60,000 visitors, drawing $4 million to the economy here.

Sheets noted Quincy has a "unique position" as the birthplace and burial place of the second and sixth Presidents of the United States and their wives, as well as the home of 15 other historical sites.

The dramatic tourism boost would not adversely impact city neighborhoods, the mayor said, since most of the visitors would arrive by bus via the Bargin Parkway located directly off Routes 3 and 128.

As for his trip, Sheets is

New Director Tells Council Hospital Rebounding From Financial Woes

In a positive, upfront and upbeat presentation Monday night, Quincy Hospital's new director told the City Council the hospital is rebounding from last year's financial woes while embarking on a new image enhancing program.

Last year, the hospital operated with a $4 million deficit. Some 200 full-time employees had to be laid off. Officials said the deficit was caused by a decrease in the number of patients and very slow reimbursements from various public insurance programs.

At a meeting of the council's Public Health and Hospital Committee, new Hospital Director Ellen Zane said the facility's financial future "is a hard road to hoe." She also said the hospital "will not break even next year."

However, Zane pointed to a myriad of positive developments that could help the hospital turn around financially.

"My feeling is we have everything at that hospital to brag about—the highest caliber of physicians and technology," she told city councilors.

The hospital's operating rooms will undergo $1.5 million of renovations. The maternity ward will also be renovated to include a labor delivery recovery room with a more friendly atmosphere.

The hospital's radiology department will receive a magnetic resonance imager which is the next step in CAT scans. Quincy will be the only community hospital in the state with the equipment.

The medical staff area will also be renovated and the parking lots will be repaved and open by July 23.

Asked about a recent oil spill at the hospital, Zane said the hospital has installed new oil tanks with monitoring systems. The tanks and pipes are double-walled to catch any leaks.

It also appears the number of patients is rising. Zane noted the patient census was up in May and June.

Zane, the Hospital Board of Managers and other administrators are also working on employee focused activities, physician focused activities and public relations activities.

The director said more financial information is being shared with the medical staff and the union stewards which helps morale and prevents false rumors from circulating.

In addition, the hospital is recruiting new physicians more aggressively. "We need

Channel 26 Reminder

Viewers are reminded that The Quincy Sun will cease operations of news Channel 26 on Continental Cablevision effective Monday, July 2.

On that same date, The Sun will begin a new role providing daily community news updates on Channel 3.

It will mark the end of a 24-hour per day news channel The Sun has operated since 1982, first on Channel 8 and then on Channel 26.

The decision to cease the operation was made by Sun Publisher Henry Bosworth with agreement by Steve Farquhar, General Manager of Continental Cablevision.

He said there was not enough sustained advertising revenue to properly support the operation of the channel.

"I want to thank our many loyal viewers who welcomed us into their homes these past eight years," Bosworth said. "I hope they will understand why this decision had to be made."

Farquhar said the financial

News Network will now expand to full time and move to Channel 26 July 2.

C-SPAN II, live coverage of the U.S. Senate will expand its hours and move to Channel 42, allowing the Discovery Channel to expand to full time, as well, he said.

Early News Deadline For Next Week's Sun

Because of the July 4th holiday, there will be an early news deadline for next week's Quincy Sun.

All general news and sports releases for the July 5th issue should be in the Sun office, 1372 Hancock St., Quincy, by noon Saturday, June 30.

The Sun office will be closed Wednesday, July 4th.

Open Space Rezoning Supported

Two city councillors and six residents expressed their support Monday night to rezone a one and a half acre parcel near the Quincy Neighborhood Club to open space.

The change was proposed by Councillors Lawrence Chretien and Charles Phelan. A portion of the land is presently zoned Residence A and another portion is Residence C.

The wooded area is located near Glendale Rd., Quincy Hospital and the Quincy Neighborhood Club.

Chretien and Phelan said neighbors in the area support the change as a way to preserve it and improve flood control in that area. They also said the change would prevent any development there.

Six residents were recorded in favor of the rezoning.

Fireworks Illegal

Quincy Fire Department Deputy Chief Anthony Innello is asking all parents to discourage the use of fireworks and lighting of bonfires by youngsters during the July 4 holiday.

"The Quincy Fire Department reminds everyone that fireworks are dangerous and illegal," Innello said.

The fire department wishes everyone a safe and happy Fourth of July.

Board Places Pub On Year's Probation For Closing Violations

The License Board Tuesday placed Delaney's Pub, 35 Franklin St., South Quincy, on probation for a period of one year after reviewing a police report concerning two closing violations at the establishment within three days.

According to a report submitted to Acting Police Chief Paul Nestor by Liquor Inspector Sgt. Richard Laracy on June 29, the establishment violated the city's closing guidelines Sunday, June 17 at 3:23 a.m. when a police officer was called by a neighbor of the establishment and found bottles and glasses on the bar and some 10 customers still on the premises.

According to the city's closing guidelines, which Delaney's owner, Maurice Foley had signed in July of 1988, all liquor establishments must clear the bar of bottles and glasses by 1:15 a.m. and clear the establishment of customers by 1:30 a.m.

According to the report the police officer did not need to see actual consumption of the beverages after hours because the violation occurred simply by the glasses being on the bar and customers being inside after closing hours.

Furthermore, the report said, Foley had been issued a "stern warning" by Laracy just two days earlier concerning a violation of allowing alcohol to be taken from the premises for consumption. Laracy said in the report that two cases of beer had been taken from the establishment.

Atty. Louis Cassos, representing Foley, told the board that Foley agrees he is "absolutely guilty on both charges," and said that he "understands that he should be punished."

However, Cassos said, the violation of having customers in the bar after hours was because Foley was entertaining relatives and friends from his hometown in Ireland.

"They were talking," Cassos said, "they stayed open too late ... time got away from them."

Cassos told the board Foley offers apologies for the admitted violation but asked that the board take into consideration that Foley has had "very few violations" in the 10 years he has operated the business.

Cassos also told the board the violation of taking alcohol off the premises for consumption was done by Foley's son.

Nestor said this violation is "harder to justify" than the after-hours violation, and suggested the one-year probation.

"You are jeopardizing a very serious thing here," he told Foley. "You need to address problems you have ... you need to pay attention to your business."

Nestor said that the establishment will be "watched very closely" by the police department during the probationary period.

Balzano Hits

'Legislative Pollution'

Judy Balzano, Republican candidate for state legislature, told a group of residents she is greatly concerned about the danger to health, safety and property values that will be caused by the combined presence of a sludge plant at the Quincy Shipyard and the proposed toxic waste incinerator at Clean Harbors in Braintree.

"It is, in my opinion, a crime against our children, our elderly, in fact all of us, to put such pollution-producing facilities right in the middle of our residential neighborhoods," Balzano said.

"But the worst pollution source of all is our state legislature. Those we elected to office to protect us locally against such dangers are the very people who sold us out by creating state agencies such as the MWRA and the Department of Environmental Affairs, which should be protecting us, but actually are the very ones poisoning us."

"Now our legislators claim they can't control the agencies they created and fund. Surely something is very wrong. If voters will 'Remember in November,' we can start not only to clean up the state's fiscal mess, but 'legislative pollution' as well."

City Council Takes Strong Stand Against Railroad Restoration

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

Calling the proposal obtrusive, unbearable and insane, city councillors criticized the MBTA's plan to restore rail service on the Old Colony line at a public hearing Monday night.

MBTA Project Manager Stephen Polechronis was invited to the hearing scheduled by Ward 6 Councillor Thomas Nutley but could not attend because of a prior commitment. Only three citizens attended the hearing, including one from Hingham and another from Scituate.

No resident from Quincy spoke in support or against the proposal.

Nonetheless, the councillors used the hearing to express their concerns about the project and renew their fight against the service. In their opposition, they said the project would adversely impact the city, creating unbearable noise pollution and decreasing the quality of life here.

Given the state's current fiscal woes, councillors also labeled the project foolish. The project would cost an estimated $561 million, with all but $195 million coming from the state. The remaining cost, MBTA officials say, would be picked up by the federal government.

Nutley, chairman of the council's Public Transportation Committee, doubted the $561 million price tag, saying it was closer to $800 million to $1 billion.

With the MBTA scheduled to break ground for the project in September, Nutley said he will ask fellow councillors to draft an official statement against the railroad at a special meeting this summer.

Nutley, who said the line would create a "carcinogenic swarth" through Quincy, noted there is stiff opposition to the railroad throughout the South Shore and Dorchester. "The whole project borders on insanity."

As proposed, the MBTA would restore commuter rail service on three lines: Greenbush, Middleboro and Plymouth. The three lines would merge into one line in Braintree and continue through Quincy to South Boston.

MBTA officials say between 70 and 80 trains would run through Quincy per day.

However, Nutley warned the rail would be used to haul freight "all night" in order to make the service profitable.

Ward 5 Councillor Charles Phelan, who attended a public hearing on the rail restoration last week in Braintree, said the rail would run in the red by $18 million a year. It would cost $28 million a year to operate but make only $10 million, he pointed out.

Phelan also noted the state's credit rating is currently the lowest in the country while adding many communities are financially strapped because state local aid has dropped off.

Council President Ted DeCristofaro said "it's very possible" Clean Harbors would use the line to transport hazardous waste. DeCristofaro and other councillors also fear the vibrations from the trains would damage the Adams National Historic Site.

Since the site is under the control of the U.S. Department of the Interior, Ward 1 Councillor Peter Kolson said the federal government might be able to step in and stop the line because of its close proximity to the site.

Kolson said the line would provide the city nothing but more aggravation.

"This is about as futuristic as the end of a monkey's nose," Kolson said deadpanned.

Councillor Patricia Toland, who also attended last week's hearing, said "the entire City of Quincy is against the project."

She pointed out the areas to be serviced by the line don't have the urban problems like Quincy does. She noted the MBTA will place noise barriers along some sections of the line in the Plymouth-Middleboro areas but will not in Quincy which already experiences "deafening" noise from the MBTA Red Line.

"If that isn't bureaucratic foolishness, I don't know what is," Toland added.

Nutley said he understands the plight of motorists who commute to Boston daily on the Southeast Expressway, Route 3A and other major roads. However, he said the proposal for diesel rail service and possible freight hauling is "inconsistent and insane" in today's age of "environmental enlightenment."

To lessen vehicular traffic, he said Quincy has advocated other commuting options, such as more commuter boats, MBTA Red Line trains and buses as well as increased car pooling. Kolson said the city should consider siting a commuter boat pier or dock.

Alexander Macmillan, chairman of the Hingham Historical Commission, said town governments should stand united in their opposition. He and other opponents have called for more public hearings.

NORTH QUINCY MERCHANTS on Billings Rd. are participating in an Adopt-a-Tree program. They planted flowers around 27 trees and cleaned the area. Among the merchants taking part are, Wayne McCullye of South Shore Check Cashing, Angela Donovan of South Shore Bank and Joseph Doran of Doran and Horrigan Insurance.

Sheets Sees No Problems For City In Paying Bills

As the end of the fiscal year approaches, it appears the city will not have any trouble meeting its financial obligations unlike other municipalities throughout the state.

With the state's plan to delay a $1.14 billion local aid payment until July 10, some municipalities are scrambling to refinance their debt or to request money from a new state emergency fund to make their bond payments.

However, Mayor James Sheets said Tuesday he does not anticipate any problems with the city paying its bills. "I do not anticipate any problems with us meeting our fiscal obligations as a result of the delay," he said.

According to Auditor Robert Foy, the state owes Quincy $14.5 to $15 million in local aid for the start of fiscal 1991 which begins Sunday, July 1. The payment was due last Friday.

Foy said the Bureau of Accounts has indicated the city will be paid July 10.

The state also owes the city another $3 million in aid which the governor withheld last August. It is not clear if the money will be returned.

According to Foy, all bond payments have been budgeted. The city has a temporary note of $7 million which will be paid off when the state comes through with the local aid.

Foy said the note covers general operating costs.

The mayor said he should know the city's year-end budget balance after the July 4th holiday. "Once we know that, we'll know where we are fiscally and then make decisions on the (number) of layoffs."

As many as 60 city employees, including 32 teachers and 18 firefighters, are expected to be laid off.

Special Exhibit To Honor John Q. Adams

The Adams National Historic Site is celebrating the 223rd birthday of sixth President John Quincy Adams with a special exhibit Wednesday, July 11, which has been designated a Free Day.

"The Life and Times of John Quincy Adams," the exhibit, will include John Quincy's christening gown, the traveling chest he used during his diplomatic career abroad, family portraits, and other artifacts relating the story of his early childhood, marriage, Presidency, and life as a Congressman. These are not usually exhibited as part of the general tour.

This one-day special exhibit will be displayed in the Carriage House of the Adams National Historic Site, 135 Adams St., Quincy, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Admission will be free also on July 11 to the John Adams and John Quincy Adams Birthplaces, 133-141 Franklin St., Quincy, the Adams Mansion, the Stone Library, as well as the Carriage House exhibit.

Further information is available from Caroline Keinath at 773-1177.

Just Being Frank

Frank Anselmo will be 92 Sept. 22 but don't chip in for a rocking chair for his birthday.

The veteran School Committee member and former Quincy Post Office superintendent looks and acts like a man 30 years younger.

He's not thinking retirement.

This is his 29th year as a member of the School Committee and he will be due up for re-election next year.

Will he run again?

"If I feel then as I do now, I would be tempted to run again," he says.

Physically he looks in great shape. And mentally?

"My brain is still ticking," he says.

Anselmo is believed to be the oldest elected official in Massachusetts and probably in the country.

First elected to the School Committee in 1961, he has outlasted six mayors in office: Amelio Della Chiesa, James McIntyre, Walter Hannon, Joseph LaRaia, Arthur Tobin and Frank McCauley.

And he could possibly add present Mayor James Sheets to that list.

To what does he owe his political longevity?

"I tell it like it is," he says. "People know where I stand. I don't try to kid them."

And he believes in a good education, good schools, the American flag, motherhood and apple pie.

He has strong feelings about education.

ANSELMO

He established a scholarship fund at Quincy Junior College several years ago which now has over $35,000. He adds something each year.

Last year, the new library at the new Quincy Junior College building was dedicated in his honor as a token of appreciation.

A good education is as dear to his heart as Old Glory has been since his World War I service.

He lights up like a Christmas tree when he mentions his grandson, Tim Sipples, son of his daughter, Francine, a Quincy High School graduate now a lawyer for a bank in Connecticut.

Tim graduated summa cum laude from Harvard this year and will now attend the University of Chicago on a full four-year scholarship plus an $8,000 a year stipend.

And to what does he owe his physical longevity? "I don't smoke or drink and I keep away from sex," he smiles.

Actually, he does sip an occasional glass of wine but positively, no smoking.

His father's Italian stogies cured him of that when he got into them as a boy.

"I got sick. No more smoking after that. They cured me for life."

Anselmo says he really feels like a kid. His uncle, Guy, in Washington is 102.

About next year's city election:

"Well, I'll only be 92..."

Flag Desecration Should Be Punished

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

I am responding to the many articles written in respect to the consideration of Constitutional change regards desecration of our American Flag.

I do wish it to be a crime, an unlawful act. This act should be punishable. This act should have the weight of the constitution denying desecration. The degree of the weight is the concern.

The several Senators and Representatives that have suggested that to change the constitution (for flag burning) would be a travesty of the liberty we hold so dearly and under delicate conditions of reverence (with out sanctimony). To legislate morality, this can not be done.

One must be allowed the option to act as a individual under conditions of the time with no undue influence dictated by others. The full weight or protection of the Constitution is yours. Circumstances do alter cases. The conditions of flag burning (burners) are in most instances not an act of an individual, the conditions can be crowded with opinion not of fact, but philosophy, not protected by the constitution.

One has the protection after stating with sincerity what is being denied, the statement can be made in many forms up to and including burning the American Flag. The consequences suffered for the act should be liberty. (Epictetus) "The will to be responsible to our selves — (Nietzsche), political power divided into small fragments.

Then of course our old friend Voltaire "I may not agree with what you say but defend you to the death for you to say it." It is my hope the Constitution shall have part in protecting the liberties of those willing to share the complements and come down on those that take advantage of the situation or conditions trying circumvent or advertise thoughts or statements for free.

Studds Extends 'Heartfelt Thanks'

Editor, The Quincy Sun:
I am writing to express my deep gratitude for the outpouring of concern following the physical attack on me last Thursday night in Washington. To the scores of friends, known and unknown, who have called or written over the last few days, I want to say a heartfelt thanks. I cannot exaggerate how much this has meant to me.

Although bruised and sore, I may well owe my life to the four witnesses who cared enough to "get involved" that night. I am eager to thank them in person, and I hope that their actions will serve as an example to others.

By all accounts, this was a random act of motiveless violence which could happen to anyone. This crime has gotten the attention that it has because it was committed -- probably to the surprise of the attackers -- against a person already in the public eye. It is sobering to remember, however, how many people live in the shadow of urban violence. The reaction of the passers-by -- to approach the scene, follow the fleeing assailants and volunteer to testify for the prosecutors -- speaks volumes about the best instincts of men and women of goodwill.

Sincerely,
Gerry E. Studds

seeking $250,000 to $500,000 to hire professional planners and designers for the downtown area. "I'm going to try for a half million dollars but we could do the job with $250,000," he said Tuesday.

To generate and support more tourism, the mayor has compiled a list of objectives for traffic, amenities and aesthetics, retail and cultural.

Regarding traffic, the mayor wants to develop an in-city transportation system to move tourists from historical site to historical site, re-design Quincy Center's traffic flow with an east-west relief link to accommodate large daily influxes of tourists; and identify parking needs of tour buses and tourist vehicles and to construct adequate facilities.

As for amenities and aesthetics, Sheets wants to:

- Built at least one visitors center in Quincy Center.
- Develop a signage system for the Quincy Historic Trail to guide tourists.

- Provide public bathroom accommodations.
- Plant trees with grates, institute historical lighting and stonework to the tourist area.

- Create new zoning law incentives regarding historic signage, storefronts and store windows.
- Develop public relaxation areas for tourists in the historic districts.

Regarding retail, Sheets wants to develop a new retail mix to support tourism. The mix would be consistent with the historic objectives.

As for cultural, the mayor hopes to construct a cultural center/historic museum to exhibit Quincy's treasures and to provide multi-media events for tourists and a home for local artisans.

While in Washington, the mayor was to consult with Donnelly on the feasibility of getting a decommissioned naval ship to be located in Quincy water. Ideally, the mayor would like to have an old aircraft carrier built in Quincy to be sited at the former General Dynamics shipyard.

The mayor said a naval ship could become a tourist attraction in itself, much like Battleship Cove in Fall River which has the U.S.S. Massachusetts, a battleship.

As for his chances, Sheets said he's "cautiously optimistic" for federal funding and "optimistic" a ship could be found.

Housing Authority Cleared Of Neglect

City Manager Donald H. Blatt and Mayor Amelio Della Chiesa cleared the Quincy Housing Authority of charges that it was neglecting the Westacres Housing Project.

The charges were made by members of the State Housing Board who said after a recent visit that many of the buildings in the development needed paint and repairs.

Said Blatt and Della Chiesa: "We talked to two tenants, one of whom had been an occupant since the project was built, and we were given to believe the authority has been an excellent landlord."

RADAR BLAMED ON GROUNDING

Capt. James A. Goodwin of North Quincy testified before a marine board of investigation that he was having trouble with radar aboard his Pilgrim Belle when the vessel left Boston for Nantasket.

The Pilgrim Belle ran aground on Spectacle Island but all 272 passengers were taken off safely.

Capt. Goodwin said he had decided to turn the Pilgrim Belle around and head back to Rows Wharf in Boston when she struck the rocks and he beached her on the island.

CONTRACTS FOR YARD

The Bethlehem Steel Co. was awarded six contracts to build fast tankers for the Navy and General Manager Sam Wakeman said that three of them probably would be constructed at the Fore River Shipyard.

Meanwhile, the Quincy Shipbuilding Committee, headed by George A. Daley, Jr., was preparing to solicit work for the yard after Congress passed an $86,450,000 maritime construction bill.

to make sure we have a good, well-rounded medical staff," Zane said.

The hospital has also begun an Asian Services Plan of Action to address the needs of the city's immigrant population which totals approximately 10,000. Zane said the hospital hopes to hire a social worker fluent in an Asian dialect as well as an Asian doctor.

As for image enhancing,

Zane and several city councilors agreed the best promotion is by positive word of mouth. Ward 1 Councilor Michael Cheney said he and his wife recently brought a son to the facility and received excellent care and treatment.

Prior to Zane's presentation, Bernice Mader, Mayor James Sheets' administrative assistant, updated the council on more than a dozen hospital issues.

Mader, who has spent more than 300 hours on hospital issues, helped secure $770,000 in back payments from what the hospital was owed.

The city has made several suggestions to the hospital for increasing business: affiliation with another hospital, an expanded day care center, an elder care center, a sports medicine clinic, an eating disorders clinic, a storage center for pre-donated blood, a clinic staffed with medical personnel who speak Asian languages.

The city is also working actively with employee representatives to encourage city employees to use the new $60 million facility. The city also supports the hospital's physician recruitment programs designed to increase referrals and increase both inpatient and out-patient volume.

July 4th Celebration At Merrymount

Selection of "Miss Merrymount" and the awarding of a college scholarship will be features of the July 3 opening of the Merrymount Association's 67th Independence Day celebration.

The two-day festivities will open Tuesday, July 3, at 6 p.m. at Merrymount School where contestants may register for a 2.5 mile road race. Paul Husey and Bob Seamans will be road race chairmen, and the race is open to contestants from age nine through forty years and older, male and female. At 6:30 p.m., the road race will start.

Also from 6 to 6:15 p.m., there will be registration for a mini-wheels parade for ages two to 12 in the Merrymount School parking lot. This includes decorated bikes, doll carriages, etc. Mike O'Connell and Linda Fitzgerald are co-chairpersons.

"Miss Merrymount" contenders are to report at 7 p.m. to Our Lady of Good Counsel church hall for interviews with judges. No spectators will be permitted at this time. Kathy Kane is chairperson.

All events from 7:15 p.m. will be at the Merrymount Beach, starting with a treasure hunt at the sandbox for ages one to nine.

Also at 7:15 p.m. there will be a drawing of the name of a son or daughter of a member family of the Merrymount Association for the Marge Gibbons Memorial Award, increased to $150 this year. Each applicant must be a high school graduate who will be attending a fully accredited college in September (one that charges tuition). The applicant must be a paid-up member of the Association, and should send the application to Betty Mafera, 156 Squanto Rd., Quincy, before July 3.

At 7:30 p.m. there will be an egg throwing contest, followed at 8 p.m. by picnicking. The Miss Merrymount contest for girls in grades 9 to 12 will be at 8:30 p.m. Dancing will continue to 10 p.m.

Wednesday, July 4, Junior Olympics for youngsters from four to 15 years will take place with John Molloy and Joe McConville as chairmen.

The annual parade will assemble at 12:30 p.m. at the Merrymount School, to begin at 1 p.m., marching through Merrymount streets, and arriving at Merrymount Beach at 1:30 p.m.

A flag-raising ceremony will be conducted by Bryant VFW Post Color Guard at 1:45 p.m. Rev. James Curtin, pastor of Our Lady of Good Counsel Church, will give the invocation, and Larry Shea, president of Merrymount Association, will bring greetings. State and City elected officials will be introduced.

At 2 p.m., winners of the parade street competition will be announced and prizes awarded.

A non-member fee of $5.00 will be charged for each competition. All events are free to those with 1990 membership tags.

Natalie's Rhubarb Strawberry Combo

We had invited our niece and Godchild Natalie (a new bride) and her husband Bill for dinner shortly after their wedding and Natalie already had a recipe for me. After long working hours she put together something quick, but delicious in the microwave.

She said her father had given her a few stalks of rhubarb, so she bought some strawberries. She simply added some sugar and water and got pleasantly surprised when the combination came out so delicious.

NATALIE'S RHUBARB STRAWBERRY COMBO

4 large stalks rhubarb six large strawberries
1/3 cup of sugar

(mixed with a little water)
Whipped topping

Cut the rhubarb in small chunks and slice the strawberries. Mix them in the sugar and water and put them in the microwave for about three minutes or so, or until soft. Natalie poured hers over left-over wedding cake but any plain cake will do. Top it off with whipped cream or yogurt.

Spotlight On HEALTH AND FITNESS

WELLNESS...THE WHEEL OF LIFE

Wellness—it is quickly becoming the concept of the 90's. As we reflect on past decades of nutrition and exercise crazes, we now realize that it takes a lot more than a focus on one particular activity to keep us healthy and happy.

Wellness is a well-rounded lifestyle, incorporating many different factors and aspects to achieve a physical and psychological state of "being the best you can be." Wellness can be likened to a wheel—the wheel of life. When the wheel is supported by strong, evenly-balanced spokes, it rolls along smoothly, as it was meant to.

The "hub" or center of the wellness wheel (see diagram) is your health. With a strong, healthy body, you can accomplish almost anything. In turn, the "spokes" or activities that support overall wellness reinforce lifelong good health. These "spokes" are unique for every individual.

One of the primary keys to a healthy life is a well-rounded exercise program. Exercise physiologists are seeing a trend that is moving away from a singular type of exercise; there is an increased interest in total body fitness—combining several kinds of exercise to build muscle strength, condition the cardiovascular system, and provide advantages the entire body can benefit from. In addition, by alternating exercise activities, you can avoid the boredom that frequently accompanies dedication to one particular sport. An exercise program which combines activities such as walking, tennis, aerobics and running can not only provide enjoyment, but allows the entire body to benefit from the workout of all muscles.

In most cases, all you really need as far as equipment goes, is comfortable, protective clothing and a good pair of shoes. Comfortable, well-fitting, shock-blocking shoes are probably your most important piece of exercise gear. Women, especially, should make sure their athletic shoes have been designed specifically for a woman's foot, and are not simply men's shoes scaled down in size. It is also important to get "sport-specific" shoes; in other words, don't use your running shoes for walking, and don't get out on the tennis court with your aerobic shoes on. Each type of shoe offers a unique and special protection for its particular sport (special lateral or side-to-side support in tennis shoes, for example).

Along with exercise, you must remember to include good nutrition, stress reduction exercises, plenty of rest, and time for yourself. And remember, moderation is the key—don't try to overdo it.

New Step Aerobic Class At Workout Club

The Workout Club & Shop of Hingham announces the change to its summer schedule and introduces the new STEP Aerobic Class (Step Training Exercise Program.)

STEP Aerobics is the latest innovation in the sport of aerobics, combining cardiovascular training with muscle toning in a unique, low-impact, high-intensity class. Using a four to twelve inch platform, participants step up and down to music in a variety of basic movements.

A STEP Workout will tone and tighten hips, thighs, buttocks, and weights can be added to maximize upper body muscle toning. Men seem to like the STEP because the classes offer an intense workout without being too dancy or hard to follow. A STEP class can be modified to match the capabilities of each individual participant by changing the height of the platform, enabling all levels of people to workout in the same class.

The Workout Club has 50 STEP platforms to choose from and offers seven STEP classes per week in addition to a full schedule of other types of classes including Low Impact, High Impact, Hi-Low Mix, and Stretch & Tone Exercise Classes. The club has no membership fees, so a person can walk in and pay just $5 a visit for any class and complete use of the facilities including Nautilus, Free-weights, Lifecycle, Stair machines, lockers and showers. The Workout Club also offers more babysitting than any other club in the Boston area.

Located on Route 3A in Hingham in Anchor Plaza behind the Talbots Sale Store, the Workout Club is open seven days a week, from 6 a.m. Monday through Friday.

Fitness And Motivation: How To Keep Going?

By JANE P. MITCHELL
Being fit is fine, but how to get started?

Even more difficult, how to maintain the determination and adrenaline rush of that first aerobic class or jog along the beach?

Vanity or health reasons will motivate for a month or so, but when routine sets in, your exercise has to provide more: you have to love how you feel when you're doing it (or soon after) more often than you hate it! Most give you a sense of well-being and aliveness that is distinctly different from the feeling of a chore well done. Discipline has a place in a fitness routine but it will never replace passion for what you're doing.

Now what will laugh and say, what will do fitness and passion have to do with each other? I feel that fitness buffs are not more disciplined, have more character, "take care of their bodies because they like themselves a lot" and all that rubbish. They are not an elite group. They just have a particular ability to tune in to their bodies and have found some form of movement or exercise or sport in which they can repeat that pleasurable experience over and over.

Everyone has that ability but many choose instead to get caught up in the latest trend, and futilely attempt to mold themselves to it, to no avail.

OK, so you hear it a lot: find something you really like to do and something you will do for the rest of your life. If you are a non-exerciser and sedentary you might be saying "believe me, there is nothing I enjoy doing in terms of exercise."

What you need to do is delve further if you really want change. Analyze your personality, interests, energy style. If social interaction is the most important thing to you, go dancing, play volleyball, take aerobic classes, and don't obsess about how much fat you're burning. Just be in the experience and see if you're having fun! Do you find you're relaxed for hours afterwards? If you are, you'll repeat it, often, and you'll start to get fit—naturally and effortlessly.

If you prefer being by yourself, try lifting weights or jogging and experience the meditative release of solitary exercise. Need more relaxation and stretching? Try yoga. Need more energy, vitality? — try brisk walking or bike riding. Experiment, use your imagination, and it will happen.

If you put variety and fun as your first priorities, rather than calorie expenditure, before you know it you will start to lose track of the boundary between exercise fun/socializing, which is what we're all looking for. You'll feel better, love all the side benefits, and will probably branch out further to balance your fitness needs.

Moderation, fun, blending the mind's seeming obligation to exercise with the body's natural inclination and love of movement — that is the goal.

Find your sport, do it often, and your body will find its natural balance.

Chiropractic Update

by Mark C. Jaehning D.C.

WHAT IS CHIROPRACTIC?

Chiropractic is that branch of the healing arts that deals with the structure and function of the spine, and specializes in the evaluation and treatment of back and neck pain among other systems. Chiropractors feel that the cause of many back and neck problems stems from the misalignment of one or more of the 33 spinal bones (called vertebrae), and the subsequent nerve pressure that may result.

A Doctor of Chiropractic may often use an x-ray and extensive diagnostic tests to determine if such a misaligned vertebrae and/or "pinched nerve" exists. These "pinched nerves" may often be the cause of back and neck pain, headaches, or perhaps pain, tingling and/or numbness in an arm or leg. It is the job of the chiropractor to determine if such a problem exists, and to correct it, naturally, without medication or surgery.

The Doctor of Chiropractic uses techniques learned through years of study whereby he/she applies pressure with his/her hands to areas of the spine that are misaligned, in order to restore joint mobility and function and relieve pressure on pain sensitive structures. A chiropractic adjustment provides a safe, painless, drug free, method for reducing the pain and pressure caused by the pinched nerve or misaligned vertebrae.

If you have any questions or would like to make an appointment please call Dr. Mark Jaehning, a lifelong Quincy resident, at Quincy Chiropractic Office, 440 Hancock Street, N. Quincy, 773-4400.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

It is an old custom to give gifts to our loved ones who are celebrating their birthdays. Assuming that we love our country, what gifts can we give her on her birthday? One might ask what gifts would be appropriate. NOT money. She seems to have an ample supply of that. NOT honor, power, or glory. She has these in abundance. What, then, should we bring our beloved country on her birthday? We should bring ourselves, our loyalty, our love and our service. We should dedicate ourselves anew to obedience of our Constitution and the laws of our state and support of our public officials. Let us voice our patriotism on this day, and let us not confine ourselves to mere expressions of sentiment. Let us, on this anniversary of our country's birthday, bring gifts of loyal service and conscientious obedience, without which a nation, even as great as this, cannot exist.

A Third Generation Continues Our Traditions.

Quincy has changed a great deal since Sweeney Funeral Home was established in 1917. But, it's nice to know some things will never change. Like the observance of traditional values and customs.

At Sweeney Funeral Homes, older residents are quick to notice the subtle reminders of yesteryear, such as the grey gloves our funeral director still wears. Like the characteristic top hat and tails that our founder, Dennis Sweeney, wore over 30 years ago, they reflect our Tradition. One that has been built on a dignified and instinctive concern for the city's bereaved families for three generations.

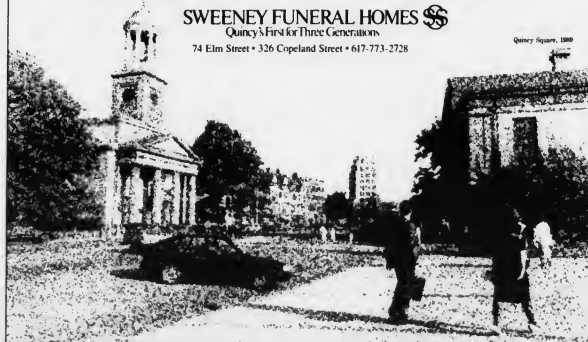

Today, our founder's grand-nephew, Dennis S. Sweeney has continued the family's philosophy of maintaining a beautiful, home-like atmosphere.

And like his namesake, who started pre-arrangements in the 1940's, Dennis believes in helping residents to plan for the future. Pre-planning means that this financial decision is not left for a family to decide while they are attempting to cope with a major personal loss. It's a difficult time, a time when family members are least able to make the wisest choice.

Sweeney Funeral Homes has been helping South Shore residents with difficult decisions for over 70 years. Call Dennis Sweeney at (617) 773-2728 for a free consultation. There's no time like the present.

Towing Company Complaints Hearing Continued By Board

The License Board Tuesday continued until its summer meeting a hearing on neighbors' complaints about New England Auto Recovery, 111 Penn St., storing vehicles near a Columbia St. playground.

The matter was brought before the board by Ward 4 Councillor Thomas Fabrizio who said he has received phone calls "every other day" from concerned mothers who bring children to the playground.

Fabrizio said he understands that several businesses are operated from the same lot at Penn St., but asked whether a compromise could be reached. He requested the towing company store vehicles to the left of a garage on the lot, away from the playground.

John Palisi, owner of the company, said that another Penn St. business currently uses that space.

The board suggested that Palisi speak to the landlord of the property about the matter and that he request some space to the left of the garage to store towed vehicles.

Palisi said he would. Fabrizio also asked the towing company use the Penn St. entrance to the lot rather than the Columbia St. entrance.

Palisi agreed. Building Commissioner Mathias Mulvey also agreed to make a site visit with Fabrizio to review the situation himself.

The matter will be monitored and will be addressed again when the board holds its usual summer meeting. No date has been set as yet.

License Board Briefs

- Granted a request for Joseph Fote for an Auto Cleaning License at 64 Field St. with a gasoline license for 300 gallons, above ground, in the tanks of cars. The license was granted with the stipulation that a team inspection be conducted by the Fire, Police and Health departments.

- Granted a request from Yu Jun Yang of Cambridge for a transfer of the common victualer license as held by the Carlo Won Restaurant, Inc. 15 Copeland St. The license was granted subject to filling a health department requirement of installing a hand-washing sink in the food preparation area.

- Granted a request from the Pizza Hut Restaurant, 627 Washington St., to install two video games under the distribution of Action-Jackson Amusement, Inc. of Malden. Building Commissioner Matthias Mulvey voted against the license because he does not want to see it become a "hang-out" for youth.

- Granted a request from Daniel Barbosa of Sher Drug, 33 Washington St., for a common victualer license for Super Store On The Square, an over-the-counter drug store with a lunch counter. The license was granted pending the requirement of the health department of the installation of a three-base sink at the counter and sanitary facilities which are pending.

- Continued a hearing on the request from Peter Kelly of Kelly's In The Square Restaurant, Cottage Ave., for a permit to sell alcohol at 11 a.m. on Sundays for Sunday brunch and a dancing permit for the ground floor. The matter is continued until the board receives word from the Alcoholic Beverage Control Commission concerning an alleged closing violation.

- Placed on file a report on paid police details at the Quincy Cinema, Quincy Fair Mall. The board noted that problems with crowds of youth have decreased recently and that the situation will continue to be monitored by police.

'The Ministry Of Absence' Rev. Arnold's Final Sermon At Bethany

This Sunday marks the closing of the Rev. J. William Arnold's 10-year pastorate as the Senior Minister of Bethany Congregational Church. Ordained in 1947, he is retiring after 43 years of pastoral ministry.

The final service conducted by Rev. Arnold will be the celebration of Holy Communion at 10 a.m. in the sanctuary.

Bethany, a congregation of the United Church of Christ, is located at the corner of Coddington and Spear Sts., Quincy Center. Associate minister, Rev. Elizabeth M. Upton, will assist as the liturgist.

Pastor Arnold's sermon topic will be "The Ministry of Absence". Lay scripture reader will be Joan P. Arnold.

Guest organist will be John R. Watt, a native of England, now living in North Cambridge, who administers an academic exchange program for scholars and students between the United States and China.

Jean E. Bettinson, contralto soloist, will sing Gaither's composition "There Is Something About That Name," and the Chancel Choir will present as the offertory anthem "In Thee, O Lord, Have I Trusted" by Handel.

The sacrament of Christian Baptism will be administered to Katelyn June Hemleb, daughter of Alfred M. Hemleb, III, and Shirley Lyn (Arnold) Hemleb, of St. Petersburg, Florida. The child is the granddaughter of Rev. and Mrs. Arnold.

The worship service will be broadcast "live" direct from Bethany's sanctuary at 10 o'clock over radio station WJDA, 1300 kc.

The Sunday School is closed during the summer. However, child care is provided for babies and toddlers.

A fellowship time with light refreshments will be held on the church lawn immediately following the worship service.

Also at 3 p.m. Sunday, a special farewell program in celebration of Pastor Arnold's ministry will be held in Bethany's sanctuary. Lisa C. Andre, moderator of the congregation and chair of the Celebration Committee, will preside.

Hundreds of members and guests from the United Church of Christ, and community officials are expected, including persons from former parishes served by Rev. Arnold. A reception to honor Bill and Joan Arnold will be held immediately following in the Allen Parlor and Parish House. The community is welcome.

For additional information concerning any of these events, or about the programs and ministries of Bethany Church, please contact the church office at 479-7300.

Legion Baseball

Morrisette Wins 3

By TOM SULLIVAN

The Morrisette Legion baseball team had a big week, sweeping three games to improve its record to 7-2 and remain one game behind Braintree in Zone 6.

Morrisette faces Quincy tonight (Thursday) at 8:30 at Adams Field, will play at Randolph Saturday at 2 o'clock, will host Carter Post in a two-night doubleheader Sunday starting at 5 o'clock at Adams, will play Mass Truck Monday at 6 at Weymouth and will host Weymouth Tuesday night at Adams at 8:30.

Morrisette walloped Dorchester, 12-1, as Erik DeBoer pitched five strong innings, allowing a run, striking out seven and walking one. Pat Clifford finished up with two innings of shutout ball, allowing one hit, striking out three and walking one.

Morrisette had 12 hits with Jim Glynn having a double and single and three RBI. Tom Balzano a double and single and two RBI, Tony Anderlionis two hits and two RBI, Jeff Calvert two hits and an RBI and Kevin MacDougall, DeBoer, Vince Anderlionis and Mike Baylis a hit each.

Young Sean Donovan got his first Legion pitching start and hurled two-hit ball for four innings as Morrisette rolled over Holbrook, 13-2. He struck out three and walked two. MacDougall pitched three scoreless innings, allowing two hits, striking out two and walking two.

Morrisette again had 12 hits as it scored five runs in the first and sent 12 men to the plate in the fifth, scoring six runs. Calvert went 4 for 5 with an RBI, Dan Ryan had three hits including a triple and had two RBI, MacDonald had a double and single and three RBI, Balzano a single and two RBI, Anderlionis two RBI and Glynn a hit.

Morrisette led, 2-1, after five innings but scored two runs in the sixth and four in the seventh. DeBoer didn't give up an earned run, allowed four hits, struck out eight and walked four.

Ryan came up with a big two out hit in the sixth. In the seventh Balzano had a two run double and Anderlionis an RBI single. Glynn had a double and single. Balzano two hits and Baylis a single.

Wollaston Takes Two Out Of Three

The Wollaston Legion baseball team, which got off to a slow start with a 1-4 record, including one run losses to Quincy and Dorchester, won two of three games during the past week to improve to 3-5.

Wollaston will host Carter

Post Saturday night at 8 o'clock at Adams Field.

Wollaston edged Mass Tire, 4-3, with Rich Keddy driving Pat Gallagher with the winning run in the seventh. He also made a game saving catch in the bottom of the seventh as he made a diving catch in deep right center field.

Wollaston also defeated Carter Post with Steve Loud pitching four 2 1/3 innings and Sean Caffery finishing up. Gallagher, Dave Hutchings, Jim Bryan, Keddy and Bob Fitzpatrick had hits.

Wollaston was defeated by Weymouth, 12-2.

For Quincy It's 1-2

The Quincy Legion baseball team went 1-2 during the past week, defeating Dorchester and losing to Braintree and Canton.

Quincy will face Morrisette tonight (Thursday) at 8:30 at Adams Field and will meet Mass Tire Saturday at 4 o'clock at Adams.

After losses to Canton and Braintree, Quincy rebounded to top Dorchester, 8-3.

Quincy jumped out to a 3-0 lead in the top of the first but Dorchester tied it up in the bottom half.

Rich Burns settled down and shut out Dorchester over the next six innings, striking out nine.

Chris Beatrice, Jim Maloney and Wayne McCulley had two hits each with Maloney having three RBI and Sean Mulken had two hits. Quincy stole seven bases. Barry Glynn caught an outstanding game.

Quincy lost to Canton, 6-4, in eight innings. Peter McLoughlin pitched 6 1/3 innings, striking out five but had to leave after being struck on the knees by a line drive. Burns finished up and struck out the side in the eighth after Canton scored two unearned runs.

Ron Boudreau and Greg Clifford had two RBI each for Quincy.

Braintree Zone 6 leader and defending state champion, rolled to an 8-0 lead after two innings in a 10-0 victory. Eric Bistany came in and held Braintree to two earned runs in the final five innings.

Quincy had only three hits off Dave Ryan, while Braintree had 12 hits.

Carlton Wins Cup

Nancy Carlton, president of the Ponkapoag Golf Course Women's Inner Club, won the annual Rothera Cup tourney, held annually in memory of Emma Rothera, former president with a net score of 75.

Nancy also won the Gibney Cup recently.

The club held a "blind" hole tournament with Charlotte Dickie winning the 18-hole event with Anne Belle second and Ruth Zaleski and Phyllis Gould tied for third.

The nine-hole event was won by Mary O'Connor, with Sally Barr and Mary Garber tied for second and Florence Koffman and Elsie Hagberg tied for third.

Babe Ruth

Barry's Racks Up Three Wins

Barry's Deli improved its record to 14-0 in the Babe Ruth League with three wins over the past week.

Barry's blanked Granite City, 10-0, behind the six-hit pitching of Danny Duncan, who struck out seven and walked four.

The score was only 2-0 for four innings but Barry's exploded for eight runs, taking advantage of seven walks and collecting three hits, including a long two-run homer out of Merrymount Park by Mike Connors.

Connors had three hits, Jeff Craig, Dave Raftery and Dave Thompson two apiece and Chris Murphy, Jeff Tirrell and Charlie Hardiman one each. Ronnie McGann, Kenny Ledwak and Jimmy Goldrick played strong defense.

For Granite City, Mike McDougall had two hits and Andrew Joyce, Bob Verney and John McFarland had a hit each. Verney, a rookie, made several fine plays at third base.

Barry's defeated Sons of Italy, 12-7, with Raftery and Craig sharing the pitching, allowing five hits, striking out seven and walking seven. Raftery had to leave in the third inning with a jammed thumb and Craig finished up. Barry's had 14 hits, with Murphy and Connors having three each, Craig, Tirrell and McGann two apiece and Duncan and Raftery one each. Sean Kenneson, Ledwak and Goldrick played strong defense.

Steve Rayne and Tommy Malvesti pitched well for Sons of Italy. Barry's topped Morrisette, 8-1, with Connors pitching two-hit ball. He also had four hits.

Tirrell had three hits, Raftery and Murphy two apiece and Duncan, Craig, Kenneson and Ledwak one each. Goldrick, McGann and Murphy played strong defense.

Nick Mastrogiacommo pitched well for Morrisette and Dave Boylen and Matt Riley had the only two hits. Dave Carney, 13-year-old rookie for Morrisette, caught an outstanding game.

Bryan VFW Post improved to 8-5 with two wins last week.

Pitcher Tom Nutley allowed four hits and struck out six in a 10-2 victory over Golden Print. Bill Morrissey had a double and a single and Nutley, Rob Kane, George Wirtz and Mike Koski each had two singles. Todd Portesi, Phil Bell and Jeff Breslin also singled.

Infielders Wirtz, Kane and Terry Sheehan played well defensively. Catcher Morrissey was outstanding behind the plate and Dan Donahue, Matt McSweeney, Sean Skahan, Bob Shaw and Rich Gorman also played well.

Art Kabilian had two hits while Steve Miller and Aidan O'Donahue also had singles for Golden Print. Shortstop Miller and third baseman Jamie Schatzel each played excellent defense.

BP tipped Poland Springs, 12-11, in eight innings with Wirtz coming in to pitch three no-hit innings for the win. Wirtz also drove in the tying run in the fifth and the winning run in the eighth to highlight a fine all around game.

Morrissey cracked three consecutive doubles and Kane had three hits including a double. Wirtz, Portesi and Skahan each had two hits and Nutley and Bell also had hits.

Donahue was outstanding at third base. Portesi, Nutley, Koski, Wirtz and Skahan all played well in the field. Breslin, Shaw and McSweeney also played well.

Matt McGowan paced the Poland Springs offense with two doubles. Eric Kruezer, Art Crosby and Joe Mantion also had hits and shortstop Mike Patch was outstanding defensively.

Granite City Electric also enjoyed a good week with a pair of wins. GCE downed the Elks, 9-3, and whitewashed Sons of Italy, 8-0.

Mike MacDougall, Brian Jennette and Kevin Boylen paced the nine-hit attack. Bob Verney pitched a five-hitter for his fourth win. He did not walk a batter.

Shortstop Justin Ackerman and catcher Rob Guarnieri had solid defensive games for GCE and third baseman Andy Joyce made a diving catch of the Elk's Mike Connolly's line drive.

MacDougall had three hits and Boylen and Jennette two each. Guarnieri and Ackerman also had hits.

Billy Dunn, Paul Colleary and Steve Tangney also played well.

Mike Linnane had two singles for the Elks and Sean Murray, Pat Connolly and Mark Cahill also had hits.

First baseman Bill Skutal and catcher Scott Kohler were outstanding defensively.

Electric pitcher Danny Burke was the hero in GCE's shutout of Sons of Italy. Burke struck out 10 and gave up just one hit — a second inning single to T.R. Repucci. Guarnieri singled, stole second and scored on Boylen's two-out single for the only run GCE would need.

Erik MacFarlane, Burke and Tangney had singles in the two-run fourth inning and Ackerman's triple was the key hit in a three-run fifth.

MacDougall also had a hit for GCE.

Steve Manning and Steve Rayne pitched well for SOI. Sean Herron and Tom Malvesti played well defensively.

Verney, Jeff Burrell, Andrew Joyce and Ryan Ackerman also played for GCE.

SOI was also shutout by Houghs Neck Legion. Steve Roberts hurled six scoreless innings for HN and Matt O'Toole had three hits. Mark Walsh and Brian Connolly had two hits each.

Timmy Byrne pitched a win over Quincy Police and singled home the winning run in the seventh inning. O'Toole had three hits.

Police pitcher Dan Reynolds performed well. Adam Calvert had three hits and a walk and was solid defensively.

In International League play Screamers continues to set the pace as it won games over Feenan Income Tax and Newcomb Farms to improve to 9-0.

Pitcher Mike Auperlee struck out nine and belted a double and a home run in the 12-4 win over Feenan.

Kevin O'Brien tripled to key a four-run sixth inning. Tim Wassege and Scott Portesi each doubled and Derrick Epps and Jeff West each had hits. Mike Caparale was sharp in the field at third base.

Keith Lentini was the winning pitcher with a complete game, 12-strikeout performance against Newcomb Farms.

Lentini helped his own cause in the 20-3 win by going 5 for 5 with six RBI. Catcher Portesi tagged out three runners to lead the defense. Screamers have two games left before the playoffs July 7 and 8.

Triple A

White Sox Win Pair

The White Sox won two close games in recent Triple A League action as they edged the Tigers, 14-12, and nipped the Pirates, 14-12, and nipped the Tigers, 14-12, and nipped the Pirates, 14-12.

The White Sox got two runs in the fifth inning to beat the Tigers. Greg Conway was the winning pitcher and had three hits including a triple. The White Sox were sparked by Brian Walsh who belted two doubles and a triple, Mike Lynch with two hits and Jonathan Haddad, and Andrew Bisconte who each doubled.

Paul Greeley had four hits and Joe Boyd had three hits for the Tigers. Patrick McDonough and Matthew McDonough each played solid defense for the White Sox.

A two-run Pirate rally in the sixth inning fell short as the White Sox hung on for a 10-9 win. Pitcher Cedric Douglas had six strikeouts as he outdueled Pirate hurler Mike Ferguson who struck out seven batters.

Walsh led the offense with two hits including a home run. John Wall and Matt Foley each had a double and Douglas smacked a triple. Vinny Pitkney and Mike Cosseboom played fine defense.

The Pirates were led by Chris Pagliarulo and Dan O'Connell who each had three hits. O'Connell belted two triples and a double.

The Pirates rebounded with a 9-6 win over the Yankees. Jared Leikauskas was the winning pitcher and had a double and three RBI.

Ferguson had two hits including a triple and three RBI. Pagliarulo added a double and a single and Dan O'Donnell had two hits. Timmy Sugrue made a nice catch in centerfield for the Pirates.

Jason Fontana and Mike Lind had two hits each for the Yankees. Fontana and Bill Sullivan each cracked homers, Lind and James Crowley doubled. Lind also played well at first base.

Dodgers Rally To Take Title

The First American Bank Dodgers, National League champions, outlasted Tobin's Tigers, American League winners, 9-8, with a dynamic comeback in the sixth inning to repeat as Quincy Junior Farm League champions.

The Dodgers finished at 15-1 with the only loss to the Tigers in the second game of the season.

The Tigers took a 2-0 lead in the top of the first off Dodger starter Chris Bregoli. Billy Connolly walked and was singled to third by Brian Doyle. Chris Cummings unloaded a triple to score both runners.

The Dodgers came back in the bottom half with a run as Mike Powers and Bregoli singled and Phil Belmont drove in Powers with a double. Billy Connolly saved a run as he gloved a sure hit by Jonathan Brillo.

Bregoli settled down to retire the next six Tigers, the last five on strikeouts. The Dodgers took a 6-3 lead in the third as John Sullivan singled, T.J. Wilson walked and Kerry Twomey walked to load the bases.

Chris Griffin grounded out with Sullivan scoring and after Connolly struck out, Kevin Walsh drove in two with a double and Powers and Bregoli also doubled driving in a run each.

The Tigers roared back to take an 8-6 lead. Connolly led with his second walk, Billy Walker doubled, Doyle drove in two with a single, Cummings singled and Craig Bingham doubled in two more runs.

The Dodgers got one back on a Pat Dolbeare double and a Steve Marks single for his seventh RBI of the playoffs.

After Bregoli pitched a scoreless fifth and sixth inning, the Dodgers came back to win in the bottom of the sixth. Walsh led off with a double and Powers singled him to third. The next two batters went down but Brillo beat out an infield hit with Walsh scoring. Steve Rochoon delivered the game-winning hit, a line single to right.

Powers had three hits and Walsh, Bregoli and Belmont had two each. Eight different players drove in runs.

For the Tigers, Doyle and Cummings had two hits and two RBI each, Bigham had two RBI and Connolly played an excellent game.

Bregoli pitched the complete game victory, giving up seven hits, striking out 14 and walking three.

The roster for the Dodgers, coached by Fran Walsh, includes Belmont, Bregoli, Brillo, Ryan Deshler, Dolbeare, Tom Gouthro, Griffin, Marks, Powers, Rochoon, Sullivan, Twomey, Walsh and Wilson. Paul Wiss, Jenny Marks was scorekeeper and Patrick Bregoli batboy.

Playing for the Tigers, coached by John Doyle, were Connolly, Doyle, Bigham, Cummings, Walker, T.J. Bell, Betsy Stone, Brian Deshler, Sothy Ann, Brendon Flaherty, Joe Sullivan, Matt Melchin, Jesse Bigham, Scott Quinn and Robert Woods.

Junior League

Elks Win Three

The Elks, enjoying their best season in recent years, won three games over the past week to close in on second place in the Quincy Junior Farm League's National League.

The Elks rolled over Burgin Platter, 16-6, with Scott Pye and Brad Smith going 3-for-3. Sean Tirrell, Scott Cooper and Fred Corson had two hits each and Todd Sullivan, John Riley, Robbie Pirelli and Billy Armstrong had one each. Riley, who pitched a solid game, had a season's high 11 strikeouts.

The defense of Matt McLoughlin, Steve Finn, Ronnie Gamel and Dan Calnan was outstanding.

The Elks wallpopped Colonial Federal, 9-1, with Capt. Mark Glynn pitching a four-hit ball and hitting three doubles. He struck out nine.

Corson had a triple and single and Riley, Cooper, Tirrell and Smith had hits. Tommy Bowes, Byer, Sullivan and Corson stood out defensively.

Tirrell turned in the play of the game when he made an outstanding diving catch to his left while playing third base and making a perfect throw to first while on his knees to beat the runner. The Elks wallpopped Burgin Platter 12-2. For Burgin Robby Callow had two singles and Tom Cunio a single and double. John Barron, Judson Ross, Jim Cunio and Jason Chagnon played fine defense.

Rotary defeated Kiwanis behind Matt Beston's one hit as he improved his record to 10-0. He struck out 17. T.J. Farrell and Erik Goodrich were the hitting stars.

Rotary blasted the Elks, 15-4, as Farrell and Beston had three hits apiece. Dave Gunther, Malachy Higgins and Sean Coughlin had outstanding games.

Rotary also rolled over Foley's, 17-1, with Malachy pitching another outstanding game. John Richards had three hits including a grand slam homer. Gunther, Chris Earler and Mike Eddy played strong defense.

Kiwanis had a big week with three victories.

Kiwanis overcame a 3-1 deficit to edge South Shore Buick, 5-4, with Jeff Russell the winning pitcher in relief of Joey McCarthy. They combined for a one hitter. Russell had two hits and scored three runs and McCarthy, John Ryan, David Rowell, Mark Kelly and Chris Curry also had hits.

Kiwanis scored in every inning but the third to wallop Colonial Federal, 17-3, as McCarthy and Russell again combined for a one hitter. Russell picked up his eighth win.

Kiwanis had 14 hits with Russell having a home run and scoring four runs. J.P. DeAngelis had a two-run homer, Chris Malone a triple and double, McCarthy a double and single, Curry a double and single and three runs scored, Ryan a double and single, Rowell a double and single and Jeff Feiner and Lee Shaw a single each.

Kiwanis also topped Colonial Federal, 8-3, with McCarthy the winning pitcher, allowing four hits and striking out 12. Rowell led the offense with a triple and a single. Russell, DeAngelis and Kelly had a double each and Shaw a single.

The American League held off the National League, 10-7, in the Junior League 11-year old All Star Game.

Mike Sheffer led the way with two hits including a grand slam in the fifth inning which provided the winning margin.

John Greene also had two hits for the AL and Geoff Meade, Bill Barron and Lee Shaw also had hits for the winning nine.

Mike Eddy blasted a home run for the NL which also got hits from Jake Drohan, John Masone, Sean Tirrell, Jeunik Samborski, David Keddy and Robert Winter.

Representing the AL were Nicholas Shea, Sheffer and Todd DeBoer of Bryan Post VFW; Meade, Mike Doyle

Point Pub Upsets Dunn

Point Pub upset Dunn Copy, 15-12, in Division B of the Quincy Men's Softball League, led by the hitting of Chuck Sullivan and George Reese, who had two hits each. The Pub improved to 7-5 while Dunn fell to 9-2.

Reese, playing injured, made a fine play cutting down

Dunn's Clark Kent at the plate. Bob Ienello, Shaun Donnelly, Brian Beliveau and Al Freeman played well.

In Division C previously undefeated PIP (9-0) was given a rude awakening as it lost two games.

Tom O'Brien Nissan (8-6) rolled to a 10-3 win with Mike Barkus hitting two home runs and Guy Bognano pitching outstanding ball. Willie Parsons played well for O'Brien.

The Wheelhouse Dier (7-6) shocked PIP, 8-7, playing strong defense and taking advantage of PIP's mistakes. Matt Ostiguy, Bob Kane and Stu Cull had two hits each.

Brannigan's Moves Into Top Place

Brannigan's, of 16 Quincy teams in the South Shore Men's Softball League, moved into first place with two wins over the Eagles, improving its record to 13-3.

Brannigan's rolled to a 17-2 first game victory as Bob Hennelly pitched a two-hitter and drove in four runs with three hits, including a home run.

Chuck Sullivan hit a grand slam and had six RBI and Joe Godfrey, Bob Bubencik, Shaun Gately, Al Freeman, Matt Marks and Lou Moccia had three hits each.

Dave Tocchio played a solid game at shortstop, making several fine plays and starting two double plays.

Brannigan's won the second game, 16-12, with Hennelly, called in to relieve starter Marks who was injured, preserving the win and getting his fourth career save. Freeman, Gately, Jim Wylie, Moccia, John McManus and Godfrey had three hits each.

Quincy, Braintree Weymouth United Against Incinerator

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

Mayor James Sheets has directed City Solicitor Stephen McGrath to join with the legal counsels from Braintree and Weymouth in requesting the Site Safety Council suspend the period for Clean Harbors and abutting communities to negotiate a siting agreement.

By doing so, Quincy, Braintree and Weymouth are now unified in their opposition to the CH's proposal for a hazardous waste incinerator at its Quincy Ave. location near the Quincy-Braintree line, the mayor said.

The letter, signed by McGrath, Braintree Town Counsel Bruce Singal and J. Raymond Miyares, special counsel for Weymouth, was hand delivered to Regina McCarthy, chairman of the state Hazardous Waste Facility Site Safety Council.

The letter, in part, states: "We believe that the Council has the authority and discretion to take steps to redress the illogic which pervades the current process, and we urge that it exercise such authority and discretion. With the Council's determination of the adequacy of the Draft SEA on May 29, the Council's regulations call for negotiations between the developer and host community to commence.

"However, neither your enabling statute, nor your regulations preclude a stay of the process at the present time."

The counsels also noted state law "clearly authorizes the Council to determine that no impasse exists, and nothing in your regulations purports to preclude you from making that determination."

Continuing, the letter states, "We believe firmly that once such a site suitability determination is thoroughly and properly made, the conclusion will be inescapable that a variety of overriding concerns preclude use of this site for this facility.

"However, even if (Secretary of Environmental Affairs John DeVillars) were to determine that the site was suitable with proper mitigating conditions, these conditions should be known at the outset of the negotiations so that the parties do not bargain for terms that conflict with the Secretary's determination, and the (Braintree) LAC does not have to 'trade' concessions in some areas for mitigation that the Secretary considers essential to the suitability of the site.

"We respectfully urge you... suspend the period for negotiations of a siting agreement until completion of a thorough and proper site suitability determination, and to declare that no impasse in negotiations can exist until after 60 days after that determination is made."

Liquor License Transfer Turned Down By Board

By JANE ARENA

In a 3-1 vote Tuesday the License Board denied a request from Steven Faber of Fil's, Inc. for a transfer of the license at 214 Washington St., as held by William Savonen, to open Britany's Food & Spirits.

Health Inspector Charles Viassakis, sitting in for Health Commissioner Jane Gallahue, abstained from the vote, and Board Chairman John Gillis voted in opposition to the denial, preferring to continue the matter until a summer board meeting.

The request was denied on the basis of "conflicting police reports" concerning Faber's background check.

Faber, who owns the Good Company Lounge in Braintree, told the board some months ago his Braintree establishment has had no problems and he has never been in trouble with the Braintree Selectmen who are the licensing authority for the town.

However, Quincy police later found evidence to support trouble at the Braintree establishment, although the town's selectmen had never taken action against Faber.

While Faber later supplied the board with letters of support from individual members of the Braintree Police Department, the board said Tuesday a report from the "department as a whole" is needed.

During Tuesday's meeting Atty. Richard Driscoll, representing Faber, and Atty. Nathaniel Sherman, representing current license holder William Savonen, told the board the only obstacle in the way of the transfer is a $100,000 lien on the property by the IRS. Atty. Sherman said the IRS "is satisfied with the transfer as long as they're paid." He said the amount will be paid either by Savonen or by Faber, although he said he had no written agreement from Savonen.

Acting Police Chief Paul Nestor said he has other concerns along with the financial obligations, most notably the conflicting background reports the Quincy police department has received on Faber.

Nestor made a motion to continue the matter until he is "completely satisfied" with the background check. However, Gillis noted the board is required to decide on the matter by July 14 and the board will not meet again before then.

While the board could arrange a special summer meeting, Nestor said he will be out of town the second week of July and would not reschedule.

Gillis said the board was left with no choice but to "vote this matter up or down" on Tuesday.

Gillis was the only voting member to oppose the license transfer denial.

Writer Agrees To Pay $200 Court Costs In Parking Clerk Assault

By JANE ARENA

A Quincy woman agreed to pay $200 in court costs after a Quincy District Court Clerk last week found sufficient evidence to charge her with assaulting a city official over a $5 parking ticket.

The matter will be continued for one year without a finding.

After a hearing last Thursday Quincy District Court First Assistant Clerk Robert Bloom said he had enough evidence to charge Noreen Mallory, 24, a news writer for The Patriot Ledger, with assaulting city parking clerk Robert Denvir in his office at City Hall on May 14. Denvir had filed an application seeking the complaint.

During the hearing, Denvir said Mallory entered his office to complain about a $5 parking ticket she received on Foster St. while she went into the Post Office. When he advised her to seek a hearing on the ticket, he said, she began using offensive language and grabbed him by the tie and punched him a number of times. He said she hit him in the face, chest and side. Denvir then yelled for his secretary to call the police, he said.

Mallory denied ever touching Denvir except for once accidentally as he was gesturing for her to leave his office.

Mallory, who is black, had filed a counter application for a complaint against Denvir, saying he had violated her civil rights by making uncalled for racist remarks.

Mallory told Bloom that Denvir was "loud and abrasive" and said he had "screamed at the top of his lungs" for her to leave the office. She said at one point she was "almost crying" because of his "verbal abuse."

She admitted that she had used profanity once, after he yelled at her, and said he told her to stop speaking in "black English."

Denvir admitted using the phrase and told Bloom he was referring to profane language that she used which included a phrase "not commonly used by caucasians." The phrase included the word "mother."

Denvir brought with him four witnesses to the incident, two of whom work in his office. Others included a civilian employee of the Police Department and a Quincy woman who was in the outer office at the time waiting to speak to Denvir about two parking tickets.

While William Grindley, an employee of the police department, said he heard "commotion" in Denvir's office after he saw Mallory enter, the other three witnesses said they actually saw her punch Denvir, and heard her several times use a vulgar phrase Denvir referred to as "Black English."

While Denvir maintained, and witnesses supported, that Mallory used the vulgar language repeatedly during the incident, Mallory said she swore only once and said Denvir had been rude to her from the moment she entered his office.

At one point, she said, Denvir pointed to the parking ticket and asked if she could read, and she showed him her I.D. from Harvard where she attends school. She told Bloom that Denvir had replied that "if they'd let you in, they'd let anyone in." She said she took the remarks to be racially motivated.

Denvir's witnesses denied they heard any racist remarks other than the "black English" phrase Denvir admitted to using.

After the hearing, Bloom said he found enough evidence to charge Mallory with assault and battery but said he did not find sufficient evidence to find charges on her complaints.

Training Program For Liquor Establishments

The Quincy Police Department has arranged for three TIPS training programs to be made available for the employees of the city's liquor establishments.

TIPS (Training for Intervention Procedures by Servers of Alcohol) is a six-hour training session for owners, managers, bartenders, hostesses and wait personnel which teaches proper procedures for serving alcohol to the public.

The courses have been recommended by Quincy Liquor Inspector Sgt. Richard Laracy and by the city License Board.

In a brief report to the License Board Tuesday, Laracy said several local liquor licensees have requested the training program be made available because the class requires 30 students before an instructor will come to teach the course. Many small local bars had trouble getting 30 students together, he noted. Under this arrangement, Laracy said, small bars can combine to fill three training sessions.

The classes will be conducted at the Quincy Police Academy, 442 Southern Artery, and will be instructed by Michael Marcantonio who has been teaching TIPS sessions for six years.

The program costs $30 per employee attending and the entire cost is tax deductible to the liquor establishment, Laracy said.

More importantly though, is the education employees receive, he said.

"The knowledge gained at these seminars could save your business, protect your right to serve alcohol and possibly the good health and life of your customers," Laracy wrote in a notice to city licensees.

License Board Chairman John Gillis called the TIPS program a "good idea" and said the "Quincy police are to be congratulated" for implementing the combined classes so that smaller establishments can benefit from it.

The classes will be held Monday, July 9 and Tuesday, July 10 from 5 to 11:30 p.m., and on Saturday, July 14 from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.

Deadline for registration is Thursday, June 29.

For further information contact Sgt. Richard Laracy of the Quincy Police Department.

Taking Beach Samples

The Quincy Health Department has begun its water sampling program, announces City Health Commissioner M. Jane Gallahue.

Water samples will be collected every Tuesday at 10 beaches, one to two hours before high tide, until Sept. 4. Results will be analyzed for fecal coliform counts by a certified private laboratory and will be made available to the media throughout the summer months.

The beach area at the Germantown Fire Station has been eliminated from the program since it is difficult to access and rarely used.

The M.D.C. will collect and analyze water samples at four locations on Wollaston Beach every Wednesday. Results will be reported to the beach managers and the Quincy Health Department by Thursday afternoon.

Quincy, like most coastal communities in the South Shore, utilizes a standard of more than 200 fecal coliform as an indication of a health risk. Beaches with counts over 180 will be re-sampled.

Beaches with counts over 200 will be posted with signs reading: Warning—Beach Unacceptable for Swimming Per Order of Quincy Health Department.

Such beaches are considered unsafe for swimming and signs will remain posted until water samples show fecal coliform counts below 180. If a period of rainfall has occurred after the water samples were taken on Tuesdays, samples may not represent an accurate reflection of the water quality which is reported on Fridays.

Sewerage is often discharged into the harbor from pipes and drains that contain overflow waste water in combination with rainwater after a quarter of an inch of rain or greater falls on a given day.

The health department recommends people refrain from swimming for a period of 48 hours after a rainfall to allow for the natural flushing action of the tides to dilute and clean the water.

Arbella Insurance Moving Headquarters To Crown Colony

Arbella Mutual Insurance Company, one of the state's leading writers in automobile and homeowners insurance, has leased 120,000 square feet at 1100 Crown Colony Drive within Crown Colony Office Park, West Quincy.

The space in the recently completed five-story 132,000-square-foot office building will serve as the firm's new corporate headquarters.

Crown Colony is rapidly becoming Greater Boston's foremost insurance center. The Park is also the corporate or regional headquarters of Aetna Insurance, United States Fidelity and Guarantee, Charles F. Murphy Insurance Company, Fort Dearborn Life, and Tonty Insurance.

Crown Colony, a 175-acre master planned office park, is a joint venture development of Vazza Associates and Edward A. Fish Associates, Inc. Meredith & Grew, Incorporated negotiated the transaction and serves as exclusive leasing agent for the Park.

"We selected Crown Colony for a number of reasons including its prime location near Route 3 and the Southeast Expressway," said Richard W. Brewer, chief executive officer of Arbella. "Crown Colony is one of the leading office parks in Massachusetts and the Greater Boston area. It is well-suited to the needs of Arbella and offers ample space as well as an abundance of parking."

"The growing number of amenities including day care and a medical services facility was also pivotal in our decision to relocate here. The Park is also conveniently located within a short distance of the MBTA Red Line." Arbella will be moving from 150 Newport Ave. in North Quincy this summer.

1100 Crown Colony, designed by Cannon Associates, features a bowed and stepped design with alternating bands of red brick, green-tinted glass, and limestone accents. The two-story entrances are framed in polished granite. The interior features a five-story central atrium with pyramidal skylights and three-story curtain walls. The building overlooks a three-acre reflecting pond with fountain.

The Park's new, wider entrance road creates a direct link between Crown Colony Drive and the major highways serving Greater Boston. Tenants can now access Routes 93 (the Southeast Expressway), Route 128, Route 1 and Route 3 without going through a single traffic light. The width of the road has been doubled to handle present and future traffic flow. Two new entrance road signs clad in capao benito granite have also been installed.

The Crown Colony master plan provides for a 300-room hotel, retail shops, restaurants and cafes, a fitness center, jogging trails, and a medical center. The Crown Colony Medical Center at 500 Congress Street has been completed. A child care facility is now under construction at 2100 Crown Colony Drive, scheduled to open in May of 1990.

Directly across from the Park entrance and serviced by shuttle buses is the Quincy Adams MBTA Station, with Logan Express bus service leaving regularly. Crown Colony received a 1989 PRISM Award for Best Commercial Project by the Builders Association of Greater Boston.

The master planner of Crown Colony Office Park is Jung/Brannen Inc.

MWRA Awards $4.3 Million Contract For Nut Island

The Massachusetts Water Resources Authority has awarded a $4.3 million contract to the firm of Havens and Emerson, Inc. of Boston for project design and engineering services of the planned, new $78 million Nut Island screening and pump facility.

MWRA Executive Director Paul F. Levysaid, "The award of this contract signals the beginning of the decommissioning of the Nut Island treatment plant scheduled for 1995. Residents living in the Houghs Neck neighborhood can look forward to greatly increased recreational activities at Nut Island once the existing treatment plant is taken off line and turned into a park. Property value should also increase. The new facility we will be constructing is only a fraction of the size of the existing treatment facility and will meet community approval prior to construction."

Levy added that MWRA has already landscaped and made other improvements to Nut Island. "Conditions at Nut Island are better than ever before."

As part of the Boston Harbor project, the existing Nut Island primary treatment plant will be replaced with a new headworks and then demolished. The headworks will provide for screening and grit removal of the incoming wastewater and deliver the wastewater to the shaft of the 5 mile long inter-island tunnel leading the Deer Island treatment plant. The estimated construction cost for the 360 million gallon a day capacity headworks facility is $78 million.

Construction is slated to begin in August 1992 and be operational by mid 1995. Once the headworks is complete and delivering its flow to the Deer Island treatment plant, the existing Nut Island plant will be demolished. The final phase of the project will be the construction of an island-wide park. The park will be designed and built by the MWRA, but owned and maintained by the MDC.

MWRA has already completed a $7 million pier facility at Nut Island to aid in construction of the new headworks, demolition of the treatment plant and sludge removal.

Havens and Emerson was the lowest of seven bidders and meets all MWRA MBE/WBE requirements.

Niblett/Devine Wins 3 Advertising Awards

Niblett/Devine, Inc., a Quincy-based public relations firm, has won three awards from the Admissions Marketing Report magazine for its advertising work on behalf of Suffolk University.

The agency won a first place Gold Award and a Merit Award in the "Outdoor, Transit and Billboard" category for two ads placed on the Boston MBTA system.

The agency also won a Merit Award in the "Newspaper Advertising" category.

More than 1,200 entries were received in this year's contest. A nationwide panel of distinguished advertising, marketing and education professionals served as judges for this year's contest. Each entry was reviewed by four judges and rated on a scale of 1 to 100.

Final selections were based on quality production, creativeness of concept and clarity of message. In each category, a Gold Award was presented to the top entry and a silver for the runnerup.

Additionally, where appropriate, judges awarded up to three Merit Awards.

The winning entries will be featured by the magazine in a yearbook.

This is Niblett/Devine's second honor for 1989. The firm won a Gold Award from the Rendon Report for "Best Mayoral Media Campaign in Massachusetts" for its work on James A. Sheets' successful run for mayor of Quincy last fall.

Traffic Signal Changes At 4 Newport Ave. Location

The city's Traffic and Parking Department announces traffic signal changes will be completed soon at four locations on Newport Ave., North Quincy.

Traffic signals at Beale St., Brook St., Enterprise Dr., and Heritage Dr. are being updated as part of a $208,000 traffic signal project being installed by Vigil Electric Company.

The City advises drivers the traffic signal sequence at several of the intersections will be changed, and that drivers should be aware of the new signal operations.

They are:

Beale Street

At Newport Ave. and Beale St., the southbound left turn movement will be controlled by red, yellow and green arrow indications, while the southbound through movement on Newport Ave. will be controlled by separate signals.

Under the new signal operation, the southbound through move will be permitted to go at the same time as the northbound traffic. Northbound drivers wishing to make a left turn must yield to southbound through traffic. This change is being made to relieve the congestion and backups occurring in the afternoon rush hour.

In addition, the westbound Beale St. direction will be provided with an "advance green", indicated by a left arrow to facilitate left turns from Beale St. to Newport Ave. The timing of the signal will be better controlled by vehicle detectors in the street and "time-of-day" programs. Signal timing will be coordinated with the nearby signal at Brook Street.

The change in the signal operation is scheduled to go into effect this week.

Installation of the detectors in the street and improved timing of the signal will be complete in about one month.

Brook Street

At Brook St., the traffic signal operation has been changed to permit pedestrian crossings to occur concurrently with the Brook St. green signal, as is typically done at most intersections in the U.S.

The pedestrian crossing button will extend the time of the green signal to permit pedestrians to safely cross Newport Avenue. Drivers are advised that, under state law, they must yield the right of way to pedestrians in the crosswalk. This change will help to relieve congestion on Newport Avenue.

Enterprise Drive

The sequence of the left turn signals will be changed at this intersection. This change is intended to improve the northbound traffic flow in the morning. The timing of the signal will be controlled by new vehicle detectors in the street and "time-of-day" programs.

Heritage Drive

At Heritage Dr., the signal sequence of the left turns will also be changed. At this intersection, the Southbound left turns will go first, followed by the through moves, and then the northbound left turn. These changes are desired to provide better coordination with the signal timing at Enterprise Drive.

The changes in the sequence signal timing changes at Heritage Dr. and Enterprise Dr. are scheduled to go into effect during the week of July 9.

Traffic signals improvement at Hancock St., Elm Ave. and Wollastone Ave. have already been substantially completed under this project. The work at this intersection included new overhead signals, larger signals for better visibility, new pedestrian signals and pushbuttons, and new control equipment.
